FORRESTAL SELECTED SECRETARY OF DEFENSE

Mother Of Nation's President Dies 4 Hours Before Son Arrives By Plane

TRUMAN RECEIVES NEWS OF DEATH WHILE IN FLIGHT

President's Sister, Brother Were At Bedside At Time Of Demise

END CAME FOLLOWING RELAPSE LAST SUNDAY

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Martha E. Truman, mother of the nation's president, died today four hours before the chief executive arrived here in his private plane.

The courageous, 94-year-old woman, died at 11:30 a.m. (Central Standard Time) an hour after President Truman had taken off from Washington. He was notified of his mother's death while in flight.

Miss Mary Jane Truman, the president's sister, and his brother, J. Vivian Truman, were with their mother when she died. Dr. Joseph Greene, the family physician, phoned the Associated Press this simple announcement:

"Mrs. Truman passed away at 11:30 a.m. There is nothing else that I can say."

The president's plane landed at the Grandview airport at 4:24 p.m. (EST) time. The solemn-faced chief executive was met by his wife and daughter, Margaret. They left immediately in a secret service car for the nearby modest cottage where other members of the family waited. Mr. Truman made no statement and no pictures were taken.

A few moments later the president and his brother and sister left the Grandview home and drove to a nearby Belton, Mo., mortuary where his mother's body lay.

Mrs. Truman's death came after a relapse last Sunday. She had rallied miraculously several times since she fell February 13, fracturing her hip for the third time. She had been bed-

EARN THEFT RING GOT 2 AUTOS HERE

Alleged Leader Jailed When Cars Are Found In South Carolina

Tracing of two automobiles stolen from a Monroe garage last month has resulted in the arrest at Charlotte, N. C., of an alleged kingpin of a far-flung car theft ring, Sheriff Milton Coverdale was informed yesterday.

In jail here, Sheriff Coverdale was told, is M. E. Batey, prosperous Atlanta, Ga., automobile dealer, charged with selling the two cars for $6,000 to the Teague Motor Co., at Columbia, S. C., who then resold them to two individual buyers.

Sheriff Coverdale said he had filed a detainer on Batey, and the FBI has announced that it is examining the case for possible violation of the Dyer Act, relative to transportation of stolen automobiles across state lines.

The theft syndicate to which Batey is said to belong is reported to have its headquarters at Atlanta where Batey operates the Batey Motor Co.

One of the cars, a new Oldsmobile club coupe, had been ordered for Major Lloyd G. Hatley, 1708 Jackson st., a disabled war veteran, and was equipped with special operating devices. It was taken from the Twin City Motor Co., the night before it was to have been delivered to Maj. Hatley.

The other, a 1946 Cadillac belonging to F. E. Monzingo, of Farmerville, had been left at the garage for repairs, and was not missed until two days later.

Sheriff Coverdale said he will request the Sheriff at Columbia to hold both cars for the Twin City company.

Major Hatley said last night that another specially equipped car had already been ordered for him and was expected to arrive here soon.

FARM HEARINGS SET IN TWELVE CITIES

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Congressional hearings on a long-range federal farm program will be held this fall in 12 cities, Rep. Hoeven (R-Ia.) announced today.

Hoeven, chairman of a House Agriculture subcommittee appointed to conduct a nation-wide study of farm problems, told reporters his group will call witnesses in:

Spokane, Wash., Fresno, Calif., Salt Lake City, Utah; Fort Collins, Colo.; Kansas City, Mo., Sioux City, Ia., Madison, Wis., Temple, Tex., Jackson, Miss., Rocky Mount, N. C., Lancaster, Pa., and Durham, N. H.

80th Congress Ends First Session Today

Tight-Fisted, Veto-Bucking Senators Adopt Resolution To Adjourn Then Keep Working; House Members Call It Quits

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(Sunday)—(AP)—The House adjourned early today until January, unless a special session of Congress should be called, but the Senate became embroiled in political argument with additional work still to do.

An attack on Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) by Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) in connection with the Republican proposal for an investigation of Attorney General Clark's handling of the Kansas City vote fraud charges threw the Senate into an uproar.

Connally declared that no one would have had assurance of a fair trial in the court where Ferguson formerly was a judge. At that, demands were made that the Texan be silenced and Senator Vandenberg (R.Mich.), presiding, ruled that he should proceed "in order."

After this flurry the Senate resumed the dispatch of its final business.

By unanimous consent it confirmed the nomination of James V. Forrestal as secretary of defense under the new act to bring the armed services under unified direction. President Truman had sent the nomination to the Senate only today, before he flew to Grandview, Mo., where his mother died. The rules had to be suspended to confirm Forrestal so quickly.

The House meanwhile had gone home after its members had engaged

SEEK WITNESS IN HUGHES PROBE

Missing Publicity Agent Sought; Need Testimony On Lavish Parties

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Senators investigating Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts enlisted state department aid today to find a missing witness who previously had told of lavish entertainment for a high government official.

The witness is John Meyer, former publicity director for Hughes. A senate war investigating subcommittee which opens hearings Monday questioned him in private June 3 and 4 but now has lost track of him and believes he is out of the country.

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.), chairman of the subcommittee, told newsmen the state department has agreed to ask Meyer to return if he can be found and "if he does not, they will cancel his passport."

Ferguson said Meyer's passport covers all countries except the occupied ones and that he apparently obtained visas for France and England. He also has been variously reported as in South America and Canada.

If Meyer does not turn up by July 30, Ferguson added, Hughes will be asked where he is and why he does not appear.

Ferguson made public a letter from Committee Counsel William P. Rogers to Noah Dietrich, vice-president of the Hughes Tool Co. in which Rogers said he understands that Meyer "is out of the country on business for the Hughes Aircraft Co."

"For reasons which you well know," Rogers wrote, "it may appear to the committee that Meyer is being kept out of the country to avoid public questioning about certain expense accounts of the Hughes Tool Co."

Rogers said also that Meyer's passport application said he wished to visit Ireland, France, England, Italy,

Mrs. Aline Banister, mother of Dr. Ray Banister, Alaskan physician lost in his plane last December 26, states that no traces have been found in the seven months that have elapsed. The insurance company is now anxious to pay off his life insurance, his mother says, but the physician's wife has not consented as yet for she still has some faint hope of his return. There has been an extensive fire and 400,000 acres are laid desolate and it is still burning despite all efforts to put out the blaze which is getting nearer to Seward, the doctor's home each day. The air is said to be stifling from smoke but the family is not yet removing. This fall the physician's family is said to be likely to return to the United States to make their future home. "Anyway," states Mrs. Banister, "Alaska is a man's country. It is no place for a woman with a family and no husband for her protection." The doctor's mother states that her daughter-in-law has yet to decide where she will make her home if she returns to the states.

NEGRO IS CHARGED IN RAPE ATTEMPT

FAYETTE, Miss., July 26.—(AP)—Sheriff Duncan McCarn of Jefferson county said that charges of attempted rape had been filed against a 23-year-old Negro in connection with an attack on a Church Hill, Miss., white woman.

The sheriff identified the man held in the Fayette jail as Willie Washington of Church Hill, a small community 15 miles west of Fayette. McCarn said the Negro was taken into custody early today at his home.

Sheriff McCarn and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Johnson said there was no threat of violence and that "everything is under control."

Peppery Mrs. Martha E. Truman's 'Iron Will' To Live Fails At 94

KINDLY OLD LADY ALWAYS KEPT ABREAST OF TIMES

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 26.—(AP)—Peppery Mrs. Martha E. Truman, whose "iron will" to live brought her through several critical setbacks, died today in the small frame cottage from which she had watched her son rise to the highest office in the land.

Here in quiet little Grandview, where the Doughty 94-year-old woman lived modestly, friends and neighbors knew her as a twinkling-eyed, white-haired, kindly old lady who kept abreast of the times—and spoke her mind.

Her world for more than a year had consisted of her bed and her rocking chair. Her eyesight was failing but the remarkable old lady never let her interest dwindle in affairs of the world outside and in "Harry's doings" in Washington.

Almost until the last, she was up-to-the-minute on current events. Unable to read because of poor eyesight, she had Miss Mary Jane Truman, the president's sister, read to her daily

POLAND MAY ASK COUNCIL ACTION

Seek Severance Of Diplomatic Relations With Spain; Economic Sanctions

LAKE SUCCESS, July 26.—(AP)—Poland is preparing a demand that the United Nations security council take action against Franco Spain, an authoritative source said today.

Russia's neighbor would act under the general assembly's Franco-condemning resolution of last fall which said if the Falangist regime remained in power after "a reasonable time" that the council should consider "adequate measures."

Poland contends that almost a year is "a reasonable time" and the council should act and, at a minimum, order a world-wide severance of diplomatic relations with Madrid. The maxmium step, short of force, would be economic sanctions.

The Polish delegation plans first to approach Secretary-General Trygve Lie and seek to convince him that he is under obligation to bring up the case in order to implement an assembly decision. Should Lie refuse to act, the Poles were ready to go ahead on their own.

However, in the midst of tightening lines between the East and the West in Europe the political trend would indicate lessening rather than increasing pressure on the old friend of Hitler and Mussolini.

Raising of the Spanish question would snow under the council deep-

MYSTERY NOW CLOAKS FATE OF 4,500 JEWS

PARIS, July 26.—(AP)—Three British transports, bearing 4,500 thwarted Jewish immigrants back from Palestine, were two days overdue at a "French seaport" on the Mediterranean coast today and the mystery deepened as to their whereabouts.

The Paris newspaper L'Intransigeant said the Jews, passengers on the intercepted President Warfield, renamed exodus of 1947, were being taken to St. Louis, a small port near Marseille.

The Paris Presse had a contradictory report that the refugees were being taken to Sete, 100 miles west of St. Louis, whence the immigrants sailed secretly just two weeks ago only to encounter a British boarding party in a sea fight.

Reports from Villefrance-Sur-Mer, where the ship earlier was believed headed, said the suspicion was growing that the British navy was taking the Jews to Genoa, Italy, for return to Germany. But the British colonial office in London said this was not true.

France has agreed to accept the immigrants temporarily and give them "humane treatment" but Premier Ramadier has declared the French would not make them get off the transports.

Jewish agency representatives said the Jews might stage a sitdown strike on the ships and demand to be taken back to Palestine.

PALACE TO MARK 45 YEARS OF PROGRESS HERE MONDAY

A special open house from noon until 8 p. m. tomorrow will mark the 45th anniversary of one of Monroe's outstanding business establishments.

Celebrating its years of progress here will be The Palace department store—long regarded as preeminent among North Louisiana retail institutions.

One of the highlights of tomorrow's activities at the remodeled Palace will be an informal style showing by four of Monroe's lovliest young women. They are Jerry Pratt, niece of Mrs. Lucile Coats, 906 Mississippi street; Louise Tisdale daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, 2924 Gordon Avenue; Ann Humphries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Humphries, 112 Travis street, West Monroe, and Sallie Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S Foster, 209 Erin Avenue.

Featured in the style showing will be the latest fall fashions for juniors and misses, now available at the Palace.

Beauty-conscious women will also be able to meet Miss Terice DeVore, personal representative of Elizabeth Arden, who has been held over for the open house.

Two broadcasts will be presented from the street floor of the Palace. The first will be over KMLB at 1:15

Dominican Republic Ambassador Says 'Boatload' To Sail From Antillas

ENTIRE ARMY ALERTED TO MEET ATTACK THREAT

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Dominican Ambassador Julio Ortega Frier said today a 3,000-man "army of Communist revolutionaries" from Cuba, Guatemala, Venezuela and Puerto Rico is poised in Cuba to invade the Dominican Republic.

The ambassador told a reporter he has information that a boatload of 1,000 men was scheduled to leave last night from the eastern Cuban port of Antillas.

Antillas is about 400 airline miles from Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican capital, and about 250 airline miles from the nearest point in the Dominican Republic.

The entire Dominican army, the envoy said, has been fully alerted to meet the attack.

W. MONROE WILL VOTE ON MAYOR

Election Scheduled On Tuesday; Bell and Wall Candidates

West Monroe will cast ballots for mayor on Tuesday when a run-off primary will be held to name a successor to the late Mayor D. C. Golson. Candidates in the second primary Tuesday are C. C. Bell., Jr., and Charles G. Wall, Jr. Ballot booths will open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Out of 3,700 registered voters in West Monroe only 1,884 were cast in the first primary held July 15 when Mr. Bell received 657 votes and Mr. Wall 690 votes. Others who were candidates and their votes received were: Marlin Hattaway, 407; Jack M. Russell, 93; and J. N. (Cuz) Rogers, 37.

Mr. Wall states he is independent and that his political connections are with the people of West Monroe and that he looks with confidence to the outcome.

Mr. Bell declares he had no thought of entering the race and did so only at the insistence of friends. He says he is no politician and that he is only a young West Monroe business man.

Each candidate has stated that he extends best wishes and complete cooperation to the man who is successful at the polls, and promises to work for the best interests of the city of West Monroe.

BOY FRIEND LINKED IN CO-ED SEARCH

HOLDERNES, N. H., July 26.—(AP)—Police searching a New Hampshire lake for Anne Straw, missing banker's daughter, asked today for an accompanying hunt in the forests of Wyoming for a college boy friend, who, they added, "might know something."

State police, who were continuing dragging operations in Little Squam lake bordering the luxurious summer home from which the curly-haired Smith senior disappeared Monday night, said Wyoming police were asked to look for the boy.

They said that last year when he was a freshman at Amherst he was "quite friendly" with Miss Straw.

Rumors of a "romantic journey" with the girl heading for a rendezvous in Paris were current in this vacation area today but her family and police declined comment on them and Sgt. Stuart Currier said police "still believed that the girl is in the water."

MAIN INDONESIAN FORCES TRAPPED IN CENTRAL JAVA

Dutch Claim Vise-Like Operation Is Closing In On Republican Troops

CIVIL ADMINISTRATION SET UP IN SEIZED AREAS

BATAVIA, July 26.—(AP)—Netherlands communiques indicated tonight that Dutch troops advancing in eastern and western Java had caught the main body of the Indonesian republican army in a vise-like operation against the vast central section of the island.

The Dutch admitted resistance in some places, but said that for the most part Dutch troops were advancing at will under the scorching tropical sun.

Netherlands strategy, as outlined by a senior official, was to set up civil administrations in the areas already seized before deciding whether to strike hard southward from Semarang against the Indonesian capital at Jogjakarta deep in the central interior.

American-trained Dutch marines and infantry, reported officially to be in full control of strategic centers in the eastern portion of the island, virtually completed the first phase of their operations and now were said to be mopping up pockets of resistance.

In the westren section, mechanized forces lancing swiftly along the northwest coastal road have captured the port of Tegal, the Dutch said. This march took Netherlands forces 40 miles beyond Cheribon and won con-

BUDGET SAVINGS HOTLY DEBATED

GOP's Claims Treasury $4,423,000,000 'Better Off' Disputed In Congress

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Rep. Taber (R.-N. Y.) claimed today the treasury is $4,423,000,000 "better off" because of budget cuts by the Republican-dominated Congress, but Rep. Cannon (D.-Mo.) called this estimate far too high.

Taber is chairman of the House Appropriations committee; Cannon had that post when Democrats were in control.

While they argued in the House Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) told the Senate that the Republicans in Congress have employed "slip-shod and carefree methods . . . in vain attempts to reduce the President's budget."

Taber claimed a "direct saving" of $2,806,000,000 in addition to $1,617,000,000 in cancellations and recoveries he said were not contemplated by President Truman when he submitted his $37,500,000,000 spending estimate for the year which began July 1.

The net result, Taber said, is that the treasury is $4,423,000,000 "better off than if we had followed the esti-

PUPPY STANDS GUARD OVER CHILD'S BODY

GUILDFORD, England, July 26.—(AP)—A widespread hunt over the Surrey Downs for two missing children ended tonight with the discovery of the battered body of nine-year-old Leslie Gaff lying in a thicket beside his critically injured sister, Eileen, 7, while their little white puppy forlornly stood guard.

Surrey police, who had searched more than 24 hours for the children, put out an alarm for a man suspected of attacking them.

The children were found in a wood scarcely half a mile from their home, which they left Friday afternoon to play with their little white whippet, "Snowy."

Unification Bill Signed By Truman

Truman Delays Departure Home To Sign Legislation Merging Armed Forces Under Single Cabinet Minister

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—President Truman made unification of the armed forces an actuality today and named James V. Forrestal to head them as secretary of defense.

The president signed into law the bill congress finally gave him after two years of urging and issued an executive order assigning the functions and responsibilities of the three co-equal branches—the departments of the army, navy and air force.

So eager was Mr. Truman to get the thing done that he delayed his departure for his dying mother's bedside for 17 minutes in order to sign the legislation aboard his plane here. Even without that delay, however, he would not have reached Grandview, Mo., before his mother's death.

One reason for the haste was so that the Senate might confirm Forrestal's nomination to the new cabinet post before its adjournment.

Chairman Gurney (R.-S. D.) of the Senate Armed Services committee took steps to win speedy confirmation after his committee unanimously approved Forrestal. But in any case Forrestal could serve under a recess appointment until the next session of congress.

The pugnacious, square-jawed Forrestal, as secretary of the navy, was the last member of the late president Roosevelt's cabinet still in office. His selection as secretary of defense had been generally expected.

While the law and the executive order are effective immediately, officials said extensive conferences among the army, navy and air depart-

FOUR-POWER PACT ON GERMAN UNITY APPEARS DOOMED

Economic Tug-Of-War Between U. S.-Reds Over Marshall Plan Causes Split

FAILURE NOW PREDICTED FOR LONDON CONFERENCE

BERLIN, July 26.—(AP)—Virtually all hope has faded in authoritative quarters here that Germany will be united by Four-Power agreement this year or even next.

The economic tug-of-war between the United States and Russia over the Marshall plan splits Germany down the middle, with western Germany falling into the orbit of the Marshall plan and eastern Germany aligned in the Soviet bloc.

Authoritative sources here do not expect to see this split healed until one of the two programs embarked upon by the two powers is proved unworkable. They do not expect this proof to be forthcoming this year, and probably not even next year, since the Marshall plan cannot even come into operation until next winter when Congress meets again.

Consequently, these sources believe

PRODUCE MARKET TO OPEN MONDAY

Retail Center At Harrison And Hart Streets First In Long-Range Program

Monroe's first farmers' retail truck market in more than a decade will open about 7 o'clock tomorrow morning at Harrison and Hart streets, J. J. Joyce, parish agricultural agent, announced yesterday.

The location, offered by the Salvation army here, was accepted unanimously by over 40 truck farmers at a meeting Friday night, Joyce said.

This market will be strictly retail, Joyce explained, but, he said, plans for a similar type of wholesale market are now under consideration.

The market at Harrison and Hart will be the first of a number of such establishments strategically situated in Monroe and West Monroe if a far-reaching truck farming program is carried out, Joyce said.

Meanwhile a committee of nine truck farmers is exploring a long-range project to improve marketing facilities and expand the current trade areas.

Primary among the problems being studied by the committee is the creation of an integrated marketing setup designed to meet competition in this area from growers in other sections.

The project, as outlined by state representative David Pearce, of Oak Grove, will include:

PRESIDENT SIGNS LEAVE-BOND BILL

Cash Terminal Pay Vouchers After Sept. 1; Truman Advises Against It

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—President Truman signed a bill today allowing war veterans holding terminal leave bonds to cash them any time after Sept. 1 but advised them not to do it.

"I wish to emphasize strongly that it is to the veterans' best interest that they keep their bonds if they do not absolutely need to cash them now," his statement said.

"Almost $2,000,000,000 of bonds are outstanding. If a sizable proportion of these bonds should be redeemed in the near future, general inflationary pressures, which we have been endeavoring to control, would receive a substantial boost. Several hundred million dollars poured into the spending stream would exert a strong upward pressure on prices.

"If, on the other hand, veterans choose the wise course, hold their bonds and continue to draw 2 1/2 per cent interest, their dollars will buy more when they cash their bonds after inflationary conditions have eased."

The administration had opposed the bill for cashing the bonds; Secretary of the Treasury Snyder testified against it. But the House and Senate passed the measure wihout a dissenting vote, and Mr. Truman signed it just before he left for Grandview, Mo.

Mr. Truman noted that the Treasury department is making arrangements with banks and other financial institutions in order that bonds can be cashed in local communities without cost to veterans.

A treasury official said yesterday that banks will be instructed to require positive identfication of those cashing the bonds, so as to prevent any money going to "sharks" who have purchased the bonds at a discount.

A number of complaints have been heard that although the bonds by law are not transferable, some persons

$6,000 FOUND IN CAB BUT OWNER CLAIMS IT

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—Bolton R. Daily, 21-year-old ex-service man from Leesville, La., came to New Orleans June 3 to pick up some clothes and ended up with a package containing $6,000.

Daily climbed into a taxicab to go to the bus station. He was followed into the cab by a man clutching two packages wrapped in brown paper. The man's wife and daughter also entered the cab.

After the others left the cab, Daily went on to the bus station. When he arrived he discovered a brown package on the seat. It contained $6,004 in worn currency.

Last Monday Chief of Detectives Joseph Scheuring received a visitor who identified himself as Irving Henry Hahn. Hahn explained that he had lost $6,004 in a package here and hadn't discovered his loss until he reached New York.

PRO-BASEBALL ON WAY BACK FOR TWIN CITIES IN 1948

By PAUL F. MARTIN
(News-Star—World Sports Editor)

Organized baseball, a wartime casualty as far as Monroe and West Monroe have been concerned for the past six seasons, is on the way back—practically assured for 1948—provided the proposals of interested baseball-minded sportsmen and businessmen materialize.

The problem of a baseball plant, a very necessary fixture which has not been available in recent years, has been the big holdup in the failure here to place a club in the Cotton State's League.

No longer can it be said, however, that ground for a park is not available since concrete steps have already been taken in this direction. The site for a park has been selected, plans for the stadium are being drawn up, and the raising of necessary funds to assure financial progress now remains the principal issue.

Since 1945 baseball leaders of Monroe and West Monroe have been seeking a site for a park. But always they hit a snag somewhere, and the Cot-

Here in quiet little Grandview, where the Doughty 94-year-old woman lived modestly, friends and neighbors knew her as a twinkling-eyed, white-haired, kindly old lady who kept abreast of the times—and spoke her mind.

Her world for more than a year had consisted of her bed and her rocking chair. Her eyesight was failing but the remarkable old lady never let her interest dwindle in affairs of the world outside and in "Harry's doings" in Washington.

Almost until the last, she was up-to-the-minute on current events. Unable to read because of poor eyesight, she had Miss Mary Jane Truman, the president's sister, read to her daily

POLAND MAY ASK COUNCIL ACTION

Seek Severance Of Diplomatic Relations With Spain; Economic Sanctions

LAKE SUCCESS, July 26.—(AP)—Poland is preparing a demand that the United Nations security council take action against Franco Spain, an authoritative source said today.

Russia's neighbor would act under the general assembly's Franco-condemning resolution of last fall which said if the Falangist regime remained in power after "a reasonable time" that the council should consider "adequate measures."

Poland contends that almost a year is "a reasonable time" and the council should act and, at a minimum, order a world-wide severance of diplomatic relations with Madrid. The maximum step, short of force, would be economic sanctions.

The Polish delegation plans first to approach Secretary-General Trygve Lie and seek to convince him that he is under obligation to bring up the case in order to implement an assembly decision. Should Lie refuse to act, the Poles were ready to go ahead on their own.

However, in the midst of tightening lines between the East and the West in Europe the political trend would indicate lessening rather than increasing pressure on the old friend of Hitler and Mussolini.

Raising of the Spanish question would snow under the council deep-

MYSTERY NOW CLOAKS FATE OF 4,500 JEWS

PARIS, July 26.—(AP)—Three British transports, bearing 4,500 thwarted Jewish immigrants back from Palestine, were two days overdue at a "French seaport" on the Mediterranean coast today and the mystery deepened as to their whereabouts.

The Paris newspaper L'Intransigeant said the Jews, passengers on the intercepted President Warfield, renamed exodus of 1947, were being taken to St. Louis, a small port near Marseille.

The Paris Presse had a contradictory report that the refugees were being taken to Sete, 100 miles west of St. Louis, whence the immigrants sailed secretly just two weeks ago only to encounter a British boarding party in a sea fight.

Reports from Villefrance-Sur-Mer, where the ship earlier was believed headed, said the suspicion was growing that the British navy was taking the Jews to Genoa, Italy, for return to Germany. But the British colonial office in London said this was not true.

France has agreed to accept the immigrants temporarily and give them "humane treatment" but Premier Ramadier has declared the French would not make them get off the transports.

Jewish agency representatives said the Jews might stage a sitdown strike on the ships and demand to be taken back to Palestine.

CLAIM RED ARMY POISED IN CUBA FOR INVASION

Dominican Republic Ambassador Says 'Boatload' To Sail From Antillas

ENTIRE ARMY ALERTED TO MEET ATTACK THREAT

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Dominican Ambassador Julio Ortega Frier said today a 3,000-man "army of Communist revolutionaries" from Cuba, Guatemala, Venezuela and Puerto Rico is poised in Cuba to invade the Dominican Republic.

The ambassador told a reporter he has information that a boatload of 1,000 men was scheduled to leave last night from the eastern Cuban port of Antillas.

Antillas is about 400 airline miles from Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican capital, and about 250 airline miles from the nearest point in the Dominican Republic.

The entire Dominican army, the envoy said, has been fully alerted to meet the attack.

Ortega Frier said the Dominican government has informed the United

W. MONROE WILL VOTE ON MAYOR

Election Scheduled On Tuesday; Bell and Wall Candidates

West Monroe will cast ballots for mayor on Tuesday when a run-off primary will be held to name a successor to the late Mayor D. C. Golson. Candidates in the second primary Tuesday are C. C. Bell., Jr., and Charles G. Wall, Jr. Ballot booths will open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Out of 3,700 registered voters in West Monroe only 1,884 were cast in the first primary held July 15 when Mr. Bell received 657 votes and Mr. Wall 690 votes. Others who were candidates and their votes received were: Marlin Hattaway, 407; Jack M. Russell, 93; and J. N. (Cuz) Rogers, 37.

Mr. Wall states he is independent and that his political connections are with the people of West Monroe and that he looks with confidence to the outcome.

Mr. Bell declares he had no thought of entering the race and did so only at the insistence of friends. He says he is no politician and that he is only a young West Monroe business man.

Each candidate has stated that he extends best wishes and complete cooperation to the man who is successful at the polls, and promises to work for the best interests of the city of West Monroe.

BOY FRIEND LINKED IN CO-ED SEARCH

HOLDERNES, N. H., July 26.—(AP)—Police searching a New Hampshire lake for Anne Straw, missing banker's daughter, asked today for an accompanying hunt in the forests of Wyoming for a college boy friend, who, they added, "might know something."

State police, who were continuing dragging operations in Little Squam lake bordering the luxurious summer home from which the curly-haired Smith senior disappeared Monday night, said Wyoming police were asked to look for the boy.

They said that last year when he was a freshman at Amherst he was "quite friendly" with Miss Straw.

Rumors of a "romantic journey" with the girl heading for a rendezvous in Paris were current in this vacation area today but her family and police declined comment on them and Sgt. Stuart Currier said police "still believed that the girl is in the water."

MAIN INDONESIAN FORCES TRAPPED IN CENTRAL JAVA

Dutch Claim Vise-Like Operation Is Closing In On Republican Troops

CIVIL ADMINISTRATION SET UP IN SEIZED AREAS

BATAVIA, July 26.—(AP)—Netherlands communiques indicated tonight that Dutch troops advancing in eastern and western Java had caught the main body of the Indonesian republican army in a vise-like operation against the vast central section of the island.

The Dutch admitted resistance in some places, but said that for the most part Dutch troops were advancing at will under the scorching tropical sun.

Netherlands strategy, as outlined by a senior official, was to set up civil administrations in the areas already seized before deciding whether to strike hard southward from Semarang against the Indonesian capital at Jogjakarta deep in the central interior.

American-trained Dutch marines and infantry, reported officially to be in full control of strategic centers in the eastern portion of the island, virtually completed the first phase of their operations and now were said to be mopping up pockets of resistance.

In the westren section, mechanized forces lancing swiftly along the northwest coastal road have captured the port of Tegal, the Dutch said. This march took Netherlands forces 40 miles beyond Cheribon and won con-

BUDGET SAVINGS HOTLY DEBATED

GOP's Claims Treasury $4,423,000,000 'Better Off' Disputed In Congress

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Rep. Taber (R.-N. Y.) claimed today the treasury is $4,423,000,000 "better off" because of budget cuts by the Republican-dominated Congress, but Rep. Cannon (D.-Mo.) called this estimate far too high.

Taber is chairman of the House Appropriations committee; Cannon had that post when Democrats were in control.

While they argued in the House Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) told the Senate that the Republicans in Congress have employed "slip-shod and carefree methods . . . in vain attempts to reduce the President's budget"

Taber claimed a "direct saving" of $2,806,000,000 in addition to $1,617,000,000 in cancellations and recoveries he said were not contemplated by President Truman when he submitted his $37,500,000,000 spending estimate for the year which began July 1.

The net result, Taber said, is that the treasury is $4,423,000,000 "better off than if we had followed the esti-

PUPPY STANDS GUARD OVER CHILD'S BODY

GUILDFORD, England, July 26.—(AP)—A widespread hunt over the Surrey Downs for two missing children ended tonight with the discovery of the battered body of nine-year-old Leslie Gaff lying in a thicket beside his critically injured sister, Eileen, 7, while their little white puppy forlornly stood guard.

Surrey police, who had searched more than 24 hours for the children, put out an alarm for a man suspected of attacking them.

The children were found in a wood scarcely half a mile from their home, which they left Friday afternoon to play with their little white whippet, "Snowy."

Unification Bill Signed By Truman

Truman Delays Departure Home To Sign Legislation Merging Armed Forces Under Single Cabinet Minister

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—President Truman made unification of the armed forces an actuality today and named James V. Forrestal to head them as secretary of defense.

The president signed into law the bill congress finally gave him after two years of urging and issued an executive order assigning the functions and responsibilities of the three co-equal branches—the departments of the army, navy and air force.

So eager was Mr. Truman to get the thing done that he delayed his departure for his dying mother's bedside for 17 minutes in order to sign the legislation aboard his plane here. Even without that delay, however, he would not have reached Grandview, Mo., before his mother's death.

One reason for the haste was so that the Senate might confirm Forrestal's nomination to the new cabinet post before its adjournment.

Chairman Gurney (R.-S. D.) of the Senate Armed Services committee took steps to win speedy confirmation after his committee unanimously approved Forrestal. But in any case Forrestal could serve under a recess appointment until the next session of congress.

The pugnacious, square-jawed Forrestal, as secretary of the navy, was the last member of the late president Roosevelt's cabinet still in office. His selection as secretary of defense had been generally expected.

While the law and the executive order are effective immediately, officials said extensive conferences among the army, navy and air depart-

FOUR-POWER PACT ON GERMAN UNITY APPEARS DOOMED

Economic Tug-Of-War Between U. S.-Reds Over Marshall Plan Causes Split

FAILURE NOW PREDICTED FOR LONDON CONFERENCE

BERLIN, July 26.—(AP)—Virtually all hope has faded in authoritative quarters here that Germany will be united by Four-Power agreement this year or even next.

The economic tug-of-war between the United States and Russia over the Marshall plan splits Germany down the middle, with western Germany falling into the orbit of the Marshall plan and eastern Germany aligned in the Soviet bloc.

Authoritative sources here do not expect to see this split healed until one of the two programs embarked upon by the two powers is proved unworkable. They do not expect this proof to be forthcoming this year, and probably not even next year, since the Marshall plan cannot even come into operation until next winter when Congress meets again.

Consequently, these sources believe

PRODUCE MARKET TO OPEN MONDAY

Retail Center At Harrison And Hart Streets First In Long-Range Program

Monroe's first farmers' retail truck market in more than a decade will open about 7 o'clock tomorrow morning at Harrison and Hart streets, J. J. Joyce, parish agricultural agent, announced yesterday.

The location, offered by the Salvation army here, was accepted unanimously by over 40 truck farmers at a meeting Friday night, Joyce said.

This market will be strictly retail, Joyce explained, but, he said, plans for a similar type of wholesale market are now under consideration.

The market at Harrison and Hart will be the first of a number of such establishments strategically situated in Monroe and West Monroe if a far-reaching truck farming program is carried out, Joyce said.

Meanwhile a committee of nine truck farmers is exploring a long-range project to improve marketing facilities and expand the current trade areas.

Primary among the problems being studied by the committee is the creation of an integrated marketing setup designed to meet competition in this area from growers in other sections.

The project, as outlined by state representative David Pearce, of Oak Grove, will include:

Studying farm production and marketing methods to provide higher

PRESIDENT SIGNS LEAVE-BOND BILL

Cash Terminal Pay Vouchers After Sept. 1; Truman Advises Against it

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—President Truman signed a bill today allowing war veterans holding terminal leave bonds to cash them any time after Sept. 1 but advised them not to do it.

"I wish to emphasize strongly that it is to the veterans' best interest that they keep their bonds if they do not absolutely need to cash them now," his statement said.

"Almost $2,000,000,000 of bonds are outstanding. If a sizable proportion of these bonds should be redeemed in the near future, general inflationary pressures, which we have been endeavoring to control, would receive a substantial boost. Several hundred million dollars poured into the spending stream would exert a strong upward pressure on prices.

"If, on the other hand, veterans choose the wise course, hold their bonds and continue to draw 2 1/2 per cent interest, their dollars will buy more when they cash their bonds after inflationary conditions have eased."

The administration had opposed the bill for cashing the bonds; Secretary of the Treasury Snyder testified against it. But the House and Senate passed the measure wihout a dissenting vote, and Mr. Truman signed it just before he left for Grandview, Mo.

Mr. Truman noted that the Treasury department is making arrangements with banks and other financial institutions in order that bonds can be cashed in local communities without cost to veterans.

A treasury official said yesterday that banks will be instructed to require positive identfication of those cashing the bonds, so as to prevent any money going to "sharks" who have purchased the bonds at a discount.

A number of complaints have been heard that although the bonds by law are not transferable, some persons

$6,000 FOUND IN CAB BUT OWNER CLAIMS IT

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—Bolton R. Daily, 21-year-old ex-service man from Leesville, La., came to New Orleans June 3 to pick up some clothes and ended up with a package containing $6,000.

Daily climbed into a taxicab to go to the bus station. He was followed into the cab by a man clutching two packages wrapped in brown paper. The man's wife and daughter also entered the cab.

After the others left the cab, Daily went on to the bus station. When he arrived he discovered a brown package on the seat. It contained $6,004 in worn currency.

Last Monday Chief of Detectives Joseph Scheuring received a visitor who identified himself as Irving Henry Hahn. Hahn explained that he had lost $6,004 in a package here and hadn't discovered his loss until he reached New York.

EARN THEFT RING GOT 2 AUTOS HERE

Alleged Leader Jailed When Cars Are Found In South Carolina

Tracing of two automobiles stolen from a Monroe garage last month has resulted in the arrest at Charlotte, N. C., of an alleged kingpin of a far-flung car theft ring, Sheriff Milton Coverdale was informed yesterday.

In jail here, Sheriff Coverdale was told, is M. E. Batey, prosperous Atlanta, Ga., automobile dealer, charged with selling the two cars for $6,000 to the Teague Motor Co., at Columbia, S. C., who then resold them to two individual buyers.

Sheriff Coverdale said he had filed a detainer on Batey, and the FBI has announced that it is examining the case for possible violation of the Dyer Act, relative to transportation of stolen automobiles across state lines.

The theft syndicate to which Batey is said to belong is reported to have its headquarters at Atlanta where Batey operates the Batey Motor Co.

One of the cars, a new Oldsmobile club coupe, had been ordered for Major Lloyd G. Hatley, 1708 Jackson st., a disabled war veteran, and was equipped with special operating devices. It was taken from the Twin City Motor Co., the night before it was to have been delivered to Maj. Hatley.

The other, a 1946 Cadillac belonging to F. E. Monzingo, of Farmerville, had been left at the garage for repairs, and was not missed until two days later.

Sheriff Coverdale said he will request the Sheriff at Columbia to hold both cars for the Twin City company.

Major Hatley said last night that another specially equipped car had already been ordered for him and was expected to arrive here soon.

SEEK WITNESS IN HUGHES PROBE

Missing Publicity Agent Sought; Need Testimony On Lavish Parties

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Senators investigating Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts enlisted state department aid today to find a missing witness who previously had told of lavish entertainment for a high government official.

The witness is John Meyer, former publicity director for Hughes. A senate war investigating subcommittee which opens hearings Monday questioned him in private June 3 and 4 but now has lost track of him and believes he is out of the country.

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.), chairman of the subcommittee, told newsmen the state department has agreed to ask Meyer to return if he can be found and "if he does not, they will cancel his passport."

Ferguson said Meyer's passport covers all countries except the occupied ones and that he apparently obtained visas for France and England. He also has been variously reported as in South America and Canada.

If Meyer does not turn up by July 30, Ferguson added, Hughes will be asked where he is and why he does not appear.

Ferguson made public a letter from Committee Counsel William P. Rogers to Noah Dietrich, vice-president of the Hughes Tool Co. in which Rogers said he understands that Meyer "is out of the country on business for the Hughes Aircraft Co."

"For reasons which you well know," Rogers wrote, "it may appear to the committee that Meyer is being kept out of the country to avoid public questioning about certain expense accounts of the Hughes Tool Co."

Rogers said also that Meyer's passport application said he wished to visit Ireland, France, England, Italy,

NEGRO IS CHARGED IN RAPE ATTEMPT

FAYETTE, Miss., July 26.—(AP)—Sheriff Duncan McCarn of Jefferson county said that charges of attempted rape had been filed against a 23-year-old Negro in connection with an attack on a Church Hill, Miss., white woman.

The sheriff identified the man held in the Fayette jail as Willie Washington of Church Hill, a small community 15 miles west of Fayette. McCarn said the Negro was taken into custody early today at his home.

Sheriff McCarn and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Johnson said there was no threat of violence and that "everything is under control."

FARM HEARINGS SET IN TWELVE CITIES

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Congressional hearings on a long-range federal farm program will be held this fall in 12 cities, Rep. Hoeven (R-Ia.) announced today.

Hoeven, chairman of a House Agriculture subcommittee appointed to conduct a nation-wide study of farm problems, told reporters his group will call witnesses in:

Spokane, Wash., Fresno, Calif., Salt Lake City, Utah; Fort Collins, Colo.; Kansas City, Mo., Sioux City, Ia., Madison, Wis., Temple, Tex., Jackson, Miss., Rocky Mount, N. C., Lancaster, Pa., and Durham, N. H.

PALACE TO MARK 45 YEARS OF PROGRESS HERE MONDAY

A special open house from noon until 8 p. m. tomorrow will mark the 45th anniversary of one of Monroe's outstanding business establishments.

Celebrating its years of progress here will be The Palace department store—long regarded as preeminent among North Louisiana retail institutions.

One of the highlights of tomorrow's activities at the remodeled Palace will be an informal style showing by four of Monroe's lovliest young women. They are Jerry Pratt, niece of Mrs. Lucile Coats, 906 Mississippi street; Louise Tisdale daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, 2924 Gordon Avenue; Ann Humphries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Humphries, 112 Travis street, West Monroe, and Sallie Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S Foster, 209 Erin Avenue.

Featured in the style showing will be the latest fall fashions for juniors and misses, now available at the Palace.

Beauty-conscious women will also be able to meet Miss Terice DeVore, personal representative of Elizabeth Arden, who has been held over for the open house.

Two broadcasts will be presented from the street floor of the Palace. The first will be over KMLB at 1:15

PRO-BASEBALL ON WAY BACK FOR TWIN CITIES IN 1948

By PAUL F. MARTIN
(News-Star—World Sports Editor)

Organized baseball, a wartime casualty as far as Monroe and West Monroe have been concerned for the past six seasons, is on the way back—practically assured for 1948—provided the proposals of interested baseball-minded sportsmen and businessmen materialize.

The problem of a baseball plant, a very necessary fixture which has not been available in recent years, has been the big holdup in the failure here to place a club in the Cotton State's League.

No longer can it be said, however, that ground for a park is not available since concrete steps have already been taken in this direction. The site for a park has been selected, plans for the stadium are being drawn up, and the raising of necessary funds to assure financial progress now remains the principal issue.

Since 1945 baseball leaders of Monroe and West Monroe have been seeking a site for a park. But always they hit a snag somewhere, and the Cot-

BILL TO REGISTER REDS IS BLOCKED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 26. —(AP)— House consideration of a bill to require that all members of the Communist party in the United States register with the Justice Department as foreign agents was blocked today by Rep. Marcantonio, A. L.-N. Y.).

Chairman Woodruff (R.-Mich) of the House Judiciary Committee asked for unanimous consent to bring the bill, sponsored by Rep. Mundt (R.-S. D.) before the House.

Marcantonio objected that "the bill does violence to every democratic concept, and I must fight it at every step."

SYRACUSANS TO WELCOME LISLE

Magnolia Palace Here To Entertain Supreme Regent

The members of Magnolia Palace No. 197, Princes of Syracuse, are now busy making plans for the visit of Irvin S. Lisle, supreme regent of the organization on August 6. Magnolia Palace, the junior auxiliary of the Knights of Pythias, was instituted here on last April 29 with a charter membership of 50 youths and 60 knights. The Palace has made rapid strides since then, creating a desire on the part of Mr. Lisle to make an official visit here.

Mr. Lisle makes his home in Yakima, Washington, and is driving from there to Little Rock, Ark., where he will preside at an all-state meeting of the junior Pythian auxiliary on August 5. He will arrive in Monroe the following afternoon. He is a graduate of Washington State College, and resigned from his teaching position at the beginning of World War II to serve with the War Manpower Commission. He is now with the employment security department of the state of Washington as supervisor of testing. Mr. Lisle was chancellor commander of Yakima Lodge No. 53 in 1940, Royal Vizier of El Kalian Temple No. 243, DOKK, in 1945 and president of the Pacific Northwest Korassan Association in 1946. He served as grand regent of the Princes of Syracuse for the state of Washington from 1940 through 1946, and is now serving as supreme regent for the years 1947 and 1948. He is a grand lodge officer of the state of Washington and is an active member of many civic and fraternal organizations.

Magnolia Palace will hold its regular meeting Tuesday nigh , August 5, and arrangements will be completed then for the open house meeting the following night. Parents of the members of the junior order, Pythians and others interested in the youth program of the Knights of Pythias are especially invited to attend the open meeting at the Pythian building on August 6 at 8:00 p. m.

CHURCH SYNOD ON IN CHICAGO

Lutherans Will Be In Session For Nine Days

CHICAGO, Ill., July 26.—(Special)—Delegates representing over 5,000 congregations with a total of 1,564,000 adherents assembled in the Palmer House here July 20 for a nine day session, the fortieth national convention of Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states.

An historic pastoral services was held on Friday, July 25, in First St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in which edifice, then located at the corner of LaSalle and Ohio streets, the constitution of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, was effected on April 26, 1847.

On Sunday, July 27, 1947, a gigantic centennial rally and service will be held at Soldiers Field, 00 p. m., at which Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Missouri Synod, will preach the sermon to a congregation which it is estimated will be in excess of 100,000. Special trains, buses and chartered planes will bring Lutherans from distant points for this centennial celebration.

Plans for the Synod are as follows:

1. The request for appropriations amounting to almost $5,000,000 from eleven theological schools and seminaries and two teachers' seminaries. In addition the expansion needs of the colleges and seminaries in Porto Alegre, Brazil; Crespo, Argentine, and Buenos Aires, Argentine.

2. Advancement of the parish educational program, emphasizing the expansion of adult Bible classes and vacation Bible schools.

3. The cooperation of the church with the International Walther League, representing over 3,000 Lutheran young people's societies.

4. Expansion of Lutheran Student Service Work which at the present time serves over 15,000 young men and women enrolled at colleges and universities throughout the country.

5. The paramount business of the convention will center around the "Each One-Reach One" soul-winning national program of the Lutheran Church.

6. The changing of the Missouri Synod's name to one which more adequately defines and truly represents this great religious body's influence throughout the world.

7. The establishment of a special board of visual education.

8. The revision of Synod's by-laws and regulations.

9. Consideration of proposals for furthering unity with other Lutheran bodies in the United States.

10. The convention must decide upon a program of continuing to raise additional funds for physical relief in Europe and the policy of administering spiritual relief in devastated countries.

W. MONROE OFFICER'S WIFE TELLS OF HER FLIGHT TO GUAM

From Monroe to Guam was a mighty long distance before World War Two but distance has melted away since airplane service has shrunk the globe into small size.

Mrs. Carol Watts Gilinsky, wife of Lt. Joe J. Gilinsky, of the army air force stationed at this island, together with their infant son, has just flown to Guam. It was only a two-day flight from San Francisco.

An interesting letter was received by Mr. Gilinsky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Watts, 315 North Fifth street, West Monroe. Incidentally the lieutenant had never seen his son who was born last January 17.

The letter in part is as follows:

"Pan-American has a huge, swanky waiting room and office with large heavy tables and flags of nations. The berths on the plane were made up when we boarded it. We had a double seat the entire trip. They are curtained like a Pullman bed. Then you have room to let the sleeper lie out flat and they add another part for your feet.

"The plane was very cold although heaters were on. I had put a little sweater on Joey, a baby blanket and a plane blanket around my legs, yet I still was cold. It was cold all the trip which made but four landings all told.

"The steward and stewardess were both wonderful. I had planned a sightseeing tour of Honolulu but the weather was so bad I changed my mind. There was a girl from Washington state on the plane en route to Guam to meet her fiance where they were to marry and live on Saipan. There were also three women and a doctor Manila-bound. They had fled from Manila to the U. S. in war days and now were to return. Two men were to go to Manila on business. There was a Newsweek correspondent on the plane going to Guam to get a story, and there was a Chinese going to China but he was not very friendly.

"Meals on the plane were excellent. We have strawberries, ani omlets, salads, pickles and many vegetables. At Midway we had supper in the officers' club. There were eight on the regular crew and two junior pilots learning the route.

"At Midway we were met by three fire trucks and two jeeps and they escorted us to the town. The hotel there was named "Gooneyville" lodge after the famed gooney birds, variety of albatross. They spread their wings to fly and then fell flat on their face. It is illegal to harm them and they seem to know this fact. They park right in the road and someone must get off the bus and shoo them off the right-of-way.

"I don't recall much bout Wake Island, where we landed at :0 o'clock. We had to leave the plane while they gassed and checked the machine. We changed crews her. for the first time since leaving Honolulu. About a half hour before we got to Guam, all passengers came up to bid 's goodbye. Guam from the air looked large. compared with Midway and Wake. It really didn't seem possible we had reached our destination."

MAY RESTORE OCTAGON HOUSE

Architectural Group Seeks To Preserve This Historic Home

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(Special)—The American Institute of Architects hopes ultimately to restore the historic Octagon house in Washington, Douglas William Orr, president of the institute announced yesterday.

Since 1902, the Octagon has served as the national headquarters of the A. I. A., which now plans to utilize also its newer building, on the same plot of ground, which was leased to the state department during the war. The two buildings, together with a memorial garden, will be used as the institute's new headquarters.

The Octagon, which was completed in 1800, was erected by Colonel John Tayloe, a native of Virginia, who was an intimate friend of George Washington. The mansion was Colonel Tayloe's winter residence.

After the White House was burned in 1814, the mansion was occupied by President James Madison, and during his occupancy the Treaty of Ghent, terminating the war of 1812, was signed in the Octagon.

Known as one of the finest residences in the country at the time of its erection, the Octagon was visited by many other famous personages, including Presidents Jefferson, Monroe, and John Quincy Adams, Stephen Decatur, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, and Lafayette.

The historic building, which stands at New York avenue and Eighteenth street, Northwest, was designed by Dr. William Thornton, friend of George Washington, who was also one of the first architects of the United States Capitol.

PUBLIC FORUM

TO THE EDITOR: I paid the Red Cross Blood Bank a visit last Thursday. I went for two reasons. First, I wanted to make my donation in order to be deserving to ask others to volunter their blood. Secondly, I was curious to see "what they do to you," and here's what happened: First I called the Red Cross office for an appointment with the doctors at the Ouachita Parish Health Center. I was told to report at the Center at 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Arriving on time I was surprised to be greeted by none other than Mrs. Veazy in person, who acts as receptionist at the Blood Bank sessions. There were several doners ahead of me but there was not long to wait. My turn soon coming, I was ushered into the withdrawal room and allowed to lie down on a comfortable emergency table where Dr. Fred Marx went through the customary routine of questioning as to past health. Next he examined my heart and took my blood pressure. Pronounced "fit" for the occasion, Dr. Marx then, assisted by Mrs. Doris Thompson, proceeded to withdraw a pint of blood from my right arm in region of the elbow. I did not even feel the insertion of the needle, so expertly was the operation performed, and the "pint" was extracted so quickly and without feeling or incident that I was agreeably surprised. The withdrawal completed, I was told by the doctor to rest on the table for a while, but feeling perfectly normal in every way I got right up only to be met again by Mrs. Veazey with a proffered glass of cold orange juice. I drank it because it looked good—not because I felt any need of it. Urged to sit down before taking to the street, I chated for a moment with the bank personnel and took my leave, walking some 5 blocks to catch the Loop bus for home. Leaving the bus at Marie Place and Park I walked 3 blocks to my home. Everything was perfestly normal and not the slightest ill effect was felt. I recount the complete eperience to allay any fear that may exist in some minds as to possible ill effects from the operation.

I was told my blood would be typed and placed in refrigeration until called out by an emergency, which evidently will be quite soon because of the dangerously low supply in the bank.

Becoming a doner one naturally has a satisfied feeling of having done a serivce to his fellowman—and a deep sense of pride that his blood may be the means of saving a life!

And I expect to go back again after about 4 months as the doctors tell me the blood I have just donated will be replenished fully in 7 or 8 weeks.

Associated with Dr. Fred Marx and Dr. W. C. Summers in the blood b is also Dr. Margaret Coon stepped aside for a few months become a mother. Now that friendly stork has left the prec bundle with Dr. Coon and her band, Mr. Freed Coon, Jr., Dr. C is again back at the blood bank ularly giving of her professional s Othe attaches of the bank deser of commendation are Mrs. C. D. Adams, Mrs. Daisy Thompson Mrs. E. C. Mallette, of the nurses corps. I was informed more nu aides are needed for this work w is expected to progressively incr from day to day. Among the do present last Thursday was a for members of the armed forces stated he had previously given b five times, the present being his s donation. His name cannot be lished without permission.

Volunteers are urged to call Red Cross office, telephone 6780 appointments.

BILL TO REGISTER REDS IS BLOCKED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 26. —(AP)— House consideration of a bill to require that all members of the Communist party in the United States register with the Justice Department as foreign agents was blocked today by Rep. Marcantonio, A. L.-N. Y.).

Chairman Woodruff (R.-Mich.) of the House Judiciary Committee asked for unanimous consent to bring the bill, sponsored by Rep. Mundt (R.-S. D.) before the House.

Marcantonio objected that "the bill does violence to every democratic concept, and I must fight it at every step."

SYRACUSANS TO WELCOME LISLE

Magnolia Palace Here To Entertain Supreme Regent

The members of Magnolia Palace No. 197, Princes of Syracuse, are now busy making plans for the visit of Irvin S. Lisle, supreme regent of the organization on August 6. Magnolia Palace, the junior auxiliary of the Knights of Pythias, was instituted here on last April 25 with a charter membership of 56 youths and 60 knights. The Palace has made rapid strides since then, creating a desire on the part of Mr. Lisle to make an official visit here.

Mr. Lisle makes his home in Yakima, Washington, and is driving from there to Little Rock, Ark., where he will preside at an all-state meeting of the junior Pythian auxiliary on August 5. He will arrive in Monroe the following afternoon. He is a graduate of Washington State College, and resigned from his teaching position at the beginning of World War II to serve with the War Manpower Commission. He is now with the employment security department of the state of Washington as supervisor of testing. Mr. Lisle was chancellor commander of Yakima Lodge No. 53 in 1940, Royal Vizier of El Kalian Temple No. 243, DOKK, in 1945 and president of the Pacific Northwest Korassan Association in 1946. He served as grand regent of the Princes of Syracuse for the state of Washington from 1940 through 1946, and is now serving as supreme regent for the years 1947 and 1948. He is a grand lodge officer of the state of Washington and is an active member of many civic and fraternal organizations.

Magnolia Palace will hold its regular meeting Tuesday nigh , August 5, and arrangements will be completed then for the open house meeting the following night. Parents of the members of the junior order, Pythians and others interested in the youth program of the Knights of Pythias are especially invited to attend the open meeting at the Pythian building on August 6 at 8:00 p. m.

TO VISIT HERE

IRVIN S. LISLE

Supreme Regent of the Princes of Syracuse who will inspect and address the Monroe chapter of the organization on August 6.

CHURCH SYNOD ON IN CHICAGO

Lutherans Will Be In Session For Nine Days

CHICAGO, Ill., July 26.—(Special)—Delegates representing over 5,000 congregations with a total of 1,564,000 adgerents assembled in the Palmer House here July 20 for a nine day session, the fortieth national convention of Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states.

An historic pastoral services was held on Friday, July 25, in First St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in which edifice, then located at the corner of LaSalle and Ohio streets, the constitution of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, was effected on April 26, 1847.

On Sunday, July 27, 1947, a gigantic centennial rally and service will be held at Soldiers Field, 3.00 p. m., at which Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Missouri Synod, will preach the sermon to a congregation which it is estimated will be in excess of 100,000. Special trains, buses and chartered planes will bring Lutherans from distant points for this centennial celebration.

Plans for the Synod are as follows:

1. The request for appropriations amounting to almost $5,000,000 from eleven theological schools and seminaries and two teachers' seminaries. In addition the expansion needs of the colleges and seminaries in Porto Alegre, Brazil; Crespo, Argentine, and Buenos Aires, Argentine.

2. Advancement of the parish educational program, emphasizing the expansion of adult Bible classes and vacation Bible schools.

3. The cooperation of the church with the International Walther League, representing over 3,000 Lutheran young people's societies.

4. Expansion of Lutheran Student Service Work which at the present time serves over 15,000 young men and women enrolled at colleges and universities throughout the country.

5. The paramount business of the convention will center around the "Each One-Reach One" soul-winning national program of the Lutheran Church.

6. The changing of the Missouri Synod's name to one which more adequately defines and truly represents this great religious body's influence throughout the world.

7. The establishment of a special board of visual education.

8. The revision of Synod's by-laws and regulations.

9. Consideration of proposals for furthering unity with other Lutheran bodies in the United States.

10. The convention must decide upon a program of continuing to raise additional funds for physical relief in Europe and the policy of administering spiritual relief in devastated countries.

MAY RESTORE OCTAGON HOUSE

Architectural Group Seeks To Preserve This Historic Home

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(Special)—The American Institute of Architects hopes ultimately to restore the historic Octagon house in Washington, Douglas William Orr, president of the institute announced yesterday.

Since 1902, the Octagon has served as the national headquarters of the A. I. A., which now plans to utilize also its newer building, on the same plot of ground, which was leased to the state department during the war. The two buildings, together with a memorial garden, will be used as the institute's new headquarters.

The Octagon, which was completed in 1800, was erected by Colonel John Tayloe, a native of Virginia, who was an intimate friend of George Washington. The mansion was Colonel Tayloe's winter residence.

After the White House was burned in 1814, the mansion was occupied by President James Madison, and during his occupancy the Treaty of Ghent, terminating the war of 1812, was signed in the Octagon.

Known as one of the finest residences in the country at the time of its erection, the Octagon was visited by many other famous personages, including Presidents Jefferson, Monroe, and John Quincy Adams, Stephen Decatur, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, and Lafayette.

The historic building, which stands at New York avenue and Eighteenth street, Northwest, was designed by Dr. William Thornton, friend of George Washington, who was also one of the first architects of the United States Capitol.

W. MONROE OFFICER'S WIFE TELLS OF HER FLIGHT TO GUAM

From Monroe to Guam was a mighty long distance before World War Two but distance has melted away since airplane service has shrunk the globe into small size.

Mrs. Carol Watts Gilinsky, wife of Lt. Joe J. Gilinsky, of the army air force stationed at this island, together with their infant son, has just flown to Guam. It was only a two-day flight from San Francisco.

An interesting letter was received by Mrs. Gilinsky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Watts, 315 North Fifth street, West Monroe. Incidentally the lieutenant had never seen his son who was born last January 17.

The letter in part is as follows:

"Pan-American has a huge, swanky waiting room and office with large heavy tables and flags of nations. The berths on the plane were made up when we boarded it. We had a double seat the entire trip. They are curtained like a Pullman bed. Then you have room to let the sleeper lie out flat and they add another part for your feet.

"The plane was very cold although heaters were on. I had put a little sweater on Joey, a baby blanket and a plane blanket around my legs, yet I still was cold. It was cold all the trip which made but four landings all told.

"The steward and stewardess were both wonderful. I had planned a sightseeing tour of Honolulu but the weather was so bad I changed my mind. There was a girl from Washington state on the plane en route to Guam to meet her fiance where they were to marry and live on Saipan. There were also three women and a doctor Manila-bound. They had fled from Manila to the U. S. in war days and now were to return. Two men were to go to Manila on business. There was a Newsweek correspondent on the plane going to Guam to get a story, and there was a Chinese going to China but he was not very friendly.

"Meals on the plane were excellent. We have strawberries, ham omlets, salads, pickles and many vegetables. At Midway we had supper in the officers' club. There were eight on the regular crew and two junior pilots learning the route.

"At Midway we were met by three fire trucks and two jeeps and they escorted us to the town. The hotel there was named "Gooneyville" lodge after the famed gooney birds, variety of albatross. They spread their wings to fly and then fell flat on their face. It is illegal to harm them and they seem to know this fact. They park right in the road and someone must get off the bus and shoo them off the right-of-way.

"I don't recall much bout Wake Island, where we landed at 10 o'clock. We had to leave the plane while they gassed and checked the machine. We changed crews her. for the first time since leaving Honolulu. About a half hour before we got to Guam, all passengers came up to bid us goodbye. Guam from the air looked large, compared with Midway and Wake. It really didn't seem possible we had reached our destination."

PUBLIC FORUM

TO THE EDITOR: I paid the Red Cross Blood Bank a visit last Thursday. I went for two reasons. First, I wanted to make my donation in order to be deserving to ask others to volunteer their blood. Secondly, I was curious to see "what they do to you," and here's what happened: First I called the Red Cross office for an appointment with the doctors at the Ouachita Parish Health Center. I was told to report at the Center at 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Arriving on time I was surprised to be greeted by none other than Mrs. Veazy in person, who acts as receptionist at the Blood Bank sessions. There were several doners ahead of me but there was not long to wait. My turn soon coming, I was ushered into the withdrawal room and allowed to lie down on a comfortable emergency table where Dr. Fred Marx went through the customary routine of questioning as to past health. Next he examined my heart and took my blood pressure. Pronounced "fit" for the occasion, Dr. Marx then, assisted by Mrs. Doris Thompson, proceeded to withdraw a pint of blood from my right arm in region of the elbow. I did not even feel the insertion of the needle, so expertly was the operation performed, and the "pint" was extracted so quickly and without feeling or incident that I was agreeably surprised. The withdrawal completed, I was told by the doctor to rest on the table for a while, but feeling perfectly normal in every way I got right up only to be met again by Mrs. Veazey with a proffered glass of cold orange juice. I drank it because it looked good—not because I felt any need of it. Urged to sit down before taking to the street, I chated for a moment with the bank personnel and took my leave, walking some 5 blocks to catch the Loop bus for home. Leaving the bus at Marie Place and Park I walked 3 blocks to my home. Everything was perfestly normal and not the slightest ill effect was felt. I recount the complete eperience to allay any fear that may exist in some minds as to possible ill effects from the operation.

I was told my blood would be typed and placed in refrigeration until called out by an emergency, which evidently will be quite soon because of the dangerously low supply in the bank.

Becoming a doner one naturally has a satisfied feeling of having done a serivce to his fellowman—and a deep sense of pride that his blood may be the means of saving a life!

And I expect to go back again after about 4 months as the doctors tell me the blood I have just donated will be replenished fully in 7 or 8 weeks.

Associated with Dr. Fred Marx and Dr. W. C. Summers in the blood bank is also Dr. Margaret Coon who stepped aside for a few months to become a mother. Now that the friendly stork has left the precious bundle with Dr. Coon and her husband, Mr. Freed Coon, Jr., Dr. Coon is again back at the blood bank regularly giving of her professional skill. Other attaches of the bank deserving of commendation are Mrs. C. D. McAdams, Mrs. Daisy Thompson and Mrs. E. C. Mallette, of the nurses aid corps. I was informed more nurses aides are needed for this work which is expected to progressively increase from day to day. Among the donors present last Thursday was a former members of the armed forces who stated he had previously given blood five times, the present being his sixth donation. His name cannot be published without permission.

Volunteers are urged to call the Red Cross office, telephone 6780 for appointments.

Yours very truly,

W. M. HARPER,
Chairman, Red Cross Blood Donor Recruiting Service.

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—So you're a girl going to college and you're trying to decide what kind of work or life you want when you get out.

For puzzled girl collegians, the women's bureau of the labor department has cooked up some answers. They don't pretend to be all the answers.

But in the department's monthly bulletin, the bureau says:

"Don't try to choose between marriage and a career. But prepare for both home and job.

"You may think you'll never be a working woman, but plans have been upset before. It may be the same with yours."

The bureau warns the going will be tough for the girl who wants to go into one of the so-called men's professions, like medicine, law, engineering.

Such a girl, the bureau says, will need courage, initiative, patience and more-than-average ability.

Why? To break down the prejudices still met by women who want to go into those professions, prejudices against women.

Women are less than 5 per cent of all doctors, lawyers, engineers, dentists, architects, draftsmen, pharmacists, and certified public accountants.

The bureau says:

"For the girl who is not hardy enough or inclined to buck long-standing prejudices, the bureau suggests one of the well-established occupations for women.

"There are scores in which the trail blazing has been done. For instance: There is home economics, teaching, library work, and nursing, in each of which women make up more than 75 per cent of all employed persons.

"Slightly newer are the occupations of medical laboratory technician, dental hygienist, physical and occupational therapist, doctors' and dentists' assistants.

"In these also women account for more than three-fourths of the employed."

What of the girl who wants to work for a long time? The bureau says:

"In general, she will take more of a chance if she chooses a rapidly changing field rather than one of the older, more established ones.

"The demand for stewardesses, designers, interior decorators, or radio continuity writers, for example, is less predictable than that for teachers, nurses, social service, or office workers."

Right there the bureau adds:

"This fact probably would not stop the girl who has made up her mind, but it may influence the one who is trying to decide."

Suppose a girl can't afford a full college education. Of her, the bureau says:

"Lay a foundation that will enable you to branch off earlier, if you must. For example:

"If a girl takes science courses, she ultimately can become a physician, a nurse, a pharmacist.

"However, she can stop earlier and become a medical laboratory technician or a chemical analyst."

And—what of the girl who is looking for something new?

If she's looking for something unusual, the bureau suggests she try to do something special in an old field. For example:

A person who wants to teach but hopes for something out of the ordinary, may become a teacher of deaf or blind children.

A secretary with ability in languages may be able to get jobs abroad.

And a librarian may specialize in science and become a top-ranking scientist's assistant.

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.—(AP)—Where are the belly-laughs of yesteryear? Joe E. Brown, as well as millions of laugh-hungry movie patrons, would like to know.

The lack of comedy on the screen has alarmed many observers, mostly this one. I was happy to find that concern echoed by Joe E. His experience is testimony to the situation.

Joe E., one of America's great comedians, is now playing a movie without comedy. His first picture since "Pin-Up Girl" in 1944 is called "The Tender Years," a father and son picture. I found him made up as a 19th century minister.

"Don't get me wrong," he cautioned. "I'm not the kind of comedian that yearns to play serious roles. It's just that good comedies aren't being made. I've had dozen of chances to appear in cheap ones, but I gave that up five years ago."

Big-hearted Joe, who spends all but the summer months cavorting with an imaginary six-foot rabbit in "Harvey" on the stage, said he believes the theater should be for entertainment.

"I would much rather make people laugh than cry. Laughter is the greatest tonic I know. I like to go to theaters where my old pictures are showing, just to hear the audience laugh."

The comic said there are chuckles in today's pictures, but no belly-laughs, the deep, hearty guffaws that drown out the dialogue.

"The trouble with Hollywood is artiness," he explained. "People think if they make an arty picture it gives them prestige. As a result, comedy is overlooked and the screen is crowded with problem dramas.

"Movie goers have enough problems of their own. Why should they go to a theater to watch the problems of a character who doesn't exist?"

Joe cited another problem—the supply of comedians. With vaudeville deceased lo these many years, the old comics are getting older and the new ones fewer.

"Vaudeville and burlesque are the perfect training for a comedian," he added. "He needs plenty of practice to develop his timing. Many of the new comedians are flashes in the pan. They have one or two routines and that is all." Of the younger funnymen, Joe named Red Skelton, Danny Thomas and Peter Lind Hayes as promising.

FRANKLIN CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

State's Leading Cotton Producing Parish Is Satisfied With Outlook

WINNSBORO, July 26.—(Special)—Franklin's hopes for retaining its title as the champion cotton-growing parish were brightened today by an optimistic statement by J. A. Luno, agriculture agent, who said crop prospects are good in both the uplands and bottoms in spite of unseasonable dry weather. Although growth has been somewhat retarded, the stalks are heavily fruited in proportion to their height.

Franklin ginned 21,827 bales in 1946, which was 3,558 more than the 18,269 bales produced by second-place Caddo parish.

Grape Colospis and bollworm have caused slight damages in some parts of the parish, but this is being controlled by poisoning.

Weevil and lice infestation are very light so far, however, the migration period, if it follows the trend of the past few years, should start now. Growers are advised to watch their crops closely and use poison if there are any signs of weevil.

Mr. Luno said the corn crop, especially the late corn, has suffered for water. There are some spots in the parish where a high rate of nitrogen fertilizer was used that have exceptionally good corn.

The hay crop, especially lespedeza, will be light, due to the dry period in the growth stage of the crop, and the pastures have suffered due to the dry weather.

Cattle owners have been urged to put up all the ruffage before the frost comes so that they will have sufficient feed for their livestock this winter. They were also advised to plant oats early in September for winter grazing.

The Singletary pea crop for the parish as a whole had a high yield this year. Mr. Luno estimated there were 390 tons produced and that 265 tons of this amount were sold and will be shipped out of the state. The remaining 125 tons were retained by the Franklin parish farmers to be planted for winter grazing, seed plots, and soil building crops.

SICILY ISLAND MAY GET PHONE EXCHANGE

SICILY ISLAND, July 26.—(Special)—Prospects for better telephone service in Sicily Island appeared brighter this week as Keith Moore, president of the community's Rotary club, announced that Southern Bell company will solicit residents for telephone service during the week of Aug. 4.

Lonnie Clark, district manager of the company, wrote Moore that representatives would take applications for service and consider improvement of present facilities or the establishment of a central office in Sicily Island.

The telephone company official wrote in reply to a resolution recently passed by the Rotary club asking that better service be afforded.

Telephones now in operation in Sicily Island are connected to the Natchez, Miss., switchboard and toll charges are placed o. local calls. The club decried the poor service obtained when calls were made to such nearby towns as Wisner, through switchboards of towns much farther away.

Sicily Island Rotarians said they could find a building for a switchboard if the company would set up an exchange.

BUILDING PERMITS

Lonnie Smith to erect a one-story-frame building to be used as a cabin, located at 922 Marx street. The total cost will not exceed $150 and the owner will do the building.

DOOLITTLE ASKS FULL AIR POWER

Hero Of Tokyo Bombing Declares For This Protection

Lieutenant General James H. Doolittle, vice-president of the Shell Union Oil Company at New York, who led the first bombing attack on Toyko in April 1942, and later commanded the eighth air force in Europe, urges continued awareness of the need for air power in an Air Force Day statement.

Air Force Day will be celebrated on August 1, 40th anniversary of the army air forces.

General Doolittle's statement follows:

"Two years ago this nation had the mightiest military striking force in the world. Its crushing strength lay chiefly in a modern weapon—air power.

"For those who did not see our air forces in action, or the results of that action, it may be difficult to evaluate properly the significance of American air superiority in the recent conflict with Germany and Japan—what it meant in terms of victory or defeat. But to those who know the true meaning and effectiveness of air power, it is clear that the future peace and security of the United States depends to a large degree upon the maintenance of American air strength and the continuous exploration of new air frontiers.

"This year, all airmen will observe Air Force Day not only as a memorial to past deeds and the heroic dead, but as a sought-for opportunity to remind Americans everywhere that we are in an air age where events move far too fast for nineteenth century thinking.

"It is my hope that Air Force Day will become a symbol of American progress and that it will serve to keep our people aware of the need for air power if we are to retain our freedom and our greatness."

THE NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—So you're a girl going to college and you're trying to decide what kind of work or life you want when you get out.

For puzzled girl collegians, the women's bureau of the labor department has cooked up some answers. They don't pretend to be all the answers.

But in the department's monthly bulletin, the bureau says:

"Don't try to choose between marriage and a career. But prepare for both home and job.

"You may think you'll never be a working woman, but plans have been upset before. It may be the same with yours."

The bureau warns the going will be tough for the girl who wants to go into one of the so-called men's professions, like medicine, law, engineering.

Such a girl, the bureau says, will need courage, initiative, patience and more-than-average ability.

Why? To break down the prejudices still met by women who want to go into those professions, prejudices against women.

Women are less than 5 per cent of all doctors, lawyers, engineers, dentists, architects, draftsmen, pharmacists, and certified public accountants.

The bureau says:

"For the girl who is not hardy enough or inclined to buck long-standing prejudices, the bureau suggests one of the well-established occupations for women.

"There are scores in which the trail blazing has been done. For instance: There is home economics, teaching, library work, and nursing, in each of which women make up more than 75 per cent of all employed persons.

"Slightly newer are the occupations of medical laboratory technician, dental hygienist, physical and occupational therapist, doctors' and dentists' assistants.

"In these also women account for more than three-fourths of the employed."

What of the girl who wants to work for a long time? The bureau says:

"In general, she will take more of a chance if she chooses a rapidly changing field rather than one of the older, more established ones.

"The demand for stewardesses, designers, interior decorators, or radio continuity writers, for example, is less predictable than that for teachers, nurses, social service, or office workers."

Right there the bureau adds:

"This fact probably would not stop the girl who has made up her mind, but it may influence the one who is trying to decide."

Suppose a girl can't afford a full college education. Of her, the bureau says:

"Lay a foundation that will enable you to branch off earlier, if you must. For example:

"If a girl takes science courses, she ultimately can become a physician, a nurse, a pharmacist.

"However, she can stop earlier and become a medical laboratory technician or a chemical analyst."

And—what of the girl who is looking for something new?

If she's looking for something unusual, the bureau suggests she try to do something special in an old field. For example:

A person who wants to teach but hopes for something out of the ordinary, may become a teacher of deaf or blind children.

A secretary with ability in languages may be able to get jobs abroad.

And a librarian may specialize in science and become a top-ranking scientist's assistant.

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.—(AP)—Where are the belly-laughs of yesteryear? Joe E. Brown, as well as millions of laugh-hungry movie patrons, would like to know.

The lack of comedy on the screen has alarmed many observers, mostly this one. I was happy to find that concern echoed by Joe E. His experience is testimony to the situation.

Joe E., one of America's great comedians, is now playing a movie without comedy. His first picture since "Pin-Up Girl" in 1944 is called "The Tender Years," a father and son picture. I found him made up as a 19th century minister.

"Don't get me wrong," he cautioned. "I'm not the kind of comedian that yearns to play serious roles. It's just that good comedies aren't being made. I've had dozen of chances to appear in cheap ones, but I gave that up five years ago."

Big-hearted Joe, who spends all but the summer months cavorting with an imaginary six-foot rabbit in "Harvey" on the stage, said he believes the theater should be for entertainment.

"I would much rather make people laugh than cry. Laughter is the greatest tonic I know. I like to go to theaters where my old pictures are showing, just to hear the audience laugh."

The comic said there are chuckles in today's pictures, but no belly-laughs, the deep, hearty guffaws that drown out the dialogue.

"The trouble with Hollywood is artiness," he explained. "People think if they make an arty picture it gives them prestige. As a result, comedy is overlooked and the screen is crowded with problem dramas.

"Movie goers have enough problems of their own. Why should they go to a theater to watch the problems of a character who doesn't exist?"

Joe cited another problem—the supply of comedians. With vaudeville deceased lo these many years, the old comics are getting older and the new ones fewer.

"Vaudeville and burlesque are the perfect training for a comedian," he added. "He needs plenty of practice to develop his timing. Many of the new comedians are flashes in the pan. They have one or two routines and that is all." Of the younger funnymen, Joe named Red Skelton, Danny Thomas and Peter Lind Hayes as promising.

Congratulations, Mr. Masur

We offer our heartiest congratulations to Mr. Sig Masur, his two sons and other associates upon the completion of an elaborate remodeling project which has made The Palace one of the finest stores of its kind in the South. The "new" Palace is a distinct credit to our city and offers further evidence of the progressiveness of its management.

Open house will be held tomorrow from 12 noon to 8 p. m. and the public is invited to inspect the beautiful new installations. The event also marks the 45th anniversary of this firm which has been a leader in merchandising and service since its founding.

The Palace has kept pace with the times and has provided modern shopping facilities the best in merchandise, a service which is unsurpassed, distinctive styles and intelligent management, all because of the unbounded faith which Mr. Masur had in the future of Monroe and the area which The Palace serves. From its humble beginning 45 years ago to its present magnitude he has never swerved from the principles he believed were essential to the integration of a private business with the interests of the community. In this connection, Mr. Masur said :

"It will be well to reexamine the policies then and in the light of the past years of experience, to see to what extent they have been born out.

"First the ideal of service. We try to operate this store as a public enterprise similar to a utility or cooperative endeavor of any kind. No business has the right to regard itself as apart from the interests of the community supporting it. We are convinced that the primary duty of any private business is to recognize and fulfill the needs of the people to whom it opens its doors.

"This we believe entails a fundemental responsibility—a responsibility to protect customers from inferior goods, from exorbitant prices, and exploitative practices, a responsibility to provide the best that could be obtained as cheaply as possible. There is no distinction between the welfare of a business and that of the public."

The steady growth of this institution from its early days to its present position of leadership and prominence in its field is proof positive of the soundness of these policies which Mr. Masur laid down at the beginning and has steadfastly maintained during the 45 years of The Palace's existence.

The record of the past is an assurance that The Palace will continue to grow with the community and continue to be one of the outstanding assets of our city.

AMERICAN PESSIMISM

There is a pessimistic trend of thought in America today that is wholly out of keeping with this nation's position as the richest and most powerful in the world's history.

Too many people are fidgeting with their fears that the country will be laid low either by inflation or deflation. Others are panicky with alarm over the prospect that the radicals are going to wipe out the rich and the middle classes, putting everybody into the controlled proletariat. The nation's economic system is on its last legs and maybe everyone will be blown to smithereens by the atomic bomb before any of these tragedies come to pass.

Citizens of other leading powers in the world's history have always been confident and proud. Why Americans aren't today is something of a mystery. Probably some of the explanation is a mass psychology of despair which slops over into America from the really distressed regions.

There is no fundamental weakness in this country. Americans worry about the soundness of the dollar and yet it is the only unit of currency in the world anybody really wants. Millions in Europe and Asia want to get out and settle in the newer parts of the world, particularly North America. So well provisioned are Americans that even a severe economic depression would not lower them to the living standards of England, France, Germany, Italy or Russia.

Here has been evolved a system which distributes more goods to more people than any ever devised. Its trend is toward a better distribution of those goods—toward a higher standard of living for all. We should be extremely proud of our American citizenship and confident of our future. The pessimism of Americans does not make sense.

A MADNESS

Keeping in mind the fact that the world is not now winning an assured peace, America's military leaders have outlined a program to keep abreast of the most modern trends of warfare. Outstanding in this program is the guided missile, a long range rocket flying 5,000 miles in less than two hours without a crew. It will have an atomic warhead of indescribably destructive force.

The experts say this can be prefected by 1952. It is understood that the leading aviation manufacturers are deep in research. Military leaders want a quarter of a billion dollars a year to develop it. If international relations further deteriorate, Congress will probably be in a mood to grant it.

It is clear that America, with bases in Alaska, Greenland and elsewhere could, with a 5,000-mile bomb, cover any potentially troublesome nation. Visualized is a chain of radar stations around the Alaaskaa-Canaadian-Greenland part of the Arctic Circle to detect similar attacks upon America.

Already a radio controlled jet plane of 1,500 miles per hour with a range of 3,000 miles is imminent. The gigantic rocket, larger than any modern bomber, would be the ultimate development. These would cost a million dollars apiece and would, of course, destroy themselves after one flight.

There is a madness about this whole thing which must impress upon the mind of humankind or it will go on to some ghastly fulfillment, carrying attacker and defender down to the depths of degradation.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.—Director Vincent Minelli says Judy Garland's illness is the reason he's moved out of their home to share quarters with Composer Ira Gershwin. Hmmm . . . I wonder? . . . Joan Leslie and James Craig, locationing in Canada, received painful but not serious injuries when a wagon in which they were riding turned turtle. . . . Today's gasp: The report that Lita Gray Chaplin will altar-trek with 22-year-old Daniel Arnold, chum of her son, Charlie Chaplin, Jr. . . . Mickey Rooney has booked hospital space for a tonsilectomy.

Bette Davis, (who usually has her way) wants Gregory Peck as her co-star in her next film, a love story. . . . Ha! Warner Brothers, the studio that fired Van Johnson in 1940, is now offering MGM $250,000 for him on a one-picture deal! . . . On the comeback trail: Edmund Lowe, assigned a top supporting role in Gary Cooper's next, "Good Sam." . . . After 16 years enthusiastic shopping for antique furniture, Loretta Young is putting her prizes in storage—and building a modernistic house! . . . Time out for Philip Dorn, bitten by a small shark while angling at Santa Monica. . . . Clark Gable, bored with pictures, is negotiating for a New York play.

The real reason for Sonja Henie's current visit to Norway is her desire to clear herself with her countrymen, who were told she failed to aid Norway during the war. Sonja did plenty here. . . . Pals of Producer William (Jimmy's brother) Cagney, recently divorced by Boots Mallory, say his next helpmate will probably be Mary Blanchard, a real eye-opener. . . . Wot'sis about the Robert Prestons rifting?

Preview Nights: Pic of an above-par week: Paramount's "Variety Girl" (All-star). All of Paramount's big-name players contribute to a crazy quilt opus that makes little sense, but lots of laughs. . . . Recommended: RKO's "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" (Danny Kaye-Virginia Mayo-Boris Karloff). Danny hurles another screw ball across the screen for a perfect strike. . . . United Artists' "Lured" (George Sanders-Lucille Ball-Sir Cedric Hardwicke-Charles Coburn). A whodunit that guarantees plenty of mid-summer chills. . . . Columbia's "Her Husband's Affairs" (Franchot Tone-Lucille Ball-Edward Everett Horton). A "tour de farce" that will set theater turnstiles whirling wherever people like to laugh. . . . Good: Universal-International's "Slave Girl" (Yvonne de Carlo-George Brent). Clever satire, good for a host of tongue-in-the-cheek chuckles. . . . Best Performance: Lucille Ball in "Her Husband's Affairs."

I never cease to be amazed by the extravagant exchange of gifts that usually marks the completion of a picture. Stars sometimes give their producers, directors, cameramen and fellow-players such lavish presents as automobiles and fur coats. For example, when Linda Darnell finished her stint in "Forever Amber," she spent Allah-only-knows how many thousand dollars on diamond and sapphire rings, jewel-studded money clips and solid gold cigaret cases, then passed them out to the entire troupe. I admire Miss Darnell's generosity, but I can't help thinking how little such exorbitant gifts mean to high-salaried movie-makers—and how much that same money would mean to some home for orphans or crippled children.

I'm told that a spokesman for the Producers' Association has been busy telephoning magazine and newspaper editors to ask them to squelch the "Hollywood angle" in stories about the Bugsy Siegel murder case. Now that's what I call locking the gate after the horses are out. Much more to the point, it seems to me, would be a few ultimatums from the Producers' Association to Hollywood notables who value their reputations and the reputation of the picture business lightly enough to openly associate with characters like the late, unlamented gangster.

According to an MGM insider, that studio's decision to "shelve" its planned production of "Robinson Crusoe" was based on the fear of certain executives that the public wouldn't accept a picture so lacking in "romance." I'm amazed on two counts. In the first place, it seems almost incredible that anyone could doubt the public's willingness to accept a picture based on a story that has been a best-seller for some 300 years. In the second place, I'm baffled by MGM's implied fidelity to Defoe's plot. It's most unusual; the average producer, unhesitatingly, would have changed Crusoe's man Friday to a gal and hired Hedy Lamarr to play the role.

To hand is a publicity item informing me that Gregory Peck, unrecognized in an old pair of overalls, was ordered by a studio construction boss to help move a pile of lumber. Somebody should remind the press agent who wrote that one that no workman in Hollywood is ever allowed to touch any job without showing his union card.

IN WASHINGTON

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Republican political leaders would probably be the last to admit it, but the record of the congressional session just ended shows the G. O. P. has a New Deal all its own.

The Democratic New Deal that was born and died with Roosevelt developed some very specific objectives. In simplest terms they were to raise the standard of living for the one-third of the population supposed to be ill-paid, ill-fed and ill-housed. All this came to be identified as a "pro-labor" program, though it was more than that. It was a social welfare program for all low-income groups.

When the voters in 1946 kicked out the liberal majorities in Congress, the conservatives of both parties took it as a mandate to substitute a social reform program of their own making.

This program has not yet been carried out in full. It will take another session of Congress to do that. But its broad outlines emerged in the 1947 Congress. It does not quite repeal the Democratic New Deal, but it changes it beyond recognition.

Social Security Shift

These seem to be its main points:

The social security system has been frozen as is until 1950, both as to deductions and benefits. The law called for its expansion.

For the unorganized poor the Republicans propose a health program to be financed by federal tax money grants-in-aid to the states. Local health offices would then have the responsibility of paying hospital and doctor bills for people who could not afford to pay their own.

This same procedure of giving authority to the states is proposed in the Republican aid to education program. What this trend implies is that the Republican party is becoming the champion of states' rights.

While Republican Senator Taft, in collaboration with Democratic Senators Wagner and Ellender, is sponsoring a long-range federal housing program, the rank-and-file of the conservative congressmen have shown no inclination to go along. As matters stand now, there is ample evidence that a majority in Congress would favor liquidation of all federal housing activities, returning the problem to private industry and local governments.

Passage of the Wolcott bill, easing government controls on rents and housing, was a definite move to aid landlords and the building industry at the expense of the home owner and renter.

Strange G. O. P. Turnabout

In three fields, the Republicans take leadership over the traditionally more liberal Democrats. These are in G. O. P. proposals to put through an anti-poll tax bill, write a national anti-lynch law and create a permanent fair employment practices commission. But again, no action till next year. Proposals to increase minimum wage standards to 60 or 75 cents an hour, first advanced by Democrats, now have Republican backing.

It is too early yet to tell what the effects of the conservative labor reform program will be. Union leaders are predicting calamity, but the showdown is eight or ten months away.

The complete conservative tax program has still to be written. As revealed by the vetoed Knutson tax revision bill, it would have reduced taxes more for the well-to-do than for the lower income groups, percentage-wise as well as dollar-wise. On the long range tax program, Republican sentiment now seems to be more for reducing income taxes and increasing excise taxes. There is strong likelihood of a federal sales tax emerging. Again, a greater proportionate burden would be borne by low-income groups.

Summing up, the Republican formula seems to be one of seeking continued prosperity by making conditions favorable for business leadership.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: Proverbs 1:8-9; 6:20; 23; 17:6; 19:18; 22:22-26

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Bible is a text-book not only of individual salvation, but also of family religion.

When the Philippian jailer (Acts 16), terror-stricken lest his prisoners should have escaped, but reassured by the voice of Paul, cried "What must I do to be saved?" Paul replied, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." Other references in the New Testament are to the salvation of a whole household.

But family religion had deep roots in the Old Testament, and in the Jewish literature were many precepts, giving wise counsel to parents, and setting forth the duties of children, thus establishing with clearness the conditions of family welfare and a happy home-life.

Some of the choicest of these precepts constitute our lesson. It ought to be noted how strongly they stress the law and commandments. "My son, keep thy father's commandment, and forsake not the law of thy mother." There must be standards of right, and a sense of responsibility, if there are to be sound relationships and happiness in the home.

The acceptance of parenthood without an adequate sense of responsibility is the root of a great deal of home breakdown and tragedy today. A first essential of a good home is good parents. What can be expected of children, if their parents do not set them a good example? Moreover, precept and teaching are not enough, for children will soon detect insincerity, and the worst of all counsel we could give to our children would be to say, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say."

"Train up a child in the way he should go," is the Bible's injunction to parents, with the assurance that when he is old he will not depart from it. Alas! That assurance is not always justified, for many influences are upon the child, as well as those of the home, and too often they break down and destroy what the home has sought to do. But without proper training a child has little chance at all, so that exceptions in reality do not nullify the law that good training brings good results.

The most acute of our social and religious problems of today are associated with home and family life. With an increasingly large proportion of marriages ending in separation and divorce, we are facing ominous times. And most of the proposed remedies are doing little to get at the causes.

The principal cause of the breakdown is the lack of regard for law and commandments—the failure to observe the rules of what is the most important game of life.

Neither President Truman nor Republican leaders of Congress want a special session of Congress this fall to act upon the Marshall plan, but there is still a good chance that Congress will have to be recalled.

Top state department officials feel that if the western European nations reach an agreement on the plan in September, which now seems a likelihood, it would be dangerous to wait until January for Congress to approve it and provide the necessary funds. Such a delay, they declare, is exactly what Russia wants and would play directly into Stalin's hands.

Difficulty with a special session is that there is no actual way to limit what might be done. While the president can specify the reasons for the session and leaders can agree to restrict the session to legislation on the Marshall program, they cannot keep individual committee chairmen from calling their committees together, or members from talking about any subject they desire.

Actually, there is so much unfinished business on the congressional calendar which leaders are planning to take up next year that if a special session were called, it is likely that the leadership would use any spare moments to get some of it out of the way. Next year is election year and when early summer comes, it will be extremely difficult to keep the representatives and the third of the senators who face re-election in Washington. During the war, they were able to tell their constituents that they could not actively campaign at home because the emergency demanded their presence in the capital. It is not likely that they will be able to use that excuse so effectively next year.

Germany still owes American citizens more than $103,000,000 for World War I claims, nearly 29 years after the end of the war.

German nationals have received from the United States $409,000,000 for World War I claims.

American nationals have received only $162,806,199 on their claims.

Representative Daniel A. Reed, Republican, New York, revealed these figures in supporting his bill to change priorities for payments, from what is left of German World War I assets still held by this country. Reed's bill would give American nationals priority.

They hold 451 unpaid awards made by the mixed claims commission after World War I.

Of the more than $400,000,000 in German property seized by the alien property custodian in World War I, only about $10,000,000 still remains in the Alien Property Trust Fund in the United States treasury, Reed said. In addition, he reported, there is between $200,000 and $250,000 in a German special deposit fund, which at one time totaled $207,388,818.

Reed recalled that Germany defaulted on her payments to the United States in 1931.

Three years later a congressional resolution barred surrender to Germany of the remaining security held by the United States.

Reed's bill would use the remaining funds to pay Americans first, so far as they will go.

This week the diaper service industry is meeting in Washington to see what it can do about a number of important problems.

Yes, the word is "diaper." Members of the National Institute of Diaper Services assembled here yesterday for the meeting.

"Among the various points planned for discussion," and we are quoting from a statement issued by the N. I. D. (for diaper) S., "is the part which diaper services can play in helping to bring about world-wide peace and to alleviate the suffering abroad which is the aftermath of the war."

The diaper shortage that prevailed during the war has been licked. Now the N. I. D. S. is looking ahead. It has promised to reveal to the world a "revolutionary diaper fold * * * that may outdate all other folds now used." Evidently the traditional diaper triangle is not as eternal as some persons have thought.

Another topic that the diaper service men are taking up is the possibility of obtaining "proper recognition for expectant fathers to lift them from the undeserved caste of the forgotten man." A lot of us have been laboring under the mistaken notion, apparently, that most anyone could recognize an expectant father. Whether they can do it "properly" may be another matter.

Diaper service operators from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, New York, Alabama, Michigan and Georgia are at the conference.

OUR CHILDREN

OPEN LETTER

To the high school senior who wrote the anonymous note protesting an article of mine that cautioned young people of high school age about the use of the family car, I would like to say a few words. Not only to him but to his group as well:

You are a high school senior, 18 years old, yet you did not read the article in question correctly. You got only the words. The implications of those words quite escaped you. You could not interpret the words you read, and that means that much of your book work profits you little, if any. To learn from a text you must be able to read it intelligently, interpreting its meaning.

I was more concerned about the quality of your note than about its content. You found it difficult to write a simple sentence grammatically. You spelled common words incorrectly. You did not punctuate your note passably. Your penmanship was careless although you showed traces of good form.

You wrote your note in lead pencil on a sheet of yellow copy paper. That is bad manners. There was no reason why you could not have taken a sheet of note paper and used a pen to express your disapproval of my ideas. Your disapproval does not trouble me. I knew you disapproved my ideas before I sent them out to the press. But to think you could go through elementary school, high school and be ready to be graduated without having learned the rudiments of reading and writing your own language does trouble me. How did you manage it?

It is plain that you are more interested in driving a car, making "dates," than you are in getting a sound education. That is serious for you and for us who center our hopes for a country, governed by disciplined informed men and women, on you and your group.

There are years and years ahead of you for making dates, but the years of your learning power are limited. Very soon now you must go out and shoulder your responsibility for a family, your responsibility as a citizen. You are going to be no stronger than your mind permits. It will be your mind that decides your place in society, high or low. An enriched mind, a disciplined character, will carry you far. But an impoverished mind, starved for the finer things of life, will take you no place worthwhile.

I am not hurt by your disagreement but your lack of understanding of the opportunities your school offers you, by your evident refusal to be taught. I hate to see fine young people wasting themselves.

Yours, A. P.

Pitching Horseshoes

Clifford Wharton took off his glov and rolled them up with his tools the tarpaulin on which he had mixe cement. Before he let himself out the abandoned ice-house, he satisfied himself with his pocket flash there was no evidence he had been there —much less that he had bricked up the corpse of his wife.

Wharton drove straight home, stopping only for a moment on the bridge which connected the residential section of Harley and the dirty flatlands on whic the old shell of the icehouse stoo Making sure the bridge was deserte he dropped the weighted tarpaul into the river below.

When he got home, he felt hungr He went into the kitchen and snapp on the lights. Under the sink the were empty soda bottles. Cake crumb on the table. A half-filled glass stale milk on the window sill.

Minna had always run a slopp kitchen. During most of the eleve years of their married life, she ha been too busy with the committe for this and the committee again that to bother with domestic chore When she wasn't selling raffle ticke to collect money to build somethin she was getting petitions signed tear something down.

Before their marriage, Wharton ha been intrigued by Minna's organizin ability. That, and her fairly conside able annual income Minna had looke like a short cut to the beautifully ru home and expensive creature con forts this poor taxonomist had alway coveted. The monies he earned writin articles on the classification of plan were hardly enough to pay for suc fancies as imported Dutch candi and custom-made shoes. And so h had permitted himself to be acquire by Minna, much as she had acquire the chairmanship of the Civic Im provement League, and the presiden of the local women's Republican Clu

After three months of marriag Clifford admitted to himself that h was revolted by his wife. The beaut fully run home he had supposed h vigor would produce turned out to b a nightmare of empty tuna-fish can stockings hanging in the bathroo and the ceaseless jangling of Minna telephone.

For eleven years they lived separa lives in the same house. Then or evening Clifford Wharton came hom and found Minna had contributed h favorite custom-made shoes to bundles-for-something cause. Tha night he decided to kill her.

His neat mind considered the prob lem of murder with the same ni precision it might have brought the business of mixing a salad dres ing. The problem divided itself in two sections: (A) how to explai Minna's absence, (B) how to dispo of her body.

His wife solved problem (A) th next morning. She told him she wa going to Los Angeles the followin week to inspect a settlement hous for underprivileged children. Proble (B) he solved for himself when h remembered the long-abandoned ic house.

At dinner, the evening of Minna departure for California, Clifford in troduced into her coffee several grain of a tasteless plant poison. His wif complained of drowsiness while h was putting her luggage into the ca By the time he switched off his head lights outside the icehouse, Minn was dead.

Gloves, trowel, tarpaulin and brick were waiting for him where he ha placed them the day before. An hou later, Minna and her bags were bui into one of the clammy walls.

During the next two weeks, mem bers of the Civic Improvement Leagu who phoned the Wharotn house wer informed: Minna had caught cold o the way to California. The cold ha developed into pneumonia. Penicilli hadn't helped. Clifford was going t California to be at her bedside.

The Hartley Journal received an printed Clifford's wire from Lo Angeles that Minna had died an been cremated.

When Clifford returned to Hartle a week later, Minna's aunt, sister an niece were at the station. Clifford received their condolences with quie dignity. He idly wondered what par of their sorrow was sincere, and wha part was inspired by their hope h might be generous with the substantia fortune Minna had left him. He sai he preferred to be alone that evening Minna's relatives were properly un derstanding.

When he got home, he noted with satisfaction that, as per his instruc tions, the house had been tidied up His bed was neatly turned down and the evening paper was waiting for him on his night table.

He undressed, got into bed, sighed happily, and opened the Hartley Journal. A small item on page one cought his eye. It read as follows:

"Workmen today began the removal of an ancient eyesore from the Hartley scene. At the request of the Civic Improvement League, the Mayor ordered the razing of the abandoned icehouse across the river. This brought to a conclusion the campaign initiated some years ago by the late Mrs. Clifford Wharton."

Clifford was half dressed when he heard heavy footsteps on the porch and the insistent ringing of the doorbell.

Congratulations, Mr. Masur

We offer our heartiest congratulations to Mr. Sig Masur, his two sons and other associates upon the completion of an elaborate remodeling project which has made The Palace one of the finest stores of its kind in the South. The "new" Palace is a distinct credit to our city and offers further evidence of the progressiveness of its management.

Open house will be held tomorrow from 12 noon to 8 p. m. and the public is invited to inspect the beautiful new installations. The event also marks the 45th anniversary of this firm which has been a leader in merchandising and service since its founding.

The Palace has kept pace with the times and has provided modern shopping facilities the best in merchandise, a service which is unsurpassed, distinctive styles and intelligent management, all because of the unbounded faith which Mr. Masur had in the future of Monroe and the area which The Palace serves. From its humble beginning 45 years ago to its present magnitude he has never swerved from the principles he believed were essential to the integration of a private business with the interests of the community. In this connection, Mr. Masur said :

"It will be well to reexamine the policies then and in the light of the past years of experience, to see to what extent they have been born out.

"First the ideal of service. We try to operate this store as a public enterprise similar to a utility or cooperative endeavor of any kind. No business has the right to regard itself as apart from the interests of the community supporting it. We are convinced that the primary duty of any private business is to recognize and fulfill the needs of the people to whom it opens its doors.

"This we believe entails a fundemental responsibility—a responsibility to protect customers from inferior goods, from exorbitant prices, and exploitative practices, a responsibility to provide the best that could be obtained as cheaply as possible. There is no distinction between the welfare of a business and that of the public."

The steady growth of this institution from its early days to its present position of leadership and prominence in its field is proof positive of the soundness of these policies which Mr. Masur laid down at the beginning and has steadfastly maintained during the 45 years of The Palace's existence.

The record of the past is an assurance that The Palace will continue to grow with the community and continue to be one of the outstanding assets of our city.

AMERICAN PESSIMISM

There is a pessimistic trend of thought in America today that is wholly out of keeping with this nation's position as the richest and most powerful in the world's history.

Too many people are fidgeting with their fears that the country will be laid low either by inflation or deflation. Others are panicky with alarm over the prospect that the radicals are going to wipe out the rich and the middle classes, putting everybody into the controlled proletariat. The nation's economic system is on its last legs and maybe everyone will be blown to smithereens by the atomic bomb before any of these tragedies come to pass.

Citizens of other leading powers in the world's history have always been confident and proud. Why Americans aren't today is something of a mystery. Probably some of the explanation is a mass psychology of despair which slops over into America from the really distressed regions.

There is no fundamental weakness in this country. Americans worry about the soundness of the dollar and yet it is the only unit of currency in the world anybody really wants. Millions in Europe and Asia want to get out and settle in the newer parts of the world, particularly North America. So well provisioned are Americans that even a severe economic depression would not lower them to the living standards of England, France, Germany, Italy or Russia.

Here has been evolved a system which distributes more goods to more people than any ever devised. Its trend is toward a better distribution of those goods—toward a higher standard of living for all. We should be extremely proud of our American citizenship and confident of our future. The pessimism of Americans does not make sense.

A MADNESS

Keeping in mind the fact that the world is not now winning an assured peace, America's military leaders have outlined a program to keep abreast of the most modern trends of warfare. Outstanding in this program is the guided missile, a long range rocket flying 5,000 miles in less than two hours without a crew. It will have an atomic warhead of indescribably destructive force.

The experts say this can be prefected by 1952. It is understood that the leading aviation manufacturers are deep in research. Military leaders want a quarter of a billion dollars a year to develop it. If international relations further deteriorate, Congress will probably be in a mood to grant it.

It is clear that America, with bases in Alaska, Greenland and elsewhere could, with a 5,000-mile bomb, cover any potentially troublesome nation. Visualized is a chain of radar stations around the Alaaskaa-Canaadian-Greenland part of the Arctic Circle to detect similar attacks upon America.

Already a radio controlled jet plane of 1,500 miles per hour with a range of 3,000 miles is imminent. The gigantic rocket, larger than any modern bomber, would be the ultimate development. These would cost a million dollars apiece and would, of course, destroy themselves after one flight.

There is a madness about this whole thing which must impress upon the mind of humankind or it will go on to some ghastly fulfillment, carrying attacker and defender down to the depths of degradation.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.—Director Vincent Minelli says Judy Garland's illness is the reason he's moved out of their home to share quarters with Composer Ira Gershwin. Hmmm . . . I wonder? . . . Joan Leslie and James Craig, locationing in Canada, received painful but not serious injuries when a wagon in which they were riding turned turtle. . . . Today's gasp: The report that Lita Gray Chaplin will altar-trek with 22-year-old Daniel Arnold, chum of her son, Charlie Chaplin, Jr. . . . Mickey Rooney has booked hospital space for a tonsilectomy.

Bette Davis, (who usually has her way) wants Gregory Peck as her co-star in her next film, a love story. . . . Ha! Warner Brothers, the studio that fired Van Johnson in 1940, is now offering MGM $250,000 for him on a one-picture deal! . . . On the comeback trail: Edmund Lowe, assigned a top supporting role in Gary Cooper's next, "Good Sam." . . . After 16 years enthusiastic shopping for antique furniture, Loretta Young is putting her prizes in storage—and building a modernistic house! . . . Time out for Philip Dorn, bitten by a small shark while angling at Santa Monica. . . . Clark Gable, bored with pictures, is negotiating for a New York play.

The real reason for Sonja Henie's current visit to Norway is her desire to clear herself with her countrymen, who were told she failed to aid Norway during the war. Sonja did plenty here. . . . Pals of Producer William (Jimmy's brother) Cagney, recently divorced by Boots Mallory, say his next helpmate will probably be Mary Blanchard, a real eye-opener. . . . Wot'sis about the Robert Prestons rifting?

Preview Nights: Pic of an above-par week: Paramount's "Variety Girl" (All-star). All of Paramount's big-name players contribute to a crazy quilt opus that makes little sense, but lots of laughs. . . . Recommended: RKO's "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" (Danny Kaye-Virginia Mayo-Boris Karloff). Danny hurles another screw ball across the screen for a perfect strike. . . . United Artists' "Lured" (George Sanders-Lucille Ball-Sir Cedric Hardwicke-Charles Coburn). A whodunit that guarantees plenty of mid-summer chills. . . . Columbia's "Her Husband's Affairs" (Franchot Tone-Lucille Ball-Edward Everett Horton). A "tour de farce" that will set theater turnstiles whirling wherever people like to laugh. . . . Good: Universal-International's "Slave Girl" (Yvonne de Carlo-George Brent). Clever satire, good for a host of tongue-in-the-cheek chuckles. . . . Best Performance: Lucille Ball in "Her Husband's Affairs."

I never cease to be amazed by the extravagant exchange of gifts that usually marks the completion of a picture. Stars sometimes give their producers, directors, cameramen and fellow-players such lavish presents as automobiles and fur coats. For example, when Linda Darnell finished her stint in "Forever Amber," she spent Allah-only-knows how many thousand dollars on diamond and sapphire rings, jewel-studded money clips and solid gold cigaret cases, then passed them out to the entire troupe. I admire Miss Darnell's generosity, but I can't help thinking how little such exorbitant gifts mean to high-salaried movie-makers—and how much that same money would mean to some home for orphans or crippled children.

I'm told that a spokesman for the Producers' Association has been busy telephoning magazine and newspaper editors to ask them to squelch the "Hollywood angle" in stories about the Bugsy Siegel murder case. Now that's what I call locking the gate after the horses are out. Much more to the point, it seems to me, would be a few ultimatums from the Producers' Association to Hollywood notables who value their reputations and the reputation of the picture business lightly enough to openly associate with characters like the late, unlamented gangster.

According to an MGM insider, that studio's decision to "shelve" its planned production of "Robinson Crusoe" was based on the fear of certain executives that the public wouldn't accept a picture so lacking in "romance." I'm amazed on two counts. In the first place, it seems almost incredible that anyone could doubt the public's willingness to accept a picture based on a story that has been a best-seller for some 300 years. In the second place, I'm baffled by MGM's implied fidelity to Defoe's plot. It's most unusual; the average producer, unhesitatingly, would have changed Crusoe's man Friday to a gal and hired Hedy Lamarr to play the role.

To hand is a publicity item informing me that Gregory Peck, unrecognized in an old pair of overalls, was ordered by a studio construction boss to help move a pile of lumber. Somebody should remind the press agent who wrote that one that no workman in Hollywood is ever allowed to touch any job without showing his union card.

IN WASHINGTON

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Republican political leaders would probably be the last to admit it, but the record of the congressional session just ended shows the G. O. P. has a New Deal all its own.

The Democratic New Deal that was born and died with Roosevelt developed some very specific objectives. In simplest terms they were to raise the standard of living for the one-third of the population supposed to be ill-paid, ill-fed and ill-housed. All this came to be identified as a "pro-labor" program, though it was more than that. It was a social welfare program for all low-income groups.

When the voters in 1946 kicked out the liberal majorities in Congress, the conservatives of both parties took it as a mandate to substitute a social reform program of their own making.

This program has not yet been carried out in full. It will take another session of Congress to do that. But its broad outlines emerged in the 1947 Congress. It does not quite repeal the Democratic New Deal, but it changes it beyond recognition.

Social Security Shift

These seem to be its main points:

The social security system has been frozen as is until 1950, both as to deductions and benefits. The law called for its expansion.

For the unorganized poor the Republicans propose a health program to be financed by federal tax money grants-in-aid to the states. Local health offices would then have the responsibility of paying hospital and doctor bills for people who could not afford to pay their own.

This same procedure of giving authority to the states is proposed in the Republican aid to education program. What this trend implies is that the Republican party is becoming the champion of states' rights.

While Republican Senator Taft, in collaboration with Democratic Senators Wagner and Ellender, is sponsoring a long-range federal housing program, the rank-and-file of the conservative congressmen have shown no inclination to go along. As matters stand now, there is ample evidence that a majority in Congress would favor liquidation of all federal housing activities, returning the problem to private industry and local governments.

Passage of the Wolcott bill, easing government controls on rents and housing, was a definite move to aid landlords and the building industry at the expense of the home owner and renter.

Strange G. O. P. Turnabout

In three fields, the Republicans take leadership over the traditionally more liberal Democrats. These are in G. O. P. proposals to put through an anti-poll tax bill, write a national anti-lynch law and create a permanent fair employment practices commission. But again, no action till next year. Proposals to increase minimum wage standards to 60 or 75 cents an hour, first advanced by Democrats, now have Republican backing.

It is too early yet to tell what the effects of the conservative labor reform program will be. Union leaders are predicting calamity, but the showdown is eight or ten months away.

The complete conservative tax program has still to be written. As revealed by the vetoed Knutson tax revision bill, it would have reduced taxes more for the well-to-do than for the lower income groups, percentage-wise as well as dollar-wise. On the long range tax program, Republican sentiment now seems to be more for reducing income taxes and increasing excise taxes. There is strong likelihood of a federal sales tax emerging. Again, a greater proportionate burden would be borne by low-income groups.

Summing up, the Republican formula seems to be one of seeking continued prosperity by making conditions favorable for business leadership.

"IN WASHINGTON"

By Bascom N. Timmons

By Bascom N. Timmons

Neither President Truman nor Republican leaders of Congress want a special session of Congress this fall to act upon the Marshall plan, but there is still a good chance that Congress will have to be recalled.

Top state department officials feel that if the western European nations reach an agreement on the plan in September, which now seems a likelihood, it would be dangerous to wait until January for Congress to approve it and provide the necessary funds. Such a delay, they declare, is exactly what Russia wants and would play directly into Stalin's hands.

Difficulty with a special session is that there is no actual way to limit what might be done. While the president can specify the reasons for the session and leaders can agree to restrict the session to legislation on the Marshall program, they cannot keep individual committee chairmen from calling their committees together, or members from talking about any subject they desire.

Actually, there is so much unfinished business on the congressional calendar which leaders are planning to take up next year that if a special session were called, it is likely that the leadership would use any spare moments to get some of it out of the way. Next year is election year and when early summer comes, it will be extremely difficult to keep the representatives and the third of the senators who face re-election in Washington. During the war, they were able to tell their constituents that they could not actively campaign at home because the emergency demanded their presence in the capital. It is not likely that they will be able to use that excuse so effectively next year.

Germany still owes American citizens more than $103,000,000 for World War I claims, nearly 29 years after the end of the war.

German nationals have received from the United States $409,000,000 for World War I claims.

American nationals have received only $162,806,199 on their claims.

Representative Daniel A. Reed, Republican, New York, revealed these figures in supporting his bill to change priorities for payments, from what is left of German World War I assets still held by this country. Reed's bill would give American nationals priority.

They hold 451 unpaid awards made by the mixed claims commission after World War I.

Of the more than $400,000,000 in German property seized by the alien property custodian in World War I, only about $10,000,000 still remains in the Alien Property Trust Fund in the United States treasury, Reed said. In addition, he reported, there is between $200,000 and $250,000 in a German special deposit fund, which at one time totaled $207,388,818.

Reed recalled that Germany defaulted on her payments to the United States in 1931.

Three years later a congressional resolution barred surrender to Germany of the remaining security held by the United States.

Reed's bill would use the remaining funds to pay Americans first, so far as they will go.

This week the diaper service industry is meeting in Washington to see what it can do about a number of important problems.

Yes, the word is "diaper." Members of the National Institute of Diaper Services assembled here yesterday for the meeting.

"Among the various points planned for discussion," and we are quoting from a statement issued by the N. I. D. (for diaper) S., "is the part which diaper services can play in helping to bring about world-wide peace and to alleviate the suffering abroad which is the aftermath of the war."

The diaper shortage that prevailed during the war has been licked. Now the N. I. D. S. is looking ahead. It has promised to reveal to the world a "revolutionary diaper fold * * * that may outdate all other folds now used." Evidently the traditional diaper triangle is not as eternal as some persons have thought.

Another topic that the diaper service men are taking up is the possibility of obtaining "proper recognition for expectant fathers to lift them from the undeserved caste of the forgotten man." A lot of us have been laboring under the mistaken notion, apparently, that most anyone could recognize an expectant father. Whether they can do it "properly" may be another matter.

Diaper service operators from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, New York, Alabama, Michigan and Georgia are at the conference.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: Proverbs 1:8-9; 6:20; 23; 17:6; 19:18; 22:22-26

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Bible is a text-book not only of individual salvation, but also of family religion.

When the Philippian jailer (Acts 16), terror-stricken lest his prisoners should have escaped, but reassured by the voice of Paul, cried "What must I do to be saved?" Paul replied, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." Other references in the New Testament are to the salvation of a whole household.

But family religion had deep roots in the Old Testament, and in the Jewish literature were many precepts, giving wise counsel to parents, and setting forth the duties of children, thus establishing with clearness the conditions of family welfare and a happy home-life.

Some of the choicest of these precepts constitute our lesson. It ought to be noted how strongly they stress the law and commandments. "My son, keep thy father's commandment, and forsake not the law of thy mother." There must be standards of right, and a sense of responsibility, if there are to be sound relationships and happiness in the home.

The acceptance of parenthood without an adequate sense of responsibility is the root of a great deal of home breakdown and tragedy today. A first essential of a good home is good parents. What can be expected of children, if their parents do not set them a good example? Moreover, precept and teaching are not enough, for children will soon detect insincerity, and the worst of all counsel we could give to our children would be to say, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say."

"Train up a child in the way he should go," is the Bible's injunction to parents, with the assurance that when he is old he will not depart from it. Alas! That assurance is not always justified, for many influences are upon the child, as well as those of the home, and too often they break down and destroy what the home has sought to do. But without proper training a child has little chance at all, so that exceptions in reality do not nullify the law that good training brings good results.

The most acute of our social and religious problems of today are associated with home and family life. With an increasingly large proportion of marriages ending in separation and divorce, we are facing ominous times. And most of the proposed remedies are doing little to get at the causes.

The principal cause of the breakdown is the lack of regard for law and commandments—the failure to observe the rules of what is the most important game of life.

OUR CHILDREN

To the high school senior who wrote the anonymous note protesting an article of mine that cautioned young people of high school age about the use of the family car, I would like to say a few words. Not only to him but to his group as well:

You are a high school senior, 18 years old, yet you did not read the article in question correctly. You got only the words. The implications of those words quite escaped you. You could not interpret the words you read, and that means that much of your book work profits you little, if any. To learn from a text you must be able to read it intelligently, interpreting its meaning.

I was more concerned about the quality of your note than about its content. You found it difficult to write a simple sentence grammatically. You spelled common words incorrectly. You did not punctuate your note passably. Your penmanship was careless although you showed traces of good form.

You wrote your note in lead pencil on a sheet of yellow copy paper. That is bad manners. There was no reason why you could not have taken a sheet of note paper and used a pen to express your disapproval of my ideas. Your disapproval does not trouble me. I knew you disapproved my ideas before I sent them out to the press. But to think you could go through elementary school, high school and be ready to be graduated without having learned the rudiments of reading and writing your own language does trouble me. How did you manage it?

It is plain that you are more interested in driving a car, making "dates," than you are in getting a sound education. That is serious for you and for us who center our hopes for a country, governed by disciplined informed men and women, on you and your group.

There are years and years ahead of you for making dates, but the years of your learning power are limited. Very soon now you must go out and shoulder your responsibility for a family, your responsibility as a citizen. You are going to be no stronger than your mind permits. It will be your mind that decides your place in society, high or low. An enriched mind, a disciplined character, will carry you far. But an impoverished mind, starved for the finer things of life, will take you no place worthwhile.

I am not hurt by your disagreement but your lack of understanding of the opportunities your school offers you, by your evident refusal to be taught. I hate to see fine young people wasting themselves.

Yours, A. P.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

Clifford Wharton took off his gloves and rolled them up with his tools in the tarpaulin on which he had mixed cement. Before he let himself out of the abandoned icehouse, he satisfied himself with his pocket flash there was no evidence he had been there—much less that he had bricked up the corpse of his wife.

Wharton drove straight home, stopping only for a moment on the bridge which connected the residential section of Hartley and the dirty flatlands on which the old shell of the icehouse stood. Making sure the bridge was deserted, he dropped the weighted tarpaulin into the river below.

When he got home, he felt hungry. He went into the kitchen and snappel on the lights. Under the sink there were empty soda bottles. Cake crumbs on the table. A half-filled glass of stale milk on the window sill.

Minna had always run a sloppy kitchen. During most of the eleven years of their married life, she had been too busy with the committee for this and the committee against that to bother with domestic chores. When she wasn't selling raffle tickets to collect money to build something, she was getting petitions signed to tear something down.

Before their marriage, Wharton had been intrigued by Minna's organizing ability. That, and her fairly considerable annual income Minna had looked like a short cut to the beautifully run home and expensive creature comforts this poor taxonomist had always coveted. The monies he earned writing articles on the classification of plants were hardly enough to pay for such fancies as imported Dutch candies and custom-made shoes. And so he had permitted himself to be acquired by Minna, much as she had acquired the chairmanship of the Civic Improvement League, and the presidency of the local women's Republican Club.

After three months of marriage, Clifford admitted to himself that he was revolted by his wife. The beautifully run home he had supposed her vigor would produce turned out to be a nightmare of empty tuna-fish cans, stockings hanging in the bathroom and the ceaseless jangling of Minna's telephone.

For eleven years they lived separate lives in the same house. Then one evening Clifford Wharton came home and found Minna had contributed his favorite custom-made shoes to a bundles-for-something cause. That night he decided to kill her.

His neat mind considered the problem of murder with the same nice precision it might have brought to the business of mixing a salad dressing. The problem divided itself into two sections: (A) how to explain Minna's absence, (B) how to dispose of her body.

His wife solved problem (A) the next morning. She told him she was going to Los Angeles the following week to inspect a settlement house for underprivileged children. Problem (B) he solved for himself when he remembered the long-abandoned icehouse.

At dinner, the evening of Minna's departure for California, Clifford introduced into her coffee several grains of a tasteless plant poison. His wife complained of drowsiness while he was putting her luggage into the car. By the time he switched off his headlights outside the icehouse, Minna was dead.

Gloves, trowel, tarpaulin and bricks were waiting for him where he had placed them the day before. An hour later, Minna and her bags were built into one of the clammy walls.

During the next two weeks, members of the Civic Improvement League who phoned the Wharotn house were informed: Minna had caught cold on the way to California. The cold had developed into pneumonia. Penicillin hadn't helped. Clifford was going to California to be at her bedside.

The Hartley Journal received and printed Clifford's wire from Los Angeles that Minna had died and been cremated.

When Clifford returned to Hartley a week later, Minna's aunt, sister and niece were at the station. Clifford received their condolences with quiet dignity. He idly wondered what part of their sorrow was sincere, and what part was inspired by their hope he might be generous with the substantial forutne Minna had left him. He said he preferred to be alone that evening. Minna's relatives were properly understanding.

When he got home, he noted with satisfaction that, as per his instructions, the house had been tidied up. His bed was neatly turned down and the evening paper was waiting for him on his night table.

He undressed, got into bed, sighed happily, and opened the Hartley Journal. A small item on page one cought his eye. It read as follows:

"Workmen today began the removal of an ancient eyesore from the Hartley scene. At the request of the Civic Improvement League, the Mayor ordered the razing of the abandoned icehouse across the river. This brought to a conclusion the campaign initiated some years ago by the late Mrs. Clifford Wharton."

Clifford was half dressed when he heard heavy footsteps on the porch and the insistent ringing of the doorbell.

AUXILIARY MEETS ON NEXT MONDAY

Walter S. Savage, Jr., Post No. 57 Auxiliary will hold a regular meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the ecreation center on Catalpa street.

All members are urged to attend and to bring as many of their favorite recipes as possible as plans are being formulated to compile a Louisiana cookbook.

RULING FAVORS TEXAS COMPANY

Court Keeps Board From Enforcing Order Against Polluting Coastal Waters

SHREVEPORT, La., July 26.—(AP)—A three-judge federal court today continued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the state stream Control Commission from enforcing its order to The Texas Company to cease polluting coastal waters.

The temporary order was continued in effect as the three-judge panel adjourned its hearing of the case in which The Texas Company seeks a preliminary injunction against Commissioner Luther Montgomery of the state Department of Wildlife and Fisheries and other state officials.

The court took The Texas Company's plea under advisement and gave the state officials one week to file a brief. The Texas Company was given an additional week to answer.

The suit attacks the constitutionality of Act 367 of 1940 which creates the stream control commission. The company contends that the state act violates the 14th amendment to the United States Constitution.

Besides Montgomery others named in the suit are:

Dr. W. L. Treuting, president of the state Board of Health; Commissioner Harry D. Wilson of the state Department of Agriculture and Immigration; D. Y Smith, director of the Department of Commerce and Industry, Attorney General Fred S. LeBlanc, and James Brown, John H. O'Neill, Ernest A. Eppes, Jr., Henry R. Bodemuller, and J. Clyde Pearce, the last five being named as members of the Stream Control Commission.

A battery of attorneys for The Texas Company, flanked by a stack of affidavits offered by both sides, appeared at the hearing.

R. C. Milling of New Orleans, chief counsel for The Texas Company, criticized the method by which the Stream Control Commission had issued its order of last December, which prohibited the company from discharging material into coastal waters.

Milling declared that the commission's order covered 16 oil-producing parishes in South Louisiana, but omitted Calcasieu parish, a leading field. He said such action constituted a violation of the "equal rights" provision as laid down in the 14th amendment to the U. S Constitution.

Interested observers in the court room included attorneys for several other oil companies affected in the coastal area. Also present as an observer was Robert U. Blum of New Orleans, who with Charles J. Rivet of New Orleans and Harvey Pelitier of Thibodaux represent some 100 fishermen in the parishes of Jefferson, Plaquemines, LaFourche and Terrebonne in damage suits against oil companies.

The hearing was held before Judges Elmo P. Lee of the First Circuit Court of Appeals and District Judges Ben C. Dawkins and Gaston L. Porterie.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—During the Civil War a man in Missouri loaned a horse and wagon to the Union army.

He now has finally decided the government ought to give him back the horse and wagon or else pay him for them.

He is one of thousands of American citiezns who have a direct interest in room 345 of the House office building, which is known as "the department of human misery."

This is where a majority of the bills originate to grant relief to people who feel they have a financial claim against the United States.

Most go through Walter R. Lee of Jackson, Miss., clerk of the House judiciary committee's subcommittee on claims.

"And it looks now like every human being wants something from the government," he said.

Unfortunately, it is pretty hard to get money from the government. And it's getting more difficult.

"So most people put in a claim for about twice what they really expect to get," said Lee.

Before the reorganization bill was signed last August Congress used to have to handle 3,000 or more bills each session from people wanting the government to pay them for things like army trucks running into their cars on curves or tanks ruining their tomato crops during maneuvers.

Now most of these personal injury and damage cases are supposed to go to the federal district courts for settlement if they date from Jan. 1, 1945.

But there are still from 1,000 to 2,000 private claims cluttering up the congressional calendar and distracting the attention of statesmen from major legislation.

Just as a working principle the House judiciary committee automatically rules out all claims prior to 1932 unless they are brought up for consideration by a two-thirds vote. This means the elderly citizen from Missouri will probably never get his Civil War horse back unless he can locate the man who borrowed it and settle the issue with him beard to beard.

Despite the congressional "streamlining" bill of last year, however, there are still some 33 classes of private claims that go to Congress instead of the federal courts.

They include cases as diverse as the relief of widows of F. B. I. agents killed in the line of duty, to the reimbursement of a man for a camera he checked with Capitol police—who lost it.

All these private claim bills—one was for $32 a North Dakota farmer wanted back for filling out the wrong (and for him, more expensive) income tax blank—have to pass the House, Senate, and White House, just like a major appropriation bill.

"Some of the requests are just plain frivolous," said Lee, whose figures show that only one out of every three private claim bills are finally paid. It takes an average of nine months for such a bill to go through the legislative mill.

Still outstanding are some ten thousand claims totaling two million dollars from the disastrous ammunition ship explosions at Port Chicago, Calif., on July 17, 1944.

CHANGES IN TECH BUSINESS STAFF

McFarland To Retire, Dean Made Manager; New Purchasing Agent

RUSTON, July 26.—(Special)—A. McFarland, business manager and purchasing agent at Louisiana Tech for the last 10 years, will retire on August 16, President Claybrook Cottingham has announced.

Burton R. Risinger, dean of the School of Business Administration and Economics at Louisiana Tech, will assume the duties of business manager and Arthur C. Thigpen of Ruston has been employed as purchasing agent.

Dean Risinger was purchasing agent and assistant to the dean of College of Commerce at Louisiana State university before coming to Tech as dean in the fall of 1945. He will have general supervision of the business office, including administration of civil service affairs at the college. Mr. Risinger will continue to serve as dean of the business school here.

The new purchasing agent, Mr. Thigpen, who will occupy Mr. McFarland's office, graduated from the School of Engineering at Louisiana Tech in 1943. After serving in the Pacific during the war, he returned to Tech and at the end of the summer session on July 31 will receive his second degree from the college, a degree in business administration. Dean Risinger highly commended Mr. Thigpen's ability as a student in the business school.

Mr. McFarland came to Tech as business manager in 1937, after having served for 23 years as superintendent of schools in Pointe Coupee parish. He attended Louisiana State Normal college, now Northwestern State College, and received the B. A. degree from Louisiana State university.

FLOOD CONTROL FUNDS SLASHED

Joint Committee Slashes $33,000,000 From Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—A $507,000,000 appropriation for flood control hydroelectric, navigation and other non-military activities of the war department emerged today from a Senate-House conference committee.

This is $33,000,000 lower than a fund voted by the Senate, but $167,000,000 above the sum approved by the House.

The bill, covering the fiscal year ending next June 30, went to the committee after the Senate passed a $542,000,000 bill Thursday night despite a Republican demand for a deep slash.

The conferees hurried their report to the House hoping for final passage there and in the Senate before the scheduled adjournment tonight.

While the committee trimmed funds for some projects in the Senate bill, the great bulk remained unchanged, among them works involving hydroelectric development as well as flood control, navigation and related water utilization.

A breakdown of a total water project appropriation of $419,000,000 allows $302,000,000 for flood control and $117,000,000 for navigation construction, maintenance and planning. A $50,000,000 fund for the lower Mississippi valley remained unchanged by the conferees.

Among projects and amounts in the bill as approved by the conferees.

(*Indicates project appropriations cut by conferees):

Flood control:

Arkansas: Blakely Mountain reservoir, $2,000,000; Bull Shoals reservoir, $6,700,000; Cardens Bottoms Levee District No. 2, $300,000; Conway County Districts Nos. 1, 2 and 8, $400,000; Crawford County Levee District, $400,000 Little Rock to Pine Bluff, $500,000; McLean Bottom Levee District No. 3, $652,000; *Narrows reservoir, $2,000,000; near Dardanelle, $221,500; *Red River below Denisom Dam, Okla., Tex., Ark., and La., $2,500,000; Roland drainage district, $150,000; Van Buren, $210,000.

Louisiana: Bayou Bodcau, Red Chute and Loggy Bayou, $86,500 Bayou Bodcau reservoir, $00,000; Bayou Pierre in vicinity of Shreveport, $129,000; Shreveport, $1,000,000.

Rivers and harbors:

Louisiana: Calcasieu Piver and Pass, $550,000; Gulf intracoastal waterway between Apalachee Bay and the Mexican border (New Orleans district), $1,800,000; Empire to Gulf of Mexico, waterway, $250,000.

SETTLEMENT SOUGHT IN HIGGINS STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—The U. S. labor conciliation service today offered its services in an effort to settle the strike at the two plants of Higgins, Inc., but no date was set for resumption of negotiations on a contract.

D. R. Hunt, labor department representative, said the offer of the conciliation service's facilities was accepted by Thomas V. Flynn, national representative of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers (C. I. O.)

Higgins officials were not immediately available for comment.

Meanwhile a 27-year-old striker was arrested in the first police action since the strike of the 2,000 workers at the industrial canal and Michaud plants began.

The worker was arrested on charges of interfering with the police when he allegedly urged pickets to continue sitting after police had told them they must either walk the picket line or leave the plant front.

REVIVALIST

REV. D. D. CANTRELL

Who will open an eight-day revival today at the McClendon Baptist church, of which he is pastor.

M'CLENDON CHURCH HOLDING REVIVAL

McClendon Baptist Church, old Natchitoches road, West Monroe, will initiate eight days of revival starting today with services each day at 10 a. m. and 7:40 p. m. There will be a children's service at 7 p. m.

The preacher will be the pastor, Rev. D. D. Cantrell, who for more than 20 years has led in organizing and building churches; has ordained six preachers and scores of deacons, baptised hundreds in the churches. He was himself trained in Louisiana College and in the New Orleans Seminary.

People of the community are urged to attend these services.

J. I. Kees, of Pollock, La., an outstanding Baptist layman leader will have charge of the music. Miss Irene Jones will be assistant pianist. She is an accomplished musician. The pastor's daughter, Mrs. M. H. Batten, of Shreveport, will take charge of the work with the children each evening at 7 o'clock.

Mackenize's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

President Truman's new special envoy, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, has got into action on his old stamping grounds in China to carry out a act-finding mission which is calculated to provide Washington with material for an overhauling of its policy of assistance for this important but war-battered member of the Big Five.

Without waiting to hear from the general we know that he is finding this vast nation in far worse condition politically, economically and militarily than he ever has seen it before. Untold millions of its half-billion people are hungry unto death. Inflation is fantastic and the economy of the country is wrecked. The Nationalist government at Nanking is trying to ride a whirlwind.

The civil war is producing widespread and bloody fighting. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's fresh offensive to try to deliver a knockout blow to the Red armies finds the Communists not only holding their own but on the initiative generally, with Manchuria and great reaches of northern China largely in their hands. And Nanking says that the Chinese Reds are receiving aid from the Russians.

As one surveys this chaos, and the elements which are contributing to it, there would seem to be only one way out for Chiang Kai-Shek and his government, and it is this:

1. To fling enough military force against the Communist armies to cripple them and hold them down, and then,

2. To do a thorough job of housecleaning in the Nanking government, and inaugurate sweeping reforms attractive enough to win back that portion of the Chinese population which has forsaken Nanking to chase Communistic rainbows.

Of these two essentials, the first obviously presents an obstacle which may be unsurmountable. The financing of an all-out war by Chiang's armies against the Chinese Communists would run into countless billions of dollars, a sum which would stagger the imagination of the only nation in the world capable of producing it—the United States. Not only would there be the huge military expenditures, but meantime the economic machine of the country would have to be kept running full tilt.

Such an operation might easily last for years and the outcome would be problematical, for there are intangibles involved. The most important of these is whether Nanking has the right information in saying that Moscow is backing the Chinese Reds. If Russia is giving such assistance, the situation looks grim indeed.

There is a school which holds that the Chinese Communists aren't the same brand as the Russians—That the celestials are just discontented Agrarians. As a matter of fact General Chou En-Lai, one of the top Chinese Communists, told me in 1943 at Chungking that there was no connection between Moscow and Chinese Communism. However, there are many observers who think otherwise, and they don't overlook the fact that the late Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the Chinese republic, called in several Russian Communists as advisers and that the formation of a Communist party resulted. It doesn't take much imagination to believe that Chinese Communism and Russian Communism aren't far apart.

In any event, our Uncle Sam certainly will be faced with a mountainous decision if General Wedemeyer ultimately should report that the two conditions set forth above must be met if Chimahis to be saved from Communism and put on her feet.

A device for measuring returning sensitivity to skin areas whose nerve supply has been cut by war injuries or accidents has recently been patented.

JAIL MISSOURI FUGITIVE HERE

Women Companions On Auto Tour Of South Also Held For Investigation

The Monroe state police post was informed by telegraph Saturday that Byron Edward Apple, 35, of Little Rock, Ark., who was taken into custody with two young women in an automobile on U. S. 80, six miles west of West Monroe early Friday morning, is wanted at Jefferson City, Mo., as a parole violator.

Also held in parish prison here are his two companions, Jaquatta Elam, 25, of Memphis, Tenn., and Louise (Rickie) Brown, 23, of Pine Bluff, Ark., who were said to have accompanied him on a motor tour of the south. The three were to be questioned by federal authorities relative to possible white slave act charges.

Among the 12 other arrests made by members of Troop F during the week were six on charges of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor. The defendants were Amos Anderson, 32, of Crowville; W. G. Maxwell, 35, of Quaker Courts, Monroe; Bernard Semmes, 22, of Monroe; William Horn, 42, of West Monroe; Clarence Fuller, 36, Negro, of West Monroe, route 1, and Woodrow Mason, 28, Negro, of Center, Texas.

Arrested on less serious charges were Benny Broadway, 35, of Rayville, operating a wagon without lights; Alfred Wages, Jr., 21, of Bawcomville, improper lights; Willie Lee Johnson, 19, Negro, of Center, Texas, drunk and disturbing the peace; Henry Howard, Jr., 26, Negro, of Lake Providence, reckless driving and inadequate brakes; Jimmie Jenkins, 36, Negro, of Mer Rouge, improper lights, and Albert Kennedy, 35, Negro, of Rayville, operating a wagon without lights.

SCHOOL BUDGET FOR 1948 SET

State To Spend $31,031,280 For Education; Appropriations Boosted

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Louisiana school budget for 1947-48 will total $31,031,280, John E. Coxe, state superintendent of education, announced today.

The sum is divided between $23,273-385 to be distributed to schools of the state on a per educable basis and $7,757,280 to be distributed on a equalization basis, the superintendent reported.

With 644,171 educables in Louisiana, as of January 1, Coxe said that the per educable distribution would be on the basis of $36.13 per child throughout the state.

The per educable fund includes three-fourths of the increases of $5,000,000 and $7,500,000 in the state public school fund which were provided by the regular 1946 and special 1947 of the legislature.

The equalization fund includes the remainder of the increases appropriated. The boosts in appropriations were made to permit increased salaries for teachers in the state's public schools.

"I feel confident that every parish superintendent and board member in the state may be counted upon to do his utmost in bringing about the improvements that will be possible as result of the increased state appropriation from the extraordinary session of the legislature," Coxe declared.

The state's school population, set at 644,171, showed increases of white students from 381,008 to 396,534 and of Negro students from 233,034 to 247,537 during the past year.

SENATORS TO PROBE 'VOICE OF AMERICA'

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—The Senate today passed a resolution to investigate the state department's cultural program, including the "Voice of America" broadcasts, apparently dooming for this session the Mundt bill to authorize the activities.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, who has tried several times to get Senate action on the Mundt bill, told a reporter he would continue the fight next year. He said results of the investigation could be helpful in giving Congress more information.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, in blocking motions to take up the Mundt bill by unanimous consent, argued that funds have already been provided for the program for the fiscal year which began July 1. He noted that there was an agreement not to challenge the spending of this money.

The inquiry resolution, which went to the House, would provide $50,000 for a ten-member committee to be made up of three Republicans and two Democrats from each branch of Congress.

The resolution was sponsored by Senator H. Alexander Smith, Republican, New Jersey. It would direct the congressional committee to make a full study of the foreign information program of the state department or any other government agency.

DR. TO BE TRIED FOR SLAYING 4

San Antonio Physician Accused Of Murdering 4 Members Of Family

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., July 26.—(AP)—Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, 42, prominent San Antonio physician, goes on trial here Monday on charges of murder in the deaths of four members of a well-known San Antonio family, ambushed May 25 on a lonely country road while on their way to church.

Killed instantly were Willard H. York, 36, San Antonio investment company head; his wife, Mrs. Gertrude O. York, 43; their son John, 19; and York's mother, Mrs. Mary York, 67.

Only members of the family to escape was 13-year-old Ann, who, although wounded in the hip, fled to notify the caretaker of the York Comal county ranch of the shooting.

Four hours later Ross appeared at San Antonio police headquarters, 31 miles away, and told officers that a gun which had been discharged could be found in his car.

He was arrested and charged, and has been held in a third-floor cell of the county jail here since. No bond was permitted. Sheriff W. A. Scholl said he has been a model prisoner, spending much of his time studying medical books.

Officials freely predict difficulty in obtaining a jury here. A change of venue was sought but denied. Failure to get a jury, however, might result in moving the trial elsewhere.

During March of 1947 Ross, family physician for the Yorks and a member of the same church, filed suit against the investment broker charging that York was indebted to him in securities, stocks and bonds amounting to $80,279.

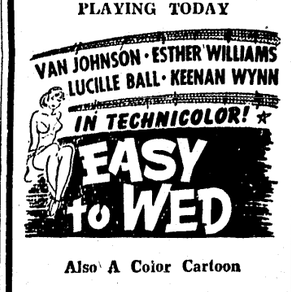

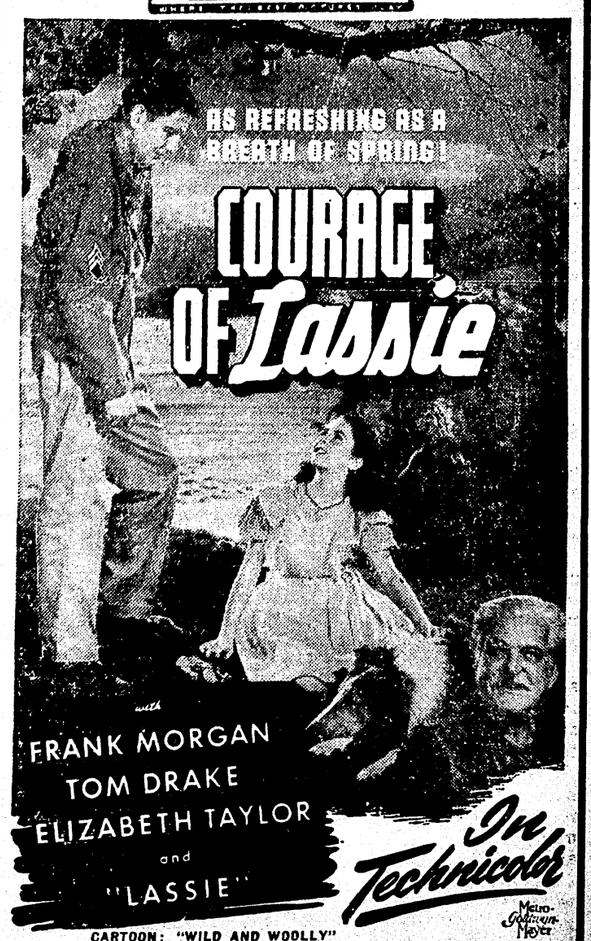

York, charged by the Securities and Exchange Commission with violations of the securities exchange act of 1934, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in the federal clerk's office at San Antonio March 24, 1947.

Ross, a native of Del Roy, Ohio, who took his undergraduate work at Mt. Union College in Ohio, and graduated from Harvard Medical College, moved to San Antonio 12 years ago after his interneship at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City. He said he had known York since 1935 or 1936. He is married and has a daughter.

York came from Scranton, Pa., where he operated a printing shop about 20 years ago.

Court Keeps Board From Enforcing Order Against Polluting Coastal Waters

SHREVEPORT, La., July 26.—(AP)—A three-judge federal court today continued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the state stream Control Commission from enforcing its order to The Texas Company to cease polluting coastal waters.

The temporary order was continued in effect as the three-judge panel adjourned its hearing of the case in which The Texas Company seeks a preliminary injunction against Commissioner Luther Montgomery of the state Department of Wildlife and Fisheries and other state officials.

The court took The Texas Company's plea under advisement and gave the state officials one week to file a brief. The Texas Company was given an additional week to answer.

The suit attacks the constitutionality of Act 367 of 1940 which creates the stream control commission. The company contends that the state act violates the 14th amendment to the United States Constitution.

Besides Montgomery others named in the suit are:

Dr. W. L. Treuting, president of the state Board of Health; Commissioner Harry D. Wilson of the state Department of Agriculture and Immigration; D. Y Smith, director of the Department of Commerce and Industry, Attorney General Fred S. LeBlanc, and James Brown, John H. O'Neill, Ernest A. Eppes, Jr., Henry R. Bodemuller, and J. Clyde Pearce, the last five being named as members of the Stream Control Commission.

A battery of attorneys for The Texas Company, flanked by a stack of affidavits offered by both sides, appeared at the hearing.

R. C. Milling of New Orleans, chief counsel for The Texas Company, criticized the method by which the Stream Control Commission had issued its order of last December, which prohibited the company from discharging material into coastal waters.

Milling declared that the commission's order covered 16 oil-producing parishes in South Louisiana, but omitted Calcasieu parish, a leading field. He said such action constituted a violation of the "equal rights" provision as laid down in the 14th amendment to the U. S Constitution.

Interested observers in the court room included attorneys for several other oil companies affected in the coastal area. Also present as an observer was Robert U. Blum of New Orleans, who with Charles J. Rivet of New Orleans and Harvey Pelitier of Thibodaux represent some 100 fishermen in the parishes of Jefferson, Plaquemines, LaFourche and Terrebonne in damage suits against oil companies.

The hearing was held before Judges Elmo P. Lee of the First Circuit Court of Appeals and District Judges Ben C. Dawkins and Gaston L. Porterie.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—During the Civil War a man in Missouri loaned a horse and wagon to the Union army.

He now has finally decided the government ought to give him back the horse and wagon or else pay him for them.

He is one of thousands of American citiezns who have a direct interest in room 345 of the House office building, which is known as "the department of human misery."

This is where a majority of the bills originate to grant relief to people who feel they have a financial claim against the United States.

Most go through Walter R. Lee of Jackson, Miss., clerk of the House judiciary committee's subcommittee on claims.

"And it looks now like every human being wants something from the government," he said.

Unfortunately, it is pretty hard to get money from the government. And it's getting more difficult.

"So most people put in a claim for about twice what they really expect to get," said Lee.

Before the reorganization bill was signed last August Congress used to have to handle 3,000 or more bills each session from people wanting the government to pay them for things like army trucks running into their cars on curves or tanks ruining their tomato crops during maneuvers.

Now most of these personal injury and damage cases are supposed to go to the federal district courts for settlement if they date from Jan. 1, 1945.

But there are still from 1,000 to 2,000 private claims cluttering up the congressional calendar and distracting the attention of statesmen from major legislation.

Just as a working principle the House judiciary committee automatically rules out all claims prior to 1932 unless they are brought up for consideration by a two-thirds vote. This means the elderly citizen from Missouri will probably never get his Civil War horse back unless he can locate the man who borrowed it and settle the issue with him beard to beard.

Despite the congressional "streamlining" bill of last year, however, there are still some 33 classes of private claims that go to Congress instead of the federal courts.

They include cases as diverse as the relief of widows of F. B. I. agents killed in the line of duty, to the reimbursement of a man for a camera he checked with Capitol police—who lost it.

All these private claim bills—one was for $32 a North Dakota farmer wanted back for filling out the wrong (and for him, more expensive) income tax blank—have to pass the House, Senate, and White House, just like a major appropriation bill.

"Some of the requests are just plain frivolous," said Lee, whose figures show that only one out of every three private claim bills are finally paid. It takes an average of nine months for such a bill to go through the legislative mill.

Still outstanding are some ten thousand claims totaling two million dollars from the disastrous ammunition ship explosions at Port Chicago, Calif., on July 17, 1944.

CHANGES IN TECH BUSINESS STAFF

McFarland To Retire, Dean Made Manager; New Purchasing Agent

RUSTON, July 26.—(Special)—A. McFarland, business manager and purchasing agent at Louisiana Tech for the last 10 years, will retire on August 16, President Claybrook Cottingham has announced.

Burton R. Risinger, dean of the School of Business Administration and Economics at Louisiana Tech, will assume the duties of business manager and Arthur C. Thigpen of Ruston has been employed as purchasing agent.

Dean Risinger was purchasing agent and assistant to the dean of College of Commerce at Louisiana State university before coming to Tech as dean in the fall of 1945. He will have general supervision of the business office, including administration of civil service affairs at the college. Mr. Risinger will continue to serve as dean of the business school here.

The new purchasing agent, Mr. Thigpen, who will occupy Mr. McFarland's office, graduated from the School of Engineering at Louisiana Tech in 1943. After serving in the Pacific during the war, he returned to Tech and at the end of the summer session on July 31 will receive his second degree from the college, a degree in business administration. Dean Risinger highly commended Mr. Thigpen's ability as a student in the business school.

Mr. McFarland came to Tech as business manager in 1937, after having served for 23 years as superintendent of schools in Pointe Coupee parish. He attended Louisiana State Normal college, now Northwestern State College, and received the B. A. degree from Louisiana State university.

FLOOD CONTROL FUNDS SLASHED

Joint Committee Slashes $33,000,000 From Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—A $507,000,000 appropriation for flood control hydroelectric, navigation and other non-military activities of the war department emerged today from a Senate-House conference committee.

This is $33,000,000 lower than a fund voted by the Senate, but $167,000,000 above the sum approved by the House.

The bill, covering the fiscal year ending next June 30, went to the committee after the Senate passed a $542,000,000 bill Thursday night despite a Republican demand for a deep slash.

The conferees hurried their report to the House hoping for final passage there and in the Senate before the scheduled adjournment tonight.

While the committee trimmed funds for some projects in the Senate bill, the great bulk remained unchanged, among them works involving hydroelectric development as well as flood control, navigation and related water utilization.

A breakdown of a total water project appropriation of $419,000,000 allows $302,000,000 for flood control and $117,000,000 for navigation construction, maintenance and planning. A $50,000,000 fund for the lower Mississippi valley remained unchanged by the conferees.

Among projects and amounts in the bill as approved by the conferees.

(*Indicates project appropriations cut by conferees):

Flood control:

Arkansas: Blakely Mountain reservoir, $2,000,000; Bull Shoals reservoir, $6,700,000; Cardens Bottoms Levee District No. 2, $300,000; Conway County Districts Nos. 1, 2 and 8, $400,000; Crawford County Levee District, $400,000 Little Rock to Pine Bluff, $500,000; McLean Bottom Levee District No. 3, $652,000; *Narrows reservoir, $2,000,000; near Dardanelle, $221,500; *Red River below Denisom Dam, Okla., Tex., Ark., and La., $2,500,000; Roland drainage district, $150,000; Van Buren, $210,000.

Louisiana: Bayou Bodcau, Red Chute and Loggy Bayou, $86,500 Bayou Bodcau reservoir, $00,000; Bayou Pierre in vicinity of Shreveport, $123,000; Shreveport, $1,000,000.

Rivers and harbors:

Louisiana: Calcasieu Piver and Pass, $550,000; Gulf intracoastal waterway between Apalachee Bay and the Mexican border (New Orleans district), $1,800,000; Empire to Gulf of Mexico, waterway, $250,000.

SETTLEMENT SOUGHT IN HIGGINS STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—The U. S. labor conciliation service today offered its services in an effort to settle the strike at the two plants of Higgins, Inc., but no date was set for resumption of negotiations on a contract.

D. R. Hunt, labor department representative, said the offer of the conciliation service's facilities was accepted by Thomas V. Flynn, national representative of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers (C. I. O.)

Higgins officials were not immediately available for comment.

Meanwhile a 27-year-old striker was arrested in the first police action since the strike of the 2,000 workers at the industrial canal and Michaud plants began.

The worker was arrested on charges of interfering with the police when he allegedly urged pickets to continue sitting after police had told them they must either walk the picket line or leave the plant front.

Telegraph wires in East Africa have to be carried on exceptionally high poles owing to the liability of giraffes breaking the cables.

REVIVALIST

REV. D. D. CANTRELL

Who will open an eight-day revival today at the McClendon Baptist church, of which he is pastor.

M'CLENDON CHURCH HOLDING REVIVAL

McClendon Baptist Church, old Natchitoches road, West Monroe, will initiate eight days of revival starting today with services each day at 10 a. m. and 7:40 p. m. There will be a children's service at 7 p. m.

The preacher will be the pastor, Rev. D. D. Cantrell, who for more than 20 years has led in organizing and building churches; has ordained six preachers and scores of deacons, baptised hundreds in the churches. He was himself trained in Louisiana College and in the New Orleans Seminary.

People of the community are urged to attend these services.

J. I. Kees, of Pollock, La., an outstanding Baptist layman leader will have charge of the music. Miss Irene Jones will be assistant pianist. She is an accomplished musician. The pastor's daughter, Mrs. M. H. Batten, of Shreveport, will take charge of the work with the children each evening at 7 o'clock.

Mackenize's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

President Truman's new special envoy, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, has got into action on his old stamping grounds in China to carry out a act-finding mission which is calculated to provide Washington with material for an overhauling of its policy of assistance for this important but war-battered member of the Big Five.

Without waiting to hear from the general we know that he is finding this vast nation in far worse condition politically, economically and militarily than he ever has seen it before. Untold millions of its half-billion people are hungry unto death. Inflation is fantastic and the economy of the country is wrecked. The Nationalist government at Nanking is trying to ride a whirlwind.

The civil war is producing widespread and bloody fighting. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's fresh offensive to try to deliver a knockout blow to the Red armies finds the Communists not only holding their own but on the initiative generally, with Manchuria and great reaches of northern China largely in their hands. And Nanking says that the Chinese Reds are receiving aid from the Russians.

As one surveys this chaos, and the elements which are contributing to it, there would seem to be only one way out for Chiang Kai-Shek and his government, and it is this:

1. To fling enough military force against the Communist armies to cripple them and hold them down, and then

2. To do a thorough job of housecleaning in the Nanking government, and inaugurate sweeping reforms attractive enough to win back that portion of the Chinese population which has forsaken Nanking to chase Communistic rainbows.

Of these two essentials, the first obviously presents an obstacle which may be unsurmountable. The financing of an all-out war by Chiang's armies against the Chinese Communists would run into countless billions of dollars, a sum which would stagger the imagination of the only nation in the world capable of producing it—the United States. Not only would there be the huge military expenditures, but meantime the economic machine of the country would have to be kept running full tilt.

Such an operation might easily last for years and the outcome would be problematical, for there are intangibles involved. The most important of these is whether Nanking has the right information in saying that Moscow is backing the Chinese Reds. If Russia is giving such assistance, the situation looks grim indeed.

There is a school which holds that the Chinese Communists aren't the same brand as the Russians—That the celestials are just discontented Agrarians. As a matter of fact General Chou En-Lai, one of the top Chinese Communists, told me in 1943 at Chungking that there was no connection between Moscow and Chinese Communism. However, there are many observers who think otherwise, and they don't overlook the fact that the late Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the Chinese republic, called in several Russian Communists as advisers and that the formation of a Communist party resulted. It doesn't take much imagination to believe that Chinese Communism and Russian Communism aren't far apart.

In any event, our Uncle Sam certainly will be faced with a mountainous decision if General Wedemeyer ultimately should report that the two conditions set forth above must be met if Chimahis to be saved from Communism and put on her feet.

A device for measuring returning sensitivity to skin areas whose nerve supply has been cut by war injuries or accidents has recently been patented.

JAIL MISSOURI FUGITIVE HERE

Women Companions On Auto Tour Of South Also Held For Investigation

The Monroe state police post was informed by telegraph Saturday that Byron Edward Apple, 35, of Little Rock, Ark., who was taken into custody with two young women in an automobile on U. S. 80, six miles west of West Monroe early Friday morning, is wanted at Jefferson City, Mo., as a parole violator.

Also held in parish prison here are his two companions, Jaquatta Elam, 25, of Memphis, Tenn., and Louise (Rickie) Brown, 23, of Pine Bluff, Ark., who were said to have accompanied him on a motor tour of the south. The three were to be questioned by federal authorities relative to possible white slave act charges.

Among the 12 other arrests made by members of Troop 7 during the week were six on charges of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor. The defendants were Amos Anderson, 32, of Crowville; W. G. Maxwell, 35, of Quaker Courts, Monroe; Bernard Semmes, 22, of Monroe; William Horn, 42, of West Monroe; Clarence Fuller, 36, Negro, of West Monroe, route 1, and Woodrow Mason, 28, Negro, of Center, Texas.

Arrested on less serious charges were Benny Broadway, 35, of Rayville, operating a wagon without lights; Alfred Wages, Jr., 21, of Bawcomville, improper lights; Willie Lee Johnson, 19, Negro, of Center, Texas, drunk and disturbing the peace; Henry Howard, Jr., 26, Negro, of Lake Providence, reckless driving and inadequate brakes; Jimmie Jenkins, 36, Negro, of Mer Rouge, improper lights, and Albert Kennedy, 35, Negro, of Rayville, operating a wagon without lights.

SCHOOL BUDGET FOR 1948 SET

State To Spend $31,031,280 For Education; Appropriations Boosted

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Louisiana school budget for 1947-48 will total $31,031,280, John E. Coxe, state superintendent of education, announced today.

The sum is divided between $23,273-385 to be distributed to schools of the state on a per educable basis and $7,757,280 to be distributed on a equalization basis, the superintendent reported.

With 644,171 educables in Louisiana, as of January 1, Coxe said that the per educable distribution would be on the basis of $36.13 per child throughout the state.

The per educable fund includes three-fourths of the increases of $5,000,000 and $7,500,000 in the state public school fund which were provided by the regular 1946 and special 1947 of the legislature.

The equalization fund includes the remainder of the increases appropriated. The boosts in appropriations were made to permit increased salaries for teachers in the state's public schools.

"I feel confident that every parish superintendent and board member in the state may be counted upon to do his utmost in bringing about the improvements that will be possible as result of the increased state appropriation from the extraordinary session of the legislature," Coxe declared.

The state's school population, set at 644,171, showed increases of white students from 331,008 to 396,534 and of Negro students from 233,034 to 247,537 during the past year.

SENATORS TO PROBE 'VOICE OF AMERICA'

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—The Senate today passed a resolution to investigate the state department's cultural program, including the "Voice of America" broadcasts, apparently dooming for this session the Mundt bill to authorize the activities.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, who has tried several times to get Senate action on the Mundt bill, told a reporter he would continue the fight next year. He said results of the investigation could be helpful in giving Congress more information.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, in blocking motions to take up the Mundt bill by unanimous consent, argued that funds have already been provided for the program for the fiscal year which began July 1. He noted that there was an agreement not to challenge the spending of this money.

The inquiry resolution, which went to the House, would provide $50,000 for a ten-member committee to be made up of three Republicans and two Democrats from each branch of Congress.

The resolution was sponsored by Senator H. Alexander Smith, Republican, New Jersey. It would direct the congressional committee to make a full study of the foreign information program of the state department or any other government agency.

DR. TO BE TRIED FOR SLAYING 4

San Antonio Physician Accused Of Murdering 4 Members Of Family

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., July 26.—(AP)—Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, 42, prominent San Antonio physician, goes on trial here Monday on charges of murder in the deaths of four members of a well-known San Antonio family, ambushed May 25 on a lonely country road while on their way to church.

Killed instantly were Willard H. York, 36, San Antonio investment company head; his wife, Mrs. Gertrude O. York, 43; their son John, 19; and York's mother, Mrs. Mary York, 67.

Only members of the family to escape was 13-year-old Ann, who, although wounded in the hip, fled to notify the caretaker of the York Comal county ranch of the shooting.

Four hours later Ross appeared at San Antonio police headquarters, 31 miles away, and told officers that a gun which had been discharged could be found in his car.

He was arrested and charged, and has been held in a third-floor cell of the county jail here since. No bond was permitted. Sheriff W. A. Scholl said he has been a model prisoner, spending much of his time studying medical books.

Officials freely predict difficulty in obtaining a jury here. A change of venue was sought but denied. Failure to get a jury, however, might result in moving the trial elsewhere.

During March of 1947 Ross, family physician for the Yorks and a member of the same church, filed suit against the investment broker charging that York was indebted to him in securities, stocks and bonds amounting to $80,279.

York, charged by the Securities and Exchange Commission with violations of the securities exchange act of 1934, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in the federal clerk's office at San Antonio March 24, 1947.

Ross, a native of Del Roy, Ohio, who took his undergraduate work at Mt. Union College in Ohio, and graduated from Harvard Medical College, moved to San Antonio 12 years ago after his interneship at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City. He said he had known York since 1935 or 1936. He is married and has a daughter.

York came from Scranton, Pa., where he operated a printing shop about 20 years ago.

LINCOLN LETTERS NOT SENSATIONAL

Sealed Collection Opened But No New Important Material Discovered

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—A mine of background information but a blank for sensation-seekers was the appraisal today of the Abraham Lincoln papers his son collected and sealed until 21 years after his own death.

Scholars and historians who began examining the Robert Todd Lincoln collection at the Library of Congress as soon as they were opened early today called them an indispensable mine of information for students of Lincoln and the Civil War period.

"This," one enthusiastically reported, "is the richest collection of Lincoln material."

The papers bring out no new skeletons from the closet of Lincoln or others of his day.

Roy P. Basler, prominent Lincoln authority, said nothing was found to support suggestions that high officials in the Lincoln administration might have been implicated in the plot to assassinate him.

There is one letter which scholars say could be construed as a refutation of stories questioning Lincoln's parentage. It was written to the Rail Splitter by John D. Johnston, his step-brother, saying that his father was dying and wished to see him "for you are his only child that is of his own flesh and blood."

Examination of the papers so far has revealed virtually no new information on the three women in Lincoln's life: Ann Rutledge, his boyhood sweetheart; Mary Owens, the comely Kentucky girl who rejected him; and Mary Todd Lincoln, his unhappy wife.

There is one short note from Mary Todd Lincoln to her husband in which she wrote, "do wait and return with us."

Some Lincoln authorities believe that Robert Todd Lincoln, who was zealous in guarding the good name of his mother, destroyed all of her letters which came into his possession.

The collection contains the original of the well-known letter about Tad's nanny goat which Lincoln sent to "my dear wife."

In the last dated letter in Lincoln's autograph in the collection, dated April 1, 1865, 13 days before his assassination, the president makes arrangements for his wife's return from City Point, Va.

The period covered by the dated documents extends from May 1, 1833—six days before the jobless young Lincoln was appointed postmaster of New Salem, Ill.—to April 14, 1865, the day of his murder.

The collection contains nearly 1,000 papers, including official documents penned by Lincoln himself. About 1,100 of the letters are from members of his cabinet. More than 1,200 letters are from his generals and over 100 from influential editors and literary figures of the period.

The Lincoln experts who checked the papers hurriedly today say it is too early to attempt a final appraisal of their value. They emphasize that while the facts revealed by the collection so far are not necessarily spectacular, they throw much light upon the manner in which Lincoln handled the tough situations in which he was placed.

One of the experts said that the new material on Fort Sumter shows Lincoln's patient attempts to avoid war.

MOTHER TRUMAN

from newspapers and the Congressional Record.

She also listened with interest to the radio.

Born Martha Young Nov. 25, 1852, on a Jackson county farm only a few miles from the house where she died, the president's mother lived the life of a farm woman, rising early, working hard.

Her early life on a post-Civil War farm built a hardy constitution and a hardy character. This strength of will was evident to the end. Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the president's personal physician, said, during one of Mrs. Truman's last illnesses, that her "iron will to live" was all that pulled her through, with the odds of a weakening heart and body against her.

Mrs. Truman was such a staunch Democrat her family sometimes laughingly called her "The Old Rebel." She had not wanted her son to be vice-president, preferring he ramain in the Senate because "Harry was doing some good" there.

When Mr. Truman became chief executive she said: "I can't really be glad he's president, because I'm sorry President Roosevelt is dead, but I know he'll do all right."

She always had a word of advice for her president-son, when he departed for the White House after a visit with her. Her admonition:

"Now, Harry, you be a good boy."

REPATRIATION SET FOR 500 GERMANS

KARUIZAWA, Japan, July 26.—(AP)—Nearly 500 more Germans will be repatriated from Japan in mid-August—and their going will cause no sorrow among the Japanese with whom they once planned to share the world.

Next month's consignment includes 140 German embassy officials, among them former Ambassador Heinrich Stahmer; 198 "objectionable" Germans, many of them Nazi party members; and 144 "non-objectionable" Germans.

This group will be the second to leave Japan. Some 1,200 already have been repatriated. Between 1,000 and 1,500 will remain to be sent home.

Mayor Tsuneo Sato of this mountain resort town near Tokyo in which some 20 Germans are living, said in an interview he would be delighted when the Germans left.

"The Japanese do not like them," he said, explaining that the Germans were arrogant.

WEDEMEYER SILENT ON CHINA PROBLEM

SHANGHAI, July 26.—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, heading a special American fact-finding mission, issued a non-committal statement on arrival here today that he had received "many and varied" suggestions from the Chinese in the four days he spent in Nanking.

Some Nanking officials, who preferred to remain anonymous, said the general had kept them so busy answering his questions that they could not ask him any.

Wedemeyer, they said, was "extremely close-mouthed," and maintained such a poker face that they could not even guess his reaction to anything they had told him.

Wedemeyer's written statement said his mission was interested in determining what China had done and could do through her own efforts to bring about recovery. He said he had received "definite indications" that there were "many constructive steps the Chinese can take to insure honest and efficient governmental processes and to restore economic stability.'

He said his mission was "interested in seeing what constructive steps have already been taken."

WITNESS

Greece, Egypt, Palestine and Switzerland.

The Michigan senator declined to make public Meyer's testimony but committee members who have seen transcripts of it described as fantastic the story he told, supplemented with expense vouchers, of paying girls up to $125 to go out to dinner in New York and Hollywood night spots with "very important persons."

The committee has subpoenaed some of those mentioned by Meyer, including Judy Cook, California swimmer.

Members said that according to Meyer's story he entertained lavishly. Some 27 expense vouchers which he turned in to the Hughes Tool company showed he had spent a total of $6,000 on 27 occasions when he had one influential official as his guest.

The committee has declined to name any of the persons mentioned in the testimony or in published copies of expense vouchers found in the Hughes company files.

However, Secretary of the Interior Krug asserted in a statement yesterday that he was not present at three affairs at which Meyer purportedly listed expenditures for Krug's entertainment.

Krug called the circulation of the purported expense vouchers "a swindle of the grossest kind."

Committee members said Meyer had testified that Krug "never did one single thing" for the Hughes company.

Committee members quoted Meyer as saying he often gave expensive presents to girls who aided in entertaining, listing on one occasion the gift of $135 in nylon hose. He made one cash loan of $1,000 to an army officer which was repaid, Meyer was said to have testified. He was represented as denying that he ever made any political contributions, although he was said to have told of giving one official two shoe ration stamps.

Committee members said Meyer testified that he was a friend of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president, and had introduced him to his present wife, Fay Emerson, former movie actress.

Ferguson and some other committee members have been inquiring into the possible connection of Roosevelt with the continuation of Hughes' contract to build the photo-reconnaissance planes.

However, Hughes was reported to have denied in testimony before the committee several months ago that Elliott had anything to do with the letting of the original contract.

The plane builder, who went into this field after he and Henry J. Kaiser terminated their venture in building a huge cargo plane, was said to have related that he had "considerable discussion" with Roosevelt when the latter headed a war department party to inspect his plane in 1944.

The committee has asked and received from the late President Roosevelt's files documents bearing on the Hughes-Kaiser inquiry, but members declined to discuss their contents.

TRUMAN

fast most of the time since but upon occasion had recovered sufficiently to sit in her favorite rocker several hours at a time.

She lost consciousness last night and the president was notified that his mother could not live through the day. Until last night, Mrs. Truman had been able to talk with members of the family, and her mind was bright and alert.

Press Secretary Ross said Mrs. Truman will be buried at Forest Hill Cemetery beside her husband, John Truman, according to her wishes.

The Rev. Welbern Bowman of the Grandview Baptist church will hold private family services at the Grandview home at 3 p.m. Monday, to be followed by interment.

The body, previously taken to the E. L. George and Son Funeral Home at Belton, will be returned to the Grandview home this evening.

Mr. Truman, who drove to the mortuary within minutes after arriving at his mother's home, returned to Grandview and later went to Independence to spend the night at the summer White House. His wife and daughter accompanied him.

In recounting the president's hurried flight, Ross said Mr. Truman received word of his mother's death while flying at 5,000 feet over Cincinnati, at 11:26 p.m. (CST).

Capt. Charles M. Mills, pilot, received the message over his headphones after the Grandview secret service men sent the information through the Civil Aeronautics Range Service.

The message read:

"The president's mother died at 11:09 a.m. (CST)." (Dr. Greene had set the time of death at 11:30).

Captain Mills handed the message to Connelly, who in turn gave it to General Graham. The physician took it to the president's stateroom on the plane.

The president had just had lunch and was dozing off when Graham entered and told him he had a message. Ross said the president knew by the doctor's expression what the message was.

The president said: "Well, now she won't have to suffer any more."

Later Mr. Truman said: "She must have passed away just a little while after we took off."

There was silence aboard the plane until the president began discussing his mother's long illness with General Graham.

Once before, last May, Mrs. Truman's condition appeared desperate and the president was summoned to her bedside.

He remained 12 days, transacting some of the nation's most important business from a room adjacent to his mother's sickroom in the modest Grandview cottage.

Mrs. Truman rallied, and the day after the president's arrival was able to sit up, and surprised the family by ordering pancakes for breakfast.

Mrs. Truman's amazing rally was attributed by Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the president's personal physican, to her knowledge that her devoted son put her welfare ahead of the pressure of state business and spent every minute possible at her side.

"She has sat up with me many times," the president said. "The least I can do now is to stay with her when she needs me."

Important state papers and bills passed by congress were shuttled from Washington by plane for the president's action.

Before the president was called home that time complications involving the liver had developed and Mrs. Truman began running a temperature. The complications cleared up and General Graham hoped to have Mrs. Truman walking within a few days, the fracture having knit satisfactorily. She suffered two sinking spells, however, result of a weakening heart, Graham said.

Her son's arrival brought an immediate improvement, which doctors say was due entirely to her son's presence.

The hip fracture last February was the third serious injury for Mrs. Truman in recent years. In 1940 she fractured a hip, and four years later she again fractured her hip and shoulder. Despite her advanced age, she recovered each time and was able to fly to the White House in Washington on Mother's day, 1940, after her son became president.

FORRESTAL

ments will be necessary before the program can be translated into terms of offices, functions and men.

This is provided for in the president's executive order which said that "in order to facilitate the accomplishments of the foregoing mission the armed forces shall formulate plans and make coordinated preparations."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, made this evident in a message to all army commanders throughout the world. It said there will be no change in the official status of the army and the new independent United States air force until "specific orders are issued." These orders would implement the president's executive order.

Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commandant of the marine corps, noted in a statement that "marines opposed the original provisions of the bill" but he called upon "every marine to carry out not only the letter but the spirit of the unification law." The act as passed stipulates that the functions of the marines under the navy shall be preserved.

Simultaneously, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, said in a dispatch to his service that "such differences of opinion as were expressed in the naval service in the past with respect to the merits of the new organization are resolved by the president's approval of the act. The personnel of the navy and all of its components will apply themselves wholeheartedly and with the fullest spirit of cooperation to the implementation of its provisions."

Aside from Forrestal's nomination, Mr. Truman made no immediate move to fill other posts set up under the law. At least for a time the acting civilian chiefs of the three departments will be: Kenneth C. Royall for army, John L. Sullivan for navy and J. Stuart Symington for air. Sullivan is undersecretary of the navy and Symington assistant secretary of war for air.

Royall will have served as a cabinet member for one of the shortest times in the government's history. He was sworn in as secretary of war last Thursday. But under the unification law only the secretary of defense has official cabinet status.

While much work remains on detail for the headquarters in Washington and for coordination in such matters as supplies and services, the framework for unification already is operating in the field.

A system of unified military command, recommended by the joint chiefs of staff and approved by Mr. Truman, went into operation last December. In general a commander chosen from the branch having predominent interest in the area directs planning in each of the seven areas—Far East, Pacific, Alaskan, Northeast, Atlantic fleet, Carribbean and European. Each commander is responsible for unified planning for defense and the conduct of operations in event of emergency.

Here is how the presidential order today defines the components and assigns the functions of the three armed forces:

Navy—comprised of naval combat and service forces, naval aviation and the marine corps. Its functions embrace operations at sea, including joint operations with the other two services such as invasion of hostile shores; control of vital sea areas, protection of sea lanes, destruction of enemy commerce; support of occupation forces; reconnaissance and anti-submarine warfare.

On this latter point, the army air forces and the navy have long differed, the AAF contending that detection and destruction of enemy submarines should be its mission. The executive order, referring to reconnaissance anti-submarine warfare and protection of shipping, says:

"The air aspect of those functions shall be coordinated with the air force, including the development and procurement of aircraft and air installations located on shore; and use shall be made of air force personnel, equipment and facilities in all cases where economy and effectiveness will thereby be increased. Subject to the above revision, the navy will not be restricted as to types of aircraft maintained and operated for these purposes."

Army—includes land combat (infantry, artillery, armor) and service forces and such aviation and water transport as is usually utilized by the ground army. Its functions include operations on land, joint operations, seizure or defense of land areas, airborne and joint amphibious operations and occupation of land areas.

Air force—includes "all military aviation forces, both combat and service, not otherwise specifically assigned." (This reference is to carrier-borne and water-based aviation used by the navy.)

Its functions include "gaining and maintaining general air supremacy" in a war; strategic bombardment; transportation of airborne troops and air support to land and naval forces in a combined operation.

N. O. STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN TO WORK

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—Approximately 550 workers at the Johns-Manville Products Corp., plant at Marrero voted unanimously today to accept a company offer of a 12-cent hourly wage increase and end an 11-day strike.

Harri L Zebal, international representative of the United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers of America (CIO) announced the outcome of the balloting.

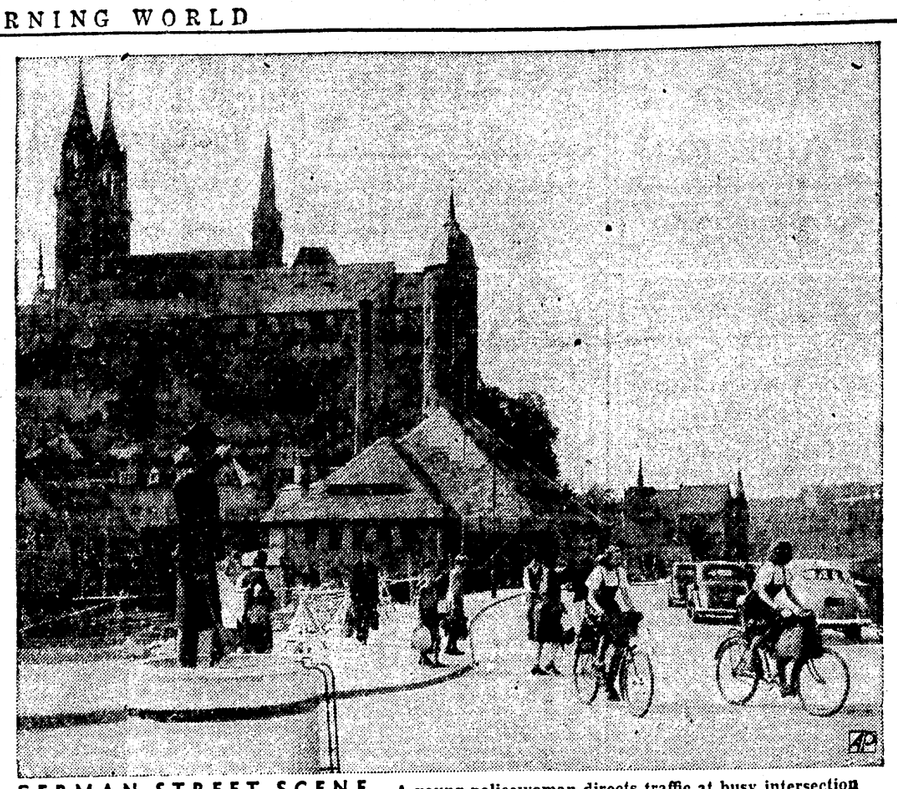

He said the company has also agreed to pay double time for the seventh day of work in each week.

Local 248 of the union announced simultaneously it had reached an agreement with Celotex Corp., under which employees will receive a $20 per month across-the-board raise.

FOUR-POWER

the coming foreign ministers conferences on Germany in New York in September and in London, in November already are doomed to failure.

Germany already has widened since

They point out that the split over the foreign ministers conference at Moscow this spring as a result of Russia's refusal to join in the Marshall plan and that there is nothing in prospect to change this situation between now and November.

The more gloomy of these sources even believe that the four-power machinery in Berlin may collapse, and that the Russians may request the Western Powers to withdraw from this shattered capital. The Russians could make western occupation of Berlin untenable at any time by simply cutting off the traffic arteries leading to this city through their zone.

Veteran diplomats here feel, however, that such a breakdown will not actually occur. They base this feeling on the belief that both the Russians and the Western nations will shrink from closing the last door to an eventual settlement. The Four-Power machinery, even though inactive, could be used by either side as an "escape hatch" to save face and restore East-West cooperation once the present plans of one side fail.

Generally speaking, veteran allied negotiators and diplomats who have been in Berlin since the end of the war, are more pessimistic than at any time since the Four-Power government of Germany was undertaken.

Not a few for the first time talk unofficially and among themselves of a possible war between east and west. They liken the propaganda attacks between east and west and the rising nervous tension of Europe to the war of nerves of 1937-39.

But the more thoughtful point out that Europe is unprepared and unfit physically and mentally for a showdown of force, and furthermore that all powers, both east and west, do not want a conflict.

The majority, therefore, look for a continuation of the economic and political tug-of-war until one power or the other loses out or tires of the cost and strain.

How long this test of strength will last is anybody's guess.

In this contest, there are three conflicting aims.

The Russians want to Sovietize Germany.

The United States wants to Democratize it.

The Germans seek a Bismarck to put Germany back together again.

The Russians recently doubled, then tripled, their propaganda staffs to woo German support.

But the Germans see a stream of factories, food and relatives going out of Germany to Russia, and are not easily won over by words. It takes a lot of whispering campaigns, radio broadcasts and newspaper articles to balance against the want of consumer goods.

The United States, too, has its troubles in Germany, although more favored by the Germans.

One of the difficulties is conflicting policies and desires.

On the one hand the United States wants to rebuild German industry to provide a reasonable standard of living for Germans and make the western form of Democracy attractive.

But on the other hand the United States does not want to give ammunition to French Communists for a rise to power in France. The French want the rest of Europe rebuilt first and Germany largely de-industrialized.

The State department decision this week to call a halt at least temporarily, to a British-American agreement to raise the level of German industry seemingly was motivated by the intention not to give French Communists any ammunition.

Most American military government officials, however, take the view that Germany is the key to the economic conflict in Europe, since the Ruhr has been the cornerstone of European economic life for generations.

Many of the original advocates here of a "hard peace" for Germany have come to the conclusion that an industriously prosperous Germany is essential to Europe.

This turn in thinking since the end of the war was illustrated by the new United States directive to occupation authorities 11 days ago which supplanted the drastic reparations policy of Potsdam with instructions to rebuild Germany economy for the benefit of Europe.

Authorities here have no doubt that Russia will turn the industrial potential of eastern Germany to supplying her orbit.

While many western officials are convinced that the partition of Germany will continue for the time being, they also believe that nothing Russia or the west can do will keep Germany divided forever.

They expect a gradual economic and political evolution to unite Germany again.

Each of the Big Four has labored to put shattered Germany back together again in his own image, with the same results of all the kings horses and all the kings men who worked over humpuity dumpty.

And while they have thus labored acrimoniously and futilely, it has grown on the Germans with increasing force that none of these plans would work without German cooperation.

This sense of power is now tempered by defeatism, but it may awaken ever more quickly and that is the time when many Germans hope for a new Bismarck to step in.

BUDGET

mates submitted by the President of the United States."

There are some other recoveries that will swell the total later, Taber added.

Had not the Senate boosted funds voted by the House, he declared, aggregate savings would have been "over a billion more."

Cannon gave the GOP credit for $2,207,000,000 "at the very outside."

He recalled that the House, under Republican control, voted early this year to cut federal spending by $6,000,000,000 for the fiscal year. The Senate cut that goal to $4,500,000,000 and there has been no compromise objective.

"In view of all the fanfare at the start of the session," Cannon declared in a needling voice, "they have made a sorry record. Never have we witnessed such a gap between promise and performance.'

Cannon based his figure on total budget estimates which he said amounted to $37,835,541,367.

"I knew that we would not attain the savings that I would like to save," Taber asserted, stating that Democrats had refused to join in an economy drive.

Lucas asserted that the GOP leadership is claiming credit for $1,075,263,854 in "phony reductions" in the budget.

"In my 12 years of experience in the Congress," he said, "I have never seen a party bearing great responsibilities of power in a free government use such unfair and irresponsible methods in order to attain a political objective.

"I deplore the juggling of figures as a means of fooling the American people. In the end, they shall know the truth!"

When Lucas had concluded his 4,000-word criticism, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said that instead of speaking in reply, he would prepare a statement later upon "accomplishments of this Congress" and place it in the Congressional Record.

Final figures on the fiscal year spending will not be known until next June 30, when the year ends.

quality goods which can easly be disposed of.

Charting of wholesale and retail produce sale centers has been endorsed by numerous truck farmers who ascribe shortages of many seasonal items to the fact that farmers are unable to stop at all the stores.

J. Y. Brooks, of Monroe, one of the leaders of the movement, emphasized the need for a central market by declaring that many farmers were at a serious disadvantage in being forced to traverse the whole town to dispose of their products.

A centralized market, he said, would provide an accessible place where produce could be obtained easily and with far fewer difficulties on the part of both buyers and farmers.

bought up bonds from needy veterans for as little as 50 cents on the dollar.

The bonds were issued to some 9,000,000 veterans to compensate for earned but unused leave time as members of the armed forces. They were to mature five years after the date of a veteran's discharge.

The delay was proposed as an anti-inflation maneuver. However, Congressional supporters of cashing them now argued that the interest they carry is in itself an inflationary item. The House and Senate both passed the cashing bill without a dissenting vote.

One clause extends until September 1, 1948 the deadline for applying for terminal leave pay.

PALACE

p. m. and the second over KNOE at 2:45. Miss Dixie Madden, the Palace shopper, will direct the KNOE program, Lawrence Gibbs, KMLB staff announcer will be master of ceremonies in that station broadcast.

Each visitor to the Palace tomorrow will be given a coupon for registration for two valuable gifts. The drawing will be held Tuesday, and ticket holders do not have to be present to be eligible to win.

The new resplendent Palace scheduled for formal introduction tomorrow is the culmination of months of planning by store executives and some of America's outstanding architects and designers.

The street floor has been completely remodeled. New merchandise displays have been installed, the shopping area enlarged by altering department locations; the ceiling accoustically treated, and the floor lined with a special resilient covering.

Tomorrow will be more than a turning point in Palace history, however, for the day will represent to its founder the fulfillment of a long-cherished dream, and to merchants and customers alike the triumph of fundamental principles of quality and service.

For Mr. Sig Masur who has watched the store emerge from a small DeSiard street shop into an ultra-modern six-story building, the Palace will signify the achievement of a life-long aspiration.

For others who have observed and participated in that achievement, the Palace will represent the soundness of deep-rooted ideals upon which the store has been established.

In founding the Palace, Mr Masur proclaimed certain objectives by which, he believed, the Palace could always be measured.

He predicted that the store would fall or progress according to their validity, and that if vindicated through the years, they would serve as a high criterion for all other private ventures.

First among these precepts was that of quality and service; another was the recognition that the welfare of business could not be separated from that of the people supporting it; third, an acknowledgement of the responsibility of a store to protect its customers from exorbitant prices, inferior goods, and every other exploitative practice.

In more direct way, the new Palace is personal accomplishment for Mr. Masur, who from the very beginning, has aimed at making the store live up to its name.

Some of the other outstanding features of the Palace are its new budget department, a year-round toy and children's shop, and an exquisite fashion floor offering the latest styles from the most exclusive designers:

Once the ugly-duckling of large stores, the thrift or budget departments have now been given their rightful recognition as integral and indispensable services.

The Palace has taken the lead in this trend by devoting its entire third floor to quality merchandise at prices within the reach of the most penny-conscious shopper.

Believing fashions to be one of the cornerstones of its greatness, the Palace has purchased the finest in women's apparel, and has given full attention to the satisfaction of individual tastes.

Another innovation of the Palace is the Annex, situated directly behind the main store on Harrison street, housing a complete line of home furnishings and luggage.

BUS NEGOTIATORS IN 2-DAY RECESS

ALEXANDRIA, La., July 26.—(AP)—Negotiations toward an end of the two-month old strike which has halted Southern Trailways buses in nine southern states continued briefly today and were then recessed until Tuesday.

R. W. Goolrick, U S. conciliator, said a "half-day" session was held today in view of the day being Saturday. No sessions will be held Monday he said, "because one of the principals has a previous engagement."

The negotiators are working on an entirely new contract, having given up efforts to amend last year's contract so it would be suitable to both sides for another year.

More than 180 amendments to last year's contract were considered at two earlier sessions of negotiators which broke up without results.

Radar will soon be used to heal the body by heating living tissues in conditions where that is desirable.

SALUDA CITIZENS REMEMBER ALAMO

South Carolina Town Dedicates Monument to Cols. Travis, Bonham

SALUDA, S. C., July 26.—(AP)—Saluda county observed its 51st anniversary today by remembering the Alamo and dedicating a monument to two native sons who died in defense of the Texas mission against the Mexicans in 1836.

The monument, a simple granite memorial to Cols. William Barret Travis and James Butler Bonham bore the inscription: "Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat, the Alamo had none."

A crowd of about 1,000 persons heard B. W. Crouch, attorney and business man, recount the story of how 183 Americans died rather than yield after enduring 11 days of savage attacks by 4,000 Mexicans.

Crouch, a member of the South Carolina Constitutional Convention of 1895 that created Saluda county, reached deep into the lore of Southern chivalry to portray the story of Travis, Bonham and other Alamo defenders at the San Antonio battle.

Travis, who commanded the Alamo force and led it to death in preference to surrender, was the son of the earliest settlers of what is now Saluda county, Crouch said.

Bonham, a friend of Travis from early boyhood, was the son of a revolutionary war hero who early moved to the Saluda area.

In 1835, Crouch continued, Bonham heard from Travis that "great things were happening in Texas."

"He abandoned his position, his law profession, everything to join his friend in the battle for liberty," Crouch said. Travis and Bonham met in Texas after 17 years of separation. Bonham then was 28. Travis was 27.

Crouch, one of the leading figures in Saluda county since its foundings, called for the schools of Saluda to set aside one day a year to remember the Alamo, Travis and Bonham.

On that day, he asked that school children take flowers to the monument to "keep bright the memory of two Saluda heroes whose blood watered the fire of liberty."

States government and protested to Cuba.

He estimated that "on or before Aug. 1 we are going to have some fireworks in the Dominican Republic."

The ambassador said he does not know if the three Latin American governments are directly involved in the invasion attempt.

"We have protested to the Cuban government and informed them of every detail but despite this the (the invasion army) seem to be on their way," the ambassador said.

He added that one expedition of about 1,000 men was supposed to have left from Antillas, Cuba, last night with other forces concentrated in other ports.

"We know all their military plans, what types of weapons they have and who paid for them," the ambassador said.

Existence of the plan was confirmed recently when two Puerto Rican "revolutionaries" "broke loose" from Cuba and told Miami police about it, Ortega Frier said.

The ambassador gave his account to a reporter after consultation with his government.

Venezuela broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican government of President Rafael Trujillo soon after a revolutionary government took over in Caracas in 1945. The Venezuela government is headed by Romulo Betancourt.

Guatemala severed diplomatic relations with Trujillo about a month ago.

There are Dominican exile groups in Cuba, Puerto Rico, Venezuela and Guatemala, with a small group in New York.

Venezuelan Ambassador Gonzalo Carnevali emphatically denied the Dominican's allegations.

He said the Venezuelan government has no knowledge of any such situation and "has not involved itself at all in any armed movement against any American government."

Guatemalan Charge d'Affaires Francisco Linares Aranda said Ortega Frier's statement is the "most ridiculous and preposterous thing I have ever heard of in my life."

"It is so ridiculous," he said, "it becomes comical."

LINCOLN LETTERS NOT SENSATIONAL

Sealed Collection Opened But No New Important Material Discovered

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—A mine of background information but a blank for sensation-seekers was the appraisal today of the Abraham Lincoln papers his son collected and sealed until 21 years after his own death.

Scholars and historians who began examining the Robert Todd Lincoln collection at the Library of Congress as soon as they were opened early today called them an indispensable mine of information for students of Lincoln and the Civil War period.

"This," one enthusiastically reported, "is the richest collection of Lincoln material."

The papers bring out no new skeletons from the closet of Lincoln or others of his day.

Roy P. Basler, prominent Lincoln authority, said nothing was found to support suggestions that high officials in the Lincoln administration might have been implicated in the plot to assassinate him.

There is one letter which scholars say could be construed as a refutation of stories questioning Lincoln's parentage. It was written to the Rail Splitter by John D. Johnston, his step-brother, saying that his father was dying and wished to see him "for you are his only child that is of his own flesh and blood."

Examination of the papers so far has revealed virtually no new information on the three women in Lincoln's life: Ann Rutledge, his boyhood sweetheart; Mary Owens, the comely Kentucky girl who rejected him; and Mary Todd Lincoln, his unhappy wife.

There is one short note from Mary Todd Lincoln to her husband in which she wrote, "do wait and return with us."

Some Lincoln authorities believe that Robert Todd Lincoln, who was zealous in guarding the good name of his mother, destroyed all of her letters which came into his possession.

The collection contains the original of the well-known letter about Tad's nanny goat which Lincoln sent to "my dear wife."

In the last dated letter in Lincoln's autograph in the collection, dated April 1, 1865, 13 days before his assassination, the president makes arrangements for his wife's return from City Point, Va.

The period covered by the dated documents extends from May 1, 1833—six days before the jobless young Lincoln was appointed postmaster of New Salem, Ill.—to April 14, 1865, the day of his murder.

The collection contains nearly 1,000 papers, including official documents penned by Lincoln himself. About 1,100 of the letters are from members of his cabinet. More than 1,200 letters are from his generals and over 100 from influential editors and literary figures of the period.

The Lincoln experts who checked the papers hurriedly today say it is too early to attempt a final appraisal of their value. They emphasize that while the facts revealed by the collection so far are not necessarily spectacular, they throw much light upon the manner in which Lincoln handled the tough situations in which he was placed.

One of the experts said that the new material on Fort Sumter shows Lincoln's patient attempts to avoid war.

WEDEMEYER SILENT ON CHINA PROBLEM

SHANGHAI, July 26.—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, heading a special American fact-finding mission, issued a non-committal statement on arrival here today that he had received "many and varied" suggestions from the Chinese in the four days he spent in Nanking.

Some Nanking officials, who preferred to remain anonymous, said the general had kept them so busy answering his questions that they could not ask him any.

Wedemeyer, they said, was "extremely close-mouthed," and maintained such a poker face that they could not even guess his reaction to anything they had told him.

Wedemeyer's written statement said his mission was interested in determining what China had done and could do through her own efforts to bring about recovery. He said he had received "definite indications" that there were "many constructive steps the Chinese can take to insure honest and efficient governmental processes and to restore economic stability."

He said his mission was "interested in seeing what constructive steps have already been taken."

WITNESS

Greece, Egypt, Palestine and Switzerland.

The Michigan senator declined to make public Meyer's testimony but committee members who have seen transcripts of it described as fantastic the story he told, supplemented with expense vouchers, of paying girls up to $125 to go out to dinner in New York and Hollywood night spots with "very important persons."

The committee has subpoenaed some of those mentioned by Meyer, including Judy Cook, California swimmer.

Members said that according to Meyer's story he entertained lavishly. Some 27 expense vouchers which he turned in to the Hughes Tool company showed he had spent a total of $6,000 on 27 occasions when he had one influential official as his guest.

The committee has declined to name any of the persons mentioned in the testimony or in published copies of expense vouchers found in the Hughes company files.

However, Secretary of the Interior Krug asserted in a statement yesterday that he was not present at three affairs at which Meyer purportedly listed expenditures for Krug's entertainment.

Krug called the circulation of the purported expense vouchers "a swindle of the grossest kind."

Committee members said Meyer had testified that Krug "never did one single thing" for the Hughes company.

Committee members quoted Meyer as saying he often gave expensive presents to girls who aided in entertaining, listing on one occasion the gift of $135 in nylon hose. He made one cash loan of $1,000 to an army officer which was repaid, Meyer was said to have testified. He was represented as denying that he ever made any political contributions, although he was said to have told of giving one official two shoe ration stamps.

Committee members said Meyer testified that he was a friend of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president, and had introduced him to his present wife, Fay Emerson, former movie actress.

Ferguson and some other committee members have been inquiring into the possible connection of Roosevelt with the continuation of Hughes' contract to build the photo-reconnaissance planes.

However, Hughes was reported to have denied in testimony before the committee several months ago that Elliott had anything to do with the letting of the original contract.

The plane builder, who went into this field after he and Henry J. Kaiser terminated their venture in building a huge cargo plane, was said to have related that he had "considerable discussion" with Roosevelt when the latter headed a war department party to inspect his plane in 1944.

The committee has asked and received from the late President Roosevelt's files documents bearing on the Hughes-Kaiser inquiry, but members declined to discuss their contents.

MOTHER TRUMAN

from newspapers and the Congressional Record.

She also listened with interest to the radio.

Born Martha Young Nov. 25, 1852, on a Jackson county farm only a few miles from the house where she died, the president's mother lived the life of a farm woman, rising early, working hard.

Her early life on a post-Civil War farm built a hardy constitution and a hardy character. This strength of will was evident to the end. Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the president's personal physician, said, during one of Mrs. Truman's last illnesses, that her "iron will to live" was all that pulled her through, with the odds of a weakening heart and body against her.

Mrs. Truman was such a staunch Democrat her family sometimes laughingly called her "The Old Rebel." She had not wanted her son to be vice-president, preferring he ramain in the Senate because "Harry was doing some good" there.

When Mr. Truman became chief executive she said: "I can't really be glad he's president, because I'm sorry President Roosevelt is dead, but I know he'll do all right."

She always had a word of advice for her president-son, when he departed for the White House after a visit with her. Her admonition:

"Now, Harry, you be a good boy."

REPATRIATION SET FOR 500 GERMANS

KARUIZAWA, Japan, July 26.—(AP)—Nearly 500 more Germans will be repatriated from Japan in mid-August—and their going will cause no sorrow among the Japanese with whom they once planned to share the world.

Next month's consignment includes 140 German embassy officials, among them former Ambassador Heinrich Stahmer; 198 "objectionable" Germans, many of them Nazi party members; and 144 "non-objectionable" Germans.

This group will be the second to leave Japan. Some 1,200 already have been repatriated. Between 1,000 and 1,500 will remain to be sent home.

Mayor Tsuneo Sato of this mountain resort town near Tokyo in which some 20 Germans are living, said in an interview he would be delighted when the Germans left.

"The Japanese do not like them," he said, explaining that the Germans were arrogant.

TRUMAN

fast most of the time since but upon occasion had recovered sufficiently to sit in her favorite rocker several hours at a time.

She lost consciousness last night and the president was notified that his mother could not live through the day. Until last night, Mrs. Truman had been able to talk with members of the family, and her mind was bright and alert.

Press Secretary Ross said Mrs. Truman will be buried at Forest Hill Cemetery beside her husband, John Truman, according to her wishes.

The Rev. Welbern Bowman of the Grandview Baptist church will hold private family services at the Grandview home at 3 p.m. Monday, to be followed by interment.

The body, previously taken to the E. L. George and Son Funeral Home at Belton, will be returned to the Grandview home this evening.

Mr. Truman, who drove to the mortuary within minutes after arriving at his mother's home, returned to Grandview and later went to Independence to spend the night at the summer White House. His wife and daughter accompanied him.

In recounting the president's hurried flight, Ross said Mr. Truman received word of his mother's death while flying at 5,000 feet over Cincinnati, at 11:26 p.m. (CST).

Capt. Charles M. Mills, pilot, received the message over his headphones after the Grandview secret service men sent the information through the Civil Aeronautics Range Service.

The message read:

"The president's mother died at 11:09 a.m. (CST)." (Dr. Greene had set the time of death at 11:30).

Captain Mills handed the message to Connelly, who in turn gave it to General Graham. The physician took it to the president's stateroom on the plane.

The president had just had lunch and was dozing off when Graham entered and told him he had a message. Ross said the president knew by the doctor's expression what the message was.

The president said: "Well, now she won't have to suffer any more."

Later Mr. Truman said: "She must have passed away just a little while after we took off."

There was silence aboard the plane until the president began discussing his mother's long illness with General Graham.

Once before, last May, Mrs. Truman's condition appeared desperate and the president was summoned to her bedside.

He remained 12 days, transacting some of the nation's most important business from a room adjacent to his mother's sickroom in the modest Grandview cottage.

Mrs. Truman rallied, and the day after the president's arrival was able to sit up, and surprised the family by ordering pancakes for breakfast.

Mrs. Truman's amazing rally was attributed by Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the president's personal physican, to her knowledge that her devoted son put her welfare ahead of the pressure of state business and spent every minute possible at her side.

"She has sat up with me many times," the president said. "The least I can do now is to stay with her when she needs me."

Important state papers and bills passed by congress were shuttled from Washington by plane for the president's action.

Before the president was called home that time complications involving the liver had developed and Mrs. Truman began running a temperature. The complications cleared up and General Graham hoped to have Mrs. Truman walking within a few days, the fracture having knit satisfactorily. She suffered two sinking spells, however, result of a weakening heart, Graham said.

Her son's arrival brought an immediate improvement, which doctors say was due entirely to her son's presence.

The hip fracture last February was the third serious injury for Mrs. Truman in recent years. In 1940 she fractured a hip, and four years later she again fractured her hip and shoulder. Despite her advanced age, she recovered each time and was able to fly to the White House in Washington on Mother's day, 1940, after her son became president.

Captain Cook sailed around New Zealand in 1769.

ments will be necessary before the program can be translated into terms of offices, functions and men.

This is provided for in the president's executive order which said that "in order to facilitate the accomplishments of the foregoing mission the armed forces shall formulate plans and make coordinated preparations."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, made this evident in a message to all army commanders throughout the world. It said there will be no change in the official status of the army and the new independent United States air force until "specific orders are issued." These orders would implement the president's executive order.

Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commandant of the marine corps, noted in a statement that "marines opposed the original provisions of the bill" but he called upon "every marine to carry out not only the letter but the spirit of the unification law." The act as passed stipulates that the functions of the marines under the navy shall be preserved.

Simultaneously, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, said in a dispatch to his service that "such differences of opinion as were expressed in the naval service in the past with respect to the merits of the new organization are resolved by the president's approval of the act. The personnel of the navy and all of its components will apply themselves wholeheartedly and with the fullest spirit of cooperation to the implementation of its provisions."

Aside from Forrestal's nomination, Mr. Truman made no immediate move to fill other posts set up under the law. At least for a time the acting civilian chiefs of the three departments will be: Kenneth C. Royall for army, John L. Sullivan for navy and J. Stuart Symington for air. Sullivan is undersecretary of the navy and Symington assistant secretary of war for air.

Royall will have served as a cabinet member for one of the shortest times in the government's history. He was sworn in as secretary of war last Thursday. But under the unification law only the secretary of defense has official cabinet status.

While much work remains on detail for the headquarters in Washington and for coordination in such matters as supplies and services, the framework for unification already is operating in the field.

A system of unified military command, recommended by the joint chiefs of staff and approved by Mr. Truman, went into operation last December. In general a commander chosen from the branch having predominent interest in the area directs planning in each of the seven areas—Far East, Pacific, Alaskan, Northeast, Atlantic fleet, Carribbean and European. Each commander is responsible for unified planning for defense and the conduct of operations in event of emergency.

Here is how the presidential order today defines the components and assigns the functions of the three armed forces:

Navy—comprised of naval combat and service forces, naval aviation and the marine corps. Its functions embrace operations at sea, including joint operations with the other two services such as invasion of hostile shores; control of vital sea areas, protection of sea lanes, destruction of enemy commerce; support of occupation forces; reconnaissance and anti-submarine warfare.

On this latter point, the army air forces and the navy have long differed, the AAF contending that detection and destruction of enemy submarines should be its mission. The executive order, referring to reconnaissance anti-submarine warfare and protection of shipping, says.

"The air aspect of those functions shall be coordinated with the air force, including the development and procurement of aircraft and air installations located on shore; and use shall be made of air force personnel, equipment and facilities in all cases where economy and effectiveness will thereby be increased. Subject to the above revision, the navy will not be restricted as to types of aircraft maintained and operated for these purposes."

Army—includes land combat (infantry, artillery, armor) and service forces and such aviation and water transport as is usually utilized by the ground army. Its functions include operations on land, joint operations, seizure or defense of land areas, airborne and joint amphibious operations and occupation of land areas.

Air force—includes "all military aviation forces, both combat and service, not otherwise specifically assigned." (This reference is to carrier-borne and water-based aviation used by the navy.)

Its functions include "gaining and maintaining general air supremacy" in a war; strategic bombardment; transportation of airborne troops and air support to land and naval forces in a combined operation.

N. O. STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN TO WORK

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—Approximately 550 workers at the Johns-Manville Products Corp., plant at Marrero voted unanimously today to accept a company offer of a 12-cent hourly wage increase and end an 11-day strike.

Harri L Zebal, international representative of the United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers of America (CIO) announced the outcome of the balloting.

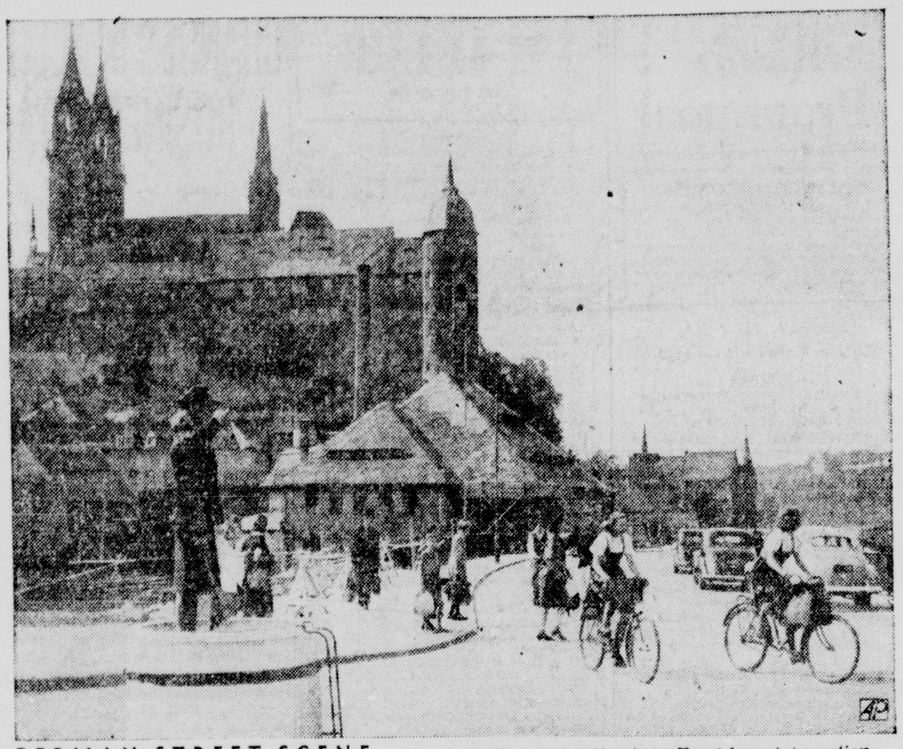

He said the company has also agreed to pay double time for the seventh day of work in each week.

Local 248 of the union announced simultaneously it had reached an agreement with Celotex Corp., under which employees will receive a $20 per month across-the-board raise.

FOUR-POWER

the coming foreign ministers conferences on Germany in New York in September and in London, in November already are doomed to failure. Germany already has widened since

They point out that the split over the foreign ministers conference at Moscow this spring as a result of Russia's refusal to join in the Marshall plan and that there is nothing in prospect to change this situation between now and November.

The more gloomy of these sources even believe that the four-power machinery in Berlin may collapse, and that the Russians may request the Western Powers to withdraw from this shattered capital. The Russians could make western occupation of Berlin untenable at any time by simply cutting off the traffic arteries leading to this city through their zone.

Veteran diplomats here feel, however, that such a breakdown will not actually occur. They base this feeling on the belief that both the Russians and the Western nations will shrink from closing the last door to an eventual settlement. The Four-Power machinery, even though inactive, could be used by either side as an "escape hatch" to save face and restore East-West cooperation once the present plans of one side fail.

Generally speaking, veteran allied negotiators and diplomats who have been in Berlin since the end of the war, are more pessimistic than at any time since the Four-Power government of Germany was undertaken.

Not a few for the first time talk unofficially and among themselves of a possible war between east and west. They liken the propaganda attacks between east and west and the rising nervous tension of Europe to the war of nerves of 1937-39.

But the more thoughtful point out that Europe is unprepared and unfit physically and mentally for a showdown of force, and furthermore that all powers, both east and west, do not want a conflict.

The majority, therefore, look for a continuation of the economic and political tug-of-war until one power or the other loses out or tires of the cost and strain.

How long this test of strength will last is anybody's guess.

In this contest, there are three conflicting aims.

The Russians want to Sovietize Germany.

The United States wants to Democratize it.

The Germans seek a Bismarck to put Germany back together again.

The Russians recently doubled, then tripled, their propaganda staffs to woo German support.

But the Germans see a stream of factories, food and relatives going out of Germany to Russia, and are not easily won over by words. It takes a lot of whispering campaigns, radio broadcasts and newspaper articles to balance against the want of consumer goods.

The United States, too, has its troubles in Germany, although more favored by the Germans.

One of the difficulties is conflicting policies and desires.

On the one hand the United States wants to rebuild German industry to provide a reasonable standard of living for Germans and make the western form of Democracy attractive.

But on the other hand the United States does not want to give ammunition to French Communists for a rise to power in France. The French want the rest of Europe rebuilt first and Germany largely de-industrialized.

The State department decision this week to call a halt at least temporarily, to a British-American agreement to raise the level of German industry seemingly was motivated by the intention not to give French Communists any ammunition.

Most American military government officials, however, take the view that Germany is the key to the economic conflict in Europe, since the Ruhr has been the cornerstone of European economic life for generations.

Many of the original advocates here of a "hard peace" for Germany have come to the conclusion that an industriously prosperous Germany is essential to Europe.

This turn in thinking since the end of the war was illustrated by the new United States directive to occupation authorities 11 days ago which supplanted the drastic reparations policy of Potsdam with instructions to rebuild Germany economy for the benefit of Europe.

Authorities here have no doubt that Russia will turn the industrial potential of eastern Germany to supplying her orbit.

While many western officials are convinced that the partition of Germany will continue for the time being, they also believe that nothing Russia or the west can do will keep Germany divided forever.

They expect a gradual economic and political evolution to unite Germany again.

Each of the Big Four has labored to put shattered Germany back together again in his own image, with the same results of all the kings horses and all the kings men who worked over humpuity dumpty.

And while they have thus labored acrimoniously and futilely, it has grown on the Germans with increasing force that none of these plans would work without German cooperation.

This sense of power is now tempered by defeatism, but it may awaken ever more quickly and that is the time when many Germans hope for a new Bismarck to step in.

BUDGET

mates submitted by the President of the United States."

There are some other recoveries that will swell the total later, Taber added.

Had not the Senate boosted funds voted by the House, he declared, aggregate savings would have been "over a billion more."

Cannon gave the GOP credit for $2,207,000,000 "at the very outside."

He recalled that the House, under Republican control, voted early this year to cut federal spending by $6,000,000,000 for the fiscal year. The Senate cut that goal to $4,500,000,000 and there has been no compromise objective.

"In view of all the fanfare at the start of the session," Cannon declared in a needling voice, "they have made a sorry record. Never have we witnessed such a gap between promise and performance."

Cannon based his figure on total budget estimates which he said amounted to $37,835,541,367.

"I knew that we would not attain the savings that I would like to save," Taber asserted, stating that Democrats had refused to join in an economy drive.

Lucas asserted that the GOP leadership is claiming credit for $1,075,263,854 in "phony reductions" in the budget.

"In my 12 years of experience in the Congress," he said, "I have never seen a party bearing great responsibilities of power in a free government use such unfair and irresponsible methods in order to attain a political objective.

"I deplore the juggling of figures as a means of fooling the American people. In the end, they shall know the truth!"

When Lucas had concluded his 4,000-word criticism, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said that instead of speaking in reply, he would prepare a statement later upon "accomplishments of this Congress" and place it in the Congressional Record.

Final figures on the fiscal year spending will not be known until next June 30, when the year ends.

quality goods which can easly be disposed of.

Charting of wholesale and retail produce sale centers has been endorsed by numerous truck farmers who ascribe shortages of many seasonal items to the fact that farmers are unable to stop at all the stores.

J. Y. Brooks, of Monroe, one of the leaders of the movement, emphasized the need for a central market by declaring that many farmers were at a serious disadvantage in being forced to traverse the whole town to dispose of their products.

A centralized market, he said, would provide an accessible place where produce could be obtained easily and with far fewer difficulties on the part of both buyers and farmers.

The bonds were issued to some 9,000,000 veterans to compensate for earned but unused leave time as members of the armed forces. They were to mature five years after the date of a veteran's discharge.

The delay was proposed as an anti-inflation maneuver. However, Congressional supporters of cashing them now argued that the interest they carry is in itself an inflationary item. The House and Senate both passed the cashing bill without a dissenting vote.

p. m. and the second over KNOE at 2:45. Miss Dixie Madden, the Palace shopper, will direct the KNOE program, Lawrence Gibbs, KMLB staff announcer will be master of ceremonies in that station broadcast.

Each visitor to the Palace tomorrow will be given a coupon for registration for two valuable gifts. The drawing will be held Tuesday, and ticket holders do not have to be present to be eligible to win.

The new resplendent Palace scheduled for formal introduction tomorrow is the culmination of months of planning by store executives and some of America's outstanding architects and designers.

The street floor has been completely remodeled. New merchandise displays have been installed, the shopping area enlarged by altering department locations; the ceiling accoustically treated, and the floor lined with a special resilient covering.

Tomorrow will be more than a turning point in Palace history, however, for the day will represent to its founder the fulfillment of a long-cherished dream, and to merchants and customers alike the triumph of fundamental principles of quality and service.

For Mr. Sig Masur who has watched the store emerge from a small DeSiard street shop into an ultra-modern six-story building, the Palace will signify the achievement of a life-long aspiration.

For others who have observed and participated in that achievement, the Palace will represent the soundness of deep-rooted ideals upon which the store has been established.

In founding the Palace, Mr Masur proclaimed certain objectives by which, he believed, the Palace could always be measured.

He predicted that the store would fall or progress according to their validity, and that if vindicated through the years, they would serve as a high criterion for all other private ventures.

First among these precepts was that of quality and service; another was the recognition that the welfare of business could not be separated from that of the people supporting it; third, an acknowledgement of the responsibility of a store to protect its customers from exorbitant prices, inferior goods, and every other exploitative practice.

In more direct way, the new Palace is personal accomplishment for Mr. Masur, who from the very beginning has aimed at making the store live up to its name.

Some of the other outstanding features of the Palace are its new budget department, a year-round toy and children's shop, and an exquisite fashion floor offering the latest styles from the most exclusive designers:

Once the ugly-duckling of large stores, the thrift or budget departments have now been given their rightful recognition as integral and indispensable services.

The Palace has taken the lead in this trend by devoting its entire third floor to quality merchandise at prices within the reach of the most penny-conscious shopper.

Believing fashions to be one of the cornerstones of its greatness, the Palace has purchased the finest in women's apparel, and has given full attention to the satisfaction of individual tastes.

Another innovation of the Palace is the Annex, situated directly behind the main store on Harrison street, housing a complete line of home furnishings and luggage.

SALUDA CITIZENS REMEMBER ALAMO

South Carolina Town Dedicates Monument to Cols. Travis, Bonham

SALUDA, S. C., July 26.—(AP)—Saluda county observed its 51st anniversary today by remembering the Alamo and dedicating a monument to two native sons who died in defense of the Texas mission against the Mexicans in 1836.

The monument, a simple granite memorial to Cols. William Barrett Travis and James Butler Bonham, bore the inscription: "Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat, the Alamo had none."

A crowd of about 1,000 persons heard B. W. Crouch, attorney and business man, recount the story of how 183 Americans died rather than yield after enduring 11 days of savage attacks by 4,000 Mexicans.

Crouch, a member of the South Carolina Constitutional Convention of 1895 that created Saluda county, reached deep into the lore of Southern chivalry to portray the story of Travis, Bonham and other Alamo defenders at the San Antonio battle.

Travis, who commanded the Alamo force and led it to death in preference to surrender, was the son of the earliest settlers of what is now Saluda county, Crouch said.

Bonham, a friend of Travis from early boyhood, was the son of a revolutionary war hero who early moved to the Saluda area.

In 1835, Crouch continued, Bonham heard from Travis that "great things were happening in Texas."

"He abandoned his position, his law profession, everything to join his friend in the battle for liberty," Crouch said. Travis and Bonham met in Texas after 17 years of separation. Bonham then was 28. Travis was 26.

Crouch, one of the leading figures in Saluda county since its founding, called for the schools of Saluda to set aside one day a year to remember the Alamo, Travis and Bonham.

On that day, he asked that school children take flowers to the monument to "keep bright the memory of two Saluda heroes whose blood watered the fire of liberty."

States government and protested to Cuba.

He estimated that "on or before Aug. 1 we are going to have some fireworks in the Dominican Republic."

The ambassador said he does not know if the three Latin American governments are directly involved in the invasion attempt.

"We have protested to the Cuban government and informed them of every detail but despite this they (the invasion army) seem to be on their way," the ambassador said.

He added that one expedition of about 1,000 men was supposed to have left from Antillas, Cuba, last night with other forces concentrated in other ports.

"We know all their military plans, what types of weapons they have and who paid for them," the ambassador said.

Existence of the plan was confirmed recently when two Puerto Rican "revolutionaries" "broke loose" from Cuba and told Miami police about it, Ortega Frier said.

The ambassador gave his account to a reporter after consultation with his government.

Venezuela broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican government of President Rafael Trujillo soon after a revolutionary government took over in Caracas in 1945. The Venezuelan government is headed by Romulo Betancourt.

Guatemala severed diplomatic relations with Trujillo about a month ago.

There are Dominican exile groups in Cuba, Puerto Rico, Venezuela and Guatemala, with a small group in New York.

Venezuelan Ambassador Gonzalo Carnevali emphatically denied the Dominican's allegations.

He said the Venezuelan government has no knowledge of any such situation and "has not involved itself at all in any armed movement against any American government."

Guatemalan Charge d'Affaires Francisco Linares Aranda said Ortega Frier's statement is the "most ridiculous and preposterous thing I have ever heard of in my life."

"It is so ridiculous," he said, "it becomes comical."

Miss Padgette Is Mid-Summer Bride

Padgett-Bolton Nuptials At First Christian Church Widely Attended

One of the loveliest brides of the season was Miss Charlotte Anne Padgett, blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merl L. Padgett, whose marriage, July 15, to Mr. William Harper Bolton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wesley Bolton of Shreveport took place at the First Christian Church at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening with Rev. R. T. Watson officiating.

The church was delightfully cool with the long windows thrown wide to the evening breeze and electrics dimmed to mingle with the candlelight glow. Myriad cathedral candles burned in the midst of white gladioli overflowing from Marie Antoinette baskets in the background and in a semi-circle where the wedding attendants stood.

While the guests were being seated by the groomsmen, Messers. James L. Padgett, William McDowell. E. Murray Caldwell and Kenneth Wilson, the violinist, Mrs. J. L. Cheshire rendered a group of nuptial melodies. She also accompanied the soloist, Mr. Irving Zeidman, whose vibrant baritone was heard in "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The maid of honor, Miss Patricia Lee Padgett, wore a diaphanous gown of orchid marquisette and the maids of honor, Miss Betty Lynn Harrell, Mrs. Carl R. Crites, Mrs. Russell Cronin and Miss Brooksie Fuller wore similar gowns of aqua marquisette. They all carried fan-shaped bouquets of varicolored asters with long lengths of orchid and aqua satin ribbon.

Mr. Otho G. Bolton served as best man.

The bride's regal wedding gown was fashioned of ivory Duchess satin. The deep yoke of net was delicately embroidered with seed pearls. The long, tight fitting sleeves ended in points over the hands. The long veil of illusion, caught to the hair with a coronet of orange blossoms, fell beyond the long court train.

The bride's wedding bouquet was unusually beautiful. It was fashioned of white orchids, white split carnations and tube roses with white satin ribbons cascading to the hemline of her skirt. She wore the bridegroom's wedding gift, beautiful opal earrings.

Mr. Padgett walked down the aisle with his daughter and gave her in marriage.

The reception at the Padgett home following the ceremony attracted many friends all of whom were eager to congratulate the bridegroom and extend their well wishes to the bride.

The reception suite was decorated with white gladioli, arranged artistically in the background and creating a decorative setting for the wedding party.

Mrs. Padgett, the bride's mother was a charming figure in dusty pink crepe evening model with long pink suede gloves and corsage of orchids. Mrs. Bolton, the bridegroom's mother, wore a lovely aqua crepe model with long white kid gloves and orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Raby assisted in receiving.

The beauty of the mid-summer night attracted the guests out to the garden where the wedding cake was cut by the bride and groom before departing on their honeymoon.

Electrics were strung in the trees and encircling the garden were hurricane lamps shading candles glimmering in fascinating manner.

A glass top table with candles gleaming under hurricane shades at either side of the wedding cake, was placed in a semicircle of candlelight in one section of the garden.

Frosted fruit frappe was served with individual wedding cakes by a few of the bride's intimate friends, Miss Nell McCormick, Miss Sally Ware, Miss Ada Hudson Brister, Miss Mary Edith Breard, Mrs. E. Murray Caldwell, Mrs. King Stubbs, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. T. R. Easterling, Mrs. L. J. Hulin, and Mrs. E. H. Williamson.

Sentiment held sway on this occasion as it was the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents and their friends took this opportunity to extend felicitations.

Before the bride changed her wedding raiment for her traveling ensemble she tossed her wedding bouquet. It was caught by her sister, Miss Patricia Padgett.

The bride traveled in a turquoise blue linen tailleur, a Clara Potter model. Her hat was a natural Panama and her purse and slippers were of alligator. A corsage of orchids added a distinctive note.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolton will spend their honeymoon in New Orleans and when they return they will be at home to their friends in Baton Rouge.

The bride is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish high school and the Louisiana State university, class of 1947. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma, Chi Omega, Delta Gamma Delta and Delta P si Kappa. She studied aeronautical engineering as a Curtiss-Wright Cadette for ten months at Texas University. She worked for a year for Curtis Wright at their plant in Buffalo, N. Y., and returned to L. S. U. in the fall of 1946 and finished with a B. S. degree in education, majoring in physical education this past May.

She has played tournament tennis since she was 15 and ranked number four in the Women's division of the Southern Lawn Tennis association last year.

Mr. Bolton is a graduate of the Bienville high school and finished in agriculture in 1942. He is now working on his Master's degree in agronomy at L. S. U. He was a member of the tennis team at Northwestern and appeared in "Who's Who of Colleges and universities." Mr. Bolton served in the navy during the war as a Lieutenant (j.g.).

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Bolton of Shreveport; Dr. and Mrs. John S. Kyser and Mr. Kenneth Watson of Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. E. Murray Caldwell and daughter, Diane of Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cronin of Leesville; Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Mangum and sons, George, Samuel and Peter of Delhi; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Allen and son of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bolton and daughter, Avonelle of Coushatta. Attending the wedding from Baton Rouge were: Messrs Bill Wilkinson, Earl Williamson and Bill Turner, Mrs. Myrtle Dalton and Mrs. W. T. Smith of Bastrop were also among the out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Henry had as their dinner guests Thursday night, Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Johnston of Grayson.

BRIDE'S ATTENDANT

Miss Charlene Kaplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kaplan served her sister, Miss Shirley F. Kaplan as maid of honor when she became the bride of Dr. Gerald Orken.

Traditions Observed In Marriage Service

Miss Kaplan And Dr. Orken United In Wedlock Beneath Canopy Of Flowers

The wedding of Miss. Shirley Fradel Kaplan and Dr. Gerald Orken took place on July the ninth at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Kaplan on Auburn avenue, in the present of members of the immediate families.

Conforming to an old religious custom, the ceremony was performed under a hupah or canopy of white flowers and fern by Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. The hupah is symbolic of the litter in which the bride was carried in wedding processions of olden times. It stands for the future home and family of the newly-married couple, adding beauty and sacredness to the wedding ceremony.

On either side of the canopy stood young cousins of the bride, the boys in white linen suits and the girls in pastel evening dresses, carrying old-fashioned nosegays. They were Joel Sugar, Brigit Cymbalista, Sue Snyder, Nell Bridge, C. E. Snyder, Max Abel, and Charlie Snyder. Before the ceremony, Mrs. A. M. Serex, accompanied by Mr. Leon Hammond, sang "At Dawning" and "Because" in beautiful voice.

At the appointed hour to the strains of the wedding march, the matron of honor, Mrs. Ester Snyder, grandmother of the bride, entered the flower-banked drawing room. She wore a stunning gray crepe gown and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Charlene Kaplan, sub-deb sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. Her fresh blond beauty was enhanced by a bouffant gown of imported blue marquisette. Pink rosebuds, matching those of the bouquet she carried were worn in her hair.

The bride, radiantly beautiful, wore the traditional white satin wedding gown with off-shoulder neckline and the long sleeves and back of the gown fastened by hundreds of tiny satin-covered buttons. For something old, she wore a veil of exquisite hand-made lace and net. She carried her sister's white prayer book from which fell a shower of white ribbons and small white orchids. A lucky penny was placed in one of her satin slippers. The old luck charm of something blue was carried out by a hidden ribbon. Florette Snyder, petite cousin of the bride, carried her train.

Entering on the arm of her father, she joined the groom under the hupah. The father of the groom acted as his best man.

After the final words of the impressive ceremony were pronounced by Rabbi Hirsch, Mr. Max Kaplan, grandfather of the bride, chanted the beautiful Jewish prayers of thanks and blessings for the newly-married couple.

The wedding reception was held in the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oakley, neighbors and life-long friends of the family, and where the bride played during her childhood.

Dr. and Mrs. Orken received their friends under the hupah which was removed from the home to the garden after the ceremony.

Mrs. Kaplan, mother of the bride, wore a handsome flesh-colored crepe model with imported lace. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Orken, who wore an exquisite lime-colored crepe model with accessories matching the orchid worn in her hair.

The lace-covered and flower-adorned bride's table with its mammoth three-tiered wedding cake was presided over by Mrs. Ida Kaplan. Petits fours, salted and sugared almonds, turkey sandwiches and champagne punch were faultlessly served by white-clad attendants to the more than five hundred guests who attended. The young friends were given tiny ribbon-tied boxes of wedding cake to dream on after dancing to the alluring strains of an orchestra.

The bride's going-away costume was a hand-made suit of green crepe with blouse and coat lining of gold and white plaid. Her hat, gloves, purse, and shoes were of brown.

The bride was graduated from Neville High School and attended Ward-Belmont and Louisiana State University.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Orken, of Chattanooga, was graduated from the University of Vanderbilt in the school of medicine.

After a brief honeymoon on the gulf coast, Dr. and Mrs. Orken will be at home to their friends in Detroit, Mich., where Dr. Orken holds the rank of lieutenant in the medical corps of the army of the United States.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Abe Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. Mendel Snyder, and Miss Rose Greenberg, all of Louisville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Casper, Miss Marilyn Casper, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ely, Dallas, Tex.; Mr. Fred Rosen and Miss Shirley Rosen, Port Arthur, Tex.; Mr. Alvin Kaplan and Mr. Meyer Kaplan, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Snyder, Mr. Marion Snyder, Winslow, Ind.; Mrs. Florette Michael, Athens, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brenner and son, Max, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rubenstein, Mr. Henry Rubenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Max Heller, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brenner, all of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Able, Columbus O.; Mrs. Cavalier, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Orken, Chattanooga Tenn.; Mrs. Alfred Hirschberg, Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Bobbie Hirschberg Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. Alfred Long Evergreen, Ala.; Miss Helene Tartar Plaquemine, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Snyder, Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. David Snyder, Bastrop; Mr. Sampson Snyder, Bastrop; and Mrs. Charles Snyder, Bastrop.

Barbecue Supper Enjoyed By The Y's Men Club

Monroe hosts and hostesses excel at meals prepared and served out of doors and their colorful and casual way of living calls for considerable entertaining in the garden and on the patio.

One of Monroe's most notable advocates of this pleasant way of life is Mr. O. N. McNeil, who is past master in the art of barbecuing. Recently he entertained members of the Y's Men Club with a barbecue on the patio of his home on Spurgeon drive. Cold steins of beer were served the guests upon arrival and following an interlude during which conversation revolved around politics, the high cost of living and the price of new cars, supper was served piping hot from the nearby barbecue pit.

Club members enjoying this hospitality were: Messrs. Dick Bradley, Eddie Fitzpatrick, Willard Fisher, Prentice Gray, Durwood Griffin, George Keene, John Kitchenham, Dan Moore, Charles "Chuck" Morrow, Jack Noble, James Newell, Charles Penn, Frellsen Reese, Bill Rushing, Bill Smith, Floyd Stone, Dick Troy, and the club president, Fort Zachary. Mr. Garrett Stewart was a club guest.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Virginia McCrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCrea, Sr., of Vidalia to Mr. Arthur Beacham of Alamagordo, New Mexico, has been announced. It will be solemnized August 4, at 7:30 p. m. at the Vidalia Baptist Church.

Creative Writing Class Organized At The Y. W. C. A.

For the past eight weeks the Y-Teens of the Young Women's Christian Association, one of the Red Feather Service of the Community Chest, have been sponsoring as a part of the summer activity program a Creative Writing Class. Mrs. J. R White, a well-known poet and writer has been the leader for this group. The purpose of this class, which has met each Wednesday morning, has been self-expression through poetry and the appreciation of poetry. Each Wedensday the girls have studied about some of the outstanding poets and their writings and have brought to class their own original poems. On this Wednesday morning, July 30th the class will hold its last session and at this time will make a booklet which shall contain poems of each girl in the group. The members of the class are: Jane Steed, Mary Katherine Wheelis, Sarah Herndon Smith Anne and Lydia Varino, Jane Milner Julia Williams, and Virginia Williams

Conforming to an old religious custom, the ceremony was performed under a hupah or canopy of white flowers and fern by Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. The hupah is symbolic of the litter in which the bride was carried in wedding processions of olden times. It stands for the future home and family of the newly-married couple, adding beauty and sacredness to the wedding ceremony.

On either side of the canopy stood young cousins of the bride, the boys in white linen suits and the girls in pastel evening dresses, carrying old-fashioned nosegays. They were Joel Sugar, Brigit Cymbalista, Sue Snyder, Neil Bridge, C. E. Snyder, Max Abel, and Charlie Snyder. Before the ceremony, Mrs. A. M. Serex, accompanied by Mr. Leon Hammond, sang "At Dawning" and "Because" in beautiful voice.

At the appointed hour to the strains of the wedding march, the matron of honor, Mrs. Ester Snyder, grandmother of the bride, entered the flower-banked drawing room. She wore a stunning gray crepe gown and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Charlene Kaplan, sub-deb sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. Her fresh blond beauty was enhanced by a bouffant gown of imported blue marquisette. Pink rosebuds, matching those of the bouquet she carried were worn in her hair.

The bride, radiantly beautiful, wore the traditional white satin wedding gown with off-shoulder neckline and the long sleeves and back of the gown fastened by hundreds of tiny satin-covered buttons. For something old, she wore a veil of exquisite hand-made lace and net. She carried her sister's white prayer book from which fell a shower of white ribbons and small white orchids. A lucky penny was placed in one of her satin slippers. The old luck charm of something blue was carried out by a hidden ribbon. Florette Snyder, petite cousin of the bride, carried her train.

Entering on the arm of her father, she joined the groom under the hupah. The father of the groom acted as his best man.

After the final words of the impressive ceremony were pronounced by Rabbi Hirsch, Mr. Max Kaplan, grandfather of the bride, chanted the beautiful Jewish prayers of thanks and blessings for the newly-married couple.

The wedding reception was held in the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oakley, neighbors and life-long friends of the family, and where the bride played during her childhood.

Dr. and Mrs. Orken received their friends under the hupah which was removed from the home to the garden after the ceremony.

Mrs. Kaplan, mother of the bride, wore a handsome flesh-colored crepe model with imported lace. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Orken, who wore an exquisite lime-colored crepe model with accessories matching the orchid worn in her hair.

The lace-covered and flower-adorned bride's table with its mammoth three-tiered wedding cake was presided over by Mrs. Ida Kaplan. Petits fours, salted and sugared almonds, turkey sandwiches and champagne punch were faultlessly served by white-clad attendants to the more than five hundred guests who attended. The young friends were given tiny ribbon-tied boxes of wedding cake to dream on after dancing to the alluring strains of an orchestra.

The bride's going-away costume was a hand-made suit of green crepe with blouse and coat lining of gold and white plaid. Her hat, gloves, purse, and shoes were of brown.

The bride was graduated from Neville High School and attended Ward-Belmont and Louisiana State University.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Orken, of Chattanooga, was graduated from the University of Vanderbilt in the school of medicine.

After a brief honeymoon on the gulf coast, Dr. and Mrs. Orken will be at home to their friends in Detroit, Mich., where Dr. Orken holds the rank of lieutenant in the medical corps of the army of the United States.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Abe Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. Mendel Snyder, and Miss Rose Greenberg, all of Louisville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Casper, Miss Marilyn Casper, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ely, Dallas, Tex.; Mr. Fred Rosen and Miss Shirley Rosen, Port Arthur, Tex.; Mr. Alvin Kaplan and Mr. Meyer Kaplan, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Snyder, Mr. Marion Snyder, Winslow, Ind.; Mrs. Florette Michael, Athens, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brenner and son, Max, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rubenstein, Mr. Henry Rubenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Max Heller, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brenner, all of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Able, Columbus, O.; Mrs. Cavalier, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Orken, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mrs. Alfred Hirschberg, Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Bobbie Hirschberg, Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. Alfred Long, Evergreen, Ala.; Miss Helene Tartar, Plaquemine, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Snyder, Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. David Snyder, Bastrop; Mr. Sampson Snyder, Bastrop; and Mrs. Charles Snyder, Bastrop.

Barbecue Supper Enjoyed By The Y's Men Club

Monroe hosts and hostesses excel at meals prepared and served out of doors and their colorful and casual way of living calls for considerable entertaining in the garden and on the patio.

One of Monroe's most notable advocates of this pleasant way of life is Mr. O. N. McNeil, who is past master in the art of barbecuing. Recently he entertained members of the Y's Men Club with a barbecue on the patio of his home on Spurgeon drive. Cold steins of beer were served the guests upon arrival and following an interlude during which conversation revolved around politics, the high cost of living and the price of new cars, supper was served piping hot from the nearby barbecue pit.

Club members enjoying this hospitality were: Messrs. Dick Bradley, Eddie Fitzpatrick, Willard Fisher, Prentice Gray, Durwood Griffin, George Keene, John Kitchenham, Dan Moore, Charles "Chuck" Morrow, Jack Noble, James Newell, Charles Penn, Frellsen Reese, Bill Rushing, Bill Smith, Floyd Stone, Dick Troy, and the club president, Fort Zachary. Mr. Garrett Stewart was a club guest.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Virginia McCrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCrea, Sr., of Vidalia to Mr. Arthur Beacham of Alamagordo, New Mexico, has been announced. It will be solemnized August 4, at 7:30 p. m. at the Vidalia Baptist Church.

Creative Writing Class Organized At The Y. W. C. A.

For the past eight weeks the Y-Teens of the Young Women's Christian Association, one of the Red Feather Service of the Community Chest, have been sponsoring as a part of the summer activity program a Creative Writing Class. Mrs. J. R. White, a well-known poet and writer, has been the leader for this group. The purpose of this class, which has met each Wednesday morning, has been self-expression through poetry and the appreciation of poetry. Each Wedensday the girls have studied about some of the outstanding poets and their writings and have brought to class their own original poems. On this Wednesday morning, July 30th, the class will hold its last session, and at this time will make a booklet which shall contain poems of each girl in the group. The members of the class are: Jane Steed, Mary Katherine Wheelis, Sarah Herndon Smith, Anne and Lydia Varino, Jane Milner, Julia Williams, and Virginia Williams.

SUMMER DELIGHT! Meeting your friends every afternoon at the Pink Elephant cocktail bar at BAKAL'S where it's as cool as a snowflake. It's the customary thing to do these days when the city swelters in the July sun. Whole families are now dining nightly at BAKAL'S as the food is something very special. BAKAL'S is famous for its sea food, steaks and chops. Any meal becomes festive when served at BAKAL'S. Luncheons and dinner parties are a specialty.

MOTHERS REALIZE that it's just as important for their children to have the right kind of bread as it is for them to have the proper pediatrician. The right kind of bread is BROGAN'S SUREBEST and the sooner every mother in the Twin Cities realizes this the better off their children will be. Grown ups also need BROGAN'S SUREBEST because it contains minerals and vitamins so important in today's diet. BROGAN'S SUREBEST makes appetizing sandwiches and the most delicious golden brown toast you ever smacked your lips over.

NEWLY WEDS AND CAREER GIRLS count on a suit made to their measurements by FINK THE TAILOR for correct attire. A suit tailored by FINK has smarter lines and is so beautiful you will want to wear it summer, autumn and winter. Prominent Wedding At St. Matthew's Attracts Large Concourse Of Friends

Miss Kilpatrick Is July Bride

Kilpatrick-Wilbert Nuptial Is One Of The Most Prominent Of The Season

Cathedral tapers, myriads of them, pricked the dimness of the altar at St. Matthew's Catholic Church on the evening of July 23 when Miss Nancy Jane Kilpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armour Kemp Kilpatrick, became the bride of Mr. Louis Joseph Wilbert Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilbert of Plaquemine, La.

The nuptial hour, six o'clock, found the acolytes in their black and white vestments, lighting the tapers while the organist, Mr. J. F. Monroe, rendered Bach's "Air for the G. String" and "Ariosa." Mr. E. M. Wooten's dramatic tenor voice was heard to splendid advantage in "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Marconi daisies, arranged with artistry in tall white, wrought iron pedestal urns were grouped in a semi-circle in the chancel. In the background woodwardia fern, against which the candles were silhouetted, created a lush green setting for the ceremony.

A large concourse of relatives and friends filled to capacity the spacious environs of the church. The ushers were Mr. Charles McKenzie, Jr., and Mr. J. Hart Dixon. Members of the two families occupied the pews set apart for them. They were designated by garlands of Marconi daisies entwined with misty white tulle.

Mrs. Kilpatrick, the bride's mother, wore a beautiful chiffon evening gown of pale green, charming in its simplicity. The skirt, long and full was gracefully draped at one side. She wore a small hat of pale green tulle and a corsage of green cyprepedium orchids.

Mrs. Wilbert, the bridegroom's mother walked down the aisle in a lovely cream colored lace model with small flower hat and a corsage of cyprepedium orchids. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Wilbert wore a black chiffon evening model with a small black evening hat and a corsage of white orchids. Miss Sue Wilbert, the bridegroom's sister, wore a distinctive flowered chiffon model with a garland of gardenias in her hair and corsage of gardenias and tuberoses.

All the gentlemen in the wedding party wore black trousers and white tuxedos, de rigeur of southern summertime weddings. They all wore boutonnieres of tuberoses.

The groomsmen were: Mr. John C. Burden Jr., of Baton Rouge, Mr. L. C. Aycock of Houston, Mr. Jack Cousin of Welch, La., Mr. Winfield Scott Harvey of Salina, Kansas and Mr. Bert Turner.

Mr. E. W. Wyman Jr., of Lake Charles, La., served in the capacity of best man.

Monseigneur John C. March, wearing the ecclesiastical robes of his high office performed the deeply religious, and impressive ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Branton Kellogg of Wellesley, Mass. She wore a lovely, ankle length, model of sheer white organza and lace fashioned over lime green satin. Her wide-brimmed hat of white horse hair braid tied with lengths of lime green velvet ribbon, was most becoming. Her bouquet was an artistic creation, fan shaped and fashioned of tuberoses and English ivy, tied with lime green velvet ribbon.

Miss Kilpatrick was a legendary bride, tall, graceful and radiantly lovely in her traditional wedding gown engagingly young, yet with a gracious formality to make it an heirloom treasure. The gown of gleaming ivory satin was fashioned with a high, round neckline and extended shoulders formed the sleeves. A wide fold of satin delicately appliqued with Alencon lace formed an off-the-shoulder bertha around the deep, sheer yoke. The skirt at the hip line was also delicately appliqued with Alencon lace.

Bride Carries Fan

The bride carried an exquisite heirloom imported Rosepoint lace fan florally adorned with white baby orchids and tuberoses tied with lengths of satin ribbon. Her imported lace veil was worn mantilla fashion falling just below the shoulders. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride and groom knelt on a white satin prie-dieu to receive the blessing of Monseigneur Marsh.

The reception at the Kilpatrick home on Park avenue was a quiet one due to the recent bereavement in the bride's family. It was attended with considerable pomp and ceremony however with toasts to the young couple drunk in champagne. The few intimate friends present, in addition to members of the two families, pressed forward to congratulate the bridegroom and to wish the bride happiness.

The drawing room was banked with Marconi daisies, also the reception suite.

Marconi daisies were grouped with artistry in the dining room where the bride and bridegroom cut their wedding cake before departing on their honeymoon. It was placed on a circular table overlaid with handsome floor length, white Victorian lace edged with net over white satin. Crystal girandoles supporting white candles, gracefully flanked the heart-shaped wedding cake embossed with white roses.

Little white boxes, tied with white satin ribbons, containing wedding cake were presented each guest.

Corps of white jacketed attendants passed trays of champagne and later a wedding supper was served with Maine lobster, the piece de resistance.

The bride's costume, worn for traveling, was the essence of smartness. It was of cocoa brown gabardine and the collar and cuffs were trimmed with narrow white silk braid. She wore white suede gloves and other accessories of brown. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Will Visit Canada

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert will spend their honeymoon motoring in Canada. They will visit Montreal and Quebec and will be guests at Alpine Inn in the Laurentian mountains. Enroute home they will visit New York, Boston and Washington.

After the first of September Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert will be at home in the Terrace Garden apartments, Baton Rouge.

The bride, member of one of Monroe's prominent families, will be greatly missed in younger social circles where she is a great favorite. She is a graduate of Ward Belmont college, Nashville, Tenn., and the Louisiana State University where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Mr. Wilbert is a graduate of Springhill college, Mobile, Ala., and the Louisiana state university with a B. A. and M. A. degree. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the Southern club in Baton Rouge where he is a professor of geology at the university.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilbert, Mrs. Joseph Wilbert, Miss Sue Wilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Colvin Schwing of Plaquemine; Mr. Bert Turner, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Singletary, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pope, Mr. and Mrs. A. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burden Jr., of Baton Rouge; Mr. J. C. Burden of Napoleonville, La., Mr. Jack Cousin of Welch, La., Miss Betty Schlessinger of Abbeyville, La., Mr. Winfield Scott Harvey of Salina, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. D. Roark of Marion, La., Mr. L. P. Aycock of Houston, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Glassell and Misses Emily and Lillian Glassell of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wyman Jr., of Lake Charles.

CHARMING VISITOR

Miss Sandra Allen Smith of Leslie, Ga., is the house guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, in the home of Mrs. H. J. Fernandez.

Miss Nola Is Honor Guest At Buffet Supper

Mrs. John P. Harkins entertained at her home with a buffet supper complimentary to Miss Josephine Nola, whose engagement to Mr. Robert M. Harkins has just been announced.

Candlelight enhanced the beauty of the home which was decorated with ferns and unusual arrangements of white gladioli, marconi and shasta daisies and tuberoses. The dining room table was covered with a lovely damask cloth and the center with bride and groom figurines placed under an arch from which wedding bells were suspended. The silver base was covered with white gladioli bells, tuberoses and fluffs of maline. Double crystal candelabra were used on either end of the table to hold burning tapers. On the buffet an arrangement of white gladioli petals and shasta daisies formed a wedding ring with candles on either side.

The individual tables were also centered with a bride and groom surrounded by garlands of shasta daisies. The placecards were hand-printed clusters of shasta daisies, on the inside of which was the inscription, "Daisies are telling that there is going to be a wedding—Jo and Bobbie, August 16." Nosegays of shasta daisies in maline holders for each guest were placed by the placecards. On the piano, there was a miniature bridal party with the attendants wearing the color dresses which will be worn in the wedding.

Mrs. Harkins received her guests wearing a black and white frock with white accessories and a corsage of rainbow asters. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Nobie Stringer in a black sheer with black accessories and a white corsage. The honoree was charming in a Dorothy O'Hara original with accessories of brown. Her corsage was designed of white carnations trimmed with miniature silver wedding bells.

The hostess' gift to Miss Nola was china in her chosen pattern.

Those enjoying the occasion were: Miss Josephine Nola, Mrs. Paul Nola, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Frank Parrino, Mrs. N. J. Sciara, Miss Teresa Harkins, sisters of the groom-to-be, Mrs. V. W. Cardwell, Miss Nobie Stringer, Mrs. A. L. Fussie and Mrs. Harkins.

Mrs. Prioleau Ellis of New Orleans, formerly a resident of Monroe, is the guest of Mrs. Cecile Parker for a few days.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL DARTEZ

Mr. and Mrs. Dartez are seen leaving the church following their marriage in Lafayette, La. The flower girl is Jane Reaux. Mrs. Dartez is the former Miss Elizabeth Weck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johan Weck of Vienna, Austria. The bride-elect flew from Vienna to Lafayette, via Pan-American Clipper. Mr. Dartez is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abel Dartez. Mr. and Mrs. Dartez are making their home in this city.

Purely Personal

Friends are welcoming Mr. A. L. Smith and his charming wife back to Monroe where he was born and reared. He has been making his home in Baton Rouge and while there his marriage to Miss Isabel Ronaldson, took place. They are now happily established in their own home in Sterlington near the site of the old plantation where his father, D. Y. Smith, was born. The plantation home, one of the most hospitable in the south and continually the scene of gay, festive affairs, burned to the ground several years ago. Memories of those happy days still linger, however, in the minds of friends who attended many a week-end house party at this old plantation home. Thanksgiving dinner had become a tradition when Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Smith made their home at the plantation. Roaring log fires in the fireplaces, (one in every room) welcomed the guests who numbered the intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Smith. Everyone gathered around the fire in the great living room and exchanged pleasantries following the sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner. A feeling of sadness overlakes these old friends when they realize those happy days will never come again.

Quite the happiest boy in all Christendom today is Bobby Garrett, who spends his summer vacation every year with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Greenwald. He recently received as a gift from Mr. Vivian Greenwald a rubber life raft of the type used during the war. It is unsinkable and is equipped with every type of life saving device, including ten life preservers. The raft has been placed in the water and is an everlasting source of pleasure to Bobby and his friends. The rafts were recently placed on sale by the U. S. government in New Orleans at a price astonishingly low when compared with the original cost.

During the war Major James C. Powledge was stationed at Selman Field, he and his charming wife made their home at the Frances hotel and acquired a vast number of friends. Major Powledge, known far and wide as "Jimmy" is now the popular manager of the Buccaneer hotel on the beach at Galveston. A party of Monroe vacationists returning from Galveston where they were guests at the Buckaneer are shouting his praises to the high heavens. He made their stay so thoroughly enjoyable and looked after their comforts to such a degree they were reluctant to leave. However, it isn't just personal friends who receive his personal attention . . . every guest in the hotel comes under his personal observation and the experience of meeting him is always a pleasant and happy one. Major Powledge is the typical hotel manager . . . affable, courteous, considerate and possesses a personality of unusual charm.

It's a good thing that Louise Tisdale's wedding is taking place in September when everyone is refreshed and rested after a summer vacation as there will be a whirlwind of prenuptials affairs in her honor. A brimming calendar is already outlined. Hostesses are wrinkling their brows and wondering if the social calendar is elastic enough to stretch to their convenience.

In Monroe there's a vivacious young bride from Vienna, Austria, you'll fall in love with the minute you meet her. She is Mrs. Paul Dartez, formerly Miss Elizabeth Weck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johan Weck of Vienna. She couldn't speak a word of English when she arrived in America but has mastered it to such an extent that she can carry on a conversation. Her accent is fascinating and wherever she goes, friends are eager to engage her in conversation. Mrs. Dartez is a lovely brunette with a magnetic personality. She and Mr. Dartez met two years ago when he was stationed in Vienna with the U. S. forces. She arrived via air ways from Austria just before her marriage.

Monroe can ill afford to lose such substantial citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher. Their departure for Baton Rouge, where Mr. Thatcher is serving as executive secretary of the Louisiana School Board Association is generally regretted by friends in the Twin Cities where they established a special niche for themselves in civic, religious, educational and social circles.

Mrs. Thatcher has served as president of the Fine Arts Club of Monroe and of the Altrurian Book Club of West Monroe; is an active member of the Civic League and the League of Women Voters; has taught a Sunday school class in the First Baptist Church of West Monroe for many years; and is a member of the choir. Their attractive daughter, Miss Beverly Anne Thatcher served on the student council at Northeast Junior College, was member of Phi Theta Kappa, feature editor of Chacahoula, on the Pow Wow staff and Purple Jackets. She will enter Louisiana State University this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher's son, Jack Thatcher is a graduate cum laude of Harvard University and served with distinction in the navy during the war. He was on the faculty of N. J. C. for the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher were fortunate enough to secure a lovely new house in Baton Rouge, which is being completing on Jefferson highway just outside the city limits. The house, which is built of hewn rock, sets back a hundred feet from the highway on a grassy plot of ground with a 100 foot frontage and a depth of more than 800 feet. The Thatchers are to be congratulated upon so readily finding this beautiful home with its spacious grounds when so many people are being forced to leave Baton Rouge for lack of living accommodations.

Although the Twin Cities feel a distinct loss in the departure of the Thatchers, friends are confident that they will prove the same acquition to Baton Rouge as has characterized their lives in West Monroe for the past thirty or more years.

Many informal courtesies are being extended them by their friends.

Donnie Thompson was suprised on his birthday anniversary with a dinner party given by his sister, Mrs. John Capps of Swartz.

Presenting the celebrant with gifts and enjoying the delicious dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John Caps and son, Johnnie Ray, Mrs. George Spier and daughters, Marie and Pat, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Walker, Mrs. Shelby Thompson and family, Miss Ada Mae Hicks, Faye Stout, Miss Ann Thompson, and Miss Shirley Thompson.

Kilpatrick-Wilbert Nuptial Is One Of The Most Prominent Of The Season

Cathedral tapers, myriads of them, pricked the dimness of the altar at St. Matthew's Catholic Church on the evening of July 23 when Miss Nancy Jane Kilpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armour Kemp Kilpatrick, became the bride of Mr. Louis Joseph Wilbert Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilbert of Plaquemine, La.

The nuptial hour, six o'clock, found the acolytes in their black and white vestments, lighting the tapers while the organist, Mr. J. F. Monroe, rendered Bach's "Air for the G. String" and "Ariosa." Mr. E. M. Wooten's dramatic tenor voice was heard to splendid advantage in "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Marconi daisies, arranged with artistry in tall white, wrought iron pedestal urns were grouped in a semi-circle in the chancel. In the background woodwardia fern, against which the candles were silhouetted, created a lush green setting for the ceremony.

A large concourse of relatives and friends filled to capacity the spacious environs of the church. The ushers were Mr. Charles McKenzie, Jr., and Mr. J. Hart Dixon. Members of the two families occupied the pews set apart for them. They were designated by garlands of Marconi daisies entwined with misty white tulle.

Mrs. Kilpatrick, the bride's mother, wore a beautiful chiffon evening gown of pale green, charming in its simplicity. The skirt, long and full was gracefully draped at one side. She wore a small hat of pale green tulle and a corsage of green cyprepedium orchids.

Mrs. Wilbert, the bridegroom's mother walked down the aisle in a lovely cream colored lace model with small flower hat and a corsage of cyprepedium orchids. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Wilbert wore a black chiffon evening model with a small black evening hat and a corsage of white orchids. Miss Sue Wilbert, the bridegroom's sister, wore a distinctive flowered chiffon model with a garland of gardenias in her hair and corsage of gardenias and tuberoses.

All the gentlemen in the wedding party wore black trousers and white tuxedos, de rigeur of southern summertime weddings. They all wore boutonnieres of tuberoses.

The groomsmen were: Mr. John C. Burden Jr., of Baton Rouge, Mr. L. C. Aycock of Houston, Mr. Jack Cousin of Welch, La., Mr. Winfield Scott Harvey of Salina, Kansas and Mr. Bert Turner.

Mr. E. W. Wyman Jr., of Lake Charles, La., served in the capacity of best man.

Monseigneur John C. March, wearing the ecclesiastical robes of his high office performed the deeply religious, and impressive ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Branton Kellogg of Wellesley, Mass. She wore a lovely, ankle length, model of sheer white organza and lace fashioned over lime green satin. Her wide-brimmed hat of white horse hair braid tied with lengths of lime green velvet ribbon, was most becoming. Her bouquet was an artistic creation, fan shaped and fashioned of tuberoses and English ivy, tied with lime green velvet ribbon.

Miss Kilpatrick was a legendary bride, tall, graceful and radiantly lovely in her traditional wedding gown engagingly young, yet with a gracious formality to make it an heirloom treasure. The gown of gleaming ivory satin was fashioned with a high, round neckline and extended shoulders formed the sleeves. A wide fold of satin delicately appliqued with Alencon lace formed an off-the-shoulder bertha around the deep, sheer yoke. The skirt at the hip line was also delicately appliqued with Alencon lace.

Bride Carries Fan

The bride carried an exquisite heirloom imported Rosepoint lace fan florally adorned with white baby orchids and tuberoses tied with lengths of satin ribbon. Her imported lace veil was worn mantilla fashion falling just below the shoulders. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride and groom knelt on a white satin prie-dieu to receive the blessing of Monseigneur Marsh.

The reception at the Kilpatrick home on Park avenue was a quiet one due to the recent bereavement in the bride's family. It was attended with considerable pomp and ceremony however with toasts to the young couple drunk in champagne. The few intimate friends present, in addition to members of the two families, pressed forward to congratulate the bridegroom and to wish the bride happiness.

The drawing room was banked with Marconi daisies, also the reception suite.

Marconi daisies were grouped with artistry in the dining room where the bride and bridegroom cut their wedding cake before departing on their honeymoon. It was placed on a circular table overlaid with handsome floor length, white Victorian lace edged with net over white satin. Crystal girandoles supporting white candles, gracefully flanked the heart-shaped wedding cake embossed with white roses.

Little white boxes, tied with white satin ribbons, containing wedding cake were presented each guest.

Corps of white jacketed attendants passed trays of champagne and later a wedding supper was served with Maine lobster, the piece de resistance.

The bride's costume, worn for traveling, was the essence of smartness. It was of cocoa brown gabardine and the collar and cuffs were trimmed with narrow white silk braid. She wore white suede gloves and other accessories of brown. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Will Visit Canada

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert will spend their honeymoon motoring in Canada. They will visit Montreal and Quebec and will be guests at Alpine Inn in the Laurentian mountains. Enroute home they will visit New York, Boston and Washington.

After the first of September Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert will be at home in the Terrace Garden apartments, Baton Rouge.

The bride, member of one of Monroe's prominent families, will be greatly missed in younger social circles where she is a great favorite. She is a graduate of Ward Belmont college, Nashville, Tenn., and the Louisiana State University where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Mr. Wilbert is a graduate of Springhill college, Mobile, Ala., and the Louisiana state university with a B. A. and M. A. degree. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the Southern club in Baton Rouge where he is a professor of geology at the university.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilbert, Mrs. Joseph Wilbert, Miss Sue Wilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Colvin Schwing of Plaquemine; Mr. Bert Turner, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Singletary, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pope, Mr. and Mrs. A. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burden Jr., of Baton Rouge; Mr. J. C. Burden of Napoleonville, La., Mr. Jack Cousin of Welch, La., Miss Betty Schlessinger of Abbeyville, La., Mr. Winfield Scott Harvey of Salina, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. D. Roark of Marion, La., Mr. L. P. Aycock of Houston, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Glassell and Misses Emily and Lillian Glassell of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wyman Jr., of Lake Charles.

CHARMING VISITOR

Miss Sandra Allen Smith of Leslie, Ga., is the house guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, in the home of Mrs. H. J. Fernandez.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL DARTEZ

Mr. and Mrs. Dartez are seen leaving the church following their marriage in Lafayette, La. The flower girl is Jane Reaux. Mrs. Dartez is the former Miss Elizabeth Weck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johan Weck of Vienna, Austria. The bride-elect flew from Vienna to Lafayette, via Pan-American Clipper. Mr. Dartez is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abel Dartez. Mr. and Mrs. Dartez are making their home in this city.

Miss Nola Is Honor Guest At Buffet Supper

Mrs. John P. Harkins entertained at her home with a buffet supper complimentary to Miss Josephine Nola, whose engagement to Mr. Robert M. Harkins has just been announced.

Candlelight enhanced the beauty of the home which was decorated with ferns and unusual arrangements of white gladioli, marconi and shasta daisies and tuberoses. The dining room table was covered with a lovely damask cloth and the center with bride and groom figurines placed under an arch from which wedding bells were suspended. The silver base was covered with white gladioli bells, tuberoses and fluffs of maline. Double crystal candelabra were used on either end of the table to hold burning tapers. On the buffet an arrangement of white gladioli petals and shasta daisies formed a wedding ring with candles on either side.

The individual tables were also centered with a bride and groom surrounded by garlands of shasta daisies. The placecards were hand-printed clusters of shasta daisies, on the inside of which was the inscription, "Daisies are telling that there is going to be a wedding—Jo and Bobbie, August 16." Nosegays of shasta daisies in maline holders for each guest were placed by the placecards. On the piano, there was a miniature bridal party with the attendants wearing the color dresses which will be worn in the wedding.

Mrs. Harkins received her guests wearing a black and white frock with white accessories and a corsage of rainbow asters. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Nobie Stringer in a black sheer with black accessories and a white corsage. The honoree was charming in a Dorothy O'Hara original with accessories of brown. Her corsage was designed of white carnations trimmed with miniature silver wedding bells.

The hostess' gift to Miss Nola was china in her chosen pattern.

Those enjoying the occasion were: Miss Josephine Nola, Mrs. Paul Nola, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Frank Farrino, Mrs. N. J. Sciara, Miss Teresa Harkins, sisters of the groom-to-be, Mrs. V. W. Cardwell, Miss Nobie Stringer, Mrs. A. L. Fussie and Mrs. Harkins.

Mrs. Prioleau Ellis of New Orleans, formerly a resident of Monroe, is the guest of Mrs. Cecile Parker for a few days.

Purely Personal

Friends are welcoming Mr. A. L. Smith and his charming wife back to Monroe where he was born and reared. He has been making his home in Baton Rouge and while there his marriage to Miss Isabel Ronaldson, took place. They are now happily established in their own home in Sterlington near the site of the old plantation where his father, D. Y. Smith, was born. The plantation home, one of the most hospitable in the south and continually the scene of gay, festive affairs, burned to the ground several years ago. Memories of those happy days still linger, however, in the minds of friends who attended many a week-end house party at this old plantation home. Thanksgiving dinner had become a tradition when Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Smith made their home at the plantation. Roaring log fires in the fireplaces, (one in every room) welcomed the guests who numbered the intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Smith. Everyone gathered around the fire in the great living room and exchanged pleasantries following the sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner. A feeling of sadness overtakes these old friends when they realize those happy days will never come again.

Quite the happiest boy in all Christendom today is Bobby Garrett, who spends his summer vacation every year with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Greenwald. He recently received as a gift from Mr. Vivian Greenwald a rubber life raft of the type used during the war. It is unsinkable and is equipped with every type of life saving device, including ten life preservers. The raft has been placed in the water and is an everlasting source of pleasure to Bobby and his friends. The rafts were recently placed on sale by the U. S. government in New Orleans at a price astonishingly low when compared with the original cost.

During the war Major James C. Powledge was stationed at Selman Field, he and his charming wife made their home at the Frances hotel and acquired a vast number of friends. Major Powledge, known far and wide as "Jimmy" is now the popular manager of the Buccaneer hotel on the beach at Galveston. A party of Monroe vacationists returning from Galveston where they were guests at the Buckaneer are shouting his praises to the high heavens. He made their stay so thoroughly enjoyable and looked after their comforts to such a degree they were reluctant to leave. However, it isn't just personal friends who receive his personal attention . . . every guest in the hotel comes under his personal observation and the experience of meeting him is always a pleasant and happy one. Major Powledge is the typical hotel manager . . . affable, courteous, considerate and possesses a personality of unusual charm.

It's a good thing that Louise Tisdale's wedding is taking place in September when everyone is refreshed and rested after a summer vacation as there will be a whirlwind of prenuptials affairs in her honor. A brimming calendar is already outlined. Hostesses are wrinkling their brows and wondering if the social calendar is elastic enough to stretch to their convenience.

In Monroe there's a vivacious young bride from Vienna, Austria, you'll fall in love with the minute you meet her. She is Mrs. Paul Dartez, formerly Miss Elizabeth Weck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johan Weck of Vienna. She couldn't speak a word of English when she arrived in America but has mastered it to such an extent that she can carry on a conversation. Her accent is fascinating and wherever she goes, friends are eager to engage her in conversation. Mrs. Dartez is a lovely brunette with a magnetic personality. She and Mr. Dartez met two years ago when he was stationed in Vienna with the U. S. forces. She arrived via air ways from Austria just before her marriage.

Monroe can ill afford to lose such substantial citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher. Their departure for Baton Rouge, where Mr. Thatcher is serving as executive secretary of the Louisiana School Board Association is generally regretted by friends in the Twin Cities where they established a special niche for themselves in civic, religious, educational and social circles.

Mrs. Thatcher has served as president of the Fine Arts Club of Monroe and of the Altrurian Book Club of West Monroe; as an active member of the Civic League and the League of Women Voters; has taught a Sunday school class in the First Baptist Church of West Monroe for many years; and is a member of the choir. Their attractive daughter, Miss Beverly Anne Thatcher served on the student council at Northeast Junior College, was member of Phi Theta Kappa, feature editor of Chacahoula, on the Pow Wow staff and Purple Jackets. She will enter Louisiana State University this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher's son, Jack Thatcher is a graduate cum laude of Harvard University and served with distinction in the navy during the war. He was on the faculty of N. J. C. for the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher were fortunate enough to secure a lovely new house in Baton Rouge, which is being completed on Jefferson highway just outside the city limits. The house, which is built of hewn rock, sets back a hundred feet from the highway on a grassy plot of ground with a 100 foot frontage and a depth of more than 800 feet. The Thatchers are to be congratulated upon so readily finding this beautiful home with its spacious grounds when so many people are being forced to leave Baton Rouge for lack of living accommodations.

Although the Twin Cities feel a distinct loss in the departure of the Thatchers, friends are confident that they will prove the same acquition to Baton Rouge as has characterized their lives in West Monroe for the past thirty or more years.

Many informal courtesies are being extended them by their friends.

Donnie Thompson was suprised on his birthday anniversary with a dinner party given by his sister, Mrs. John Capps of Swartz.

Presenting the celebrant with gifts and enjoying the delicious dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John Caps and son, Johnnie Ray, Mrs. George Spier and daughters, Marie and Pat, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Walker, Mrs. Shelby Thompson and family, Miss Ada Mae Hicks, Faye Stout, Miss Ann Thompson, and Miss Shirley Thompson.

HELPS RESTORE SPRING FLOWER BEAUTY TO FADING SKIN

Are you, too, blessed with a "Spring Flower Beauty" of face and throat skin that helps make you look five or ten years younger than your actual birthdays? If not, we suggest you try ENDOCREME to help you recapture the flattering charm of such youthful-looking loveliness. For a decade now ENDOCREME, the original, successful, scientific face cream of its kind, has proven that it can, for most women, help the skin become firmer, fresher, smoother, more attractively younger-appearing than was hitherto thought possible through cosmetics. ENDOCREME alone contains ACTIVOL, an effective replacement for a certain natural feminine substance essential to skin beautification. Absorbed by the skin, it helps restore normal growth to ageing cells and tissue. Many report marked results in only 30 days. $3.50 (plus tax), 30 days' supply.

Miss Word Will Wed Mr. Griffin

Nuptial Event Of Interest Will Take Place On Second Of September

Of paramount social interest today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Word of Arkadelphia, Ark., of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sarah Helen, to Mr. Durwood Griffin of this city. The marriage will take place September 2 at the First Methodist church in Arkadelphia and will be widely attended by friends not only from Monroe but other sections of the state.

Miss Word is the grand-daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Batey Hart of Humboldt, Tenn., and the late Mrs. William Word of Union City, Tenn. Both pioneer families of West Tennessee.

Miss Word is a graduate of Arkadelphia High School and Henderson State Teacher's College with a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Oratory degrees. She obtained a Master of Philosophy degree in speech from the University of Wisconsin. Also attended L. S. U. and the Universidad de Flavaus, Havana, Cuba. For three years Miss Word was instructor in speech at Northeast Junior College. For the past year she has been head of the speech department at Lamar College, Beaumont, Tex.

While in Monroe Miss Word was very active in Little Theater work. She appeared in several plays.

Durwood Griffin attended Northeast Junior College, and Winona Lake School of Photography, Winona Lake, Indiana. He worked for two years with Paul L. Gittings, internationally famous portrait photographer. For two years he was bride photographer at Neiman-Marcus in Dallas. For many years associated with Griffin's Studio in Monroe.

Mr. Griffin served 46 months in the army, with two years being spent overseas in the China-Burma-India Theater doing photographic work. While overseas he served with the British Eastern Fleet and for one year was Staff Officer for Lord Louis Mountbatten, the present Viceroy of India.

PERSONALS

Miss Kay Crandall is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Crandall in Dallas, Texas. She made the trip via airways.

Mrs. D. C. Metcalf has returned from a visit of six weeks with relatives in Sherbrooke, Canada. Mrs. Metcalf also visited in Montreal and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith have been the guests for the past week of Mr. Smith's grandmother, Mrs. A. L. Smith on Glenmar.

An article appearing in the social section of the Baton Rouge State Times will be of interest here as it concerns Mrs. G. M. G. Stafford, the former Miss Dorothy Schulze of this city. The article follows:

A stroll through the handsome camellia garden of Dr. G. M. G. Stafford, where some 200 bushes of this handsome Louisiana flower take central attention, was one of the features of the morning coffee at which Mrs. T. Lynn Smith was honored this morning when Mrs. Stafford entertained at a casual and informal gathering.

The Staffords, known for their flowers, have an interesting home beautifully appointed, with the living room overlooking the patio. It was the living room that guests gathered just after 10 o'clock where they were greeted by Mrs. Stafford who chose a simple dress of white eyelet pique for the morning party.

Guests lingered around the highly polished oval coffee table where a silver filagree basket held red roses and tuberoses combined with graceful arrangements of lacy fern. The silver service where Mrs. Coleman Lindsey presided, wearing a gayly printed sheer in tones of red and white, was at one end of the table. The table, one of a number of antiques in the Stafford home which adds to interest, belonged at one time to Gov. Wells of Louisiana, who was one of Dr. Stafford's ancestors.

Miss Frances Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cooper, and Miss Melba Ann Richie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Richie, of this city, have just returned from a two weeks vacation in Corpus Christi, Texas, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Yeats.

Mr. and Mrs. Hampton J. Goodwin and son, Hamp, Jr., have left for their home in Orlando, Fla., after a delightful week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Barrett.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Vallery whose marriage was an event of recent date. Mrs. Vallery is the former Miss Laweese Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jones of West Monroe.

TRAYLOR-USSERY NUPTIAL AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH IS OF INTEREST TO FRIENDS

On Sunday evening, July 20, in the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Ruth S. Traylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Simpson, Sr., of Monroe, became the bride of Mr. Roger D. Ussery, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ussery, Sr., of Monroe, in an impressive double ring ceremony, with Rev. A. M. Serex officiating.

Pre-nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. John Sholars while the guests were being seated by the groomsmen, Mr. George Hayes, Mr. William Simpson, Jr., and Mr. Fred Ussery, Jr. Mrs. Harold Roberts sang "Through the Year" and "Because."

Mrs. Donald F. Graham, sister of the bride and matron of honor, wore a gray gabardine suit, with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mr. James C. Ussery served as best man.

The bride's mother, Mrs. W. T. Simpson, wore a beautiful black crepe model, with a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. F. M. Ussery, wore an aqua crepe dress, with a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an aqua gabardine suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of white orchids and tuberoses, tied with white satin ribbon.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Riggs. The table was beautifully decorated with miniature bouquets of pink roses and tuberoses encircled white tapers. At one end was placed the tiered wedding cake, embossed with pink roses, and at the other, the crystal punch bowl. The guests were served individual wedding cakes and mints.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, and the groom is a graduate of Neville High School, and is now attending Northeast Junior College. He served in the army as a B-25 pilot, and is active in the army reserve squadron now being formed here.

Immediately following the reception the young couple left for a short honeymoon in Shreveport. They are now at home to their friends at 618 Benton avenue.

Joe Spellers of Chatham, is visiting his sister, Mrs. V. E. Richardson, 322 Vernon street, and his brother.

Miss Word Will Wed Mr. Griffin

Nuptial Event Of Interest Will Take Place On Second Of September

Of paramount social interest today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Word of Arkadelphia, Ark., of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sarah Helen, to Mr. Durwood Griffin of this city. The marriage will take place September 2 at the First Methodist church in Arkadelphia and will be widely attended by friends not only from Monroe but other sections of the state.

Miss Word is the grand-daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Batey Hart of Humboldt, Tenn., and the late Mrs. William Word of Union City, Tenn. Both pioneer families of West Tennessee.

Miss Word is a graduate of Arkadelphia High School and Henderson State Teacher's College with a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Oratory degrees. She obtained a Master of Philosophy degree in speech from the University of Wisconsin. Also attended L. S. U. and the Universidad de Flavaus, Havana, Cuba. For three years Miss Word was instructor in speech at Northeast Junior College. For the past year she has been head of the speech department at Lamar College, Beaumont, Tex.

While in Monroe Miss Word was very active in Little Theater work. She appeared in several plays.

Durwood Griffin attended Northeast Junior College, and Winona Lake School of Photography, Winona Lake, Indiana. He worked for two years with Paul L. Gittings, internationally famous portrait photographer. For two years he was bride photographer at Neiman-Marcus in Dallas. For many years associated with Griffin's Studio in Monroe.

Mr. Griffin served 46 months in the army, with two years being spent overseas in the China-Burma-India Theater doing photographic work. While overseas he served with the British Eastern Fleet and for one year was Staff Officer for Lord Louis Mountbatten, the present Viceroy of India.

PERSONALS

Miss Kay Crandall is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Crandall in Dallas, Texas. She made the trip via airways.

Mrs. D. C. Metcalf has returned from a visit of six weeks with relatives in Sherbrooke, Canada. Mrs. Metcalf also visited in Montreal and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith have been the guests for the past week of Mr. Smith's grandmother, Mrs. A. L. Smith on Glenmar.

An article appearing in the social section of the Baton Rouge State Times will be of interest here as it concerns Mrs. G. M. G. Stafford, the former Miss Dorothy Schulze of this city. The article follows:

A stroll through the handsome camellia garden of Dr. G. M. G. Stafford, where some 200 bushes of this handsome Louisiana flower take central attention, was one of the features of the morning coffee at which Mrs. T. Lynn Smith was honored this morning when Mrs. Stafford entertained at a casual and informal gathering.

The Staffords, known for their flowers, have an interesting home beautifully appointed, with the living room overlooking the patio. It was the living room that guests gathered just after 10 o'clock where they were greeted by Mrs. Stafford who chose a simple dress of white eyelet pique for the morning party.

Guests lingered around the highly polished oval coffee table where a silver filagree basket held red roses and tuberoses combined with graceful arrangements of lacy fern. The silver service where Mrs. Coleman Lindsey presided, wearing a gayly printed sheer in tones of red and white, was at one end of the table. The table, one of a number of antiques in the Stafford home which adds to interest, belonged at one time to Gov. Wells of Louisiana, who was one of Dr. Stafford's ancestors.

Miss Frances Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cooper, and Miss Melba Ann Richie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Richie, of this city, have just returned from a two weeks vacation in Corpus Christi, Texas, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Yeats.

Mr. and Mrs. Hampton J. Goodwin and son, Hamp, Jr., have left for their home in Orlando, Fla., after a delightful week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Barrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Vallery whose marriage was an event of recent date. Mrs. Vallery is the former Miss Laweese Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jones of West Monroe.

TRAYLOR-USSERY NUPTIAL AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH IS OF INTEREST TO FRIENDS

On Sunday evening, July 20, in the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Ruth S. Traylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Simpson, Sr., of Monroe, became the bride of Mr. Roger D. Ussery, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ussery, Sr., of Monroe, in an impressive double ring ceremony, with Rev. A. M. Serex officiating.

Pre-nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. John Sholars while the guests were being seated by the groomsmen, Mr. George Hayes, Mr. William Simpson, Jr., and Mr. Fred Ussery, Jr. Mrs. Harold Roberts sang "Through the Year" and "Because."

Mrs. Donald F. Graham, sister of the bride and matron of honor, wore a gray gabardine suit, with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mr. James C. Ussery served as best man.

The bride's mother, Mrs. W. T. Simpson, wore a beautiful black crepe model, with a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. F. M. Ussery, wore an aqua crepe dress, with a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an aqua gabardine suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of white orchids and tuberoses, tied with white satin ribbon.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Riggs. The table was beautifully decorated with miniature bouquets of pink roses and tuberoses encircled white tapers. At one end was placed the tiered wedding cake, embossed with pink roses, and at the other, the crystal punch bowl. The guests were served individual wedding cakes and mints.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, and the groom is a graduate of Neville High School, and is now attending Northeast Junior College. He served in the army as a B-25 pilot, and is active in the army reserve squadron now being formed here.

Immediately following the reception the young couple left for a short honeymoon in Shreveport. They are now at home to their friends at 618 Benton avenue.

Joe Spellers of Chatham, is visiting his sister, Mrs. V. E. Richardson, 322 Vernon street, and his brother.

Annual Baby Show Will Be Held In August

On August the eleventh the Spanish American War Veterans' auxiliary, number ten, will hold their annual grand prize baby show and parents are requested to register their babies as every healthy and perfect child will receive an award. An office for registration will be maintained in the lobby of the Frances hotel between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m.

There are no obligations on the part of the parents, and there are no entry fees. The baby review will be held Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. Aug. 11th. The children will be arranged in groups according to age and sex. The handsomest boy and prettiest girl will be chosen from the different age groups, 1 to 6 months, 6 to 12 months, 12 to 18 months, 18 to 2 years, 2 to 3 years, 3 to 4 years, and 4 plus. The winners will be chosen by out-of-town judges. Awards will be presented to the grand champion babies. They will be the children who have the most points in health, beauty and friendship.

The historical pageant will be presented by a cast of high school girls. A queen will be chosen and awarded a diamond ring. Members of her court will each receive a gift. A free photograph by Larry Robinson Studio will be given to the first hundred babies to register.

A fossil cactus unearthed in Utah is estimated to be 20,000,000 years old. It differs little from modern species.

Lyric Coloratura Soprano Will Be Heard In Recital In This City

Miss Kalil Will Appear In Recital

Junior Chamber Of Commerce Will Sponsor Recital For A Capella Choir

Graciously consenting to donate her time and talent to a most worthy cause, Margaret Kalil, who is in Monroe for a short visit, will be heard in recital at Northeast Junior College on Tuesday, August 5th. The concert, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be given for the purpose of purchasing vestments for the Monroe Boys' A Capella Choir, a comparatively new organization in our city.

Beginning Of Career

Miss Kalil has traveled far to attain her dream of becoming a noted singer—a dream which is near fulfillment. With an infectious laugh and a twinkle in her beautiful brown eyes, she tells of how it all started.

"I would listen to the phonograph we have in our home for hours at a time. Then I would go to the piano and play the melodies by ear. My first music teacher was the late Ruth Newhall, who would let me sing the "Indian Love Call," and "Sweet Mystery of Life," if I promised to practice faithfully. Margaret's ideals at that time were Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald. If some day she could only sing as they did! That was her dream.

During her senior year in Neville High School, she sang "Shortenin' Bread" in a Mammy costume on a program arranged by Mrs. Alf Reid. So successful was her rendition of this tuneful melody, that Mrs. Reid encouraged her to study voice with Estelle Sanders.

Estelle Sanders was a potent influence in Miss Kalil's life. The excellent training that she received under Mrs. Sanders, one of the finest teachers of voice in the state, was of untold value to the aspiring young artist. Margaret relates that when she first went to Mrs. Sanders for lessons, that she was mortally afraid that she would not allow her to become a soprano. "I can't make your voice into what it was not intended to be," Mrs. Sanders told her. "If you are a soprano, that is what you will be—if not, we will make a contralto of you." Soprano it was, however, and Margaret was happy. For two years she studied faithfully, at the same time majoring in piano for a musical background at Northeast Junior College under the excellent tutelage of Florence Ziegler Albritton.

Meets Madame Homer

Miss Kalil's voice showed such promise, that Mrs. Sanders accompanied her to New York City, where an audition with Madame Louise Homer was arranged. She was subsequently offered a scholarship with this noted singer.

Selected with great care and discrimination by Mrs. Sanders, Paul Althouse was chosen as Miss Kalil's teacher of voice, and Alice Nichols as coach.

After graduating from Columbia Teachers' College with the degree of B. S. in music, literature and art, Miss Kalil was offered a position at the University of Michigan in the voice department. This honor was declined at the advice of her instructors and others in authority, who felt that she should continue working towards a professional career for which her qualifications and high degree of talent fitted her.

Public Appearances

While a member of the Opera Workshop at Columbia, Miss Kalil gave performances in scenes from the opera Hamlet, by Thomas. The Impresario, by Mozart, and Rigoletto, by Verdi. Chosen by Dr. John Wolmut former stage conductor of the Philadelphia Opera and New York City Center to sing "The Queen of the Night," from the Magic Flute at a performance of the opera in Philadelphia, she made a brilliant success. The Philadelphia Bulletin stated: "Margaret Kalil delivered her difficult "Queen of the Night," arias fluently." In the summer of 1946, she was soloist with a chorus of 300 voices in concert, under the direction of Dr. Harry Wilson at Columbia. Another recent noteworthy appearance was her role as guest artist with the Chamber Orchestra on Radio Station WOV, in New York City.

After a short visit in Monroe, Miss Kalil will return to New York, where she is now working on roles for auditions in the fall.

Monroe is looking forward with an anticipatory thrill to the appearance of this gifted young artist, who gives every promise of acquiring well-deserved fame for herself, as well as for the city where she was born and reared.

Dormitory Space At L. S. U. Is Now All Taken Up

All available dormitory space for men and women students at Louisiana State University has already been reserved for the 1947-1948 session and a waiting list is daily growing longer, it was announced today by housing directors. L. S. U. has housing accommodations for 5,000 students.

Mrs. Emily H. Blake, director of women's housing, said there were 1,100 spaces for women students on the campus and that an additional estimated 700 would find rooms or apartments off the campus next fall.

Some 3500 spaces are available for single men students with 236 units available for married veterans, Frank A. Petru, acting housing director, stated. He also pointed out that a trailer court on the campus had facilities to take care of 50 trailers. However, Petru said that 3800 single men students could be crowded into the available dormitory spaces at the University if it became necessary. He estimated the number of students who either live in this area and commute or who will rent rooms or apartments off the campus at about 3000.

Last fall a group of Naval barracks were set up as temporary buildings to house 504 single men students and in January of this year some 660 additional spaces were created with the erection of 30 temporary buildings.

Other dormitories for the single men students and their capacity was listed as follows: Pentagon barracks, 720; graduate dormitory, 41; law students dormitory, 66; G. building, 70 athletes; Pan-American house, 54 Latin Americans; stadium, 1600.

Lyric Coloratura Soprano Will Be Heard In Recital In This City

Miss Kalil Will Appear In Recital

Junior Chamber Of Commerce Will Sponsor Recital For A Capella Choir

Graciously consenting to donate her time and talent to a most worthy cause, Margaret Kalil, who is in Monroe for a short visit, will be heard in recital at Northeast Junior College on Tuesday, August 5th. The concert, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be given for the purpose of purchasing vestments for the Monroe Boys' A Capella Choir, a comparatively new organization in our city.

Beginning Of Career

Miss Kalil has traveled far to attain her dream of becoming a noted singer—a dream which is near fulfillment. With an infectious laugh and a twinkle in her beautiful brown eyes, she tells of how it all started.

"I would listen to the phonograph we have in our home for hours at a time. Then I would go to the piano and play the melodies by ear. My first music teacher was the late Ruth Newhall, who would let me sing the "Indian Love Call," and "Sweet Mystery of Life," if I promised to practice faithfully. Margaret's ideals at that time were Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald. If some day she could only sing as they did! That was her dream.

During her senior year in Neville High School, she sang "Shortenin' Bread" in a Mammy costume on a program arranged by Mrs. Alf Reid. So successful was her rendition of this tuneful melody, that Mrs. Reid encouraged her to study voice with Estelle Sanders.

Estelle Sanders was a potent influence in Miss Kalil's life. The excellent training that she received under Mrs. Sanders, one of the finest teachers of voice in the state, was of untold value to the aspiring young artist. Margaret relates that when she first went to Mrs. Sanders for lessons, that she was mortally afraid that she would not allow her to become a soprano. "I can't make your voice into what it was not intended to be," Mrs. Sanders told her. "If you are a soprano, that is what you will be—if not, we will make a contralto of you." Soprano it was, however, and Margaret was happy. For two years she studied faithfully, at the same time majoring in piano for a musical background at Northeast Junior College under the excellent tutelage of Florence Ziegler Albritton.

Meets Madame Homer

Miss Kalil's voice showed such promise, that Mrs. Sanders accompanied her to New York City, where an audition with Madame Louise Homer was arranged. She was subsequently offered a scholarship with this noted singer.

Selected with great care and discrimination by Mrs. Sanders, Paul Althouse was chosen as Miss Kalil's teacher of voice, and Alice Nichols as coach.

After graduating from Columbia Teachers' College with the degree of B. S. in music, literature and art, Miss Kalil was offered a position at the University of Michigan in the voice department. This honor was declined at the advice of her instructors and others in authority, who felt that she should continue working towards a professional career for which her qualifications and high degree of talent fitted her.

Public Appearances

While a member of the Opera Workshop at Columbia, Miss Kalil gave performances in scenes from the opera Hamlet, by Thomas. The Impresario, by Mozart, and Rigoletto, by Verdi. Chosen by Dr. John Wolmut former stage conductor of the Philadelphia Opera and New York City Center to sing "The Queen of the Night," from the Magic Flute at a performance of the opera in Philadelphia, she made a brilliant success. The Philadelphia Bulletin stated: "Margaret Kalil delivered her difficult "Queen of the Night," arias fluently." In the summer of 1946, she was soloist with a chorus of 300 voices in concert, under the direction of Dr. Harry Wilson at Columbia. Another recent noteworthy appearance was her role as guest artist with the Chamber Orchestra on Radio Station WOV, in New York City.

After a short visit in Monroe, Miss Kalil will return to New York, where she is now working on roles for auditions in the fall.

Monroe is looking forward with an anticipatory thrill to the appearance of this gifted young artist, who gives every promise of acquiring well-deserved fame for herself, as well as for the city where she was born and reared.

Dormitory Space At L. S. U. Is Now All Taken Up

All available dormitory space for men and women students at Louisiana State University has already been reserved for the 1947-1948 session and a waiting list is daily growing longer, it was announced today by housing directors. L. S. U. has housing accommodations for 5,000 students.

Mrs. Emily H. Blake, director of women's housing, said there were 1,100 spaces for women students on the campus and that an additional estimated 700 would find rooms or apartments off the campus next fall.

Some 3500 spaces are available for single men students with 236 units available for married veterans, Frank A. Petru, acting housing director, stated. He also pointed out that a trailer court on the campus had facilities to take care of 50 trailers. However, Petru said that 3800 single men students could be crowded into the available dormitory spaces at the University if it became necessary. He estimated the number of students who either live in this area and commute or who will rent rooms or apartments off the campus at about 3000.

Last fall a group of Naval barracks were set up as temporary buildings to house 504 single men students and in January of this year some 660 additional spaces were created with the erection of 30 temporary buildings.

Other dormitories for the single men students and their capacity was listed as follows: Pentagon barracks, 720; graduate dormitory, 41; law students dormitory, 66; G. building, 70 athletes; Pan-American house, 54 Latin Americans; stadium, 1600.

Attend Church Every Sunday . . . Read Your Bible Every Day

How long has it been since you attended church? Attend today and hear in word and song the glory of His spirit!

The church is a storehouse of spiritual values . . . it is the greatest factor we know for building good citizenship and character. Neither democracy nor civilization can long survive without a strong church.

Four of the strongest reasons why everyone should attend and support the church of his choice are:

1. FOR HIS OWN SAKE.
2. FOR HIS CHILDREN'S SAKE.
3. FOR THEIR COMMUNITY AND FOR THEIR NATION.
4. FOR THE CHURCH ITSELF, WHICH NEEDS MORAL AND MATERIAL SUPPORT.

We urge you to attend the church of your choice every Sunday . . . Read your Bible every day.

That citizens of the surrounding territory may become better acquainted with their churches, this page is reverently dedicated by

Attend Church Every Sunday . . . Read Your Bible Every Day

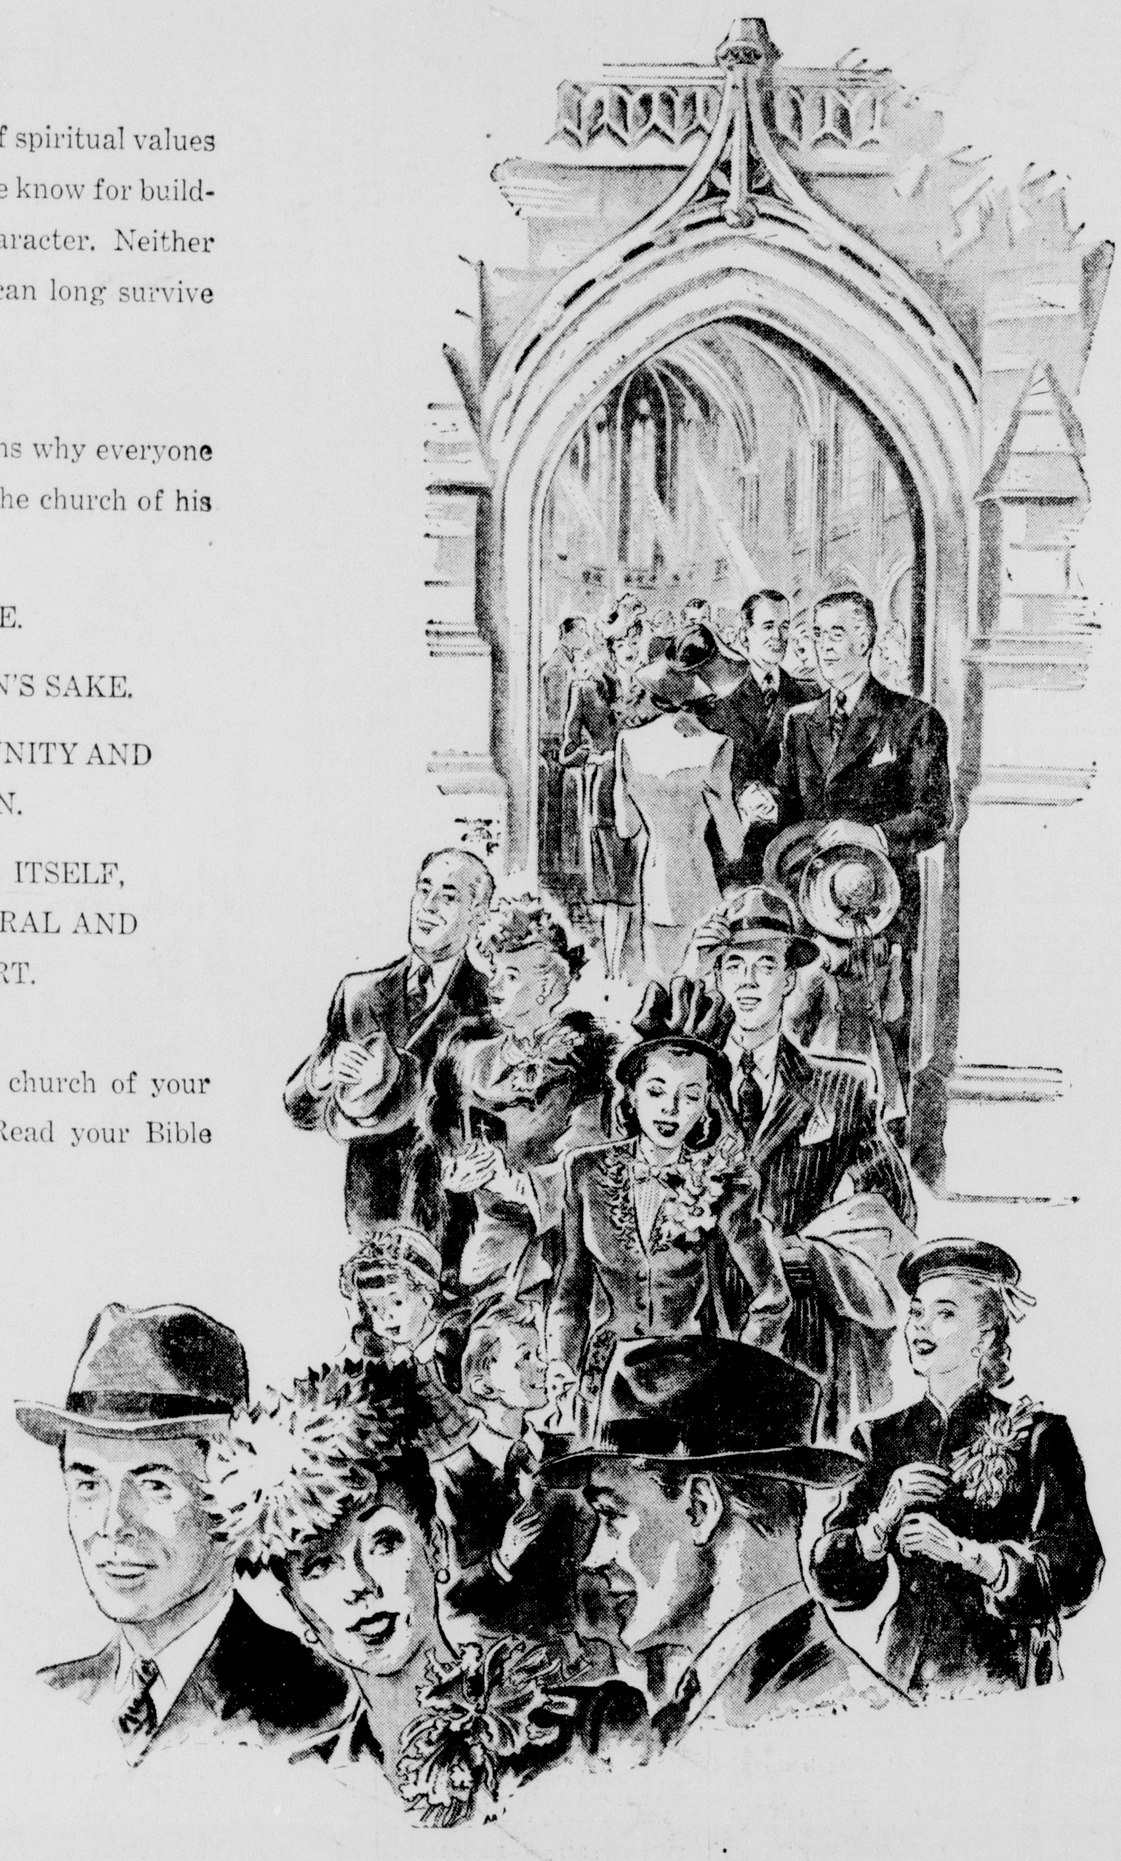

How long has it been since you attended church? Attend today and hear in word and song the glory of His spirit!

The church is a storehouse of spiritual values . . . it is the greatest factor we know for building good citizenship and character. Neither democracy nor civilization can long survive without a strong church.

Four of the strongest reasons why everyone should attend and support the church of his choice are:

1. FOR HIS OWN SAKE.
2. FOR HIS CHILDREN'S SAKE.
3. FOR THEIR COMMUNITY AND FOR THEIR NATION.
4. FOR THE CHURCH ITSELF, WHICH NEEDS MORAL AND MATERIAL SUPPORT.

We urge you to attend the church of your choice every Sunday . . . Read your Bible every day.

STATE OFFICERS OF GARDEN CLUB ARE GUESTS OF HONOR OF WELCOME GARDEN CLUB

The Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities was honored with the presence of several state officers of the State Federation of Garden Clubs at their regular meeting held in the West Monroe Library Building. Mrs. U. B. Evans, of Haphazard Plantation, Ferriday, Louisiana, president of the Federation was the principle speaker. Mrs. John Potts, third vice-president, of Monroe, Mrs. B. G. Coulter, of Winnsboro, Louisiana, state chairman of Ways and Means committee, Miss Emma Lou Biedenharn, Monroe, state chairman of Horticulture committee, and Mrs. John P. Lewis, West Monroe, state recording secretary, were also introduced and welcomed.

Mrs. J. A. Reid, president, presided over the meeting. During the business session Mrs. W. A. Smith, auditor, turned over the books to the new treasurer, Mrs. Carey Holmes. Mrs. A. B. Colmer, secretary, read a letter from the Y. W. C. A., thanking the club for assistance in beautifying the grounds of their new home. Mrs. Henson Coon, awards chairman, urged members to subscribe to Home Gardening for the South and also recommended subscription to Sun-up magazine, a copy of which was passed around.

Mrs. B. G. Coulter, Winnsboro, Louisiana, state chairman of Ways and Means committee, suggested several ways for increasing the club treasury, one of these was the sale of Audubon prints. These lovely prints are not found in any store and can only be sold by members. By the sale of these prints both the local club and state federation would benefit, she stated.

Mrs. Coulter, who is also state Junior Garden club chairman, urged the teaching of Horticulture in the schools. Knowledge of our plant life cannot help but make better citizens of our youth.

Miss Emma Lou Biedenharn, state chairman of Horticulture, brought a message of what our State of Louisiana can do in floral culture. She stated that now fifteen million dollars per year are spent purchasing flowers from out of the state and it is up to us to change this. At present there is work being done towards establishing a floral research department in our State University to study plants and flowers best suited to our state. Problems of the growers will be studied and this will help and encourage local growers to produce more flowers for local sale.

Miss Biedenharn concluded by stating that the flower industry in Louisiana should be as large as the cotton, cane or cattle industry and should bring into the state thirty million dollars per year. Members should bring pressure on their legsilators to appropriate money for this floral research.

Mrs. Reid then called in Mrs. John P. Lewis to discuss the planned Flower Judging School to be held in the fall. Mrs. Lewis stated that plans are being made, but no definite date has been set as yet.

The meeting was then turned over to the Program chairman, Mrs. D. L. Nicol, who introduced Mrs. W. R. Gates who read a poem written by Mrs. John Wilkins for "The Gardener" publication of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Inc.

"What is a garden? A little plot
Perhaps only two by four
That some child has planted with loving care
Beside a kitchen door.
Or, it may be only a window box
Aflame with gerainums red.
For it isn't the size that matters so much,
Nor if its within or without,
It's the Faith and Love we plant into it,
And the Joy that we take out."

Mrs. Nicol then introduced Mrs. V. S. Garret who spoke on "Living Memorials." She said in part that no longer do we plan cold statutes of bronze to honor our boys and girls who have fought for us. Now it is for the living we plan to make life a little more beautiful. Many worthwhile projects—garden centers, parks, picnic grounds, etc., have been planned as living memorials to honor our service men and women in our armed forces during World War II.

The National Living Memorial program is one which all can enjoy and participate. The National Living Memorial committee with the cooperation of State Living Memorial committees and the state highway departments have planned a beautification program on connecting highways from north to south and east to west across our country. These designated highways will be beautiful with shrubs and trees native to the state, also roadside parks are planned along the route. Bronze markers will be placed along the highways designating it as the Blue Star Living Memorial highway.

Mrs. Garrett concluded by saying "What better way to remember our service men and women?" All Federated Garden Club members will take part in making this plan a reality."

Mrs. Nicol then introduced Mrs. U. B. Evans, president of the state Garden Club Federation who took for her subject "Worthwhile Plans From Our Old Gardens" or "Flowers Your Grandmother Grew".

Mrs. Evans stressed the point that we as Louisiana flower growers should grow Louisiana flowers, those which do well in our locale and not try to grow flowers and plants better suited to other states. She said that tourists come to Louisiana to see Louisiana flowers and something different than what is grown in their home state.

"Nothing can compare with our old country yards filled with old narcissus" continued Mrs. Evans. The Christmas narcissus bloom in November. The Pearl narcissus blooms in December and is one which keeps beautifully and is dependable as it doesn't freeze easily. In January the little yellow trumpets bloom and continue with more blooms year after year. The Swans Neck is a white narcissus and is the rarest of all. This narcissus grown with hyacinths and violets make a beautiful sight.

Mrs. Evans continued by discussing jonquils, daffodils and hyacinths. There are seventeen different kinds of old fashioned hyacinths—blue, white and pink—the latter being the hardest to find. With ground cover of violets such a garden is a wonderful spot.

Continuing, Mrs. Evans discussed violets. "There is an air of romance in violets—study the hisotry of flowers and you will enjoy them more." There are pink, red, white, purple and yellow violets—fifty-five different violets besides native ones. The secret of having good violets is to see that their roots go straight down into the earth—make your beds deep. Also, keep them cool. Sawdust is excellent to put on them—Rotted wood is good for them. Acid earth is very essential.

Mrs. Evans continued by discussing the lilies and crinums and showed specimens.

She concluded by mentioning "Old Roses." "Save your old roses—they grow here as good if not better than any other place." Anyone having old roses they are unable to identify should send a bloom with foliage in oiled paper to the American Rose Society with a stamped addressed card and they will identify and tell whether or not it is a rare variety. "Knowing your roses adds interest to them" she said.

Mrs. Evans hoped that more public rose gardens would be planted. They should be labeled. Tourists drive all over the United States to see these gardens.

In conclusion, Mrs. Evans extended a personal invitation to the members to visit her garden at Haphazard Plantation, Ferriday, Louisiana when her narcissus and violets are in bloom.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Reid who urged members to register for the floral culture school in Baton Rouge August 11, 12, 13 and 14th. Mrs. Mildred Swift will mail a program to all who register.

Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. Carl C. Moore, Mrs. Walter C. Fisher, Mrs. Jack Bagwell, Mrs. C. A. Caldwell and Mrs. J. B. Brown, hostesses at this time served ice cream and cakes and a delightful conversational period was enjoyed. At this time the beautiful floral arrangements were viewed.

Guests present in addition to the state officers were: Mrs. C. R. Peterson, Mrs. Vivian Smylie, Roxie, Miss., Mrs. La Palser and son, Danny, Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. S. B. Hunt, Mrs. C. H. Tait, Mrs. Roy Knighton, Mrs. E. P. Cudd and Miss Carolyn Bagwell.

Members present were: Mrs. J. A. Reid, Mrs. John P. Lewis, Mrs. E. B. Johnson, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Mrs. R. R. Pigott, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. T. D. Pickens, Mrs. H. E. Downing, Mrs. B. E. Gambrell, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, Mrs. Carey Holmes, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. J. W. Swift, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. A. R. Butler, Mrs W. R. Gates, Mrs. O. R. Brauer, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. J. A. Bailey, Mrs. Wesley Walters, Mrs. C. L. Wright, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, and Mrs. D. L. Nicol.

LEGION AUXILIARY PRESIDENT AND COMMITTEEWOMEN

Mrs. H. Flood Madison, Jr., state department president of the American Legion Auxiliary presided over the recent convention held in this city. She was a prominent figure at the dinner party on the roof of the Virginia hotel and is seen with members of the committee standing at the entrance of the roof garden to welcome the guests. They are, left to right: Mrs. Jase Johnson, Mrs. Louis Gimler, Mrs. Ted Mahr, Mrs. Madison, Mrs. Laura Ballard, Mrs. S. E. Morris, and Mrs. John Young.

Rings Awarded To Y. W. C. A. All-Round Girls

Two of the outstanding events on the Calendar for the Y-Teens of the Y. W. C. A., one of the Red Feather Services of the Community Chest, are: (1) the awarding of the Y-Teen Rings which are given to the girl or the girls who have been the most outstanding and all-around girls in each club and (2) Summer Conferences.

This year rings were awarded to: Mary Frances Wilson, Jean Bowers, Doris Brown, Evelyn Cowan, Kitty Jo Plemmons, Louise Harris, Libby Anne Mulhern, Nancy Golson, Jane Steed, Claudette Schroeder, Theresa Bolton, Margaret Pounds, and Margaret Hunter.

Each summer leaders from the clubs groups attend the summer area Conference for Y-Teens. This year this conference with the theme: "Make Way For Youth" was held at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and the following girls represented the Monroe Association: Libby Anne Mulhern, Jackie Barr, Carol Jean Williamson, Juanita Warner, and Nancy Golson. Many interesting reports have been brought back to the clubs and the girls are looking forward to a very successful and enjoyable year for Y-Teen Clubs. Nancy Johnson, President of Y-Teen Inter-Club Council, represented the Monroe Association Y-Teens at the National Y. W. C. A.—Y. M. C. A. Conference which was held in Grinnell, Iowa.

Membership in Y-Teens is open to any girl 12 to 18 years of age who is interested in becoming a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnett and children, Jackie Ben and Tommy Joe, have returned to their home in Marlin, Tex., after a visit with Mrs. Barnett's mother, Mrs. DeWitt Henry.

Ferriday

Thirty Tensas Parish 4-H Club boys who have done outstanding work during the year are enjoying an outing at Camp Grant Walker, Pollock.

The club members were accompanied by Mrs. Effie Lofton, home demonstration agent and D. C. Hollis, assistant county agent.

William E. Milligan, field representative of the Alexandria office of the area rent control will be in Ferriday on the first and third Thursdays of each month to assist in matters of rent control.

A marriage of interest was that of Miss Mary Ruth Waters of Dodson to Glen McIntosh, of St. Joseph. After a short honeymoon they will return to St. Joseph to make their home. The marriage was solemnized in Winnfield. Guests at the wedding from St. Joseph were Mrs. Margery Allen, Robert James Lancaster and Oliver Berry.

Among the 1115 students enrolled at the summer school of Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, are Harvey Moreland and Eris Dale, New Era; George E. Robertson, Clayton; Nell Denham, Luther Denham, Marjorie DuBell, Arthur Lancaster, James Otto Lancaster, Virginia M. Newkirk, Mary F. Stokes, Betty E. Trisler and Austin B. Wilson, all of Ferriday.

U. E. Thames, parish demonstration agent of Tensas Parish, has returned from Baton Rouge, where for the past three weeks, he has been attending a short course.

FERRIDAY, July 15.—(Special)—The board of directors of the Ferriday playground has announced that Mrs. Elizabeth Miller Anders, formerly of Waterproof, has been obtained to direct the girls' program. She succeeds Mrs. Lloyd Paul, who resigned last week. Athletic Director Ray Harriss of the Ferriday high school is in charge of the boys' program.

William Strozier, local manager of the Ellis Variety store announces that the store is being remodeled and will be closed for three or four weeks.

The congregation of Sevier Memorial Methodist Church held the annual picnic Monday on Lake St. John at the cabin of Andrew B. Learned.

The Wesleyan Guild of the Sevier Church met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Robert Warren. The program was in charge of Mrs. A. E. Sewell.

THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS
307 North Second Street
Travis T. Tynes, President

July 24th was Pioneer Day. Exactly one hundred years ago on this day Brigham Young looked out over the great Salt Lake Valley and remembering it as the scenes he had previously envisioned, said, "This is the place." Here these thousands of tired saints would build their homes, schools, and churches. Here in this waterless wasteland they would grow their crops and make "the desert blossom as a rose." Yes, it was the place—a place no one else would have or want. They would be free to worship God as they chose.

It is with gratitude and pride that we remember the hardships and suffering, the faith and integrity of these founders of Salt Lake City. They did more than build a city: With faith in the future they built a way of life unequaled by any other people in the world today.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.; Priesthood and Relief Society study course at 6:45 p. m.; Sacrament meeting at 8:00 p. m.

STATE OFFICERS OF GARDEN CLUB ARE GUESTS OF HONOR OF WELCOME GARDEN CLUB

The Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities was honored with the presence of several state officers of the State Federation of Garden Clubs at their regular meeting held in the West Monroe Library Building. Mrs. U. B. Evans, of Haphazard Plantation, Ferriday, Louisiana, president of the Federation was the principle speaker. Mrs. John Potts, third vice-president, of Monroe, Mrs. B. G. Coulter, of Winnsboro, Louisiana, state chairman of Ways and Means committee, Miss Emma Lou Biedenharn, Monroe, state chairman of Horticulture committee, and Mrs. John P. Lewis, West Monroe, state recording secretary, were also introduced and welcomed.

Mrs. J. A. Reid, president, presided over the meeting. During the business session Mrs. W. A. Smith, auditor, turned over the books to the new treasurer, Mrs. Carey Holmes. Mrs. A. B. Colmer, secretary, read a letter from the Y. W. C. A., thanking the club for assistance in beautifying the grounds of their new home. Mrs. Henson Coon, awards chairman, urged members to subscribe to Home Gardening for the South and also recommended subscription to Sun-up magazine, a copy of which was passed around.

Mrs. B. G. Coulter, Winnsboro, Louisiana, state chairman of Ways and Means committee, suggested several ways for increasing the club treasury, one of these was the sale of Audubon prints. These lovely prints are not found in any store and can only be sold by members. By the sale of these prints both the local club and state federation would benefit, she stated.

Mrs. Coulter, who is also state Junior Garden club chairman, urged the teaching of Horticulture in the schools. Knowledge of our plant life cannot help but make better citizens of our youth.

Miss Emma Lou Biedenharn, state chairman of Horticulture, brought a message of what our State of Louisiana can do in floral culture. She stated that now fifteen million dollars per year are spent purchasing flowers from out of the state and it is up to us to change this . At present there is work being done towards establishing a floral research department in our State University to study plants and flowers best suited to our state. Problems of the growers will be studied and this will help and encourage local growers to produce more flowers for local sale.

Miss Biedenharn concluded by stating that the flower industry in Louisiana should be as large as the cotton, cane or cattle industry and should bring into the state thirty million dollars per year. Members should bring pressure on their legsilators to appropriate money for this floral research.

Mrs. Reid then called in Mrs. John P. Lewis to discuss the planned Flower Judging School to be held in the fall. Mrs. Lewis stated that plans are being made, but no definite date has been set as yet.

The meeting was then turned over to the Program chairman, Mrs. D. L. Nicol, who introduced Mrs. W. R. Gates who read a poem written by Mrs. John Wilkins for "The Gardener" publication of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Inc.

"What is a garden? A little plot
Perhaps only two by four
That some child has planted with loving care
Beside a kitchen door.
Or, it may be only a window box
Aflame with gerainums red.
For it isn't the size that matters so much,
Nor if its within or without,
It's the Faith and Love we plant into it,
And the Joy that we take out."

Mrs. Nicol then introduced Mrs. V. S. Garret who spoke on "Living Memorials." She said in part that no longer do we plan cold statutes of bronze to honor our boys and girls who have fought for us. Now it is for the living we plan to make life a little more beautiful. Many worthwhile projects—garden centers, parks, picnic grounds, etc., have been planned as living memorials to honor our service men and women in our armed forces during World War II.

The National Living Memorial program is one which all can enjoy and participate. The National Living Memorial committee with the cooperation of State Living Memorial committees and the state highway departments have planned a beautification program on connecting highways from north to south and east to west across our country. These designated highways will be beautiful with shrubs and trees native to the state, also roadside parks are planned along the route. Bronze markers will be placed along the highways designating it as the Blue Star Living Memorial highway.

Mrs. Garrett concluded by saying "What better way to remember our service men and women?" All Federated Garden Club members will take part in making this plan a reality."

Mrs. Nicol then introduced Mrs. U. B. Evans, president of the state Garden Club Federation who took for her subject "Worthwhile Plans From Our Old Gardens" or "Flowers Your Grandmother Grew".

Mrs. Evans stressed the point that we as Louisiana flower growers should grow Louisiana flowers, those which do well in our locale and not try to grow flowers and plants better suited to other states. She said that tourists come to Louisiana to see Louisiana flowers and something different than what is grown in their home state.

"Nothing can compare with our old country yards filled with old narcissus" continued Mrs. Evans. The Christmas narcissus bloom in November. The Pearl narcissus blooms in December and is one which keeps beautifully and is dependable as it doesn't freeze easily. In January the little yellow trumpets bloom and continue with more blooms year after year. The Swans Neck is a white narcissus and is the rarest of all. This narcissus grown with hyacinths and violets make a beautiful sight.

Mrs. Evans continued by discussing jonquils, daffodils and hyacinths. There are seventeen different kinds of old fashioned hyacinths—blue, white and pink—the latter being the hardest to find. With ground cover of violets such a garden is a wonderful spot.

Continuing, Mrs. Evans discussed violets. "There is an air of romance in violets—study the hisotry of flowers and you will enjoy them more." There are pink, red, white, purple and yellow violets—fifty-five different violets besides native ones. The scent of having good violets is to see that their roots go straight down into the earth—make your beds deep. Also, keep them cool. Sawdust is excellent to put on them—Rotted wood is good for them. Acid earth is very essential.

Mrs. Evans continued by discussing the lilies and crinums and showed specimens.

She concluded by mentioning "Old Roses." "Save your old roses—they grow here as good if not better than any other place." Anyone having old roses they are unable to identify should send a bloom with foliage in oiled paper to the American Rose Society with a stamped addressed card and they will identify and tell whether or not it is a rare variety. "Knowing your roses adds interest to them" she said.

Mrs. Evans hoped that more public rose gardens would be planted. They should be labeled. Tourists drive all over the United States to see these gardens.

In conclusion, Mrs. Evans extended a personal invitation to the members to visit her garden at Haphazard Plantation, Ferriday, Louisiana when her narcissus and violets are in bloom.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Reid who urged members to register for the floral culture school in Baton Rouge August 11, 12, 13 and 14th. Mrs. Mildred Swift will mail a program to all who register.

Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. Carl C. Moore, Mrs. Walter C. Fisher, Mrs. Jack Bagwell, Mrs. C. A. Caldwell and Mrs. J. B. Brown, hostesses at this time served ice cream and cakes and a delightful conversational period was enjoyed. At this time the beautiful floral arrangements were viewed.

Guests present in addition to the state officers were: Mrs. C. R. Peterson, Mrs. Vivian Smylie, Roxie, Miss., Mrs. La Palser and son, Danny, Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. S. B. Hunt, Mrs. C. H. Tait, Mrs. Roy Knighton, Mrs. E. P. Cudd and Miss Carolyn Bagwell.

Members present were: Mrs. J. A. Reid, Mrs. John P. Lewis, Mrs. E. B. Johnson, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Mrs. R. R. Pigott, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. T. D. Pickens, Mrs. H. E. Downing, Mrs. B. E. Gambrell, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, Mrs. Carey Holmes, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. J. W. Swift, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. A. R. Butler, Mrs W. R. Gates, Mrs. O. R. Brauer, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. J. A. Bailey, Mrs. Wesley Walters, Mrs. C. L. Wright, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, and Mrs. D. L. Nicol.

LEGION AUXILIARY PRESIDE NT AND COMMITTEEWOMEN

Mrs. H. Flood Madison, Jr., state department president of the American Legion Auxiliary presided over the recent convention held in this city. She was a prominent figure at the dinner party on the roof of the Virginia hotel and is seen with members of the committee standing at the entrance of the roof garden to welcome the guests. They are, left to right: Mrs. Jase Johnson, Mrs. Louis Gimler, Mrs. Ted Mahr, Mrs. Madison, Mrs. Laura Ballard, Mrs. S. E. Morris, and Mrs. John Young.

Rings Awarded To Y. W. C. A. All-Round Girls

Two of the outstanding events on the Calendar for the Y-Teens of the Y. W. C. A., one of the Red Feather Services of the Community Chest, are: (1) the awarding of the Y-Teen Rings which are given to the girl or the girls who have been the most outstanding and all-around girls in each club and (2) Summer Conferences.

This year rings were awarded to: Mary Frances Wilson, Jean Bowers, Doris Brown, Evelyn Cowan, Kitty Jo Plemmons, Louise Harris, Libby Anne Mulhern, Nancy Golson, Jane Steed, Claudette Schroeder, Theresa Bolton, Margaret Pounds, and Margaret Hunter.

Each summer leaders from the clubs groups attend the summer area Conference for Y-Teens. This year this conference with the theme: "Make Way For Youth" was held at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and the following girls represented the Monroe Association: Libby Anne Mulhern, Jackie Barr, Carol Jean Williamson, Juanita Warner, and Nancy Golson. Many interesting reports have been brought back to the clubs and the girls are looking forward to a very successful and enjoyable year for Y-Teen Clubs. Nancy Johnson, President of Y-Teen Inter-Club Council, represented the Monroe Association Y-Teens at the National Y. W. C. A.—Y. M. C. A. Conference which was held in Grinnell, Iowa.

Membership in Y-Teens is open to any girl 12 to 18 years of age who is interested in becoming a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnett and children, Jackie Ben and Tommy Joe, have returned to their home in Marlin, Tex., after a visit with Mrs. Barnett's mother, Mrs. DeWitt Henry.

Ferriday

Thirty Tensas Parish 4-H Club boys who have done outstanding work during the year are enjoying an outing at Camp Grant Walker, Pollock.

The club members were accompanied by Mrs. Effie Lofton, home demonstration agent and D. C. Hollis, assistant county agent.

William E. Milligan, field representative of the Alexandria office of the area rent control will be in Ferriday on the first and third Thursdays of each month to assist in matters of rent control.

A marriage of interest was that of Miss Mary Ruth Waters of Dodson to Glen McIntosh, of St. Joseph. After a short honeymoon they will return to St. Joseph to make their home. The marriage was solemnized in Winnfield. Guests at the wedding from St. Joseph were Mrs. Margery Allen, Robert James Lancaster and Oliver Berry.

Among the 1115 students enrolled at the summer school of Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, are Harvey Moreland and Eris Dale, New Era; George E. Robertson, Clayton; Nell Denham, Luther Denham, Marjorie DuBell, Arthur Lancaster, James Otto Lancaster, Virginia M. Newkirk, Mary F. Stokes, Betty E. Trisler and Austin B. Wilson, all of Ferriday.

U. E. Thames, parish demonstration agent of Tensas Parish, has returned from Baton Rouge, where for the past three weeks, he has been attending a short course.

FERRIDAY, July 15.—(Special)—The board of directors of the Ferriday playground has announced that Mrs. Elizabeth Miller Anders, formerly of Waterproof, has been obtained to direct the girls' program. She succeeds Mrs. Lloyd Paul, who resigned last week. Athletic Director Ray Harriss of the Ferriday high school is in charge of the boys' program.

William Strozier, local manager of the Ellis Variety store announces that the store is being remodeled and will be closed for three or four weeks.

The congregation of Sevier Memorial Methodist Church held the annual picnic Monday on Lake St. John at the cabin of Andrew B. Learned.

The Wesleyan Guild of the Sevier Church met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Robert Warren. The program was in charge of Mrs. A. E. Sewell.

THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS
307 North Second Street
Travis T. Tynes, President

July 24th was Pioneer Day. Exactly one hundred years ago on this day Brigham Young looked out over the great Salt Lake Valley and remembering it as the scenes he had previously envisioned, said, "This is the place." Here these thousands of tired saints would build their homes, schools, and churches. Here in this waterless wasteland they would grow their crops and make "the desert blossom as a rose." Yes, it was the place—a place no one else would have or want. They would be free to worship God as they chose.

It is with gratitude and pride that we remember the hardships and suffering, the faith and integrity of these founders of Salt Lake City. They did more than build a city: With faith in the future they built a way of life unequaled by any other people in the world today.

CRAIG MATCHED WITH STEELE IN TITLE SCRAMBLE

Tulsa Tussler Gets Chance To Reclaim State Light-Heavy Belt Tuesday

Jack "Stinger" Steele, crowned Louisiana state light heavyweight wrestling champion only two weeks ago, makes the first defense of his title here Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena against the man from whom he won the belt, George Craig of Tulsa, Okla.

"George still thinks he's the best man," Promoter Kallio said last night. "In requesting the match, Craig declared that if the going gets tough he'll keep up with Steele all the way and match him the full distance in rough-and-tumble."

The Steele-Craig feuds have been Kallio's best drawing cards during the summer months, and apparently Kallio is going to give them to his customers just as long as they can keep packing them in. A couple of tag shows and three title matches between the rowdy rivals have drawn increasingly large crowds, and last Tuesday's attendance at a tag scramble featuring the two drew the summer's biggest house.

Craig will be striving to win the belt for the third time, and he's the only wrestler to hold it more than once.

However, Steele has no fears that Craig may relieve him of the crown.

"I would just as soon take on Craig as anybody I know," Steele told Kallio. "In our last match he cut my upper lip in the second fall, but I came back to beat him after he figured I was badly hurt.

"But, I just had a cut lip and little things like that don't even slow me down. I went after him like a tiger and beat him, too. When the championship belt was handed me by the commissioner, Craig started to cry about his bad luck like a little kid when somebody takes his candy.

"Well, you can tell Craig that I took the belt away from him for keeps. I'll give him a match, however, anytime he wants to wrestle a real man, but I don't think Mr. Craig will want any more of me after next Tuesday."

For his semi-final attraction, Promoter Kallio is bringing in another pair of top-notchers in Ben Mayn, newcomer from Salt Lake City, Utah, and Rex Mobley, former world's light heavyweight champion.

Mayn has never before appeared here, but he's well known throughout the wrestling world and will make a good opponent for Mobley.

The main event will have a time limit of 90 minutes, and the certain-fall winner will be over an hour time limit distance. Both matches will go until one wrestler has won two falls.

Experiments have shown that certain grasshoppers lose their memory between moults.

DIRECTOR

Fred Hawn (above), veteran St. Louis Cardinal scout, player and manager, will be in charge of a Cardinal tryout camp to be conducted on the Neville High School diamond here August 4-5-6. Working with Hawn in quest of possible pro baseball talent among the youth of this area will be George Ferrell and W. H. "Buddy" Lewis.

Sid's Dodgers of West Monroe handed the Red Shield Club's baseball team its first defeat of the season yesterday, 11 to 9, with Martin and Bosely leading the victorious attack. Martin and Bosely each got two hits, including a homer apiece in the Dodgers' 14-hit barrage.

Red Shield collected 12 hits with Johnson and Dollar accounting for two each. The batteries were Hendricks and Bruce, Sid's; Boatright and Jones, McKay, Red Shield.

The Monroe Blue Sox, coming into the league in the place of West Monroe, came up with a good performance in their first game yesterday, but the Louisiana Training Institute Pels played a little better and won, 4 to 2.

A hit and two bases on balls off Fiesette in the first inning enabled the Blue Sox to score their two runs, and thereafter Mitchell, who replaced Fisette on the moun l, shutout the Sox the rest of the way, facing only 15 batters, fanning ten of them and allowing only one more hit. Rawls pitched a four-hit game for the losers. Caldas, L. T. I., and Rawls, Sox, were the top sluggers with two hits each. Barclay caught for the winners, and Roberts for the losers.

DODGERS BREAK TIE IN NINTH TO SHADE BUCS, 6-4

Reese's Doube In Last Inning Gives Brooks Seventh Straight Victory

PITTSBURGH, July 26.—(AP)—Pee Wee Reese's ninth inning double kept the Dodgers seven-game winning streak alive today as the Brooklyn club banged out a 6-4 decision over Pittsburgh for their fifth straight success of their western trip.

Pee Wee Reese

Reese's blow broke a 4-4 deadlock that came about when the Pirates spurted for four runs in the seventh on two walks, Wally Westlake's single and Jimmy Bloodworth's big-three run homer.

Hugh Casey received credit for his seventh win and Nick Strincevich was charged with his fifth loss.

7 TEAMS ENTER SOFTBALL MEET

Tomorrow Is Deadline For Entries In Week-End Tourney Here

Seven softball teams of northeast Louisiana are all set for the district tournament to be held here Saturday and Sunday and any other clubs expecting to compete in the event must have their entries in not later than tomorrow.

Teams ready to take part in the first annual event are Tallulah Motor Company, Ruston Ramblers, Woodmen of the World of Forest, and four Monroe clubs, Sparafora's Pharmacy, Amvets, Cooperative Dairies, and Monroe Recreation Parlor.

Late entries should be addressed to the Monroe Recreation department, Box 1293, Monroe.

The tournament will open with games Saturday afternoon and night. The finals will be played next Sunday afternoon, and all contents will take place on the Barkdull Faulk Grammar School diamond here.

Winners of the district event will qualify for the state championship tournament.

BLACKWELL'S PITCHING RECORD LOOMS BIGGER IN DAY OF RABBIT BALL

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Ewell Blackwell's gaudy string of 16 straight wins, fashioned in the day of the rabbit ball and the dime-a-dozen home run, stands out as the most spectacular pitching feat of the decade.

Within reaching distance is Rube Marquard's record of 19 consecutive victories in 1912. No other pitcher in modern days has bettered 16, a long-standing high for the American League.

Even now Blackwell's name is bracketed in the record books with Joe Wood of Boston, Lefty Grove of Philadelphia, Walter Johnson of Washington and Schoolboy Rowe, of Detroit, co-holders of the American League record. The only other pitcher since 1900 to hit 16 was Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1936.

There were anxious moments for "Blacky" and his Reds last night in the friendly surroundings of Crosley Field. The Phillies, trailing 5-3 going to the ninth, loaded the bases with one out. But they were able to push over only one run and succumbed, 5-4.

Blackwell struck out nine and did not walk a single Phil in his latest success although nicked for 13 hits. His next start probably will be Wednesday afternoon against the New York Giants who thrice have succumbed to his mound magic.

President Ford Frick ruled Sunday's protested St. Louis-Brooklyn contest a tie game 3-3, deciding that Ron Northey was entitled to the disputed home run because he had been slowed down by Umpire "Beans" Reardon. As a result the Dodgers lost a win and the Cards had one less defeat, at least until the game is replayed Aug. 18 as part of a double header.

2 EXHIBITION SOFTBALL CONTESTS HERE TODAY

Two exhibition softball games are on tap for this afternoon at Barkdull Faulk diamond where the Lovers' Lane Pharmacy lassies, leaders of the Girls' League here, will play the Madison Oil girls of Shreveport, and Monroe Recreation Parlor warms up for its City League title playoff with Spatafora by playing the Jaycees of the Civic Club League.

The girls' contest is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock, and the men's game will follow at 4:30 o'clock.

Two other exhibitions are slated for local teams on Monday and Thursday night, it was announced last night by Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department.

Tomorrow night Cooperative Dairies and the Amvets will clash at 6 o'clock at Barkdull Faulk in the prelude to the Monroe Recreation-Spatafora City League title series opener, and Thursday, beginning at 8 o'clock, it will be the Lamar club of Crowville against the Amvets at Barkdull Faulk.

ED LOPAT TAMES RAMPANT YANKS ON 3 HITS, 2 TO 1

Bruin Hurler Also Snaps Joe DiMaggio's Current Hitting Streak

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Lefty Ed Lopat brought the New York Yankee's slugging carnival to an abrupt halt today with a neatly-pitched three-hit victory over the league leaders to give Chicago a 2-1 victory.

Ed Lopat

Halting Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak after 13 straight games, Lopat lost his shutout on Tommy Henrich's 13th homer in the fourth.

Lopat racked up his eighth win to nine defeats and his 10th complete game of the season. It was another heartbreaker for Bill Bevens who yielded only six hits but went down for the 10th time.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, July 26 (NEA).—The Browns, 27 games out, have Herold Ruel as confused as were the batters when the little fellow caught the immortal Walter Johnson.

Even Muddy Ruel, the lawyer who left the peace, quiet and dignity of Commissioner Chandler's office to lead the St. Louis Americans out of the wilderness, can't make them intelligible.

"The psychology of a losing club," says Ruel, one of the more erudite of old ballplayers, "is as difficult to explain as a batting slump.

"You can see a batter doing something he wasn't doing before. Perhaps he is using a different bat. Maybe he is stepping too far. His weight may be going in. He could be pulling too many balls, instead of poking one into the opposite field occasionally. Perhaps it's a nervous condition.

"But solving the slump is something else again. Correcting one fault, he falls into another.

"That sums up the lowly state of the Browns as well as I can do it."

Naturally, the Browns have been a bitter disappointment to Ruel, as well as to their wealthy owner, Richard C. Muckerman. Home attendance on the American League side has never been too good at Sportsman's Park, and in more recent weeks the good burghers have stayed away in droves.

Things reached such a sad state that Ruel was reported moving into the general manager's office in place of William O. DeWitt. You have the one-time great backstop's word that this has never been discussed with him, but the story places him in an even more awkard position.

"Speaking of prospects of the future as the manager of a last-place club, anything I might say easily could be misconstrued," he asserts.

The lowdown is, however, that with their three main subsidiaries, or feeders—Toledo, San Antonio and Elmira—the Brownies haven't more than four players who are possibilities. Possibilities, you understand, not probabilities. The outlook is dark, indeed.

Easing his estimates on what members had done before, Ruel in the spring suspected he might take the Browns somewhere. But those who were expected to hit the ball—Berardino, Stephens, Heath and Judnich—didn't. And pitchers who were supposed to pitch didn't.

When Johnny Berardino's arm was broken by a pitched ball, he was batting a smacking .180. The second baseman was in the first five at this time a year ago. It hurt when Bob Dillinger jammed his ankle. The be spectacled third baseman was batting .310 and had swiped 23 bases.

And when help was needed most the front office brought in a couple of untried Negroes.

Ruel let Mark Christman go and kept Dillinger. He let Chet Laabs go and kept Paul Lehner, considers himself right on each count. Young Ray Coleman is batting .281.

"A losing club gets a lot of tough breaks," declares Ruel. "I have yet to blow my topper and call them a lot of donkeys. It is my honest belief that Earl Combs, Freddie Hofmann and myself have done the best we could with what we had.

"We started with a combination of older and young players, which we still think was the correct formula.

"But it's difficult when established performers fail to play reasonably close to their ratings."

It's a strange situation, but Muddy Ruel assures all hands that the Browns will play out their schedule.

BEAUMONT EXPORTERS ACQUIRE SAN DIEGO ACE

BEAUMONT, Tex., July 26.—(AP)—Owner Guy Airey of the Beaumont Exporters in the Texas League, said today he had acquired Anthony Paul Criscola, an outfielder, from San Diego, by outright purchase and that Joe Hare, veteran righthanded pitcher, had been given his outright release.

Criscola, a veteran of 11 years experience played with the Cincinnati Reds in 1944 and spent 1945 and 1946 with San Diego.

SOFTBALL TITLE SERIES TO OPEN HERE TOMORROW

Spatafora's Pharmacy, Monroe Recreation Parlor Clash In Finals

Spatafora's Pharmacy, favored team in the City Softball League's title race, and Monroe Recreation Parlor open the championship finals here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Barkdull Faulk diamond.

The championship will be determined in a two-out-of-three series with games to be played tomorrow, Wednesday, and Friday or until one team wins two games.

The Spats, managed by Ralph Marionneaux, Sr., moved into the finals with straight semi-final wins over Cooperative Dairies, and Ted Flaherty's Monroe Recreation Parlor boys had to go the full three games to eliminate the Amvets who won the series opener.

Spatafora, front runners in the regular season play, have a league record of 26 victories and two defeats, and Monroe Recreation has won 23 league games while losing six.

An estimated crowd of 2,500 fans, largest softball attendance on record here, turned out for the deciding game Friday night between the Amvets and Monroe Recreation, and the championship series is expected to attract even bigger attendance.

Joe Kilcoyne, ace of the Spatafora chunkers, is scheduled to pitch for the Spats, and Massee is due to be on the mound for Monroe Recreation.

The City League All-Star game will be the next thing on the program as soon as the championship is determined.

This year the fans themselves are being offered an opportunity to take part in the All-Star selections, and the array of stars will oppose the league's champions in the season's final show of the circuit.

Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department, last night said the fans are being asked to pick their own All-Star teams from ten clubs of the league and send them to the Monroe Recreation Center, 113 Catalpa street. And it will be the popular choices of the softball followers against the league champions as soon as the title series is over.

Hesketh has requested that the fans select players for nine positions and also name their choice for manager of the All-Stars.

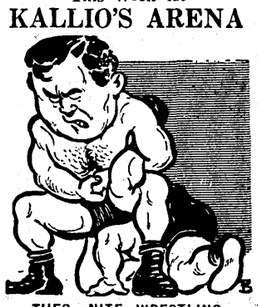

All-Stars are to be chosen from Cooperative Dairies, Amvets, Spatafora's, Monroe Recreation Parlor, Cook and Preddy, George Guerriero Insurance, Surebest Bakers, Red Shield Club, Cuachita Plumbing, and Monroe Office Equipment Company teams.

However, if either Spatafora or Monroe Recreation win the title series then All-Star selections from the winning team will be disregarded.

Spatafora's Pharmacy, warming up for the title series, last night defeated the Civic Club League's All-Stars, 4 to 2, with four-hit pitching from Morris. Jack Hesketh, pitching for the All-Stars, allowed eight hits, three of them home runs by Duchkar, Marionneaux, and Morris, Duchkar caught for the Spats, and Stovall and Nelms shared the catching for the All-Stars.

It was also announced last night that John Spatafora and Ted Flaherty, sponsors of the City League finalists, were having a radio transcription made of the series to be broadcast after the game for the benefit of fans unable to attend the contests.

CRAIG MATCHED WITH STEELE IN TITLE SCRAMBLE

Tulsa Tussler Gets Chance To Reclaim State Light-Heavy Belt Tuesday

Jack "Stinger" Steele, crowned Louisiana state light heavyweight wrestling champion only two weeks ago, makes the first defense of his title here Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena against the man from whom he won the belt, George Craig of Tulsa, Okla.

"George still thinks he's the best man," Promoter Kallio said last night. "In requesting the match, Craig declared that if the going gets tough he'll keep up with Steele all the way and match him the full distance in rough-and-tumble."

The Steele-Craig feuds have been Kallio's best drawing cards during the summer months, and apparently Kallio is going to give them to his customers just as long as they can keep packing them in. A couple of tag shows and three title matches between the rowdy rivals have drawn increasingly large crowds, and last Tuesday's attendance at a tag scramble featuring the two drew the summer's biggest house.

Craig will be striving to win the belt for the third time, and he's the only wrestler to hold it more than once.

However, Steele has no fears that Craig may relieve him of the crown.

"I would just as soon take on Craig as anybody I know," Steele told Kallio. "In our last match he cut my upper lip in the second fall, but I came back to beat him after he figured I was badly hurt.

"But, I just had a cut lip and little things like that don't even slow me down. I went after him like a tiger and beat him, too. When the championship belt was handed me by the commissioner, Craig started to cry about his bad luck like a little kid when somebody takes his candy.

"Well, you can tell Craig that I took the belt away from him for keeps. I'll give him a match, however, anytime he wants to wrestle a real man, but I don't think Mr. Craig will want any more of me after next Tuesday."

For his semi-final attraction, Promoter Kallio is bringing in another pair of top-notchers in Ben Mayn, newcomer from Salt Lake City, Utah, and Rex Mobley, former world's light heavyweight champion.

Mayn has never before appeared here, but he's well known throughout the wrestling world and will make a good opponent for Mobley.

The main event will have a time limit of 90 minutes, and the certain-loser will be over an hour time limit distance. Both matches will go until one wrestler has won two falls.

Experiments have shown that certain grasshoppers lose their memory between moults.

DIRECTOR

Fred Hawn (above), veteran St. Louis Cardinal scout, player and manager, will be in charge of a Cardinal tryout camp to be conducted on the Neville High School diamond here August 4-5-6. Working with Hawn in quest of possible pro baseball talent among the youth of this area will be George Ferrell and W. H. "Buddy" Lewis.

Sid's Dodgers of West Monroe handed the Red Shield Club's baseball team its first defeat of the season yesterday, 11 to 9, with Martin and Bosely leading the victorious attack. Martin and Bosely each got two hits, including a homer apiece in the Dodgers' 14-hit barrage.

Red Shield collected 12 hits with Johnson and Dollar accounting for two each. The batteries were Hendricks and Bruce, Sid's; Boatright and Jones, McKay, Red Shield.

The Monroe Blue Sox, coming into the league in the place of West Monroe, came up with a good performance in their first game yesterday, but the Louisiana Training Institute Pels played a little better and won, 4 to 2.

A hit and two bases on balls off Fiesette in the first inning enabled the Blue Sox to score their two runs, and thereafter Mitchell, who replaced Fisette on the mound, shutout the Sox the rest of the way, facing only 15 batters, fanning ten of them and allowing only one more hit. Rawls pitched a four-hit game for the losers. Caldas, L. T. I., and Rawls, Sox, were the top sluggers with two hits each. Barclay caught for the winners, and Roberts for the losers.

DODGERS BREAK TIE IN NINTH TO SHADE BUCS, 6-4

Reese's Doube In Last Inning Gives Brooks Seventh Straight Victory

PITTSBURGH, July 26.—(AP)—Pee Wee Reese's ninth inning double kept the Dodgers seven-game winning streak alive today as the Brooklyn club banged out a 6-4 decision over Pittsburgh for their fifth straight success of their western trip.

Pee Wee Reese

Reese's blow broke a 4-4 deadlock that came about when the Pirates spurted for four runs in the seventh on two walks, Wally Westlake's single and Jimmy Bloodworth's big-three run homer.

Hugh Casey received credit for his seventh win and Nick Strincevich was charged with his fifth loss.

7 TEAMS ENTER SOFTBALL MEET

Tomorrow Is Deadline For Entries In Week-End Tourney Here

Seven softball teams of northeast Louisiana are all set for the district tournament to be held here Saturday and Sunday and any other clubs expecting to compete in the event must have their entries in not later than tomorrow.

Teams ready to take part in the first annual event are Tallulah Motor Company, Ruston Ramblers, Woodmen of the World of Forest, and four Monroe clubs, Sparafora's Pharmacy, Amvets, Cooperative Dairies, and Monroe Recreation Parlor.

Late entries should be addressed to the Monroe Recreation department, Box 1293, Monroe.

The tournament will open with games Saturday afternoon and night. The finals will be played next Sunday afternoon, and all contents will take place on the Barkdull Faulk Grammar School diamond here.

Winners of the district event will qualify for the state championship tournament.

BLACKWELL'S PITCHING RECORD LOOMS BIGGER IN DAY OF RABBIT BALL

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Ewell Blackwell's gaudy string of 16 straight wins, fashioned in the day of the rabbit ball and the dime-a-dozen home run, stands out as the most spectacular pitching feat of the decade.

Within reaching distance is Rube Marquard's record of 19 consecutive victories in 1912. No other pitcher in modern days has bettered 16, a long-standing high for the American League.

Even now Blackwell's name is bracketed in the record books with Joe Wood of Boston, Lefty Grove of Philadelphia, Walter Johnson of Washington and Schoolboy Rowe, of Detroit, co-holders of the American League record. The only other pitcher since 1900 to hit 16 was Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1936.

There were anxious moments for "Blacky" and his Reds last night in the friendly surroundings of Crosley Field. The Phillies, trailing 5-3 going to the ninth, loaded the bases with one out. But they were able to push over only one run and succumbed, 5-4.

Blackwell struck out nine and did not walk a single Phil in his latest success although nicked for 13 hits. His next start probably will be Wednesday afternoon against the New York Giants who thrice have succumbed to his mound magic.

President Ford Frick ruled Sunday's protested St. Louis-Brooklyn contest a tie game 3-3, deciding that Ron Northey was entitled to the disputed home run because he had been slowed down by Umpire "Beans" Reardon. As a result the Dodgers lost a win and the Cards had one less defeat, at least until the game is replayed Aug. 18 as part of a double header.

2 EXHIBITION SOFTBALL CONTESTS HERE TODAY

Two exhibition softball games are on tap for this afternoon at Barkdull Faulk diamond where the Lovers' Lane Pharmacy lassies, leaders of the Girls' League here, will play the Madison Oil girls of Shreveport, and Monroe Recreation Parlor warms up for its City League title playoff with Spatafora by playing the Jaycees of the Civic Club League.

The girls' contest is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock, and the men's game will follow at 4:30 o'clock.

Two other exhibitions are slated for local teams on Monday and Thursday night, it was announced last night by Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department.

Tomorrow night Cooperative Dairies and the Amvets will clash at 6 o'clock at Barkdull Faulk in the prelude to the Monroe Recreation-Spatafora City League title series opener, and Thursday, beginning at 8 o'clock, it will be the Lamar club of Crowville against the Amvets at Barkdull Faulk.

ED LOPAT TAMES RAMPANT YANKS ON 3 HITS, 2 TO 1

Bruin Hurler Also Snaps Joe DiMaggio's Current Hitting Streak

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Lefty Ed Lopat brought the New York Yankee's slugging carnival to an abrupt halt today with a neatly-pitched three-hit victory over the league leaders to give Chicago a 2-1 victory.

Ed Lopat

Halting Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak after 13 straight games, Lopat lost his shutout on Tommy Henrich's 13th homer in the fourth.

Lopat racked up his eighth win to nine defeats and his 10th complete game of the season. It was another heartbreaker for Bill Bevens who yielded only six hits but went down for the 10th time.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, July 26 (NEA).—The Browns, 27 games out, have Herold Ruel as confused as were the batters when the little fellow caught the immortal Walter Johnson.

Even Muddy Ruel, the lawyer who left the peace, quiet and dignity of Commissioner Chandler's office to lead the St. Louis Americans out of the wilderness, can't make them intelligible.

"The psychology of a losing club," says Ruel, one of the more erudite of old ballplayers, "is as difficult to explain as a batting slump.

"You can see a batter doing something he wasn't doing before. Perhaps he is using a different bat. Maybe he is stepping too far. His weight may be going in. He could be pulling too many balls, instead of poking one into the opposite field occasionally. Perhaps it's a nervous condition.

"But solving the slump is something else again. Correcting one fault, he falls into another.

"That sums up the lowly state of the Browns as well as I can do it."

Naturally, the Browns have been a bitter disappointment to Ruel, as well as to their wealthy owner, Richard C. Muckerman. Home attendance on the American League side has never been too good at Sportsman's Park, and in more recent weeks the good burghers have stayed away in droves.

Things reached such a sad state that Ruel was reported moving into the general manager's office in place of William O. DeWitt. You have the one-time great backstop's word that this has never been discussed with him, but the story places him in an even more awkard position.

"Speaking of prospects of the future as the manager of a last-place club, anything I might say easily could be misconstrued," he asserts.

The lowdown is, however, that with their three main subsidiaries, or feeders—Toledo, San Antonio and Elmira—the Brownies haven't more than four players who are possibilities. Possibilities, you understand, not probabilities. The outlook is dark, indeed.

Easing his estimates on what members had done before, Ruel in the spring suspected he might take the Browns somewhere. But those who were expected to hit the ball—Berardino, Stephens, Heath and Judnich—didn't. And pitchers who were supposed to pitch didn't.

When Johnny Berardino's arm was broken by a pitched ball, he was batting a smacking .180. The second baseman was in the first five at this time a year ago. It hurt when Bob Dillinger jammed his ankle. The be spectacled third baseman was batting .310 and had swiped 23 bases.

And when help was needed most the front office brought in a couple of untried Negroes.

Ruel let Mark Christman go and kept Dillinger. He let Chet Laabs go and kept Paul Lehner, considers himself right on each count. Young Ray Coleman is batting .281.

"A losing club gets a lot of tough breaks," declares Ruel. "I have yet to blow my topper and call them a lot of donkeys. It is my honest belief that Earl Combs, Freddie Hofmann and myself have done the best we could with what we had.

"We started with a combination of older and young players, which we still think was the correct formula.

"But it's difficult when established performers fail to play reasonably close to their ratings."

It's a strange situation, but Muddy Ruel assures all hands that the Browns will play out their schedule.

BEAUMONT EXPORTERS ACQUIRE SAN DIEGO ACE

BEAUMONT, Tex., July 26.—(AP)—Owner Guy Airey of the Beaumont Exporters in the Texas League, said today he had acquired Anthony Paul Criscola, an outfielder, from San Diego, by outright purchase and that Joe Hare, veteran righthanded pitcher, had been given his outright release.

Criscola, a veteran of 11 years experience played with the Cincinnati Reds in 1944 and spent 1945 and 1946 with San Diego.

SOFTBALL TITLE SERIES TO OPEN HERE TOMORROW

Spatafora's Pharmacy, Monroe Recreation Parlor Clash In Finals

Spatafora's Pharmacy, favored team in the City Softball League's title race, and Monroe Recreation Parlor open the championship finals here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Barkdull Faulk diamond.

The championship will be determined in a two-out-of-three series with games to be played tomorrow, Wednesday, and Friday or until one team wins two games.

The Spats, managed by Ralph Marionneaux, Sr., moved into the finals with straight semi-final wins over Co-operative Dairies, and Ted Flaherty's Monroe Recreation Parlor boys had to go the full three games to eliminate the Amvets who won the series opener.

Spatafora, front runners in the regular season play, have a league record of 26 victories and two defeats, and Monroe Recreation has won 23 league games while losing six.

An estimated crowd of 2,500 fans, largest softball attendance on record here, turned out for the deciding game Friday night between the Amvets and Monroe Recreation, and the championship series is expected to attract even bigger attendance.

Joe Kilcoyne, ace of the Spatafora chunkers, is scheduled to pitch for the Spats, and Massee is due to be on the mound for Monroe Recreation.

The City League All-Star game will be the next thing on the program as soon as the championship is determined.

This year the fans themselves are being offered an opportunity to take part in the All-Star selections, and the array of stars will oppose the league's champions in the season's final show of the circuit.

Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department, last night said the fans are being asked to pick their own All-Star teams from ten clubs of the league and send them to the Monroe Recreation Center, 113 Catalpa street. And it will be the popular choices of the softball followers against the league champions as soon as the title series is over.

Hesketh has requested that the fans select players for nine positions and also name their choice for manager of the All-Stars.

All-Stars are to be chosen from Co-operative Dairies, Amvets, Spatafora's, Monroe Recreation Parlor, Cook and Freddy, George Guerriero Insurance, Surebest Bakers, Red Shield Club, Cuachita Plumbing, and Monroe Office Equipment Company teams.

However, if either Spatafora or Monroe Recreation win the title series then All-Star selections from the winning team will be disregarded.

Spatafora's Pharmacy, warming up for the title series, last night defeated the Civic Club League's All-Stars, 4 to 2, with four-hit pitching from Morris. Jack Hesketh, pitching for the All-Stars, allowed eight hits, three of them home runs by Duchkar, Marionneaux, and Morris, Duchkar caught for the Spats, and Stovall and Nelms shared the catching for the All-Stars.

It was also announced last night that John Spatafora and Ted Flaherty, sponsors of the City League finalists, were having a radio transcription made of the series to be broadcast after the game for the benefit of fans unable to attend the contests.

LESNEVICH MIXES WITH MAURIELLO AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Tami Favored To Win Cancer Fund Match; Gate May Be $150,000

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, July 26.—NEA)—Nothexciting in the way of legalized assault and battery has happened in Brooklyn in some years, but leather will fly when Tami Mauriello and Gus Lesnevich renew their lightheavyweight feud of six years ago in a 10-round match at Ebbets Field on Wednesday night.

It can't miss being a good fight and 15 per cent of the net receipts go to the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund. The combatants collect 30 per cent each.

The advance sale indicates that Andy Neiderreiter will play to 30,000 persons and a gross gate of $150,000. There are 43,000 seats at from $1.50 to $10.

When Billy Conn chucked the 175-pound championship to tackle Joe Louis in June of 1941, Lesnevich, who still holds the crown by the way, outgalloped Anton Christoforidis for the National Boxing Association version of it. Young Mauriello was more or less recognized in New York. So they fought for it twice within less than three months. Lesnevich grabbed the duke, as they say on Jacobs Beach, on each occasion, but the first one was so close it called for the return.

Mauriello now comes in as a full-fledged heavyweight, and then some. Indeed, Mauriello was down to a mere 240 1/2 when he flattened Jimmy Carollo in the fifth round in Flatbush. The Bronx barkeep couldn't have beaten a fat man up a hill that evening, but managed to tag Carollo. And Joe Louis is among those who will testify that anybody the spaghetti destroyer hits is likely to stay swatted.

Mauriello appears to be taking this one seriously, however, promises to come in under 200 pounds. Lesnevich weighed 178 3/4 at Madison Square Garden not long ago, when Melio Bettina stood there, as though in a stupor, and let the Cliffside, N. J., veteran bat him out of the box in 59 seconds, a new course record.

Mauriello is the betting favorite at 6 1/2-to-5.

Much depends on what transpires in the first three or four rounds. Mauriello, as gently hinted in the foregoing, is a belter from Beltersville, packs the poke required to put Lesnevich or anybody else in his place.

The eyebrows of both are heavily laden with scar-tissue, which causes them to cut easily. That's what cost Lesnevich TKO's at the hands of Lee Oma and Bruce Woodcock, against whom he figured to merely gallop. Mauriello's eyes were busted up when the referee stopped his affair with Johnny Shkor at the conclusion of the eighth in Boston. Louis busted up something else.

At 32, Lesnevich is also spotting Mauriello seven years, but the anything but mad Russian is boxing very well right now. Over four rounds with no serious mishaps, it wouldn't be surprising to see the cagey Lesnevich stop Mauriello. If he ever gets him going, he won't lose him. He has developed into a rapid starter, a grand finisher.

If Chairman Eddie Eagan permits, Editor Nat Fleischer will present Rocky Graziano the 127th Ring championship belt in the ring.

Also with Eddie Eagan's approval, past and present champions will be seen as referees in the preliminaries. —Tunney, Dempsey, Louis, Braddock, Walker, Graziano, Robinson and the old feather, Johnny Dundee. At least they will be introduced.

SHREVEPORT BLUEBYRDS WIN NORTH STATE TITLE

MINDEN, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Andress Bluebyrds of Shreveport became north Louisiana American Legion Junior baseball champs today when they defeated the Natchitoches Braves, 12-3, in the deciding game of their playoff series.

The contest was a wild affair filled with arguments and concluded with a fight which was stopped shortly after the end of the contest.

Don Harbuck, Byrd hurler, gave up three runs on seven hits. He walked four men, struckout three, and hit one batsman.

Jimmie Cox of the Braves, allowed 12 runs on seven hits, while striking out five and walking two.

The Braves made nine errors while the Byrds had only four.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Leslie O'Connor, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, has come up with an idea so simple and logical that you wonder how anyone in baseball happened to think of it. . . . His plan is to hold a huge tryout camp at Hot Springs, Ark., in October—when baseball players have finished their seasonal chores and have nothing else to do. . . . Leslie might go even farther if he desired. . . . Why not hold a weeding-out session for rookies at that time instead of trying to do it during the spring training season when nobody really is in condition and the grounds are cluttered up with veterans trying to reduce? . . . Such a camp would give minor league prospects a chance to show their best stuff instead of trying to break in while they're rusty from a winter layoff . . . and in the spring it would enable managers and coaches to concentrate on players who really have a chance to make the big league grade. With the new March 1 starting date, they'll need all the time they can get.

Quote, Unquote

Ray Flaherty, N. Y., football Yankees coach: "Frank Sinkwich doesn't want to play football unless he can be the best player on the field. I think he will be."

Shorts And Shells

When the two-mile Ascot Gold Cup race was won by Dian at the three-quarter mile Ascot race track near Akron, O., in 1941, the purse was $400. Today it was run for $5,000. Now they'll have a tough time justifying the tag of "The Poor Man's Gold Cup." . . . Daytona Beach, Fla., ended its winter fishing tournament June 30 and started the summer tournament July 1. Darn short spring they have there. . . . Pitcher Pinky Woods and First Baseman Tony Lupien were buddies when they played for the Boston Red Sox. They recently resumed friendly relations when Pinky went from Indianapolis to join Tony at Hollywood, Calif. . . . But rumors say they may be separated again with Lupien going to Detroit. . . . Colleges interested in recruiting Buddy Behrens, the junior tennis champ, might as well know that he plans to stay in Florida.

Observation Post

While visiting All-America Conference football camps, Commissioner Jonas Ingram plans to "outline the A. A. F. C. rules on gambling and warn the players of various pitfalls and gamblers' tricks they must watch for." . . . Wonder where an admiral learned all those devious dodges?

Weak End Notes

Phil Edwards, who ought to recognize a good runner when he sees one, says that Bob MacFarlane of Ontario's Western University is a potential Olympic 400 meters winner. . . . Laverne Roach, who'll fight in a prelim to the Gus Lesnevich-Tami Mauriello tussle Wednesday, has turned back $1,000 of his purse to the cancer fund and has sold more than $1,250 worth of tickets. The main event fighters have taken some $12,000 worth of pasteboards. . . . The football Yankees meat bill for the first week of their training camp last fall was $696. At least Steve Owen can't claim a monopoly on the heavy eaters.

The great tea center of Ceylon was first a coffee center until disease attacked the coffee trees in 1870 and wiped out the industry.

PRO-BASEBALL

ton States League, which failed to operate in 1946 because Monroe was not ready, finally opened this spring without a local entry.

Clifford Strauss and S. K. Henninger have come to the rescue, literally supplying the necessary oil to the rusty cogs of a baseball machine that is beginning to grind away toward baseball for 1948.

Strauss and Henninger have taken their bow in the diamond picture by donating a tract of ground, 1,250 feet by 800 feet, on Forsythe avenue and within a ten-minute drive from downtown Monroe.

The property has been found suitable by the baseball interests here, and plans have been drawn up for the erection of a stadium capable of seating 5,000 customers with available parking space for 1,200 automobiles.

The proposed stadium, with its large seating capacity, could serve northeast Louisiana in many other ways than baseball. Outdoor boxing shows, political rallys, and other phases of athletics could be afforded use of the plant.

The land donors have not only expressed their desire to give land for a park, but also want to form a corporation composed of voting stock only to be subscribed by the general public in the form of shares.

The proposed corporation, with the expressed purpose of bringing professional baseball back for the pleasure of Monroe and West Monroe, is to be known as Twin City Memorial Baseball Stadium, Inc.

It has been estimated that construction of the park will cost approximately $75,000, and the project, in order to become an actuality, will depend upon the raising of necessary funds.

Fans who want to have a voice in the operation of the club will be given an opportunity to pledge assistance in the task, and for the next few days it will be the response in pledges that will determine how much further the program will proceed.

In today's sports section there is "A Baseball Pledge" which persons willing to subscribe to the success of baseball here are being asked to fill out and mail to "The Sports Department, News-Star—World, Monroe," temporary headquarters for the reporting of pledges. Pledges will also be accepted at either of the local radio stations.

No cash or check is necessary at this time. The fans are being asked only to make their pledges as to how many shares of stock at $100 per share they desire to purchase. When sufficient pledges have been turned in to assure the success of the baseball project, then the pledgeors will be contacted.

Among local business and professional men reported ready to support the program to the best of their ability in addition to Clifford Strauss and S. K. Henninger are Saul Adler, Dr. W. L. Bendel, A. C. Breckenridge, Milton Coverdale, Ben Downing, Herbert Fink, Milton Ford, Bill Hardy, Murray Hudson, Gentry Brothers of West Monroe, Walter Kellogg, Dick Kellogg, A. K. Kilpatrick, Wilmot "Bill" McCain, Pete Medak, A. E. Montgomery, Bill Mintz, James A. Noe, J. W. Richards, L. M. Ray, W. L. Rothermel, Dave Silverstein, "Sticky" Steele, C. R. (Ruff) Tidwell, Albert Thibeaux, "Pap" Strauss, C. L. Whittelsey, John R. White, H. W. Davis, Clarence Marx, and J. F. Davis.

Last year, due to the failure to secure a suitable baseball park, Monroe lost the opportunity to become a baseball farm of the New York Yankees.

Atley Donald, Yankee scout, had assisted in getting the Yanks to take in Monroe as part of their farm chain. Local interests still feel Donald will again lend every assistance in duplicating last year's work.

George Shepps, owner of the Dallas club in the Texas League, has sent word that he would like a working agreement with Monroe if baseball comes back here.

With the Yankees and Dallas interested, and other higher class clubs likely to try to get into the picture, there's little doubt Monroe will be ready to go next spring if the park can be built.

Monroe and West Monroe have been without organized pro ball since 1941 when the Cotton States League failed to operate in '42 because of war.

Since Monroe has always fielded teams in the Cotton States circuit it is taken for granted that application for membership in that loop will be made. Right now the league, in its first season since the war, is operating with only six clubs, Greenville, Clarksdale and Greenwood in Mississippi, and El Dorado, Hot Springs and Helena in Arkansas.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

GIANTS TIE FOR FIRST

NATCHEZ, Miss., July 26.—(AP)—The Thibodaux Giants went into a first-place tie with the New Iberia Pelicans in the Evangeline League by shutting out the Natchez Giants here tonight, 4 to 0, behind the six-hit hurling of James Johnson.

It was a pitchers' duel until the sixth inning, with Johnson and Natchez hurler Ray Mink allowing only a scratch single apiece for five frames. But Mink weakened in the sixth, allowing a run to score when Stan Ray singled, advanced on Sid Gautreaux' walk and Johnson's single, and crossed the plate on Skeeter Theard's long fly to right field.

The winners hit freely the rest of the way and iced their victory with three runs in the eighth.

Score by innings:

Natchez	.....	000	000	000—	0	6	1

Johnson and Gatreaux; Mink and Walker.

INDIANS TRIP ACES

HOUMA, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Houma Indians pulled the Alexandria Aces down into fourth place in the Evangeline League tonight by handing the Aces a 5-1 drubbing here.

Roy Sanner, hurling for Houma, allowed six hits, all of them singles, while Sooter gave up eight including doubles by Thomassie and Bright and homers by Seiler and Sanner.

Seiler's homer came in the fifth with a mate aboard.

Cozzi, Gales and Ryan at short, second and first for the Indians, completed three double plays afield.

BERRIES DROP PELS

NEW IBERIA, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Hammond Berries racked up six runs in the first frame and added two more in the ninth for good measure to defeat the New Iberia Pelicans 8-1 here tonight.

The Pels rapped out seven hits to six for the Berries but were unable to make the hits count for runs. Four Pel errors also aided the Berries as did the six walks Garzarelli issued.

Gibbs and Bruno contributed doubles to the Berry cause while Garzarelli hit a double, the only extra base hit for the Pels.

STICKS WIN IN 10TH

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—Nino Briscuso pinch-hit a long outfield fly in the tenth inning here tonight to drive Roy Jeske home with the winning run to give the Baton Rouge Red Sticks a 6-5 win over the Abbeville Athletics.

Ben Chattelier's homer with one aboard in the seventh had tied up the game for Abbeville but the Sticks added two more in the last of the seventh to lead 4-2. Each team added one in the next frame but in the ninth Aucoin doubled to drive in two runs and knot the count again.

Abbeville was scoreless in the tenth but the Sticks loaded the bases on relief pitcher Sal Modica. Then Briscuso pulled his Merriwell feat, clouting a deep fly to left to bring Jake in with the winning tally.

SEMI-PROS PICK ALL-STARS FOR RED SOX SCRAP

North Louisiana Aces Will play At Winnsboro Tuesday Night

Although the tightening North Louisiana League race still claims plenty of attention for today's games at Olla, Winnsboro, and Clarks, the league's All-Star game for Tuesday night at Winnsboro is claiming its share of the spotlight.

Selections for the All-Star team which will oppose the Winnsboro Red Sox, currently leading the league by the margin of just one game over the LaSalle Oilers of Jena, was made last night at a meeting of the league representatives here.

E. M. Steely, manage rof the Clarks Lumberjacks, one of the league organizers and senior pilot of the loop, was chosen as manager of the All-Star team. His chief aides, who will serve as coaches, will be Manager P. R. Thaxton, Oak Grove, and Manager Mel Didier, Jena.

Four pitchers named to the All-Star staff were Jesse Harrison, Oak Grove; Bob Ledbetter, Columbia; Tom Perry, Clarks; and Jack Bolin, Jena. "Lefty" Burnett, Olla, ranks next in the vote for pitchers, and is likely to be on the All-Star staff since it is doubtful if Harrison, the Oak Grove ace, will be available.

Catchers will be Tony Johns, Jena, and Bill Thaxton, Olla, the latter a son of the Oak Grove skipper.

Infields rselected were Bob Garner, Columbia; E. J. Albritton, Columbia; Jimmy Keith, Clarks; "Shorty" Mallery, Jena; and William "Babe" Benning, Oak Grove.

All-Star outfielders will be Bob Corbin, Olla; Monroe Harrelson, Oak Grove; Bob Brazier, Columbia; and Billy Ray Parnell, Jena.

Umpires named for the game were Pat Patterson, Swartz; Harry Blackstock, Sterlington; Truman Mayes, West Monroe; and Johnny O'Grady, Winnsboro. Mayes served as a league umpire most of the season, but is at the present on the Olla player roster. Patterson and Blackstock are regular umpires.

The game will be played in Winnsboro's Memorial Park, beginning at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night. Net proceeds of the game will be divided equally between the six clubs of the circuit.

However, the All-Star scramble can't overshadow the importance of today's regularly scheduled games which have Oak Grove at Winnsboro, Jena at Olla, and Columbia at Clarks.

Oak Grove will be out to knock Winnsboro down a notch in the league standings, and a Red Sox loss would force Winnsboro to share first place again with Jena if the Oilers can successfully stop Olla.

At Olla, the Tigers are looking forward to probably their largest crowd of the season, attracted by the fact that the American Legion of Olla is giving away an automobile in connection with the game. An Olla win over the Oilers would send the Bengals into a second place tie with Jena.

The Columbia parish feature of the day will be the battle for fourth place between the Columbia Ramblers and Clarks Lumberjacks at Clarks. Right now the Ramblers are in fourth, the highest they have been all season, and the 'Jacks are in fifth, the lowest they have been to date. The Ramblers, with victory, could tie for third if Clla loses, but a Columbia loss would put Manager Ray Spicer's boys in a tie with Clarks for the No. 4 slot.

Co-Manager Lantz Womack of Winnsboro last night said the Red Sox line up for the All-Star game, exclusive of the pitcher who has not been determined, would include Johnny Ballance, "Buddy" Napper, W. B. "Dub" Stewart, Curtis Sutherlin, Co-Manager Womack, Bob Jarmon, Co-Manager John Nicosia, and Al Nicosia. Buck Hollis, Ray Hoffman, or Paul Delacroix may do the pitching.

CINDERELLA SPORTS FACE HODGE NEGRO TEAM TODAY

The Cinderella Sports of Monroe and the Hodge Black Wa-Ha's strong Negro semi-pro clubs of this area, meet this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at Casino Park here in a game to be dedicated to Haywood Jackson, Negro, journalist of Monroe and publicity director for Negro major league baseball, who died the past week at New Orleans.

The Sports have been attracting big crowds at Casino Park recently, and the biggest turnout of the season is expected for today's game.

Friday night the Sports played the Alexandria Black Aces here, but the game was called after seven innings because the batters lost all the balls on drives out of the park and over the grandstand into the darkness. The Sports were leading 11-5 when the game stopped.

The Monroe Royals Deluxe were scheduled to meet the Black Aces at Alexandria today, but Manager Joe Gulley said the game had been called off because the diamond there was in no condition for play at the present.

LESNEVICH MIXES WITH MAURIELLO AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Tami Favored To Win Cancer Fund Match; Gate May Be $150,000

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, July 26.—NEA)—Nothexciting in the way of legalized assault and battery has happened in Brooklyn in some years, but leather will fly when Tami Mauriello and Gus Lesnevich renew their lightheavyweight feud of six years ago in a 10-round match at Ebbets Field on Wednesday night.

It can't miss being a good fight and 15 per cent of the net receipts go to the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund. The combatants collect 30 per cent each.

The advance sale indicates that Andy Neiderreiter will play to 30,000 persons and a gross gate of $150,000. There are 43,000 seats at from $1.50 to $10.

When Billy Conn chucked the 175-pound championship to tackle Joe Louis in June of 1941, Lesnevich, who still holds the crown by the way, outgalloped Anton Christoforidis for the National Boxing Association version of it. Young Mauriello was more or less recognized in New York. So they fought for it twice within less than three months. Lesnevich grabbed the duke, as they say on Jacobs Beach, on each occasion, but the first one was so close it called for the return.

Mauriello now comes in as a full-fledged heavyweight, and then some. Indeed, Mauriello was down to a mere 240 1/2 when he flattened Jimmy Carollo in the fifth round in Flatbush. The Bronx barkeep couldn't have beaten a fat man up a hill that evening, but managed to tag Carollo. And Joe Louis is among those who will testify that anybody the spaghetti destroyer hits is likely to stay swatted.

Mauriello appears to be taking this one seriously, however, promises to come in under 200 pounds. Lesnevich weighed 178 3/4 at Madison Square Garden not long ago, when Melio Bettina stood there, as though in a stupor, and let the Cliffside, N. J., veteran bat him out of the box in 59 seconds, a new course record.

Mauriello is the betting favorite at 6 1/2-to-5.

Much depends on what transpires in the first three or four rounds. Mauriello, as gently hinted in the foregoing, is a belter from Beltersville, packs the poke required to put Lesnevich or anybody else in his place.

The eyebrows of both are heavily laden with scar-tissue, which causes them to cut easily. That's what cost Lesnevich TKO's at the hands of Lee Oma and Bruce Woodcock, against whom he figured to merely gallop. Mauriello's eyes were busted up when the referee stopped his affair with Johnny Shkor at the conclusion of the eighth in Boston. Louis busted up something else.

At 32, Lesnevich is also spotting Mauriello seven years, but the anything but mad Russian is boxing very well right now. Over four rounds with no serious mishaps, it wouldn't be surprising to see the cagey Lesnevich stop Mauriello. If he ever gets him going, he won't lose him. He has developed into a rapid starter, a grand finisher.

If Chairman Eddie Eagan permits, Editor Nat Fleischer will present Rocky Graziano the 127th Ring championship belt in the ring.

Also with Eddie Eagan's approval, past and present champions will be seen as referees in the preliminaries. —Tunney, Dempsey, Louis, Braddock, Walker, Graziano, Robinson and the old feather, Johnny Dundee. At least they will be introduced.

SHREVEPORT BLUEBYRDS WIN NORTH STATE TITLE

MINDEN, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Andress Bluebyrds of Shreveport became north Louisiana American Legion Junior baseball champs today when they defeated the Natchitoches Braves, 12-3, in the deciding game of their playoff series.

The contest was a wild affair filled with arguments and concluded with a fight which was stopped shortly after the end of the contest.

Don Harbuck, Byrd hurler, gave up three runs on seven hits. He walked four men, struckout three, and hit one batsman.

Jimmie Cox of the Braves, allowed 12 runs on seven hits, while striking out five and walking two.

The Braves made nine errors while the Byrds had only four.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Leslie O'Connor, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, has come up with an idea so simple and logical that you wonder how anyone in baseball happened to think of it. . . . His plan is to hold a huge tryout camp at Hot Springs, Ark., in October—when baseball players have finished their seasonal chores and have nothing else to do. . . . Leslie might go even farther if he desired. . . . Why not hold a weeding-out session for rookies at that time instead of trying to do it during the spring training season when nobody really is in condition and the grounds are cluttered up with veterans trying to reduce? . . . Such a camp would give minor league prospects a chance to show their best stuff instead of trying to break in while they're rusty from a winter layoff . . . and in the spring it would enable managers and coaches to concentrate on players who really have a chance to make the big league grade. With the new March 1 starting date, they'll need all the time they can get.

Quote, Unquote

Ray Flaherty, N. Y., football Yankees coach: "Frank Sinkwich doesn't want to play football unless he can be the best player on the field. I think he will be."

Shorts And Shells

When the two-mile Ascot Gold Cup race was won by Dian at the three-quarter mile Ascot race track near Akron, O., in 1941, the purse was $400. Today it was run for $5,000. Now they'll have a tough time justifying the tag of "The Poor Man's Gold Cup." . . . Daytona Beach, Fla., ended its winter fishing tournament June 30 and started the summer tournament July 1. Darn short spring they have there. . . . Pitcher Pinky Woods and First Baseman Tony Lupien were buddies when they played for the Boston Red Sox. They recently resumed friendly relations when Pinky went from Indianapolis to join Tony at Hollywood, Calif. . . . But rumors say they may be separated again with Lupien going to Detroit. . . . Colleges interested in recruiting Buddy Behrens, the junior tennis champ, might as well know that he plans to stay in Florida.

Observation Post

While visiting All-America Conference football camps, Commissioner Jonas Ingram plans to "outline the A. A. F. C. rules on gambling and warn the players of various pitfalls and gamblers' tricks they must watch for." . . . Wonder where an admiral learned all those devious dodges?

Weak End Notes

Phil Edwards, who ought to recognize a good runner when he sees one, says that Bob MacFarlane of Ontario's Western University is a potential Olympic 400 meters winner. . . . Laverne Roach, who'll fight in a prelim to the Gus Lesnevich-Tami Mauriello tussle Wednesday, has turned back $1,000 of his purse to the cancer fund and has sold more than $1,250 worth of tickets. The main event fighters have taken some $12,000 worth of pasteboards. . . . The football Yankees meat bill for the first week of their training camp last fall was $696. At least Steve Owen can't claim a monopoly on the heavy eaters.

The great tea center of Ceylon was first a coffee center until disease attacked the coffee trees in 1870 and wiped out the industry.

ton States League, which failed to operate in 1946 because Monroe was not ready, finally opened this spring without a local entry.

Clifford Strauss and S. K. Henninger have come to the rescue, literally supplying the necessary oil to the rusty cogs of a baseball machine that is beginning to grind away toward baseball for 1948.

Strauss and Henninger have taken their bow in the diamond picture by donating a tract of ground, 1,250 feet by 800 feet, on Forsythe avenue and within a ten-minute drive from downtown Monroe.

The property has been found suitable by the baseball interests here, and plans have been drawn up for the erection of a stadium capable of seating 5,000 customers with available parking space for 1,200 automobiles.

The proposed stadium, with its large seating capacity, could serve northeast Louisiana in many other ways than baseball. Outdoor boxing shows, political rallys, and other phases of athletics could be afforded use of the plant.

The land donors have not only expressed their desire to give land for a park, but also want to form a corporation composed of voting stock only to be subscribed by the general public in the form of shares.

The proposed corporation, with the expressed purpose of bringing professional baseball back for the pleasure of Monroe and West Monroe, is to be known as Twin City Memorial Baseball Stadium, Inc.

It has been estimated that construction of the park will cost approximately $75,000, and the project, in order to become an actuality, will depend upon the raising of necessary funds.

Fans who want to have a voice in the operation of the club will be given an opportunity to pledge assistance in the task, and for the next few days it will be the response in pledges that will determine how much further the program will proceed.

In today's sports section there is "A Baseball Pledge" which persons willing to subscribe to the success of baseball here are being asked to fill out and mail to "The Sports Department, News-Star—World, Monroe," temporary headquarters for the reporting of pledges. Pledges will also be accepted at either of the local radio stations.

No cash or check is necessary at this time. The fans are being asked only to make their pledges as to how many shares of stock at $100 per share they desire to purchase. When sufficient pledges have been turned in to assure the success of the baseball project, then the pledgeors will be contacted.

Among local business and professional men reported ready to support the program to the best of their ability in addition to Clifford Strauss and S. K. Henninger are Saul Adler, Dr. W. L. Bendel, A. C. Breckenridge, Milton Coverdale, Ben Downing, Herbert Fink, Milton Ford, Bill Hardy, Murray Hudson, Gentry Brothers of West Monroe, Walter Kellogg, Dick Kellogg, A. K. Kilpatrick, Wilmot "Bill" McCain, Pete Medak, A. E. Montgomery, Bill Mintz, James A. Noe, J. W. Richards, L. M. Ray, W. L. Rothermel, Dave Silverstein, "Sticky" Steele, C. R. (Ruff) Tidwell, Albert Thibeaux, "Pap" Strauss, C. L. Whittelsey, John R. White, H. W. Davis, Clarence Marx, and J. F. Davis.

Last year, due to the failure to secure a suitable baseball park, Monroe lost the opportunity to become a baseball farm of the New York Yankees.

Atley Donald, Yankee scout, had assisted in getting the Yanks to take in Monroe as part of their farm chain. Local interests still feel Donald will again lend every assistance in duplicating last year's work.

George Shepps, owner of the Dallas club in the Texas League, has sent word that he would like a working agreement with Monroe if baseball comes back here.

With the Yankees and Dallas interested, and other higher class clubs likely to try to get into the picture, there's little doubt Monroe will be ready to go next spring if the park can be built.

Monroe and West Monroe have been without organized pro ball since 1941 when the Cotton States League failed to operate in '42 because of war.

Since Monroe has always fielded teams in the Cotton States circuit it is taken for granted that application for membership in that loop will be made. Right now the league, in its first season since the war, is operating with only six clubs, Greenville, Clarksdale and Greenwood in Mississippi, and El Dorado, Hot Springs and Helena in Arkansas.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

GIANTS TIE FOR FIRST

NATCHEZ, Miss., July 26.—(AP)—The Thibodaux Giants went into a first-place tie with the New Iberia Pelicans in the Evangeline League by shutting out the Natchez Giants here tonight, 4 to 0, behind the six-hit hurling of James Johnson.

It was a pitchers' duel until the sixth inning, with Johnson and Natchez hurler Ray Mink allowing only a scratch single apiece for five frames. But Mink weakened in the sixth, allowing a run to score when Stan Ray singled, advanced on Sid Gautreaux' walk and Johnson's single, and crossed the plate on Skeeter Theard's long fly to right field.

The winners hit freely the rest of the way and iced their victory with three runs in the eighth.

Score by innings:

Thibodaux	000 001 030—	4	10 1
Natchez	000 000 000—	0	6 1

Johnson and Gatreaux; Mink and Walker.

INDIANS TRIP ACES

HOUMA, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Houma Indians pulled the Alexandria Aces down into fourth place in the Evangeline League tonight by handing the Aces a 5-1 drubbing here.

Roy Sanner, hurling for Houma, allowed six hits, all of them singles, while Sooter gave up eight including doubles by Thomassie and Bright and homers by Seiler and Sanner.

Seiler's homer came in the fifth with a mate aboard.

Cozzi, Gales and Ryan at short, second and first for the Indians, completed three double plays afield.

BERRIES DROP PELS

NEW IBERIA, La., July 26.—(AP)—The Hammond Berries racked up six runs in the first frame and added two more in the ninth for good measure to defeat the New Iberia Pelicans 8-1 here tonight.

The Pels rapped out seven hits to six for the Berries but were unable to make the hits count for runs. Four Pel errors also aided the Berries as did the six walks Garzarelli issued.

Gibbs and Bruno contributed doubles to the Berry cause while Garzarelli hit a double, the only extra base hit for the Pels.

STICKS WIN IN 10TH

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—Nino Briscuso pinch-hit a long outfield fly in the tenth inning here tonight to drive Roy Jeske home with the winning run to give the Baton Rouge Red Sticks a 6-5 win over the Abbeville Athletics.

Ben Chattelier's homer with one aboard in the seventh had tied up the game for Abbeville but the Sticks added two more in the last of the seventh to lead 4-2. Each team added one in the next frame but in the ninth Aucoin doubled to drive in two runs and knot the count again.

Abbeville was scoreless in the tenth but the Sticks loaded the bases on relief pitcher Sal Modica. Then Briscuso pulled his Merriwell feat, clouting a deep fly to left to bring Jake in with the winning tally.

SEMI-PROS PICK ALL-STARS FOR RED SOX SCRAP

North Louisiana Aces Will play At Winnsboro Tuesday Night

Although the tightening North Louisiana League race still claims plenty of attention for today's games at Olla, Winnsboro, and Clarks, the league's All-Star game for Tuesday night at Winnsboro is claiming its share of the spotlight.

Selections for the All-Star team which will oppose the Winnsboro Red Sox, currently leading the league by the margin of just one game over the LaSalle Oilers of Jena, was made last night at a meeting of the league representatives here.

E. M. Steely, manage rof the Clarks Lumberjacks, one of the league organizers and senior pilot of the loop, was chosen as manager of the All-Star team. His chief aides, who will serve as coaches, will be Manager P. R. Thaxton, Oak Grove, and Manager Mel Didier, Jena.

Four pitchers named to the All-Star staff were Jesse Harrison, Oak Grove; Bob Ledbetter, Columbia; Tom Perry, Clarks; and Jack Bolin, Jena. "Lefty" Burnett, Olla, ranks next in the vote for pitchers, and is likely to be on the All-Star staff since it is doubtful if Harrison, the Oak Grove ace, will be available.

Catchers will be Tony Johns, Jena, and Bill Thaxton, Olla, the latter a son of the Oak Grove skipper.

Infields rselected were Bob Garner, Columbia; E. J. Albritton, Columbia; Jimmy Keith, Clarks; "Shorty" Mallery, Jena; and William "Babe" Benning, Oak Grove.

All-Star outfielders will be Bob Corbin, Olla; Monroe Harrelson, Oak Grove; Bob Brazier, Columbia; and Billy Ray Parnell, Jena.

Umpires named for the game were Pat Patterson, Swartz; Harry Blackstock, Sterlington; Truman Mayes, West Monroe; and Johnny O'Grady, Winnsboro. Mayes served as a league umpire most of the season, but is at the present on the Olla player roster. Patterson and Blackstock are regular umpires.

The game will be played in Winnsboro's Memorial Park, beginning at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night. Net proceeds of the game will be divided equally between the six clubs of the circuit.

However, the All-Star scramble can't overshadow the importance of today's regularly scheduled games which have Oak Grove at Winnsboro, Jena at Olla, and Columbia at Clarks.

Oak Grove will be out to knock Winnsboro down a notch in the league standings, and a Red Sox loss would force Winnsboro to share first place again with Jena if the Oilers can successfully stop Olla.

At Olla, the Tigers are looking forward to probably their largest crowd of the season, attracted by the fact that the American Legion of Olla is giving away an automobile in connection with the game. An Olla win over the Oilers would send the Bengals into a second place tie with Jena.

The Columbia parish feature of the day will be the battle for fourth place between the Columbia Ramblers and Clarks Lumberjacks at Clarks. Right now the Ramblers are in fourth, the highest they have been all season, and the 'Jacks are in fifth, the lowest they have been to date. The Ramblers, with victory, could tie for third if Clla loses, but a Columbia loss would put Manager Ray Spicer's boys in a tie with Clarks for the No. 4 slot.

Co-Manager Lantz Womack of Winnsboro last night said the Red Sox line up for the All-Star game, exclusive of the pitcher who has not been determined, would include Johnny Ballance, "Buddy" Napper, W. B. "Dub" Stewart, Curtis Sutherlin, Co-Manager Womack, Bob Jarmon, Co-Manager John Nicosia, and Al Nicosia. Buck Hollis, Ray Hoffman, or Paul Delacroix may do the pitching.

SHARPSHOOTER

BATON ROUGE, La.—It's a little-known fact in southern sports circles that Jesse Fatherree, L. S. U.'s backfield mentor, chalked up a passing average of 1.000 while an undergraduate at the Ole War Skule. During his three varsity seasons, Jesse cocked his arm twice and completed both tosses, one for a TD.

CINDERELLA SPORTS FACE HODGE NEGRO TEAM TODAY

The Cinderella Sports of Monroe and the Hodge Black Wa-Ha's strong Negro semi-pro clubs of this area, meet this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at Casino Park here in a game to be dedicated to Haywood Jackson, Negro, journalist of Monroe and publicity director for Negro major league baseball, who died the past week at New Orleans.

The Sports have been attracting big crowds at Casino Park recently, and the biggest turnout of the season is expected for today's game.

HOLLYWOOD GOLD CUP TURF CLASSIC WON BY COVER UP

Burning Dream Finishes Second, And Honeymoon Finishes Third

By Bob Myers

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 26.—(AP)—Cover Up, a spanking chestnut four-year-old, captured the eighth running of the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup today, soundly thrashing 11 rivals by five lengths in near world record time before 48,846 fans crowded into Hollywood Park.

Ridden by Jockey Bobby Permane, who flew here from the east for the race, Cover Up was never far off the hot pace set by Burning Dream and, taking command at the head of the stretch, drew steadily away to make a show of the field.

Burning Dream, with Johnny Longden aboard, finished second, holding off a belated challenge by the favored Harry M. Warner prize package, Honeymoon, which finished third.

Cover Up, owned by Zack T. Addington of Phoenix, Ariz., ran the mile and one quarter in 2 minutes flat, breaking the track record by two fifths of a second and tying the American mark hung up in 1913 at Belmont Park by Whisk Broom II.

The winner paid off to the tune of $21.70, $8.10 and $4.60. Burning Dream, owned by Mrs. J. P. Adams, San Francisco and Newport, R. I., socialite, paid $7.40 and $4.10, and Honeymoon, the favorite as an entry with Paper Boy for Warner's W-L Ranch, paid $3.

The crowd bet $572,631 on the mid-summer Hollywood classis.

The start was good, and as the pack passed the grandstand Burning Dream was in the lead, with Lets Dance and Honeymoon just behind and Olhavvery, runner-up for the favorite's role, dead last.

Jockey Johnny Longden kept Burning Dream in front down the back stretch and around the far turn, with Cover Up within a length of striking distance and Lets Dance and Honeymoon battling for the third spot.

Coming into the stretch Permane let Cover Up loose and he sailed past Burning Dream. Honeymoon made a move at the Dream, but couldn't hold on and finished third, with Lets Dance, owned by Dan Chappell of Miami, Fla., fourth.

Twelve candidates started. See-Tee-See was scratched because of a bad ankle.

It was Cover Up's first important stakes win and the $73,500 first money ran his earnings up to $149,805. His most recent good effort was a bang up second to Burning Dream in the American Handicap July 4.

CONGRESS

in several hours of singing and fun. Its major business was concluded by 8 p.m. (CST) last night.

Senators spent two and a half hours debating a bill to change the army's promotion system from a basis of seniority to merit and finally passed it with minor amendments. The House, pausing in its singing, accepted them instantly.

Then the Senate took up the $52,123,912 bill to finance the army's civil functions, including flood control, and more debate was loosed before it passed. A few other measures remained for Senate action.

Shortly before midnight the Senate adopted a resolution calling for adjournment at that hour. But since its business was not completed, the House changed it to call for adjournment on Sunday, with the hour indefinite.

The adjournment resolution technically for a recess until Jan. 2, unless President Truman or the Republican congressional leaders should call a special session. Republican Leader Halleck, Indiana, told the House the business on Jan. 2 will be to adjourn this first session of the 80th Congress, and the new session then will start Jan. 6.

The last measure passed by the House was a catch-all bill carrying $105,000,000 in supplemental appropriations. The Senate interrupted its consideration of the army promotion bill to pass it without debate.

Three major appropriation measures which had been in dispute for weeks were passed quickly, however, on voice votes. They provided $1,657,000,000 for foreign programs, $960,000,000 for agriculture and $35,040,000 for the government corporations.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, told a reporter the Senate would quit without acting on President Truman's pending nominations if the appropriations debate dragged on. These include the nominations of Philip B. Perlman of Baltimore for solicitor general and many postmasters. Taft made an exception for James V. Forrestal, nominated only today to be secretary of defense under the armed forces unification act.

Congress does not plan to meet again until January—unless President Truman or its own Republican leaders, in control on Capitol Hill for the first time in more than 15 years, call it back.

The lawmakers decided to give themselves power to reconvene whenever they think it necessary, in view of the state of the world.

But few members think there will be any need for a special session and scores have arranged trips to all parts of the world on investigations and studies. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said that Republican leaders "will get together in October and look things over then" but he expressed doubt that a special session would be called.

The sudden departure of President Truman for Grandview, Mo., just before his mother died, did not interfere with the adjournment schedule.

Mr. Truman signed the bill for unifying the armed forces at the airport here just before he took off.

One of the last major bills to be passed was a measure restoring government price support on domestic wool. The House completed Congressional action on it by adopting the final conference version on a voice vote.

Probably few sessions have been watched more closely by the people, for there were widespread predictions at the start that there would be a running battle between the White House and Capitol Hill. There were some bitter fights, but vital work was done.

While dissension developed over some domestic issues, it was notably lacking on foreign matters.

The Congress fought the president tooth-and-nail on tax and labor legislation. Twice it voted to cut income levies, once effective July 1, 1947, and once effective next January 1. Both times President Truman blocked it with vetoes and was sustained.

But Congress overrode his veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management act and put it on the law books despite the president's protests.

The Congressional-Executive bickering on domestic issues extended also to some presidential nominations for major federal pobs, but the president won out on the big appointments. His nomination of David E. Lilienthal to head the atomic energy commisison was confirmed by the Senate after a long fight.

Rough as was the road on some domestic matters, the president encountered fairly smooth riding with his foreign program.

Congress put through his $400,000,000 program for aid to Greece and Turkey to stop the spread of Communism. It approved $332,000,000 of his request for $350,000,000 for relief to needy nations after the end of UNRRA.

The first session of the 80th Congress cut more from the president's budget requests than many of its predecessors.

In addition to extending rent controls until next March 1, with the permissible 15 percent boost, Congress continued export and import controls on some strategic materials, renewed controls on industrial sugar, and ended scores of wartime controls and laws.

It voted to put the armed services under a single cabinet secretary, to allow holders of terminal leave pay bonds to cash them this year instead of waiting five years, designated the Speaker of the House as successor to the President if vacancies occur in the offices of president and vice-president, submitted to the states a constitutional amendment to limit presidential tenure to two terms, restricted suits for portal-to-portal pay in industry, froze the social security tax at one percent to stop an increase scheduled for Jan. 1, set up a national science foundation, continued the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

It laid aside for future consideration universal military training, minimum wage boosts, a government sponsored health insurance plan, a long-range housing proposal, broadening of social security coverage, a federal employe loyalty check program, and a bill to outlaw poll taxes as a voting prerequisit ein federal elections.

The House passed the anti-poll tax bill and the federal employe loyalty measure but the Senate didn't get around to them.

The House armed services committee approved a universal military training bill at the president's request and left it high on the list of "unfinished business" for the election year 1948.

INDONESIAN

trol of a coastal stretch of 200 or more miles eastward from Batavia.

A broadcast Indonesian communique said the Indonesians still were resisting at Cheribon and that Indonesian guerrillas of the Laskar Rajat (peoples' army) had begun operations in the Batavia area.

A dispatch from Jogjakarta said Indonesian officials declared the Dutch planned to set up "a Dutch puppet government." One Indonesian official said he believed the Dutch already had a skeleton government prepared to take over, but said such a regime "will never get the support of the Indonesian people."

An Indonesian communique said the Dutch drive from Semarang in Central Java had been stalled 30 miles to the south at Salatiga, which is astride a mountain road winding 46 miles southward to Jogjakarta. The bulletin said Indonesians had sliced behind the Dutch at Salatiga and severed their communications with Semarang, the Dutch jump-off point for this drive. The Dutch said their policy, however, was to consolidate their territory politically, before deciding whether to make a serious drive on Jogjakarta.

Gen. Soedirman, commander of the Indonesian army, said in Jogjakarta that the Dutch had lost 9,000 killed, wounded and missing in the first six days of hostilities. The Dutch said Netherlands casualties through yesterday were 32 killed, 50 wounded and seven missing. Dutch communiques on casualties often lag behind operational reports.

In east-central Java, an Indonesian army communique said, republican forces had recaptured Modjokerto, important communications center 25 miles south of the Soerabaja naval base. Reporting heavy fighting in the sector, it said the Indonesians had driven back a Dutch tank spearhead driving on Lawang. Lawang is 10 miles north of Malang, which apparently still was an Indonesian stronghold. Earlier unofficial reports said the Dutch had captured it. The Dutch admitted sharpened Indonesian activity in this sector, but placed their forces at Lawang.

A Netherlands bulletin said the north coastal road commanding the approaches to eastern Java had been cleared for more than 50 miles in the Soerabaja-Probolingge area and was reopened, reestablishing communications with the eastern part of the island.

Fighting on Sumatra apparently was on a considerably more limited scale. The Dutch said that a decision on whether to wage an intensive campaign in the areas of Sumatra still was to be decided.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Harris Jackson at Jogjakarta quoted the Indonesian ministry of information as saying that republican forces had penetrated parts of Medan, Sumatra's largest city, and that a battle for the city was taking shape. Earlier the Indonesian radio at Pemantiangsiantar had said Medan was in republican hands. The Dutch have reported little activity in the Medan area, saying their operations thus far have been restricted mostly to the southern oil field regions.

Dutch dispatches from northern Sumatra said that republican forces were waging a campaign of terrorism against the Chinese population of Medan. The Chinese consul there was said to have broadcast an appeal to the republicans to halt actions which "could only bring the republic's name into disrepute."

Official Dutch messages said a Dutch column moving from smoking Arnhemia, below Medan, found the Chinese quarter completely destroyed. Many villages have been abandoned, the dispatches said.

In the southern part of Sumatra, Dutch flying columns fanned out over a broad area of the oilfield region which supplies the great Shell and Standard Vacuum refineries near Palembang. Front dispatches said there was no resistance worth noting and the only real delays came from obstructions placed in their path by the retreating Indonesians. In the Palembang area, the dispatches said, the Dutch advance caught the republicans so unprepared that unprepared that untouched meals and forgotten weapons were found at hastily abandoned headquarters.

then she caught by the same method seven nice fish!

And talking of fishing. We learn that over in Hot Springs, N. M., a man pulled in a fish that netted him a cool $1,000. He hooked a two-pound, five-ounce bass in Elephant Butte reservoir. It was just another catch until he found a tag attached. That identified the bass as one of 20 worth $1,000 and released in the Hot Springs Sporting Club's $55,000 fish derby. The other 19 are still in the lake.

Last Sunday his picture appeared in a group who are constructing a large veterans' housing project in New Orleans.

Special interests is taken in the trip made this month by Mrs. Carol Watts Gilinsky of West Monroe, who flew with her six-month-old son from San Francisco to Guam to join her husband, Lieutenant Gilinsky. She had to send on in advance clothing to last for a year and her fare—at personal expense—set her back just $560 from California to Guam.

HOLLYWOOD GOLD CUP TURF CLASSIC WON BY COVER UP

Burning Dream Finishes Second, And Honeymoon Finishes Third

By Bob Myers

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 26.—(AP)—Cover Up, a spanking chestnut four-year-old, captured the eighth running of the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup today, soundly thrashing 11 rivals by five lengths in near world record time before 48,846 fans crowded into Hollywood Park.

Ridden by Jockey Bobby Permane, who flew here from the east for the race, Cover Up was never far off the hot pace set by Burning Dream and, taking command at the head of the stretch, drew steadily away to make a show of the field.

Burning Dream, with Johnny Longden aboard, finished second, holding off a belated challenge by the favored Harry M. Warner prize package, Honeymoon, which finished third.

Cover Up, owned by Zack T. Addington of Phoenix, Ariz., ran the mile and one quarter in 2 minutes flat, breaking the track record by two fifths of a second and tying the American mark hung up in 1913 at Belmont Park by Whisk Broom II.

The winner paid off to the tune of $21.70, $8.10 and $4.60. Burning Dream, owned by Mrs. J. P. Adams, San Francisco and Newport, R. I., socialite, paid $7.40 and $4.10, and Honeymoon, the favorite as an entry with Paper Boy for Warner's W-L Ranch, paid $3.

The crowd bet $572,631 on the midsummer Hollywood classis.

The start was good, and as the pack passed the grandstand Burning Dream was in the lead, with Lets Dance and Honeymoon just behind and Olhavvery, runner-up for the favorite's role, dead last.

Jockey Johnny Longden kept Burning Dream in front down the back stretch and around the far turn, with Cover Up within a length of striking distance and Lets Dance and Honeymoon battling for the third spot.

Coming into the stretch Permane let Cover Up loose and he sailed past Burning Dream. Honeymoon made a move at the Dream, but couldn't hold on and finished third, with Lets Dance, owned by Dan Chappell of Miami, Fla., fourth.

Twelve candidates started. See-Tee-See was scratched because of a bad ankle.

It was Cover Up's first important stakes win and the $73,500 first money ran his earnings up to $149,805. His most recent good effort was a bang up second to Burning Dream in the American Handicap July 4.

in several hours of singing and fun. Its major business was concluded by 8 p.m. (CST) last night.

Senators spent two and a half hours debating a bill to change the army's promotion system from a basis of seniority to merit and finally passed it with minor amendments. The House, pausing in its singing, accepted them instantly.

Then the Senate took up the $52,123,912 bill to finance the army's civil functions, including flood control, and more debate was loosed before it passed. A few other measures remained for Senate action.

Shortly before midnight the Senate adopted a resolution calling for adjournment at that hour. But since its business was not completed, the House changed it to call for adjournment on Sunday, with the hour indefinite.

The adjournment resolution technically for a recess until Jan. 2, unless President Truman or the Republican congressional leaders should call a special session. Republican Leader Halleck, Indiana, told the House the business on Jan. 2 will be to adjourn this first session of the 80th Congress, and the new session then will start Jan. 6.

The last measure passed by the House was a catch-all bill carrying $105,000,000 in supplemental appropriations. The Senate interrupted its consideration of the army promotion bill to pass it without debate.

Three major appropriation measures which had been in dispute for weeks were passed quickly, however, on voice votes. They provided $1,657,000,000 for foreign programs, $960,000,000 for agriculture and $35,040,000 for the government corporations.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, told a reporter the Senate would quit without acting on President Truman's pending nominations if the appropriations debate dragged on. These include the nominations of Philip B. Perlman of Baltimore for solicitor general and many postmasters. Taft made an exception for James V. Forrestal, nominated only today to be secretary of defense under the armed forces unification act.

Congress does not plan to meet again until January—unless President Truman or its own Republican leaders, in control on Capitol Hill for the first time in more than 15 years, call it back.

The lawmakers decided to give themselves power to reconvene whenever they think it necessary, in view of the state of the world.

But few members think there will be any need for a special session and scores have arranged trips to all parts of the world on investigations and studies. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said that Republican leaders "will get together in October and look things over then" but he expressed doubt that a special session would be called.

The sudden departure of President Truman for Grandview, Mo., just before his mother died, did not interfere with the adjournment schedule.

Mr. Truman signed the bill for unifying the armed forces at the airport here just before he took off.

One of the last major bills to be passed was a measure restoring government price support on domestic wool. The House completed Congressional action on it by adopting the final conference version on a voice vote.

Probably few sessions have been watched more closely by the people, for there were widespread predictions at the start that there would be a running battle between the White House and Capitol Hill. There were some bitter fights, but vital work was done.

While dissension developed over some domestic issues, it was notably lacking on foreign matters.

The Congress fought the president tooth-and-nail on tax and labor legislation. Twice it voted to cut income levies, once effective July 1, 1947, and once effective next January 1. Both times President Truman blocked it with vetoes and was sustained.

But Congress overrode his veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management act and put it on the law books despite the president's protests.

The Congressional-Executive bickering on domestic issues extended also to some presidential nominations for major federal pobs, but the president won out on the big appointments. His nomination of David E. Lilienthal to head the atomic energy commisison was confirmed by the Senate after a long fight.

Rough as was the road on some domestic matters, the president encountered fairly smooth riding with his foreign program.

Congress put through his $400,000,000 program for aid to Greece and Turkey to stop the spread of Communism. It approved $332,000,000 of his request for $350,000,000 for relief to needy nations after the end of UNRRA.

The first session of the 80th Congress cut more from the president's budget requests than many of its predecessors.

In addition to extending rent controls until next March 1, with the permissible 15 percent boost, Congress continued export and import controls on some strategic materials, renewed controls on industrial sugar, and ended scores of wartime controls and laws.

It voted to put the armed services under a single cabinet secretary, to allow holders of terminal leave pay bonds to cash them this year instead of waiting five years, designated the Speaker of the House as successor to the President if vacancies occur in the offices of president and vice-president, submitted to the states a constitutional amendment to limit presidential tenure to two terms, restricted suits for portal-to-portal pay in industry, froze the social security tax at one percent to stop an increase scheduled for Jan. 1, set up a national science foundation, continued the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

It laid aside for future consideration universal military training, minimum wage boosts, a government sponsored health insurance plan, a long-range housing proposal, broadening of social security coverage, a federal employe loyalty check program, and a bill to outlaw poll taxes as a voting prerequisit ein federal elections.

The House passed the anti-poll tax bill and the federal employe loyalty measure but the Senate didn't get around to them.

The House armed services committee approved a universal military training bill at the president's request and left it high on the list of "unfinished business" for the election year 1948.

INDONESIAN

trol of a coastal stretch of 200 or more miles eastward from Batavia.

A broadcast Indonesian communique said the Indonesians still were resisting at Cheribon and that Indonesian guerrillas of the Laskar Rajat (peoples' army) had begun operations in the Batavia area.

A dispatch from Jogjakarta said Indonesian officials declared the Dutch planned to set up "a Dutch puppet government." One Indonesian official said he believed the Dutch already had a skeleton government prepared to take over, but said such a regime "will never get the support of the Indonesian people."

An Indonesian communique said the Dutch drive from Semarang in Central Java had been stalled 30 miles to the south at Salatiga, which is astride a mountain road winding 46 miles southward to Jogjakarta. The bulletin said Indonesians had sliced behind the Dutch at Salatiga and severed their communications with Semarang, the Dutch jump-off point for this drive. The Dutch said their policy, however, was to consolidate their territory politically, before deciding whether to make a serious drive on Jogjakarta.

Gen. Soedirman, commander of the Indonesian army, said in Jogjakarta that the Dutch had lost 9,000 killed, wounded and missing in the first six days of hostilities. The Dutch said Netherlands casualties through yesterday were 32 killed, 50 wounded and seven missing. Dutch communiques on casualties often lag behind operational reports.

In east-central Java, an Indonesian army communique said, republican forces had recaptured Modjokerto, important communications center 25 miles south of the Soerabaja naval base. Reporting heavy fighting in the sector, it said the Indonesians had driven back a Dutch tank spearhead driving on Lawang. Lawang is 10 miles north of Malang, which apparently still was an Indonesian stronghold. Earlier unofficial reports said the Dutch had captured it. The Dutch admitted sharpened Indonesian activity in this sector, but placed their forces at Lawang.

A Netherlands bulletin said the north coastal road commanding the approaches to eastern Java had been cleared for more than 50 miles in the Soerabaja-Probolingge area and was reopened, reestablishing communications with the eastern part of the island.

Fighting on Sumatra apparently was on a considerably more limited scale. The Dutch said that a decision on whether to wage an intensive campaign in the areas of Sumatra still was to be decided.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Harris Jackson at Jogjakarta quoted the Indonesian ministry of information as saying that republican forces had penetrated parts of Medan, Sumatra's largest city, and that a battle for the city was taking shape. Earlier the Indonesian radio at Pemantiangsiantar had said Medan was in republican hands. The Dutch have reported little activity in the Medan area, saying their operations thus far have been restricted mostly to the southern oil field regions.

Dutch dispatches from northern Sumatra said that republican forces were waging a campaign of terrorism against the Chinese population of Medan. The Chinese consul there was said to have broadcast an appeal to the republicans to halt actions which "could only bring the republic's name into disrepute."

Official Dutch messages said a Dutch column moving from smoking Arnhemia, below Medan, found the Chinese quarter completely destroyed. Many villages have been abandoned, the dispatches said.

In the southern part of Sumatra, Dutch flying columns fanned out over a broad area of the oilfield region which supplies the great Shell and Standard Vacuum refineries near Palembang. Front dispatches said there was no resistance worth noting and the only real delays came from obstructions placed in their path by the retreating Indonesians. In the Palembang area, the dispatches said, the Dutch advance caught the republicans so unprepared that untouched meals and forgotten weapons were found at hastily abandoned headquarters.

And talking of fishing. We learn that over in Hot Springs, N. M., a man pulled in a fish that netted him a cool $1,000. He hooked a two-pound, five-ounce bass in Elephant Butte reservoir. It was just another catch until he found a tag attached. That identified the bass as one of 20 worth $1,000 and released in the Hot Springs Sporting Club's $55,000 fish derby. The other 19 are still in the lake.

4TH ORA PRODUCER FOR SHELL OIL CO.

8 Successes, 14 Dusters For Union Parish; Franklin's First Test Dry

Successful completion of Shell Oil company's Frost Lumber Co. A-1, reported by the district conversation office yesterday, brought to eight the number of producers drilled since the start of Union parish's current oil operation nearly two months ago. All of them are in the Ora field proper, which centers seven miles northwest of Farmerville.

Against that record stand 14 dry holes, four in the field, eight within a radius of four miles and two rank wildcats, one two miles northeast of Farmerville and the other near Spearville. In addition there are several wells which have been drilled to production depth but have not been completed and for which the prospects are considered unfavorable.

The Frost A-2, farthest east in the line of Shell's first five locations, was officially gauged Friday and pumped at the rate of 236 barrels per day, of which 177 barrels of pure oil remained after 25 per cent salt water had been extracted by the heater-treater device that is serving the lease. The well was completed on July 10 and was perforated at 2,109-15 feet after reaching a total depth of 2,182 feet. It is Shell's fourth producer in the five locations. It's No. A-3 developed too much salt water and is listed as a failure.

Reported Saturday as plugged and abandoned as dry at 2,518 feet was the J. K. Hughes Oil company's P. L. Reed in section 24-22-1W, three-fourths of a mile east of the Ora discovery well. Said to have held an interest in that operation was a group of Monroe men incorporated as "The Lucky Five company." That is not a misnomer, one member explained, for they got in on the early rush and disposed of their leases at a good profit, retaining only an over-ride on most of the property.

The Sellars-Ewing company was credited with another producer during the week with its Monzingo-Rivers No. 4 on the lease on which it brought in the Ora discovery well on June 1, but it also was charged with a dry hole for its Monzingo-Rivers No. 5, a mile and a half southeast of their first success. The No. 4 was reported Saturday to have flowed at the rate of about 10 barrels per hour and was awaiting attachment of a heater-treater. No. 5 was plugged and abandoned at 2,488 feet. The same company's P. J. Tucker No. 1, three miles south of the discovery, was to be perforated early Sunday. The conservation department report said 5 1/2 inch casing had been set to 2,193 feet after a total depth of 2,565 feet had been reached. There was no comment on the well's prospects.

George B. Franklin, lumberman, planter, capitalist and owner of 30,000 acres in Richland parish, was reported as undismayed by the outcome of the first of five wildcat tests he has projected. His Jesse E. Cochran No. 1 in section 10-17-8E, one mile northwest of Holly Ridge, has been plugged and abandoned as dry after reaching a total depth of 3,007 feet, but he immediately made a location four miles farther northwest in section 20-18-8E and has started to drill the George B. Franklin Fee No. 1.

Two miles southeast of Holly Ridge and a mile north of production in the Delhi field, L. W. Dennis, Jr., got a dry hole with his John Tatum No. 1. It was abandoned at 4,408 feet.

Another Richland parish abandonment carried in the weekly report was the James E. Kemp company's Ratcliff No. A-2 at the south edge of the Big Creek field. Intended as a "twin," it failed to find the sand sought and was given up as dry at 3,030 feet. Other wells on the same lease are producing from the Williams sand.

Murphy-Sun brought in two producers in the Delhi field. Its J. E. Holt No. 42, one mile south of Delhi near the Crowville highway, was gauged as flowing 71 barrels per day through a 1/4 choke from 3,337-46 feet, and its Kulhawy No. 2, completed Tuesday, was officially rated at 166 barrels per day through a 3/16 choke after being perforated at 3,335-41 feet.

A new Delhi field location is the Gulf Refining company's W. P. Beaird et al., No. 4. It is in section 33-17-9E, on the south rim of the field.

The farthest north location in the Delhi field extension in Madison parish, where Murphy-Sun drilled 21 producers in less than a year before getting a dry hole a few weeks ago, is Stanolind Oil and Gas company's Frazier Unit A-1. It is in section 16-17-10E in the north offset of the J. K. Mahoney A-2, weakest of the Murphy-Sun wells and the only one of the 21 on which it is necessary to use a pump.

Hopes of oil production in Morehouse parish got another setback with the failure of the Union Oil Company of California's wildcat, the D. W. Pipes No. 1, in section 19-19-6E, six miles due west of Oak Ridge and 15 miles northeast of Monroe. It was abandoned as dry Tuesday at 2,798 feet.

The other Morehouse parish operation, Angle and Crain's E. M. Clark No. 1, in section 2-20-7E, near Mer Rouge, was reported Saturday as drilling below 4,000 feet.

In the Lake St. John field, Tensas parish, the California Company brought in a deep producer, the R. W. Clayton No. 1, which was officially gauged Monday as flowing at the rate of 286 barrels per day through a 9/64 choke from perforations at 9,274-9,307. Associated with the Carter Oil company, California completed two gas wells in the Concordia section of the same field. Their jointly-owned Grace Rhodes No. 5 had a flow of 10,750,000 cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 9,861-52 feet, and the Grace Rhodes No. 6 was gauged as yielding 4,689,000 cubic feet from 8,924-66 feet. The gas was to be put through the companies' new recycling plant and returned to the earth.

Placid Oil company has made application for a permit to drill a wildcat in LaSalle parish. The well, known as the LaCent Oil and Gas Co. No. 126, is to be in section 15-10-4E, ten miles east of the Olla oil field.

NEW WORLD RECORD SET BY STATE WELL

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—A new world record for the deepest oil-gas producer was claimed today by the Texas company.

Company officials said the guage of the well, a wildcat test, was completed today in the Queen Island area of Barataria bay in Jefferson parish, Louisiana.

The record producing depth is 13,879 to 13,904 feet.

The well is of gas-condensate flow, while the previous record producer is strictly an oil well, brought in last year by the Shell Oil Company, Inc., at Weeks Island, Iberia parish, La.

The Shell well, Smith-State unit No. 1, produces from 13,867-873 and from 13,878-888 feet levels.

The Texas well is known as Lafourche Basin Levee District No. 1. Its flow for 24 hours was guaged at 48 barrels of 40.8 gravity condensate through a 1/4th inch choke, and 6,188,296 cubic feet of gas.

The Texas company's new well also was credited with being the deepest hole ever drilled in Louisiana. Total depth is 15,523 feet.

The record well is about three-quarters of a mile west of the discovery gasser for Barataria Bay—State-Barataria Bay No. 1.

The company announced that it would start operations on another well as soon as the drilling rig can be moved. Gas from the completed well will be used for power for drilling the second hole.

FARM PROGRAM GAINS APPROVAL

$960,000,000 Measure Passed By Senate On Voice Vote But Heavily Cut

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Congress fast on the session's last day today, grinding out a $960,000,000 farm bill and numerous others that ordinarily could have taken much time.

Senate acceptance by voice vote of a compromise completed action on the farm bill, which is to run the Agriculture department in the 12 months which began July 1. President Truman had asked $1,188,571,318.

The measure provides $265,000,000 for benefit payments on this year's crops for farmers participating in the "conservation and use" programs, and a promise of $150,000,000 to meet such costs during 1948. Also appropriated is $65,000,000 to continue the school lunch program. These two items had been in controversy.

Other bills passed and sent to the president would:

Continue the federal crop insurance program on a limited and experimental basis for wheat, cotton, corn, flax and tobacco.

Control the dumping of refuse in coastal and territorial waters.

Increase by $400,000,000 the maximum amount of insurance the National Housing Authority can issue on the mortgages of new homes. This brings the total authority to $4,200,000,000.

Authorize on-the-job training of war veterans working on farms under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Under the program, the veterans would be guaranteed $65 a month if single and $90 if married.

Permit the army and navy to lease 77 industrial plants and 92,000 items of machine tools, with the services retaining title. Otherwise they would have been sold.

Raise the pay of army and navy doctors and dentists $100 a month and offer other inducements for medical careers in the services.

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

4TH ORA PRODUCER FOR SHELL OIL CO.

8 Successes, 14 Dusters For Union Parish; Franklin's First Test Dry

Successful completion of Shell Oil company's Frost Lumber Co. A-1, reported by the district conversation office yesterday, brought to eight the number of producers drilled since the start of Union parish's current oil operation nearly two months ago. All of them are in the Ora field proper, which centers seven miles northwest of Farmerville.

Against that record stand 14 dry holes, four in the field, eight within a radius of four miles and two rank wildcats, one two miles northeast of Farmerville and the other near Spearville. In addition there are several wells which have been drilled to production depth but have not been completed and for which the prospects are considered unfavorable.

The Frost A-2, farthest east in the line of Shell's first five locations, was officially gauged Friday and pumped at the rate of 236 barrels per day, of which 177 barrels of pure oil remained after 25 per cent salt water had been extracted by the heater-treater device that is serving the lease. The well was completed on July 10 and was perforated at 2,109-15 feet after reaching a total depth of 2,132 feet. It is Shell's fourth producer in the five locations. It's No. A-3 developed too much salt water and is listed as a failure.

Reported Saturday as plugged and abandoned as dry at 2,518 feet was the J. K. Hughes Oil company's P. L. Reed in section 24-22-1W, three-fourths of a mile east of the Ora discovery well. Said to have held an interest in that operation was a group of Monroe men incorporated as "The Lucky Five company." That is not a misnomer, one member explained, for they got in on the early rush and disposed of their leases at a good profit, retaining only an over-ride on most of the property.

The Sellars-Ewing company was credited with another producer during the week with its Monzingo-Rivers No. 4 on the lease on which it brought in the Ora discovery well on June 1, but it also was charged with a dry hole for its Monzingo-Rivers No. 5, a mile and a half southeast of their first success. The No. 4 was reported Saturday to have flowed at the rate of about 10 barrels per hour and was awaiting attachment of a heater-treater. No. 5 was plugged and abandoned at 2,488 feet. The same company's P. J. Tucker No. 1, three miles south of the discovery, was to be perforated early Sunday. The conservation department report said 5 1/2 inch casing had been set to 2,193 feet after a total depth of 2,565 feet had been reached. There was no comment on the well's prospects.

George B. Franklin, lumberman, planter, capitalist and owner of 30,000 acres in Richland parish, was reported as undismayed by the outcome of the first of five wildcat tests he has projected. His Jesse E. Cochran No. 1 in section 10-17-8E, one mile northwest of Holly Ridge, has been plugged and abandoned as dry after reaching a total depth of 3,007 feet, but he immediately made a location four miles farther northwest in section 20-18-8E and has started to drill the George B. Franklin Fee No. 1.

Two miles southeast of Holly Ridge and a mile north of production in the Delhi field, L. W. Dennis, Jr., got a dry hole with his John Tatum No. 1. It was abandoned at 4,408 feet.

Another Richland parish abandonment carried in the weekly report was the James E. Kemp company's Ratcliff No. A-2 at the south edge of the Big Creek field. Intended as a "twin," it failed to find the sand sought and was given up as dry at 3,030 feet. Other wells on the same lease are producing from the Williams sand.

Murphy-Sun brought in two producers in the Delhi field. Its J. E. Holt No. 42, one mile south of Delhi near the Crowville highway, was gauged as flowing 71 barrels per day through a 1/4 choke from 3,337-46 feet, and its Kulhawy No. 2, completed Tuesday, was officially rated at 166 barrels per day through a 3/16 choke after being perforated at 3,335-41 feet.

A new Delhi field location is the Gulf Refining company's W. P. Beaird et al., No. 4. It is in section 33-17-9E. on the south rim of the field.

The farthest north location in the Delhi field extension in Madison parish, where Murphy-Sun drilled 21 producers in less than a year before getting a dry hole a few weeks ago, is Stanolind Oil and Gas company's Frazier Unit A-1. It is in section 16-17-10E in the north offset of the J. K. Mahoney A-2, weakest of the Murphy-Sun wells and the only one of the 21 on which it is necessary to use a pump.

Hopes of oil production in Morehouse parish got another setback with the failure of the Union Oil Company of California's wildcat, the D. W. Pipes No. 1, in section 19-19-6E, six miles due west of Oak Ridge and 15 miles northeast of Monroe. It was abandoned as dry Tuesday at 2,798 feet.

The other Morenouse parish operation, Angle and Crain's E. M. Clark No. 1, in section 2-20-7E. near Mer Rouge, was reported Saturday as drilling below 4,000 feet.

In the Lake St. John field, Tensas parish, the California Company brought in a deep producer, the R. W. Clayton No. 1, which was officially gauged Monday as flowing at the rate of 286 barrels per day through a 9/64 choke from perforations at 9,274-9,307. Associated with the Carter Oil company, California completed two gas wells in the Concordia section of the same field. Their jointly-owned Grace Rhodes No. 5 had a flow of 10,750,000 cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 9,861-62 feet, and the Grace Rhodes No. 6 was gauged as yielding 4,689,000 cubic feet from 8,924-66 feet. The gas was to be put through the companies' new recycling plant and returned to the earth.

Placid Oil company has made application for a permit to drill a wildcat in LaSalle parish. The well, known as the LaCent Oil and Gas Co. No. 126, is to be in section 15-10-4E, ten miles east of the Olla oil field.

NEW WORLD RECORD SET BY STATE WELL

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—A A new world record for the deepest oil-gas producer was claimed today by the Texas company.

Company officials said the guage of the well, a wildcat test, was completed today in the Queen Island area of Barataria bay in Jefferson parish, Louisiana.

The record producing depth is 13,879 to 13,904 feet.

The well is of gas-condensate flow, while the previous record producer is strictly an oil well, brought in last year by the Shell Oil Company, Inc., at Weeks Island, Iberia parish, La.

The Shell well, Smith-State unit No. 1, produces from 13,867-873 and from 13,878-888 feet levels.

The Texas well is known as Lafourche Basin Levee District No. 1. Its flow for 24 hours was guaged at 48 barrels of 40.8 gravity condensate through a 1/4th inch choke, and 6,188,286 cubic feet of gas.

The Texas company's new well also was credited with being the deepest hole ever drilled in Louisiana. Total depth is 15,523 feet.

The record well is about three-quarters of a mile west of the discovery gasser for Barataria Bay—State-Barataria Bay No. 1.

The company announced that it would start operations on another well as soon as the drilling rig can be moved. Gas from the completed well will be used for power for drilling the second hole.

FARM PROGRAM GAINS APPROVAL

$960,000,000 Measure Passed By Senate On Voice Vote But Heavily Cut

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Congress fast on the session's last day today, grinding out a $960,000,000 farm bill and numerous others that ordinarily could have taken much time.

Senate acceptance by voice vote of a compromise completed action on the farm bill, which is to run the Agriculture department in the 12 months which began July 1. President Truman had asked $1,188,571,318.

The measure provides $265,000,000 for benefit payments on this year's crops for farmers participating in the "conservation and use" programs, and a promise of $150,000,000 to meet such costs during 1948. Also appropriated is $65,000,000 to continue the school lunch program. These two items had been in controversy.

Other bills passed and sent to the president would:

Continue the federal crop insurance program on a limited and experimental basis for wheat, cotton, corn, flax and tobacco.

Control the dumping of refuse in coastal and territorial waters.

Increase by $400,000,000 the maximum amount of insurance the National Housing Authority can issue on the mortgages of new homes. This brings the total authority to $4,200,000,000.

Authorize on-the-job training of war veterans working on farms under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Under the program, the veterans would be guaranteed $65 a month if single and $90 if married.

Permit the army and navy to lease 77 industrial plants and 92,000 items of machine tools, with the services retaining title. Otherwise they would have been sold.

Raise the pay of army and navy doctors and dentists $100 a month and offer other inducements for medical careers in the services.

EDITOR TO HEAD SAFETY MEETING

Hunter Jarreau Appointed By Davis To Be Chairman Of Executive Council

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—Hunter Jarreau, editor of the Alexandria Daily Town Talk, has been appointed chairman of the Executive Council of the Governor's Highway Safety Conference's committee on public information, it was announced here today.

The conference is to be held in Baton Rouge Aug. 19-20 to study recommendations for reducing Louisiana's highway accident losses.

Appointed by Hunter Huckabay, director of public safety, as co-chairman of the council were John D. Ewing, editor of the Shreveport Times, and Ralph Nicholson, editor of the New Orleans Item.

George T. Goodman, secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Press Association, was named executive secretary of the council.

Charles P. Manship Jr., publisher, Baton Rouge State-Times and Morning Advocate; John C. Tims, editor, New Orleans Times-Picayune; Douglas Attaway, editor, Shreveport Journal; T. M. Callahan, publisher, Lafayette advertiser; Max Thomas, publisher, Crowley Daily Signal; W. A. Rosenbauer, editor, Minden Herald; Wilson Ewing, publisher, Monroe News-Star and Morning World; Thomas E. Gibbens, Station WJBO, Baton Rouge; Charles B. Warren, Lamar Advertising Co., Baton Rouge.

J. N. Rials, editor, Iverville South, Plaquemine; M. T. Lipp, editor, Franklin Sun, Winnsboro; Nathan Bolton, editor, Morehouse Enterprise, Bastrop; Matt Vernon, editor, Daily Iberian, New Iberia; J. Earle Owings, president, Transportation Advertisers, Inc., New Orleans; J. R. Lamantia, branch manager, RKO-Radio Pictures, New Orleans; Herbert B. Baron, Ethly Corp. Public Relations Division, Baton Rouge; Roy Dabadie, manager, Station WJBO, Baton Rouge, and Howard H. Summerville, manager, Station WWL, New Orleans.

SAM L. HARTMAN LEAVING SCOUTS

Field Executive To Join Father In Business At Farmerville

A. B. Clarkson, president of the Ouachita Valley Council, announced Saturday that Sam L. Hartman, field scout executive, had resigned his position effective August 15.

"We have accepted Mr. Hartman's resignation with great regret," Mr. Clarkson said, "and we are sorry to lose him. His services have been very valuable, and Scouting has been benefited by his work. We wish him well in his new field of endeavor."

Floyd D. Huddleston, Scout executive, said that Mr. Hartman resigned his position to enter into business with his father in Farmerville.

In submitting his resignation Mr. Hartman declared, "My association with the Ouachita Valley Council has been a source of great satisfaction to me. I have enjoyed by work and my association with the many fine friends that I have made over the territory. I hope my business will permit me to continue in the Scouting movement as a volunteer leader."

Mr. Huddleston said efforts were being made to obtain a successor to Mr. Hartman, and until that was accomplished, service to the entire council territory would be rendered by himself and John D. Spalding, field Scout executive.

NAMED TO CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

Roy Q. Cole And E. N. Thompson New Members Of Police-Fire Body

Appointment of Roy Q. Cole, 114 Pargoud Drive, and E. N. Thompson, 1313 Milton avenue, as members of the Monroe Firemen and Police Civil Service Board was announced yesterday by Mayor H. H. Benoit. They succeed Hugh W. Davis, 1038 Jackson street, and J. J. Dieterich, 225 Pear street, who had served since the board was created by the state legislature in 1940 and whose second three-year terms expired Saturday.

Under the law nominations for board membership must be made by a state educational institution in each municipality, and the appointments yesterday were made by the council from a list of prominent men submitted by Dean Rodney J. Cline of Northeast Junior College. Other members of the board are W. C. Faulk, 1010 North Second street; Capt. H. T. Ward, representing the police department, and Capt. M. M. Smith of the fire department. The members serve without pay.

Henry Haas, superintendent of the city sanitary department, was an original member and first chairman of the board and has been its secretary since February, 1946. Mr. Davis was chairman at the time his term expired and his successor in that position is to be named at a called meeting next week.

DROWNINGS IN COUNTRY OFTEN

Fifty Per Cent Occur In Rural Sections, Says J. J. Joyce, Jr.

"Fifty per cent of drowning accidents occur in rural areas and the majority of all infant drownings occur on farms," stated J. J. Joyce, Jr., county agent, in pointing out the importance of special emphasis on this phase of safety, particularly at this time of year. Nearly 90 per cent of farm residents who have drowned were non-swimmers, and the majority of all infant drownings occur in such places as stock watering tanks, cisterns, tubs, crocks, etc. Investigations indicate that the principal causes of drownings are: Lack of knowledge, insufficient skill, poor judgment, and just plain carelessness.

"All of this evidence," said Mr. Joyce, "points to the fact that farm people should redouble their emphasis on water safety. The 'old swimming hole' has always been one of the great sources of pleasure to farm residents, but too often water sports have brought sadness to many families instead of the comfort, relaxation and pleasure they should bring."

Mr. Joyce made the following suggestions for the reduction of needless loss of life by drownings in rural areas:

Make a thorough investigation regarding the safety of swimming facilities.

Keep emergency equipment on hand near the swimming site—a raft anchored in the center of the pond or even a fence pole or a coil of old rope can be useful items in emergencies.

Old tubs, boilers, jars, or other containers should not be left around the farmstead. It takes as little as two inches of water to drown an infant.

Protect stock watering tanks. If possible, fence them off or cover them.

Cisterns and wells should be inspected periodically to make sure that coverings are secure.

Drain or level off all depressions to protect young children.

Don't swim alone—never allow anyone to go into the water when tired, overheated, or immediately after eating.

Learn to swim or stay out of the water.

RED CROSS TO SPONSOR COURSE

The annual life saving instructors' course sponsored by the American Red Cross will begin Monday evening, July 28, at 6 p. m., with registration at Swayze Natatorium. This course will be taught by Fred Lenard, instructor from the national Red Cross staff on water safety. Mr. Lenard, an outstanding authority in his field, promises to make the course an event which all advanced swimmers in Monroe should not miss.

The life saving instructors' course will be held between July 28 and August 1, and will include ten hours of instruction. Hours will be arranged at the convenience of members of the course at registration Monday.

According to policy of American Red Cross, there will be no charge for this life saving instructors' course.

FUN AT SWAYZE NATATORIUM

Swimming classes were just one of the popular summer activities planned for Girl Scouts this summer, quoted Mrs. George Forman, Summer Activities Chairman, with seven Beginners and four Intermediate classes completed. Red Cross instructors made these classes possible for the 152 Girl Scouts that registered. The above picture is the last class of Intermediates taking instruction. Red Cross instructors were Pat Livingston, Rosemary Mink, Pat Johnston, Alice Stanford and Jack Blanks. Along the rail from left to right are: Ingran Peterson, Carolyn Jean Boyce, Frances Shirah, Elaine Toombs, Bettye Jean Shirah, Moniza McKenzie, Mary Pat Welch, Corrine Cheshire, Dawson Ann Forman, Judy Stewart, Mary Emma Wilson, Mary Katherine Walker.

CAN STILL TAKE GUARD MEMBERS

Company 1, 3rd Battalion, 199th infantry is making final preparation for the first annual post war field training period of the Louisiana national guard. A special invitation is extended to all former servicemen to join Company I, there are many ratings open to men ambitions to become a part of this peace time cause. The national guard offers more than just extra income for its members, the prestige of serving one's country, yet retaining the privileges of homelife, keeping abreast with the latest army equipment and training, are some of the advantages of the national guard of the United States. Many schools are open to men in this annual training period, cooks and bakers' school, administrative classes, motor vehicle drivers' school, mechanic schools, all which would be useful in civilian life.

Men of all ages can benefit in the national guard, ex-service men can renew old acquaintices while young men can make new friends while learning the ways of army life, without undergoing full rigors of the full time army life.

Saturday, August 2, will be the last armory drill before departing for Camp Beauregard. All young men are urged to join before this time, in order to attend camp. Anyone interested may contact Capt. Chas. Womack on Tuesday or Saturday nights at 7 p. m., at the national guard armory.

POISON NEEDED TO HALT BOLL WEEVIL

The infestation of the boll weevil is increasing rapidly and poisoning is required to halt this progress, stated J. J. Joyce, Jr., county agent.

He states that arsenic, then phenotox and next benzine hexachloride are poisons suited to counteract devastation.

He said that west of the river in the hill country the infestation is from 50 to 100 per cent and in the bottom lands of the parish from six to 70 per cent.

He urges planters to watch their cotton daily and to apply these poisons five days apart and to rotate their selection.

The poisons can be had from any feed and seed company in the Twin Cities.

Although glycerine is one of the best-known solvents, some of its chemical combinations are practically insoluble.

MUSIC RECITAL SET THURSDAY

Talented Students Of Mrs. Allbritton To Be Presented

Several music majors from the studios of Mrs. Florence Ziegler Allbritton, assistant professor of piano at Northeast Junior College, will appear in recital Thursday, July 31 at 8 p. m., in the fine arts building on the campus. The public is invited to hear these students who are enthusiastic about presenting a program of marked variety.

Miss Frances Ritter will play four numbers: Frederic Chopin's Nocturne Op. 37, No. 1 and Waltz Op. 69, No. 2; Jean Sibelius' Romance in D flat major and Claude Debussy's General Levine Eccentric.

Selections which will be played by Miss Beverly Anne Thatcher include: Chopin's Waltz Op. 70, No. 1; Debussy's Mazurka in F sharp minor, and Burrill Phillips' Fancy Dance.

Miss Ethel Rose Rogers has chosen four numbers for that evening: Prelude and Fugue No. 1 from Well Tempered Clavichord by Johann S. Bach; Rondo Capriccioso Op. 14 by Felix Mendelssohn; Poeme by Alexander Scriabine, and Polichinelle by Heitor Villa-Lobos.

Miss Pat Evans will play Leopold Godowsky's An Epic from Triakontamaron, No. 22 and Moritz Moskowski's Caprice Espagnole.

Completing the evening of music, Winfred Mask will give four numbers: Novelette Op. 21, No. 7 by Robert Schumann; Waltz Op. 64, No. 2 and Etude Op. 10, No. 12 (Revolutionary) by Chopin; Wedding Day at Troldhaugen by Edvard Grieg.

Interest in piano at the local college has run high this summer. The enrollment for that study has far exceeded that of all past summer sessions. Mrs. Allbritton and James F. Monroe, also of the regular music faculty, were retained for the summer school to satisfy the demand from students who wished to earn college credits in the study of this instrument.

SPECIAL SCHOOL BOARD MEET SET

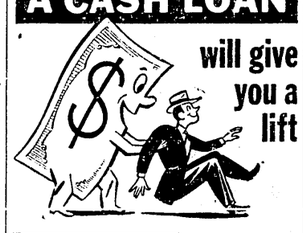

The Ouachita parish hool board will meet in special session August 8 at 10 a. m.

This session is necessary in order to complete details that could not be given attention at the regular meeting of the board which was held on July 3.

The special session will be concerned with the adoption of the budget and the completing list of teachers for the coming year, it is stated.

Remodeled Palace In 45th Year

'Name Brands' Foundation Of Palace Success

Trademarks Assure Value, Asserts Palace President

Nationally-known merchandise is one of the mainstays of Palace values,, according to Sig Masur, president of the firm.

"Throughout our history we have featured nationally advertised goods," he said, "because they guarantee two things of paramount importance to every customer:

"First, quality. A nationally-known trademark assures the shopper that whatever he or she is buying is backed by reputable manufacturers and tested sales experience.

"Second, low prices. Again a nationally-advertised product carries with it a maximum cost value because of substantial reductions made possible by large scale output and distribution."

"The advantages of name-brand policy are too well established to need special pleading," Mr. Masur declared.

"Brand names are manufacturers' pledges that they will stand back of their products. Competition between brand names makes for constant product improvement.

"Furthermore," he continued, "brand name knowledge saves thousands of hours of shopping time annually, and the brand system provides the maximum opportunity for free choice and the satisfaction of individual tastes.

"Cur brand names have been an integral part of our business for many years. They have remained prominent because they signify to our customers the unassailable quality of the merchandise upon which they appear.

"The names on the products we carry are a great deal more than names. They are signatures.

"A name serves to identify, but a signature does more—it testifies piece of craftsmanship is freely acknowledged by its maker.

"Brand names are in effect such signatures. They identify the fine merchandise we carry throughout the Palace. They testify to high quality and proud workmanship which have established the reputations of their makers.

"Names on the labels of worthy merchandise are as well known to shoppers as good friends.

PAJAMA-SKIRT CUTS DRESSING TIME

NEW YORK—Now there's a nightie that can go to breakfast. And look as smart and correct as any morning dress at the table.

This bright idea in sleep-wear combines short pajamas, in which you can slumber in cool comfort, with a wrap-around skirt that gives you a quick change into thoroughly respectable breakfast attire.

Credit for a design which will win applause from lie-abeds, who wait until the last possible minute before getting up, goes to a 20-year-old Texan. Jean Jackson, of Beaumont, is a '46 graduate of the Texas State College for Women. This young designer for a leading Texas manufacturer has won national recognition as a creative stylist with her two-timing garment.

The attractive and practical ensemble makes its debut in time for vacationers and other summer loafers who must either cut down dressing time or go without breakfast. Another point in its favor is that it is a good traveler.

Pajamas which can shed both wrinkles and a bedroom look require special styling and the use of crease-resistant fabric. Celanese jersey, which is slow to muss, sag or stretch, meets fabric needs. Styling requirements are met by attractive shirring, used in double rows to nip in and decorate the midriff. Shirring also softens the neckline and gathers up short, puff sleeves. The skirt of matching aqua, rose or "violet-sky" jersey is a full wrap-around in the new longer length.

Answering an alarm at 8:39 p. m. Thursday, Company No. 2 went to 1111 DeSiard street and extinguished a blaze in the brake bands of an automobile operated by Mrs. Vicky Draper.

A DREAM REALIZED

Shown above is Sig Masur, president of The Palace, as he contemplates the fulfillment of a 45-year-old dream of Palace progress.

"In 1903, when the first small building that was later to become the modern six-story Palace was opened," Mr. Masur said, "I had the vision and the aim of making The Palace live up to its name.

"Throughout the years I have watched that vision become reality! First, in 1914 with the construction of the first two-story building. Next in 1916 when a new wing was added. In 1925 with the erection of our present six-story building; in 1928, on the 25th anniversary of The Palace. And now the complete remodeling and modernization which makes The Palace one of the most beautiful stores of the nation.

"Today that dream is completed, and The Palace stands as a monument to a faith well-founded in the principles of quality and service."

HAWAII MAKES FASHION BID

Playclothes from Hawaii are finding their place in the sun on continental United States beaches this summer. Made of colorfast, sanforized cottons that thrive on sun and water, these Kamehameha designs are adaptations of native styles. The traditional Hawaiian "lei" is used as the neckline for the brief bra tops of beachwear.

Our congratulations to you . . . and our best wishes for your continued deserved success in your new store.

For many years we have enjoyed our business relationship with you . . . and we today esteem The Palace as one of the fine retail institutions in the South.

BEAUTIES' HINTS FOR MODERN LIVING ARE IN CLOSE HARMONY

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Know how to solve the problem of living harmoniously with a large family or several roommates in limited space

Follow a plan under which specific duties and responsibilities are assigned to each member of the household. That's the advice of three girl singers who work and live together in harmony.

These vocalists of Vaughn Monroe's radio show—Mary Jo Thomas, Tinker Cunningham and Arline Truax, all of Denton, Tex.—think that without a plan there might be discord in their small New York apartment.

Under the Texans' system, duties and responsibilities of housekeeping are equally shared. Each week one girl is assigned to K. P. duty and another to the "commissary." The third takes over cleaning chores and the watering pot that keeps a tiny terrace abloom. There is a rotation of duties from week to week.

Sour notes are also kept out of their harmony, these singers say, by making an equal division of living space. Closet and bureau space is allocated to the last precious inch. To guarantee that a bureau drawer will be equitably shared by two girls, for example, the division of space is pencil-marked on a paper lining and each user's name is scrawled in bold letters on her half of the domain.

Mary Jo, Tinker and Arline all agree that small quarters necessitate order and strict habits of personal tidiness.

"Imagine the chaos," says this trio in loud chorus, "if clothes weren't picked up, toiletries weren't cleared from a dresser top, towels were left in a heap on the bathroom floor, closet shelves and bureau drawers weren't kept in order!"

TALLULAH STARS IN 4-ACT COSTUME PLAY

By Epsie Kinard
(NEA Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Starring Tallulah Bankhead, this is a costume drama in four acts.

Time: A face-mopping July day.

Place: Plush salon of designer Mainbocher, creator of four costumes tried out by Tallulah for her forthcoming stage appearance in "Private Lives."

Act I: Prancing in wearing a bead-encrusted brown and white print dressing gown, Tallulah circles the room giving with rapid-fire commentary: "This is by way of being a house coat. In two weeks I'll be five pounds thinner. I'm still damp from my bath. Look at my hair . . . set yesterday . . . been rehearsing . . . little stringy. But then the rest of you don't look so well either!"

Act II: Skipping out in a mock scarf dance, Tallulah models a "Bankhead" blue crepe dinner dress twinkling with medallions of crystal beads. Tossing about yards of diaphanous scarf, she says she'll stop hiding behind this thing when she loses five pounds. Between skips she gives out with: "I love this color. It goes gray on the stage. In the play I'm supposed to be on my way to the Casino at Deauville. I hope it's not as hot there as it is here!"

Act II: "In the play I'll wear this when I fight with and make love to my husband," says the pajama-clad Tallulah, this time slinking in. She extends a leg trousered in geranium-red, flips out a sheer slashed coat of ruby red that tops pajamas. Around the room she goes asking: "Aren't these two colors lovely together?"

Act IV: "Am I holding my tummy in enough?" Tallulah asks, entering in a blaze of yellow silk shantung flecked with white polka dots. For her finale, she models a daytime ensemble combining a simple dress, full peignoir-styled coat and swagger hat of matching fabric. On the hat are diamond clips matching the ring on her finger.

Curtain speech: "There you are, ladies and gentlemen. I've done my best."

LINEN REVIVES OLD DUSTERS

By Epsie Kinard
(NEA Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—Dusters are back.

As typical of early gas-buggy days as the proverbial cry of "Get a Horse!" are 1,900 coat fashions revived for the '47 motorist.

One high-fashion fabric used is Irish linen, treated with a crease-resistance process to defy wrinkles. This gives the crisp, tubbable fabric, imported this season in considerably larger supplies, justification for its claim of all-purpose coat. After a long drive, a duster is supposed to oblige almost anything in a wardrobe from slacks to evening dress.

In white, a duster makes fine frosting for a bright print dress. In confectioner's pink, the duster can sugar up navy, blue or black dresses. The summer outlook of this coat is also brightened by soft blue and a shade the color of vanilla ice cream.

For fashion cues, designers thumbed through turn-of-the century style books. Clare Potter pulled out two swashbuckling fashions which, translated into 1947 styles, have become season hits. One is a full-length swagger with four huge patch pockets with button-down flaps. For carrying the modern motorist's "mad money" there is a small change pocket buttoned on to one cuff."

Also reviving the 1900 duster is the fitted coat with a belted back which flattens skirt fullness into two deep pleats. This coat has two novel slit breast pockets and two oversized patch pockets placed on the skirt to give it a new rounded hipline.

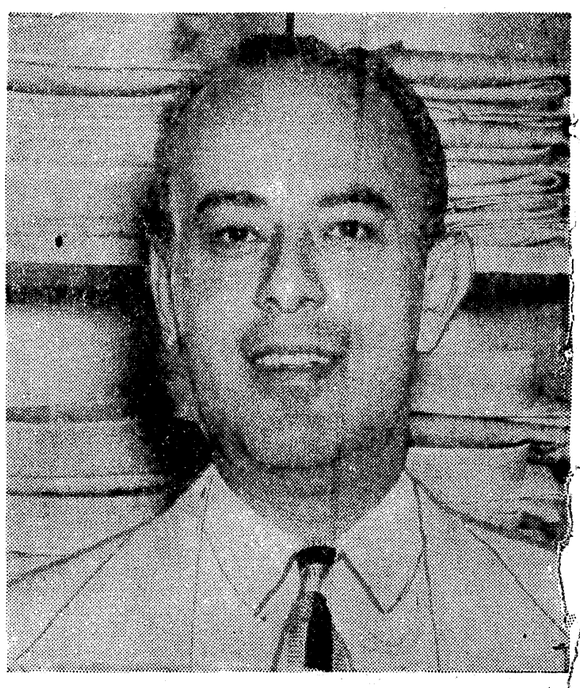

POLO OUT AT POINT?

WEST POINT, N. Y. — (AP) — West Point's polo ponies have been turned out to pasture by government order and polo enthusiasts are convinced that the order means the end of the stick and ball game at the military academy.

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

Jack S. Masur, first vice-president, and assistant manager, as well as a director of The Palace, is well known in Monroe by his interest in civic organizations and especially his enthusiastic efforts with "Teen Canteen," a Junior Chamber of Commerce project in Monroe. He graduated from Neville High School and attended Wharton Business and Finance School in Philadelphia, Pa. After serving two years in the South Pacific, he returned to Monroe a year and a half ago to take over his job at The Palace as buyer of ladies bags, gloves and jewelry. He added a new department to The Palace which now features fine foods and household appliances. He and his brother, Sylvan, do the buying for The Palace men's shop. Jack is the father of three daughters. He and his wife and family reside on Park avenue.

Sylvan Masur, second vice-president and a director of The Palace, has been with this store over 16 years. He is the eldest son of Sig Masur and is a native of Monroe. Sylvan attended Monroe schools and later attended Gulf Coast Military Academy and the University of Alabama. Returning last year from four years of active duty in the states and European theater, he is, in addition to his other duties, buyer for The Palace Men's Shop. He is now serving as chairman on the boys' work committee of the Monroe Optimist Club and is a member of other civic clubs here. Sylvan, his wife and eight-month-old daughter, Linda, reside on North Second street in Monroe.

Milton Gorn, secretary and a director of the organization, is a native of New York. He attended New York school and Tuscaloosa Law School, Tuscaloosa, Ala. He has completed 3 years of active duty in Alaska and the states, and is now buyer from the Budget Fourth Floor and head of the Fur Salon on the Fashion Second Floor. Mr. and Mrs. Gorn and Beatrice, their daughter, live on North Fourth street in Monroe.

Remodeled Palace In 45th Year

'Name Brands' Foundation Of Palace Success

Trademarks Assure Value, Asserts Palace President

Nationally-known merchandise is one of the mainstays of Palace values, according to Sig Masur, president of the firm.

"Throughout our history we have featured nationally advertised goods," he said, "because they guarantee two things of paramount importance to every customer:

"First, quality. A nationally-known trademark assures the shopper that whatever he or she is buying is backed by reputable manufacturers and tested sales experience.

"Second, low prices. Again a nationally-advertised product carries with it a maximum cost value because of substantial reductions made possible by large scale output and distribution."

"The advantages of name-brand policy are too well established to need special pleading," Mr. Masur declared. "Brand names are manufacturers' pledges that they will stand back of their products. Competition between brand names makes for constant product improvement.

"Furthermore," he continued, "brand name knowledge saves thousands of hours of shopping time annually, and the brand system provides the maximum opportunity for free choice and the satisfaction of individual tastes.

"Our brand names have been an integral part of our business for many years. They have remained prominent because they signify to our customers the unassailable quality of the merchandise upon which they appear.

"The names on the products we carry are a great deal more than names. They are signatures.

"A name serves to identify, but a signature does more—it testifies piece of craftsmanship is freely acknowledged by its maker.

"Brand names are in effect such signatures. They identify the fine merchandise we carry throughout the Palace. They testify to high quality and proud workmanship which have established the reputations of their makers.

"Names on the labels of worthy merchandise are as well known to shoppers as good friends.

"Some are the names of designers whose style characteristics mean beauty and attractiveness. Some are the names of firms whose integrity offers a continuing assurance of merit. Some are the names of products that have become acknowledged leaders in their respective fields.

"Every one of these labels on Palace merchandise is a guarantee that a fashion or firm or product is outstanding in its class, that its excellence has long been upheld, that its value is beyond question.

"There is something essentially American about brand names and labels," Mr. Masur asserted. "They represent our system of competition and free enterprise working at its best—assuring the most worthy manufacturers and products of their rightful eminence, and affording the customer of the highest in quality and value."

Sam Davis, treasurer and a director of The Palace, is a native of Louisiana. Being one of the older members of this firm, Mr. Davis has passed the quarter-century mark in the office and credit manager capacity. Probably one of the most active men in Monroe civic activities, Sam has served on many of the budget committees of these clubs for approximately 30 years. He is past president of the Monroe Lions Club and holds the Boy Scout "Beaver" commendation. Mr. Davis and his wife reside in Monroe on Emerson street.

William Grasse, a Palace director, is a native of Alabama. He attended Athens College, Athens, Ala., and later studied costume designing at a private school in New York. While in New York, "Bill" was associated with Lord & Taylor in a buyers capacity. He has been with The Palace over 21 years. Beside being a director of this institution, Mr. Grasse is buyer for linens, blankets, comforts, yard goods, scarfs, laces and handkerchiefs. As a hobby, Grasse has collected a group of famous paintings which have won the acclaim of many Monroe artists and the numerous friends who have been entertained at "Grasse Haven," his country home on the Winnsboro Road. Mr. Grasse has proven his ability as an amateur chef and delights in playing host to the many clubs who entertain at his home.

Mrs. Beatrice S. Masur, a director of The Palace, has seen this institution grow from the one-story general merchandise store to its present six-story structure. She came to Monroe in 1907 as the bride of Mr. Sig Masur, who had been in business for himself at that time four years. "Bea," as her friends call her, is a native of Mississippi, having later moved to New Orleans. Mrs. Masur is in charge of the Toy Department on the Fourth Floor. She and "Sig" have three children, Sylvan, Jack and Bertha Marie, all connected with this institution. Mr. and Mrs. Masur live on South Grand in Monroe.

RINGS THE BELL

MONMOUTH, N. J.—(AP)—Horses at Monmouth Park, N. J., are summoned from the paddock by the ringing of a bell that was used generations ago at the seaside track to start the races. The bell has been resurrected from a Long Branch, N. J., attic and was installed in the winner's circle.

GETS NYAC CAGE JOB

WARM BATH PAYS IN COOL COMFORT?

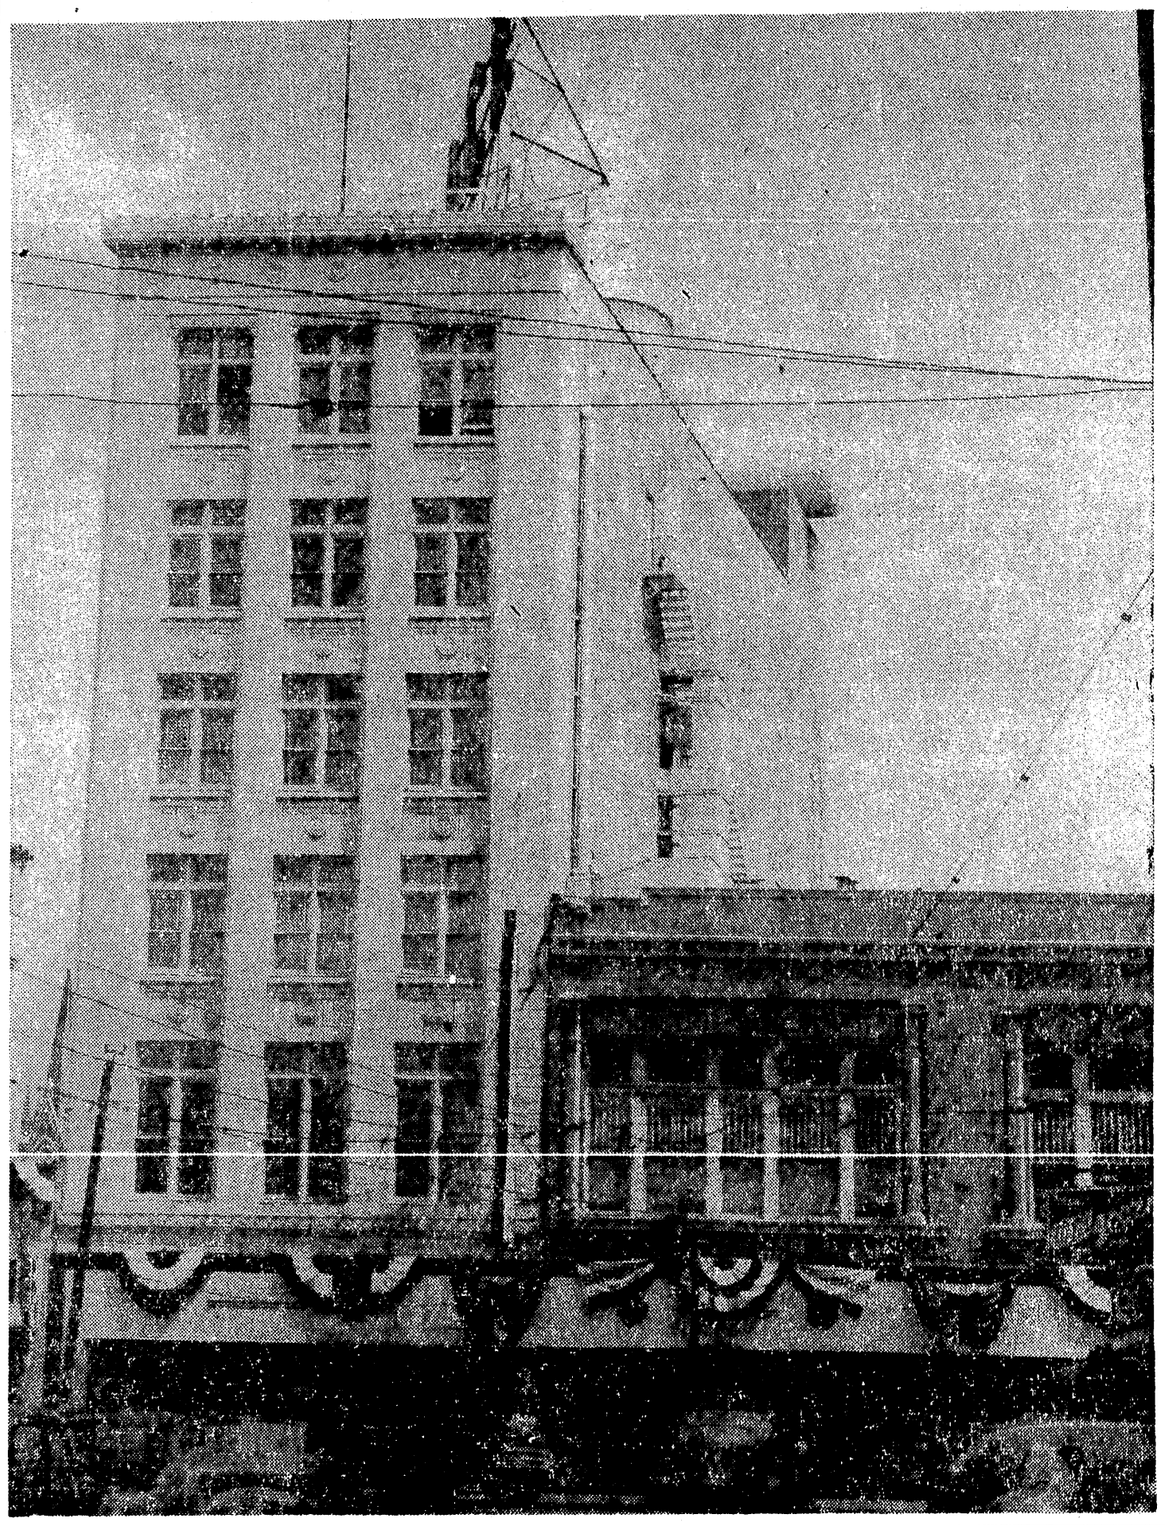

By Alica Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Be brave enough to take a hot bath during hot weather. Well, make it a warm one, if you must.

Cheering you on is Hazel ("Body and Soul") Brooks. She says such courage pays off in more after-bath comfort and more lasting freshness.

So that her hot bath yields the illusion of sea-foam coolness, Hazel uses a trick. She sprinkles in bath oil that explodes into mountains of bubbles.

CHINESE DISHES FOR HOT WEATHER MEALS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Looking for a surprise for your hot weather guests? Then peek into a Chinese kitchen.

Mushroom Chow Mein
(Serves 4)

Four tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 2 green peppers, 7 stalks celery, 2 large onions, 1 cup boiling salted water, 1 cup cooked chicken or tuna, 1 dozen almonds, 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, steamed rice, soy sauce.

Wash peppers, halve, remove seeds and slice into long, thin strips. Wash celery and slice diagonally into thin strips. Peel onions and cut into thin strips, down the grain of the onions. Put vegetables into saucepan, add boiling salted water, and cook quickly until tender, or until water is almost absorbed. Add chicken or tuna, cut into strips, and continue cooking until heated through. Blanch and slice almonds into long thin strips; saute with mushrooms (drained from liquid) in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine. Arrange steamed rice in bottom of serving dish. Top with vegetables. Add toasted almonds and mushrooms. Serve with soy sauce.

Shrimp With Mushrooms, Ruby Foo
(Serves 4)

Two tablespoons oil or fat, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 pound shrimp, 1 pound mushrooms, 1/2 cup chicken boullon, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 teaspoons soy sauce, 1/4 cup water.

Place the oil or fat, salt and shrimp in preheated, heavy 10-inch frying pan. (To prepare shrimp, remove shells, clean and quarter.) Cook over moderately hot flame, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes. Dice and add mushrooms. Add chicken bouillon. Cover pan tightly and cook over low flame for 5 minutes. Blend together and add the cornstarch, soy sauce and water. Cook for a few more minutes, stirring constantly, until juice thickens and mixture is very hot. Serve immediately with hot, boiled rice.

Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, fish cakes, cornbread, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Mushroom chow mein, steamed rice, sliced oranges and cherries, thin rice cakes, tea, milk.

HOT NIGHT DINNER: Clam and tomato boullon, crackers, cold boiled salmon, mayonnaise, sliced cucumbers, potato salad, crisp rolls or French bread, butter or fortified margarine, cantaloupe with vanilla ice cream, coffee, milk.

OLD GEMS REGAIN USE IN NEW SET

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Precious or semi-precious stones need not languish in a jewelry box because settings are out-moded. The tiniest stone can be removed and used to enhance the sparkle of another, more up-to-date piece.

For ways to utilize stones to the best advantage, the Jewelry Industry Council comes up with some helpful suggestions.

Take the small diamond solitaire, for example, which has been retired because a larger stone has taken its place on your finger. Use the small diamond to center a pretty pin or bracelet charm which has no sparkler.

If you can cull several small stones from an unused piece of jewelry, there are effective ways of utilizing their precious sparkle. Re-set into the monogram of a compact or cigaret case, a few stones will give either accessory an expensive look.

Such stones, transferred from an old piece, may be massed for an impressive effect in a pendant, sunburst clip or brooch. A modern sunburst design with one modest stone in the center can be made to look like a collector's item by a jewelry craftsman if small precious stones are used to radiate from the central sparkler.

GERMANS LIKE AMERICAN PLAYS

AP News Feature

BERLIN — (AP) — "Three Men on a Horse," a race-track play in which all the American terminology and slang were put into the German equivalent, has proved an overwhelming success here.

Royalties paid on "Three Men on a Horse" already total more than $7,000.

The next most popular American play, "Thunder Rock" has paid $4,047 in royalties. Other recent American hits with the Germans were "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "Biography."

For the current season, in the four occupation zones, twenty-four American plays are booked for showings in 59 theaters. Eighteen plays will be shown in the British zone, 15 in the Soviet zone and one in the French zone.

A machine to test machines and other things used in regions where sand and dust storms occur has recently been patented.

BUDGET SHOP IN IMPORTANT ROLE

Fourth Floor Of Palace Caters To Customers Who Appreciate Values

Thrift and budget departments, once ugly ducklings hidden in basements and other out-of-the-way locations, have now become recognized as integral parts of every modern and progressive store.

Catering to customers who appreciate high quality at low prices, the budget counters on the third floor of the Palace are overflowing with nationally famous merchandise at costs to fit the slimmest pocket book.

Originally known as the economy third floor, the budget department has been expanded in the remodeled Palace and now occupies most of the enlarged fourth floor. Here are available at amazing savings such items as a sweater advertised in Harper's Bazaar or Mademoiselle for only $8.95 or a candlewick bedspread from $4.95 to $3.95.

Also situated on the fourth floor of the New Palace is the year-around toy store, the largest of its kind in N. E. Louisiana.

Placed within easy reach of young customers are a galaxy of games and dolls, toy soldiers and, of course, the all-important toy cars and trains.

One of the outstanding features of the Palace Toy Department is the book shop containing an extensive selection of children's books especially designed for young boys and girls.

Lending a wonderland air to the toy department are a series of gaily-colored cut outs of Brer Rabbit, Uncle Remus, Brother Fox and all the other enchanting characters from Walt Disney's "Song of the South."

REMODELING PLANS FIRST REVEALED AT PALACE CLUBHOUSE

Back in 1938, Mr. Sig Masur conceived the idea that his employes should have a place for recreation. That same year he leased three acres of land at an eastern bend of Bartholemew Bayou, some two miles east of Sterlington. Material for construction of a clubhouse was donated by The Palace and actual construction was immediately started with a carpenter as general superintendent and employes of The Palace helping on their Sundays off. This camp has been maintained by The Palace since then.

During the war years the camp was closed, but in the fall of 1946 a group of employes, along with Mr. and Mrs. Sig Masur, made improvements and got the clubhouse in shape.

On this past Thanksgiving day Mr. Masur gave a dinner there. Each employe was asked to attend with the understanding he or she could ask a guest, since the clubhouse was not large enough to accommodate the entire family of each employe. It was at this dinner that Mr. Masur told of his post-war dreams in enlarging and expanding The Palace to make it North Louisiana's most beautiful department store.

Camp Sig-Bea derived its name from the names of the two who conceived the recreational camp idea, Mr. Sig and Mrs. Beatrice Masur.

Sam Davis, treasurer and a director of The Palace, is a native of Louisiana. Being one of the older members of this firm, Mr. Davis has passed the quarter-century mark in the office and credit manager capacity. Probably one of the most active men in Monroe civic activities, Sam has served on many of the budget committees of these clubs for approximately 30 years. He is past president of the Monroe Lions Club and holds the Boy Scout "Beaver" commendation. Mr. Davis and his wife reside in Monroe on Emerson street.

William Grasse, a Palace director, is a native of Alabama. He attended Athens College, Athens, Ala., and later studied costume designing at a private school in New York. While in New York, "Bill" was associated with Lord & Taylor in a buyers capacity. He has been with The Palace over 21 years. Beside being a director of this institution, Mr. Grasse is buyer for linens, blankets, comforts, yard goods, scarfs, laces and handkerchiefs. As a hobby, Grasse has collected a group of famous paintings which have won the acclaim of many Monroe artists and the numerous friends who have been entertained at "Grasse Haven," his country home on the Winnsboro Road. Mr. Grasse has proven his ability as an amateur chef and delights in playing host to the many clubs who entertain at his home.

Mrs. Beatrice S. Masur, a director of The Palace, has seen this institution grow from the one-story general merchandise store to its present six-story structure. She came to Monroe in 1907 as the bride of Mr. Sig Masur, who had been in business for himself at that time four years. "Bea," as her friends call her, is a native of Mississippi, having later moved to New Orleans. Mrs. Masur is in charge of the Toy Department on the Fourth Floor. She and "Sig" have three children, Sylvan, Jack and Bertha Marie, all connected with this institution. Mr. and Mrs. Masur live on South Grand in Monroe.

RINGS THE BELL

MONMOUTH, N. J.—(AP)—Horses at Monmouth Park, N. J., are summoned from the paddock by the ringing of a bell that was used generations ago at the seaside track to start the races. The bell has been resurrected from a Long Branch, N. J., attic and was installed in the winner's circle.

GETS NYAC CAGE JOB

NEW YORK—(AP)—George Faherty, wartime basketball coach at Camp Crowder, Mo., and Camp Langdon, Portsmouth, N. H., has been appointed cage coach of the New York Athletic Club team. Faherty succeeds Ed Russell, now assistant athletic director at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

For the boy who likes short pants and overalls the sixth floor has them, also belts and suspenders by Paris and Bugs Bunny.

The sixth floor has knitted briefs, training panties, vests by Carter; Gordon Knit and Minneapolis. Hugger caps, hats, Eaton caps, and leather helmets by Pekett and Rainwear by Weatherbee. First Nighter pajamas by Weldon in broadcloth, one or two piece styles. Also Roy Roger sweat shirts.

Trained to assist customers on the sixth floor are Mrs. Ruth Fuller, Mrs. Clara Greenlee, Mrs. Eddie Carkuff, Mrs. Emma Dell Dickens, and Mrs. Mattie Lou Johnston.

WARM BATH PAYS IN COOL COMFORT?

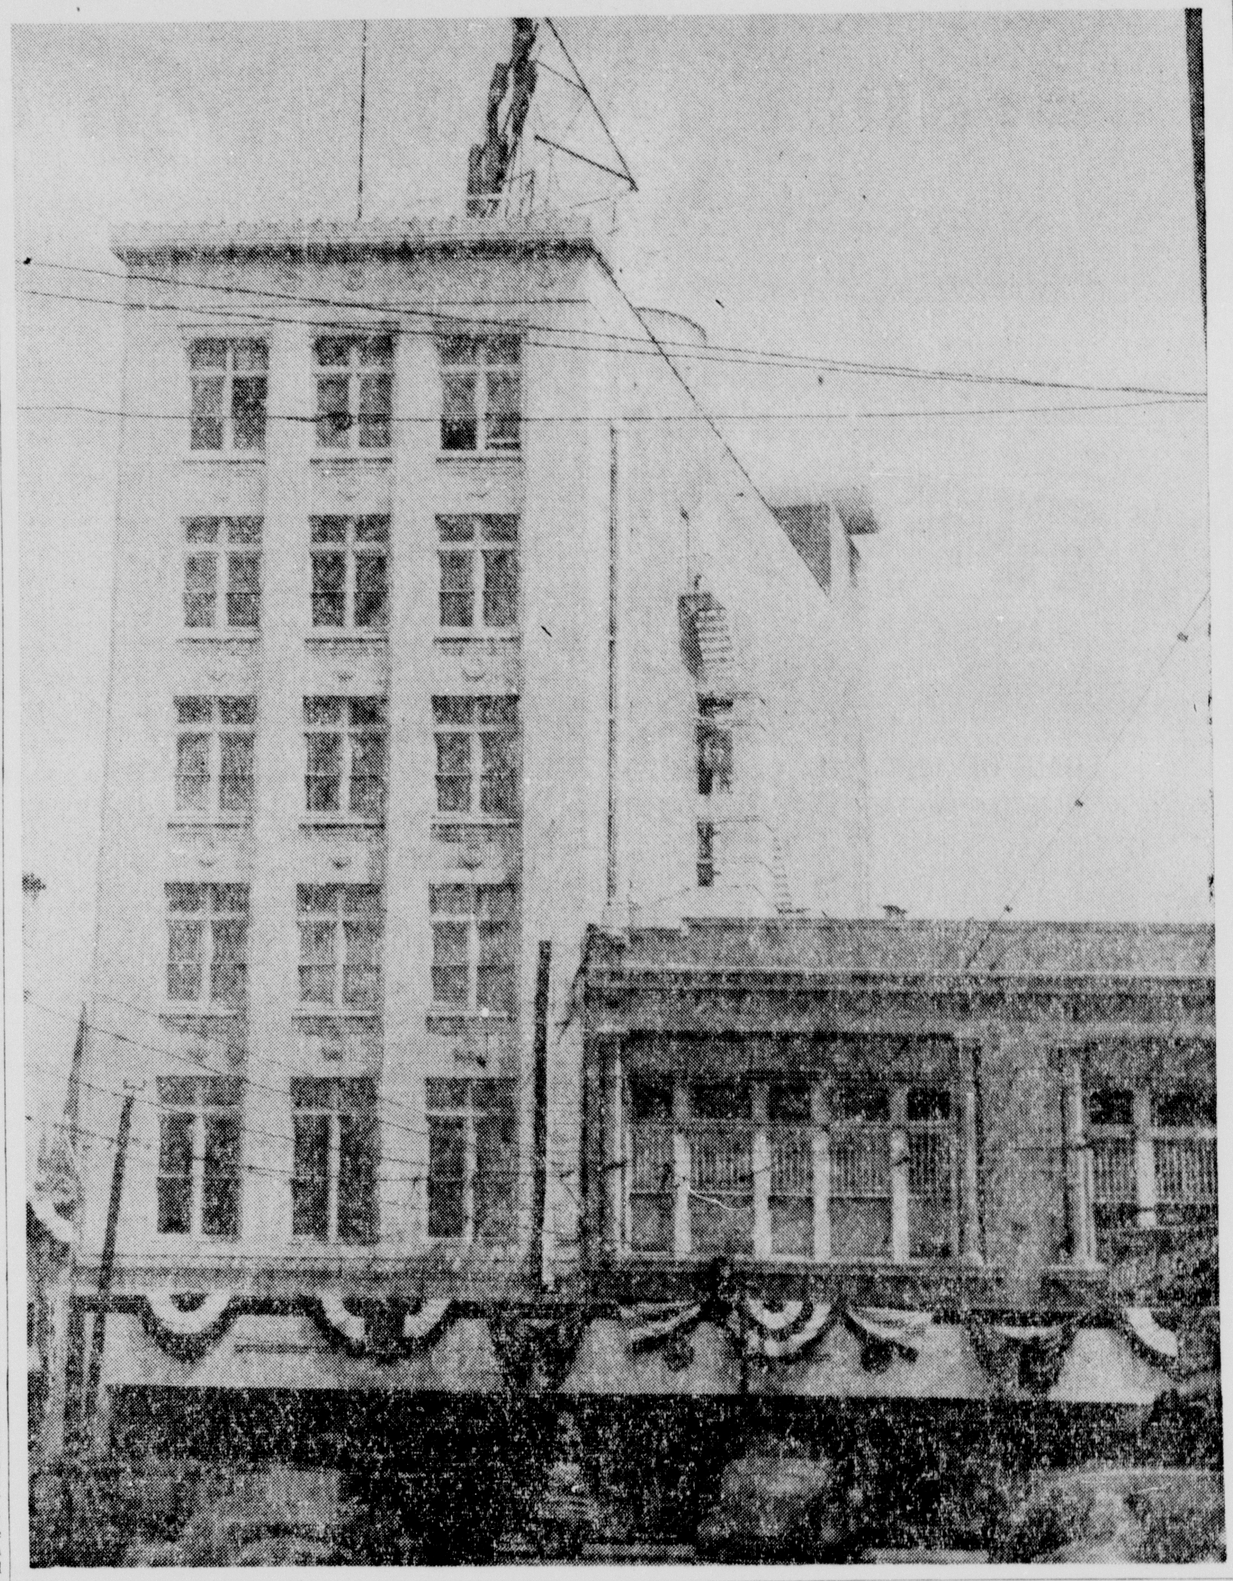

By Alica Hart

Be brave enough to take a hot bath during hot weather. Well, make it a warm one, if you must.

Cheering you on is Hazel ("Body and Soul") Brooks. She says such courage pays off in more after-bath comfort and more lasting freshness.

So that her hot bath yields the illusion of sea-foam coolness, Hazel uses a trick. She sprinkles in bath oil that explodes into mountains of bubbles.

Mushroom Chow Mein
(Serves 4)

Four tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 2 green peppers, 7 stalks celery, 2 large onions, 1 cup boiling salted water, 1 cup cooked chicken or tuna, 1 dozen almonds, 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, steamed rice, soy sauce.

Wash peppers, halve, remove seeds and slice into long, thin strips. Wash celery and slice diagonally into thin strips. Peel onions and cut into thin strips, down the grain of the onions. Put vegetables into saucepan, add boiling salted water, and cook quickly until tender, or until water is almost absorbed. Add chicken or tuna, cut into strips, and continue cooking until heated through. Blanch and slice almonds into long thin strips; saute with mushrooms (drained from liquid) in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine. Arrange steamed rice in bottom of serving dish. Top with vegetables. Add toasted almonds and mushrooms. Serve with soy sauce.

Shrimp With Mushrooms, Ruby Foo
(Serves 4)

Two tablespoons oil or fat, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 pound shrimp, 1 pound mushrooms, 1/2 cup chicken boullon, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 teaspoons soy sauce, 1/4 cup water.

Place the oil or fat, salt and shrimp in preheated, heavy 10-inch frying pan. (To prepare shrimp, remove shells, clean and quarter.) Cook over moderately hot flame, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes. Dice and add mushrooms. Add chicken bouillon. Cover pan tightly and cook over low flame for 5 minutes. Blend together and add the cornstarch, soy sauce and water. Cook for a few more minutes, stirring constantly, until juice thickens and mixture is very hot. Serve immediately with hot, boiled rice.

Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, fish cakes, cornbread, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Mushroom chow mein, steamed rice, sliced oranges and cherries, thin rice cakes, tea, milk.

HOT NIGHT DINNER: Clam and tomato boullon, crackers, cold boiled salmon, mayonnaise, sliced cucumbers, potato salad, crisp rolls or French bread, butter or fortified margarine, cantaloupe with vanilla ice cream, coffee, milk.

OLD GEMS REGAIN USE IN NEW SET

By Alicia Hart

Precious or semi-precious stones need not languish in a jewelry box because settings are out-moded. The tiniest stone can be removed and used to enhance the sparkle of another, more up-to-date piece.

For ways to utilize stones to the best advantage, the Jewelry Industry Council comes up with some helpful suggestions.

Take the small diamond solitaire, for example, which has been retired because a larger stone has taken its place on your finger. Use the small diamond to center a pretty pin or bracelet charm which has no sparkler.

If you can cull several small stones from an unused piece of jewelry, there are effective ways of utilizing their precious sparkle. Re-set into the monogram of a compact or cigaret case, a few stones will give either accessory an expensive look.

ADEQUATE BREAKFAST IS VERY HEALTHFUL

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Breakfast is just as important nutritionally in summer as when mornings are cold. Don't let the members of your family rush off to work or play without an adequate supply of energy foods, minerals, proteins and vitamins.

Citrus fruits, now abundant in both fresh and canned form, and canned tomato juice, are the best sources of essential vitamin C. Use them liberally in your breakfast menus. Of course, right now, with cantaloupe and berries in the market, they, too, belong on the breakfast list.

Here are menus for different types of good breakfasts that supply from one-fourth to one-third of the day's total food requirements.

American Farm Breakfast

Citrus fruit or cantaloupe, fried cornmeal mush with syrup, sausage and eggs, toast, grape jelly, coffee.

California Patio Breakfast

Fresh California orange juice, creamed chicken on waffles, fruit garnish, orange marmalade, sweet rolls, coffee.

New England Breakfast

Tomato juice, codfish cakes and bacon, baked beans, Boston brown bread, wild plum jam, coffee.

Ranch Breakfast

Orange juice, oatmeal with cream, flapjacks, bacon and eggs, fried potatoes, toast, coffee.

Pennsylvania Dutch Breakfast

Cantaloupe or orange juice, scrapple and syrup, fried apple rings, coffee, cake, coffee.

Waffles With Blueberries
(Makes 6 Waffles)

One and one-half cups flour, 2 tablespoons combination baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 eggs, 1/4 cup melted butter, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 pint box cultivated blueberries.

Sift flour before measuring and sift again with baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat eggs well and add melted butter and milk. Make a well in center of dry ingredients and pour in egg mixture. Stir well and bake batter on heated waffle iron. Serve with honey and cultivated blueberries.

Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, waffles with blueberries, butter or fortified margarine, honey, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Parboiled cucumbers stuffed with creamed fish and cracker crumbs, rolls, butter or fortified margarine, sliced peaches, cream, cookies or sweet crackers, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, sauteed shoulder lamb chops with onions, mashed potatoes, buttered new carrots with chopped parsley, cabbage and apple salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, blackberry roll, coffee, milk.

DOUBLE COTTON SWABS SMOOTH CAKE MAKE-UP

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Do you apply your make-up by the cotton-swabbing method? If so, use two wads of cotton, one in each hand. See that each wad carries an equal amount of make-up to your face.

Putting on make-up by this two-handed method will give you a more uniform application than the one-handed method. It will, that is, if you'll begin application at a center point of your face and work outward with your two hands. Try to keep the same amount of pressure on both hands.

Another tip on this technique—it's passed on by experts—is to first "unload" the face tint you are applying with two pads by beginning under your chin. This gets rid of the initial surplus color on an area of the face where it doesn't matter too much; where it can be wiped off later without marring the even effects that you want to achieve.

After swabbing the chin area, switch the position of your hands to the center of your brow. Swab downward. If cotton pads need a replenished supply of make-up color before the face is finished, go lightly on the replenishment.

LOCATED PEBBLES

At one time, the clay for crucibles in which English steelmakers melted steel was trod upon by barefooted men to discover the presence of pebbles.

As early as 1609, the Dutch were carrying on trade from Java.

SOME OF THE PALACE'S NEW STREET FLOOR DEPARTMENTS

Remodeled First Floor Of Palace Offers Wonderland Vista Of Beauty

Redesigned Interior Contributes To Ultra-Modern Palace

By Eve Bradford

Monroe residents who remember The Palace in the old days feel like Alice in Wonderland when they walk into the realm of enchantment known as the new Palace. When you enter this place of enchantment through the immense glass doors you are greeted with a glorious symphony of color and the gleam of shining silver and sparkling glass. One entire side of the lower floor is devoted to silver, china, crystal and objet d'art.

The average woman is attracted to the cosmetic booth where Miss Maibel Hood, one of the best informed cosmeticians in the city, lures you into a world of perfume, lotions and powders that would tempt even Cleopatra were she living today. Invaluable at this time are the secrets Miss Hood reveals for the protection of the skin against the ravages of summer sun. She will tell you that the lobster look is out of fashion this year. A red, unhappy looking skin, the product of over-exposure and inadequate protection, is as unattractive as it is uncomfortable and even dangerous. So this summer play it smart. Take your sun in sensible doses and never venture out into it without donning your liquid armor. It's found in those attractive bottles especially recommended by Miss Hood. The milky-white fragrant lotions screen your skin against the hot-fingered rays of the summer sun. When winter comes Miss Hood will be prepared to give you valuable information on skin treatment. Each season demands special lotions and they are found on the gleaming glass shelves in the cosmetic booth.

One of the most fascinating sections of The Palace is the millinery department on the second floor. The previews of fall headline fashions tell a story of changing styles. Mrs. Arlis Jones, prominent fashion authority in charge of the millinery department at The Palace, sums it up in this way: "You'll see more crown, wide, full crowns, and wide brims. The new brim widens at the sides and is accented with important trimmings. Sailors with large crowns, tam crowns, and barets will all be important. Hats have bulk, and the small head is out."

The cloche, reminiscent of the days when Clara Bow was a movie queen, returns to fashion; with sailors, veils and plush-type hats that recall the years of 1911 and 1912 also in the picture. No one era of style has an exclusive revival.

There are oversize crowns with tiny brims; bicornes; and visor-brimmed hats to wear with suits; off-face and rippled profile hats for afternoon dress. If you can just imagine the hat with a blown-up, puffed, bloused or draped crown — a heavy-looking, manipulated fabric crown—you get the idea. All the well-known types are present, however—the tricorne, pill-box, the breton, the toque, but with the heavier, fuller crown. For those who believe they cannot, or will not wear this newer hat, there will be small crowned hats, too. As some stylists point out, these will be practical for those who wear the new hooded coats. The hood may then be pulled up over the hat when desired.

Wide-brimmed hats are conspicuous for their trimmings, such as fine feathers, wings, jeweled accents, handsome ribbons and veils. In trend with the new silhouette is the return of beaver, with heavy suedes, chamois felts, hatters plus, satins and velvets lending their quality to the luxurious look. Better fabrics and dramatic colors will highlight the fall millinery picture.

Noted in advance collections are black with emerald green velvet, and sand-colored beaver. She also believes in the return of the swagger brimmed hat to wear with tweeds. Her evening veils on off-face brimmed hats are elegant things lightly spangled or jeweled, and long enough to swath the neck and shoulders.

There's also a rich copper shade in millinery, which looks wonderful with some of the new fall woolens, and Lily Dache continues with violine and blue as one of her favorite combinations. Also hailed in the advance fall showing is a hat of black satin with double aigrette; a chamois felt trimmed with three black felt pompoms; and a hat of black satin with turned-up square brim at the front, and a bow at the back; an off-face green felt with flowerettes of uncurled ostrich; and a two-tone velvet hat trimmed with a large steel buckle. Draped turbans of Celanese jersey follow the high-toque fashion.

Mrs. Jones, explaining the new hat silhouette, says it is a natural complement to the fall figure look. Narrower shoulders, longer skirts, rounded hips need a new kind of hat have plenty to play with if she cares wants a hat that is flattering, will to create the proper balance. In any case, the average woman who just to do her own restyling. And the woman who is up-to-the-minute in ing these exciting new styles, which the style picture will have fun tryare thought to be vastly more becoming than the under-sized hat.

OIL MASSAGE ENHANCES FEET

It takes more than toe-nail paint to spruce feet up for their barefoot outings. Good grooming calls for a good pedicure.

Soak, oil and probe cuticle before you go to bed, as a preliminary step, say to a morning pedicure. If tough cuticle resists these efforts, grease with extra heavy lubricating cream and leave on nails overnight. Bed sheets can be protected, if you'll bandage greasy nails with cotton pads and secure these coverings to toes with adhesive tape.

The pedicure proper is really a manicure transferred to the floor with some difference in method. Nails on toes should be filed straight across, allowing enough length to give you something to polish. And to keep red coats from merging, toes should be separated with wedges of cotton before frisking your brush.

While toes are getting this solid attention, it's a good time to give a thought to your feet. They react to a cream or lotion, for instance, just as hands do.

When you cream your feet, massage the lubricant on. Feet as well as hands will lap up cream and are made more flexible by massage.

Best position to take for foot massage, experts say, is to lie on the floor on your back with feet hoisted on a chair seat. While one foot remains elevated, pull the other toward you for massage. Using both hands, begin at the toes and pull flesh towards you with a twisting motion of your palms. Move hands up to the knee an inch at a time.

SERVE VEGETABLES IN NEW, DIFFERENT WAYS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Fresh corn—always wonderful. Garden tomatoes—a red thrill for everyone. But try serving them in new ways just for the eating fun of it.

Here are two suggestions from Stella Standard in her "More Than Cooking."

Baked Stuffed Green Peppers With Corn

Peppers, fresh corn, butter, fried onion, salt, pepper.

Select the required number of green peppers of uniform size. Carefully cut the tops off and scoop out the seeds and centers. Let the ears of corn boil up. Drain them. Score the kernals with a knife and cut them from the ears. Season with melted butter, fried onion and salt and pepper. Fill the centers with the mixture and put the peppers in a baking pan with a little water in the bottom to keep them from burning. Bake until the peppers are tender, about 25 minutes in a medium oven.

Fried Tomatoes

Tomatoes, salt, pepper, chervil, rosemary, thyme, fennel or tarragon, flour, butter or fat, 1 or 2 tablespoons water, 1/3 cup cream, chives or parsley.

Cut a very thin slice from the top and bottom of unpeeled tomatoes. Then cut tomatoes in half, and sprinkle both cut sides with salt, pepper, and your favorite herb, any one of those mentioned. Dip in flour and brown both sides in hot butter or fat. Add the water to the pan, cover and steam until the tomatoes are just done through. Lift to a hot platter. Add the cream to the pan, boil up, and pour over the tomatoes. Sprinkle with chopped chives or parsley.

Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed blackberries, ready-to-eat cereal, toasted corn muffins, butter or fortified margarine, jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cream of spinach soup, melba toast, tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese and chives, rolls, butter or fortified margarine, gingerbread, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, broiled steak, mashed potatoes, baked stuffed green peppers with corn, radishes and scallions, fresh berry shortcake, coffee, milk.

NEW SWIM CAP PROTECTS COIFFURE

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

A new team of swimming accessories promises to pull a coiffure—even a formal upsweep—through a plunge without tousling locks or dekinking curls.

First line of defense against drippy curls is an elasticized plastic headband which hugs the hairline to keep out water seepage. The three-inch wide band—designed by New York hair stylist Eve Wygod—buttons in back so that it can be put on without mussing hair.

Teamed with this are water repellent plastic caps—one designed for an up-do; the other, a snood, for a down-do. Both fit tight over the headband but are roomy enough in the crown to give protected curls ample accommodation. The up-do cap is a huge flowered plastic scarf which is draped and tied in front in a spanking big bow.

Squirrel holes frequently are found on the east sides of trees.

DOUBLE COTTON SWABS SMOOTH CAKE MAKE-UP

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Do you apply your make-up by the cotton-swabbing method? If so, use two wads of cotton, one in each hand. See that each wad carries an equal amount of make-up to your face.

Putting on make-up by this two-handed method will give you a more uniform application than the one-handed method. It will, that is, if you'll begin application at a center point of your face and work outward with your two hands. Try to keep the same amount of pressure on both hands.

Another tip on this technique—it's passed on by experts—is to first "unload" the face tint you are applying with two pads by beginning under your chin. This gets rid of the initial surplus color on an area of the face where it doesn't matter too much; where it can be wiped off later without marring the even effects that you want to achieve.

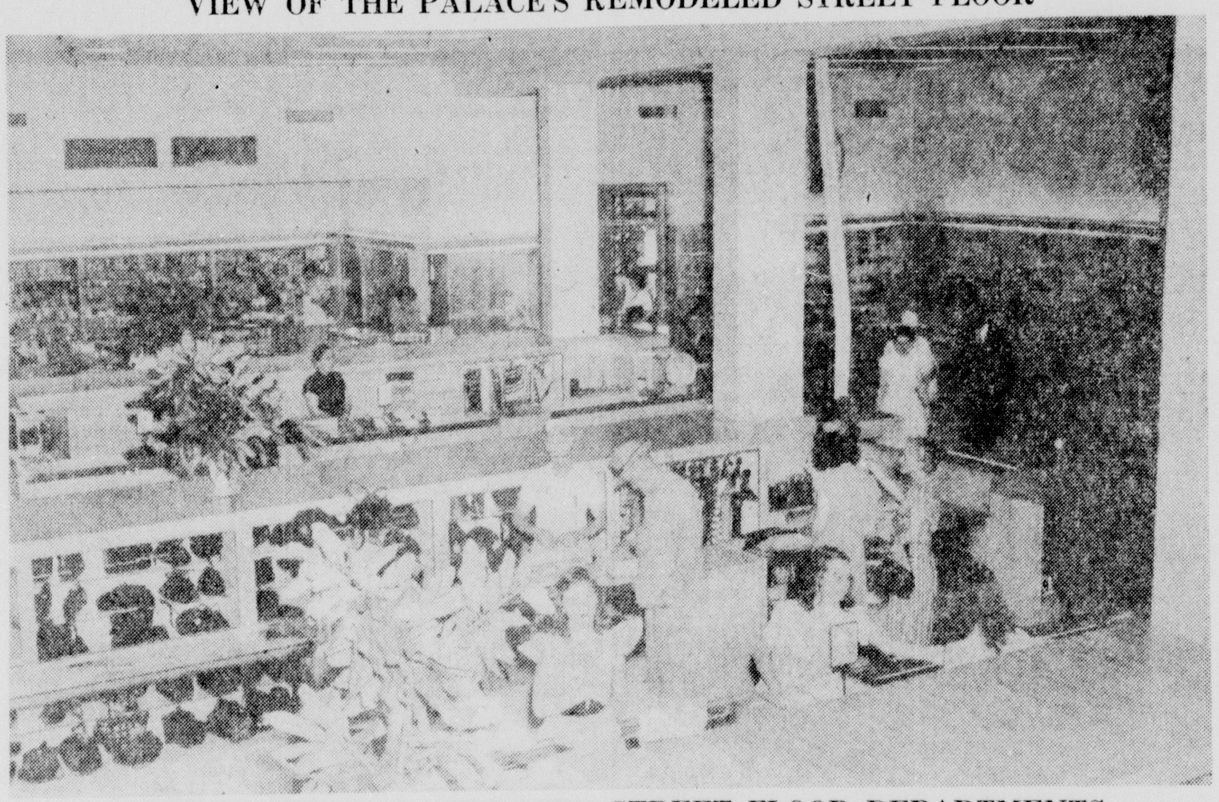

After swabbing the chin area, switch the position of your hands to the center of your brow. Swab downward. If cotton pads need a replenished supply of make-up color before the face is finished, go lightly on the replenishment.

LOCATED PEBBLES

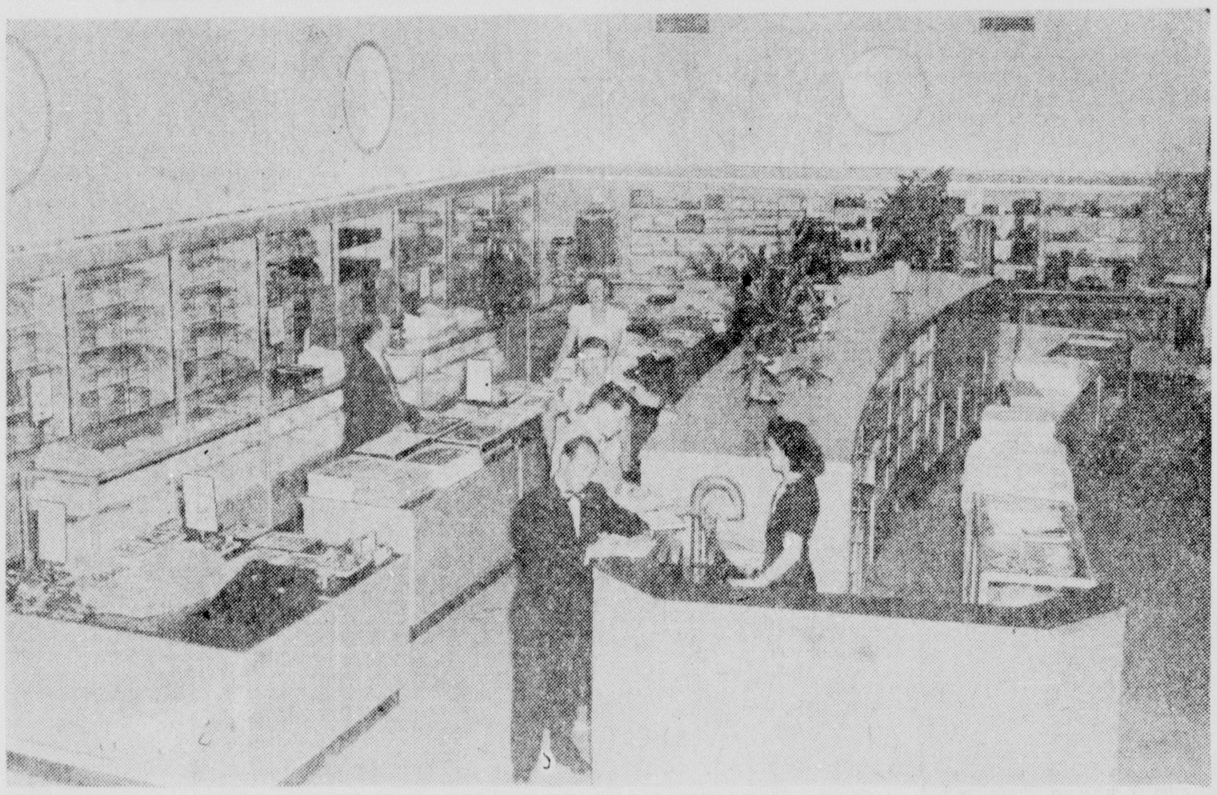

At one time, the clay for crucibles in which English steelmakers melted steel was trod upon by barefooted men to discover the presence of pebbles.

As early as 1609, the Dutch were carrying on trade from Java.

VIEW OF THE PALACE'S REMODELED STREET FLOOR

SOME OF THE PALACE'S NEW STREET FLOOR DEPARTMENTS

Remodeled First Floor Of Palace Offers Wonderland Vista Of Beauty

Redesigned Interior Contributes To Ultra-Modern Palace

By Eve Bradford

Monroe residents who remember The Palace in the old days feel like Alice in Wonderland when they walk into the realm of enchantment known as the new Palace. When you enter this place of enchantment through the immense glass doors you are greeted with a glorious symphony of color and the gleam of shining silver and sparkling glass. One entire side of the lower floor is devoted to silver, china, crystal and objet d'art.

The average woman is attracted to the cosmetic booth where Miss Maibel Hood, one of the best informed cosmeticians in the city, lures you into a world of perfume, lotions and powders that would tempt even Cleopatra were she living today. Invaluable at this time are the secrets Miss Hood reveals for the protection of the skin against the ravages of summer sun. She will tell you that the lobster look is out of fashion this year. A red, unhappy looking skin, the product of over-exposure and inadequate protection, is as unattractive as it is uncomfortable and even dangerous. So this summer play it smart. Take your sun in sensible doses and never venture out into it without donning your liquid armor. It's found in those attractive bottles especially recommended by Miss Hood. The milky-white fragrant lotions screen your skin against the hot-fingered rays of the summer sun. When winter comes Miss Hood will be prepared to give you valuable information on skin treatment. Each season demands special lotions and they are found on the gleaming glass shelves in the cosmetic booth.

One of the most fascinating sections of The Palace is the millinery department on the second floor. The previews of fall headline fashions tell a story of changing styles. Mrs. Arlis Jones, prominent fashion authority in charge of the millinery department at The Palace, sums it up in this way: "You'll see more crown, wide, full crowns, and wide brims. The new brim widens at the sides and is accented with important trimmings. Sailors with large crowns, tam crowns, and barets will all be important. Hats have bulk, and the small head is out."

The cloche, reminiscent of the days when Clara Bow was a movie queen, returns to fashion; with sailors, veils and plush-type hats that recall the years of 1911 and 1912 also in the picture. No one era of style has an exclusive revival.

There are oversize crowns with tiny brims; bicornes; and visor-brimmed hats to wear with suits; off-face and rippled profile hats for afternoon dress. If you can just imagine the hat with a blown-up, puffed, bloused or draped crown — a heavy-looking, manipulated fabric crown—you get the idea. All the well-known types are present, however—the tricorne, pill-box, the breton, the toque, but with the heavier, fuller crown. For those who believe they cannot, or will not wear this newer hat, there will be small crowned hats, too. As some stylists point out, these will be practical for those who wear the new hooded coats. The hood may then be pulled up over the hat when desired.

Wide-brimmed hats are conspicuous for their trimmings, such as fine feathers, wings, jeweled accents, handsome ribbons and veils. In trend with the new silhouette is the return of beaver, with heavy suedes, chamois felts, hatters plus, satins and velvets lending their quality to the luxurious look. Better fabrics and dramatic colors will highlight the fall millinery picture.

Noted in advance collections are black with emerald green velvet, and sand-colored beaver. She also believes in the return of the swagger brimmed hat to wear with tweeds. Her evening veils on off-face brimmed hats are elegant things lightly spangled or jeweled, and long enough to swath the neck and shoulders.

There's also a rich copper shade in millinery, which looks wonderful with some of the new fall woolens, and Lily Dache continues with violine and blue as one of her favorite combinations. Also hailed in the advance fall showing is a hat of black satin with double aigrette; a chamois felt trimmed with three black felt pompoms; and a hat of black satin with turned-up square brim at the front, and a bow at the back; an off-face green felt with flowerettes of uncurled ostrich; and a two-tone velvet hat trimmed with a large steel buckle. Draped turbans of Celanese jersey follow the high-toque fashion.

Mrs. Jones, explaining the new hat silhouette, says it is a natural complement to the fall figure look. Narrower shoulders, longer skirts, rounded hips need a new kind of hat have plenty to play with if she cares wants a hat that is flattering, will to create the proper balance. In any case, the average woman who just to do her own restyling. And the woman who is up-to-the-minute in ing these exciting new styles, which the style picture will have fun try- are thought to be vastly more becoming than the under-sized hat.

OIL MASSAGE ENHANCES FEET

It takes more than toe-nail paint to spruce feet up for their barefoot outings. Good grooming calls for a good pedicure.

Soak, oil and probe cuticle before you go to bed, as a preliminary step, say to a morning pedicure. If tough cuticle resists these efforts, grease with extra heavy lubricating cream and leave on nails overnight. Bed sheets can be protected, if you'll bandage greasy nails with cotton pads and secure these coverings to toes with adhesive tape.

The pedicure proper is really a manicure transferred to the floor with some difference in method. Nails on toes should be filed straight across, allowing enough length to give you something to polish. And to keep red coats from merging, toes should be separated with wedges of cotton before frisking your brush.

While toes are getting this solid attention, it's a good time to give a thought to your feet. They react to a cream or lotion, for instance, just as hands do.

When you cream your feet, massage the lubricant on. Feet as well as hands will lap up cream and are made more flexible by massage.

Best position to take for foot massage, experts say, is to lie on the floor on your back with feet hoisted on a chair seat. While one foot remains elevated, pull the other toward you for massage. Using both hands, begin at the toes and pull flesh towards you with a twisting motion of your palms. Move hands up to the knee an inch at a time.

SERVE VEGETABLES IN NEW, DIFFERENT WAYS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Fresh corn—always wonderful. Garden tomatoes—a red thrill for everyone. But try serving them in new ways just for the eating fun of it.

Here are two suggestions from Stella Standard in her "More Than Cooking."

Baked Stuffed Green Peppers With Corn

Peppers, fresh corn, butter, fried onion, salt, pepper.

Select the required number of green peppers of uniform size. Carefully cut the tops off and scoop out the seeds and centers. Let the ears of corn boil up. Drain them. Score the kernals with a knife and cut them from the ears. Season with melted butter, fried onion and salt and pepper. Fill the centers with the mixture and put the peppers in a baking pan with a little water in the bottom to keep them from burning. Bake until the peppers are tender, about 25 minutes in a medium oven.

Fried Tomatoes

Tomatoes, salt, pepper, chervil, rosemary, thyme, fennel or tarragon, flour, butter or fat, 1 or 2 tablespoons water, 1/3 cup cream, chives or parsley.

Cut a very thin slice from the top and bottom of unpeeled tomatoes. Then cut tomatoes in half, and sprinkle both cut sides with salt, pepper, and your favorite herb, any one of those mentioned. Dip in flour and brown both sides in hot butter or fat. Add the water to the pan, cover and steam until the tomatoes are just done through. Lift to a hot platter. Add the cream to the pan, boil up, and pour over the tomatoes. Sprinkle with chopped chives or parsley.

Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed blackberries, ready-to-eat cereal, toasted corn muffins, butter or fortified margarine, jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cream of spinach soup, melba toast, tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese and chives, rolls, butter or fortified margarine, gingerbread, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, broiled steak, mashed potatoes, baked stuffed green peppers with corn, radishes and scallions, fresh berry shortcake, coffee, milk.

NEW SWIM CAP PROTECTS COIFFURE

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

A new team of swimming accessories promises to pull a coiffure—even a formal upsweep—through a plunge without tousling locks or dekinking curls.

First line of defense against drippy curls is an elasticized plastic headband which hugs the hairline to keep out water seepage. The three-inch wide band—designed by New York hair stylist Eve Wygod—buttons in back so that it can be put on without mussing hair.

Teamed with this are water repellent plastic caps—one designed for an up-do; the other, a snood, for a down-do. Both fit tight over the headband but are roomy enough in the crown to give protected curls ample accommodation. The up-do cap is a huge flowered plastic scarf which is draped and tied in front in a spanking big bow.

Squirrel holes frequently are found on the east sides of trees.

PALACE'S NEWLY REMODELED THIRD FLOOR

The newly redecorated third floor now houses the fabric department as well as sheets, blankets and comforts, patterns and notions. All these departments were originally located on The Palace's street floor.

QUALITY FABRICS ON THIRD FLOOR

New Merchandise Marked By Long-Awaited Improvements

William Grasse who personally selects the yard goods for the Palace reveals that the long-awaited improvement in the fabric field promises to materialize this fall, and dressmakers will once again be able to choose from a variety of texture and fine quality materials.

Looking over the yard goods on the third floor of the Palace, it was apparent that better materials at reasonable prices are now available. Tweeds look new, with textured surface, animated color blends and subtle heather effects. Not only are the tweeds wooly—some of the newer ones have the smoother worsted look that is so desirable in a town suit.

Gabardines are still with us as well as fine Celanese and rayon blends with a satiny texture.

Broadcloth is hailed as one of the important revivals of the season for dresses, suits and coats. A soft, supple quality and almost satin texture lend elegance to some of these fabrics.

In the fleecy type woolen, there are new brushed surfaces combined with fur and animal hair—not the shaggy type, but soft and drapeable.

Celanese jersey and wool jersey are prominent in the sportswear field, the former in rich new shades of cinnamon, travel brown and hunter green, and the latter in striped heather mixtures and monotones. Sheer wools, kasha, homespuns, challis and corduroy are available in striking colors and combinations.

Rayon crepes with a smooth heavy hand and mossy crepes combine with satin, wool or velvet in many of the fall costume dresses. Only a good quality fabric will stand this kind of treatment, and apparently the new materials have the body and texture to do it.

Long absent luxury fabrics are back in the formal picture for afternoon and evening dresses. Satin, velvets, satin-backed crepes, corduroys, fine chiffons, and handsome taffetas compete with metal-shot wools, silver lamb, and lace and brocade for after-dark dresses. Again fabric combinations are important, as, for example, a fitted torso dress with full skirt and padded hips which has the bodice made of Jersanese and the skirt of striped faille. The more formal side of the evening picture turns to stiff fabrics for lavish effects.

Fall Color

Briefing the color picture thus far exhibited, Mr. Grasse tells us, that color is back for fall, 1947. This does not mean a half-hearted attempt to slip in the soft shades we learned to like during the war years when we could have nothing else, but a definite return to rich vibrant shades of green, wine, browns and related autumn shades.

All shades of brown are conspicuous, from the light tans through spice, cinnamon, copper and rust to dark travel-brown with a mahogany cast.

Hunter green, emrald, turquoise and sage are good, depending upon their use, and many shades of wine red will be represented.

A color mentioned especially in highstyle collections is gray with a dark steel-like undertone. It is shown at the Palace as well as winter navy, and royal blues.

Black, without question, is as smart as ever.

PRIZE RAINCOAT

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A sporty raincoat of ungloomy yellow cotton duck-cloth won a prize for home-sewer Lucina Calenda, 23-year-old New Yorker.

What caught the judge's fancy in local preliminaries of the national sewing contest was the small expenditure of money and large amount of good styling that went into this unlined swagger. The coat cost $10 to make, won Lucina a $75 cash prize.

Is it water-proofed? I will be when the young prize-winner dunks it in an emulsion of wax and aluminum salts, inexpensively packaged for home use. Diluted in warm water, this makes a water-proofing bath that gives a renewable finish to a coat that will keep its owner dry.

FROZEN FISH NOW IN SINGLE, SOLID PIECE

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Nine years of research have produced a new method of packing frozen fillets of cod and haddock into a solid piece that cuts like ice cream. These fillets come in 1-pound packages, odorless and moisture-free, and measure 3/4 inch thick, 8 inches long and 4 inches wide. They fit into the ice compartment of refrigerator.

You can cut them into any size portion and cook without defrosting. The fillets adhere to each other, under a secret process, and remain in one piece through any method of cooking. They flake, however, when eaten.

Edward H. Cooley, president of the company that perfected the process, believes this new method of packing frozen fillets will greatly increase the use of fish in family menus.

Here are three tested recipes for the new solid-piece fillets.

Fried Fillets

Cut into portions for serving. Dip in corn meal. (Do not salt.) Cook in skillet in 1/16 inch of hot olive oil, butter or cooking fat until brown. Add more shortening if needed to keep fish from sticking. If frozen, cook about 8 minutes on each side; or about 5 minutes on each side if thawed.

Oven Baked

Cut in portions for serving. Brush both sides with olive oil, butter, cooking fat or drippings. Pepper both sides. (Do not salt.) Sprinkle with lemon juice. Place in greased open pan in hot oven (400 degrees F.). If frozen, bake about 20 minutes; or about 15 minutes if thawed.

Broiled

Cut in portions for serving. Brush both sides with olive oil, butter, cooking fat or drippings. Pepper both sides. (Do not salt.) Place in preheated broiler about 2 inches from flame. If frozen, cook about 8 minutes on each side; or about 5 minutes if thawed.

The pound of fillet makes two large or three medium servings.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Stewed blackberries, ready-to-eat cereal, whole wheat toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cream of watercress soup, crackers, chopped ham sandwiches, plums, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Oven-baked solid-packed frozen fillets of haddock, egg and green pepper sauce, corn pudding, baked tomato halves, green salad, rolls, butter or fortified margarine, sliced peaches, cream, coffee, milk.

Department Heads Mark Over 25 Years With Palace

STAFF INCREASED TO MORE THAN 150

Loyal Service Of Long-Time Employes Major Part In Palace Growth

In the onward progress of The Palace store from a modest little room in the 200 block of DeSiard Street to the present imposing structure, from a store with a staff of three persons to the present one that numbers far more than 100 employes, there has been required something as important as the physical plant and the large financial investment. This other great asset is contained in the carefully selected and loyal staff of employes. Down to every last man and woman, The Palace is entrenched with a group of employes that are as loyal to and as proud of The Palace as they are of their own personal possessions. And in this lies a key to the remarkable success of the great enterprise. Many people have contributed their efforts and brains through the passing years. The honor roll of those who have given in the service of the store 25 years or more number an even dozen. In justice to them and to their efforts each of these is given a separate story together with their pictures that appear herewith as follows:

Mrs. Katharine Wyatt

Mrs. Katharine Wyatt, who is now serving as buyer for dresses, underwear and negligees on the second floor, lives at 1017 St. John street. She has worked in the ready-to-wear department and has rounded out more than 25 years in service of the company.

She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Her husband is James A. Wyatt and they are both proud of their two sons. Thomas Wyatt has been captain in the marine corps and is still in service in Washington, D. C. The other son was lieutenant commander in the navy and is James F. Wyatt, who now resides in Jackson, Miss., and is in the insurance business.

Miss Beatrice Kornmann

Miss Beatrice Kornmann has been for many years employed by The Palace store and ranks among the older employes in length of service.

She has been associated with the linen department, the gift department and at present is buyer and manager, in the hosiery department.

Mrs. Mae Pettit

Mrs. Mae Pettit started to work for The Palace in 1917, during the days of the First World War in charge of the millinary department. She has been employed on that floor continuously ever since.

She is a member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church, and resides at 300 Louise Anne avenue.

She states she is not a club woman but for an outside activity she delights in fishing and admits that she has a certain skill in pulling 'em in.

She serves in the capacity of buyer of the coats, suits blouses and sportswear department.

A Hollywood fashion fad ensembles gloves with a summer outfit by banding gloves with a strip of fabric to match the dress. Bands are snapped into place so that one pair of gloves may be teamed with various outfits.

Miss Maibel Hood

Miss Maibel Hood, daughter of the late State Senator T. L. Hood, prominent member of the Louisiana legislature for many years, has been one of the outstanding employes of The Palace for 25 years. She has made an exhaustive study of cosmetics and is an authority in her line.

She has visited cosmetic plants and studied the manufacture of products not only in the United States, but in England, Holland, France, Belgium, Italy and Germany.

When she took over this line the store carried but a single product, that of Elmo, and this, with a small assortment of gifts, comprised all that was being offered the Monroe public in this store.

A few months after she had become connected with The Palace, Miss Hood added Elizabeth Arden, du Barry, Charles of the Ritz, Harriett Hubbard Ayer, Tussey and all available better brands.

In the perfume line, Prince Matchebelli, Farberge, Guerlaine, Chanel, Renoir, Corday, Dana, Coty, Houbigant and Schiaperelli are offered.

In her travels Miss Hood attended the Elizabeth Arden School no less than five times and once in London, England. Also she visited the Charles of the Ritz School, du Barry and Elmo.

Miss Hood's principal hobby comprises a love of travel and she has not only traveled extensively on the continent but also has visited nearly all important places in the United States, Canada and Mexico. One of her trips took her to Bermuda.

She is past president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, is a charter member of Delta Rho Delta sorority and charter member of the Parker Memorial Sunday School class of the First Methodist Church. She has a wide circle of friends and is regarded as a woman of unusual talent for the work which she has followed faithfully for so many years.

A vacuum cleaner cord should be about 20 feet long for maximum cleaning efficiency, says one consumer institute. A cord of that length permits you to vacuum all areas of a room without disconnecting the plug, according to the institute.

Miss Mary O'Kelly

The Palace store would not function, seemingly, if Miss Mary O'Kelly were out of the picture. For years she has been a landmark of this great institution. Reminiscently she recalls that she has been with the store since 1908, almost forty years. At that time the entire store's staff comprised Sig Masur, his brother, Louis Masur, Miss Minnie Start and Miss O'Kelly. A large degree of credit is given to Miss O'Kelly for her skilled specialized knowledge and mature judgment.

The original store was a humbly-equipped institution and was located where Grayson's store is now operated.

Miss O'Kelly served in all essential capacities in those early days as she was an all-round saleswoman. Today she has for her sales specialties chinaware, glass and silverware. She has for years been entrusted with buying for several store departments and this necessitates that she make trips to New York, to the world's most famous markets, two or three times yearly. On these trips she is able to interpret and bring back home outstanding styles that are best suited to the south. She and Mrs. Faye Heard will leave August first for New York to buy merchandise for their respective departments.

Along with her busy routine, one idea is ever uppermost with Miss O'Kelly and that is to make The Palace more and more superior to all stores of the kind in the south.

Even a busy life led enables Miss O'Kelly to crowd in time for hobbies. These comprise the collection of antiques—she says she does not have to collect them for she inherited them in her own home—and she also is fond of stamp collecting and is a member of a local Stamp club, but just to help a nephew, she avers. She is a member of St. Matthew's Catholic church; has served as president three times of the Business and Professional Women's Club; is affiliated with the Catholic Daughters of America; the Daughters of the American Revolution and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Miss O'Kelly is quite proud of the fact that she is a member of one of the oldest families in northeast Louisiana. Her father, W. A. O'Kelly Sr., built the family home at 123 North Sixth street which was quite remote from where the stores of the town were located on North Grand street. It was a large, rambling southern home set amid a wealth of shade trees. Here W. A. O'Kelly, secretary of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury for many years, raised his family. Here Miss O'Kelly and her sister, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, reside today, in a home that is frequently thrown open for many festive events.

Miss Mattie Douglas

Miss Mattie Douglas has been with The Palace for 29 years in the piece goods department, on the third floor. She resides at 707 Calypso street; is member of the First Methodist Church and Eastern Star.

She states she recalls three remodeling processes at The Palace.

Has no hobbies for she says that her work is her chief hobby and she has no time for anything but her employment.

Mrs. Lizzie Ford

Mrs. Lizzie Ford, native of St. Charles, Mo., removed to Natchitoches in early life. Her maiden name was Lizzie Atkins and she married there, Hardy Ford. The young couple resided for a time in Shreveport but came to Monroe in 1913 and Mrs. Ford has lived here ever since. Her husband, employed by the Standard Oil Company, died five years ago.

In 1920 she began to work for The Palace in the piece goods department, later in the neckware department and in fact she admits she has worked all over the store for she has a versatility of talents.

She is now checking packages and in charge of the delivery department. Many times in a day she has orders over the phone for this and that article that the housewife wants in a hurry and feels sure that Mrs. Ford knows just what she desires and will fill the order perfectly.

"I can say this. There never was a better staff with which to work than those at The Palace," she attested. "We have a most appreciative employer and we get the most considerate treatment at all times," she concluded.

Mrs. Ford resides with a daughter, Miss Gladys Ford, who is employed at Sandman's Pharmacy.

The invention of portable timepieces dates from the end of the 15th century.

Mrs. Fay Heard

Mrs. Fay Heard, Texan by birth, came to Monroe to reside in 1912, and she is now ending 32 years as an employe of The Palace store. This according to records kept makes her the third oldest employe of the store, Miss O'Kelly has the honor of having been with the store the longest time, and Miss Kornmann being second in time of employment.

Mrs. Heard states that her first job was that of saleswoman and that she worked in all departments as need might require. Today with the new annex in operation on Harrison Street, she is buyer and in general charge.

Mrs. Heard is mother of a son, William Heard, who served overseas in World War II.

She is a member of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe and has been for years active in her membership in the Business and Professional Women's Club. Right now she is chairman of the education committee.

BRIEF CUT TOGS BELONG ON BEACH

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

If your figure is lissome and you're a sun-tan seeker, beach togs cut for maximum exposure are probably your favorite play fashions.

But bear in mind when you wear these revealing duds that they have their place. That's on a sunny beach; not in clubhouse lounges. The girl who dashes into the clubhouse in a scantily-cut suit may find herself the target of unpleasant criticism—especially if other women are more modestly dressed. Some beach clubs even have rules which prohibit the wearing of swimming togs or sun suits inside the clubhouse. Most resort hotels enforce the same rules.

Best way to avoid any intimations of immodesty or embarrassing tangles with the rules committee is to have cover-up team-mates for brief togs. Keep a beach robe handy to slip into before you stroll along the boardwalk. Add a shirt or a short bolero jacket and a wrap-around skirt to your beach-going brevities to "dress-up" a bathing suit for your trip to the clubhouse.

Department Heads Mark Over 25 Years With Palace

STAFF INCREASED TO MORE THAN 150

Loyal Service Of Long-Time Employes Major Part In Palace Growth

In the onward progress of The Palace store from a modest little room in the 200 block of DeSiard Street to the present imposing structure, from a store with a staff of three persons to the present one that numbers far more than 100 employes, there has been required something as important as the physical plant and the large financial investment. This other great asset is contained in the carefully selected and loyal staff of employes. Down to every last man and woman, The Palace is entrenched with a group of employes that are as loyal to and as proud of The Palace as they are of their own personal possessions. And in this lies a key to the remarkable success of the great enterprise. Many people have contributed their efforts and brains through the passing years. The honor roll of those who have given in the service of the store 25 years or more number an even dozen. In justice to them and to their efforts each of these is given a separate story together with their pictures that appear herewith as follows:

Mrs. Katharine Wyatt

Mrs. Katharine Wyatt, who is now serving as buyer for dresses, underwear and negligees on the second floor, lives at 1017 St. John street. She has worked in the ready-to-wear department and has rounded out more than 25 years in service of the company.

CHEMIST TELLS HOW TO REMOVE STAINS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Most fruit stains may be removed when they are fresh by pouring on boiling water. But there are exceptions to this general rule, says Margaret Furry, textile chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The exceptions are fresh peach, pear, cherry or plum stains which contain enough tannin to be darkened and set by heat. On stains made by these four fruits, use cool water and glycerine or a soapless shampoo. (Never use soap because it sets the stain.) First, sponge the stain with cool water. Then work a little glycerine or soapless shampoo into the stain, rubbing lightly between the hands. Let stand several hours, then apply a few drops of vinegar and allow to remain a minute or two before rinsing thoroughly with water.

This same method is recommended for fruit stains on wool or silk. On these fabrics boiling water should never be used, because it may injure the fabric.

Cool water and glycerine are also recommended for stains made by tomato juice and catsup.

Packers Out Of Their Pickle

After puzzling for months over a pile of pixillated proposals, the nation's perplexed pickle packers have picked a name for their quick-pack pickles. The prize winner is "quickle."

The pickle packers, in a pickle trying to find a uniform name to replace the confusing variety of names being used to describe quick-pack or "overnight" pickle products, appealed to the public. They explained that these pickles were no longer cucumbers because they had been processed, and yet they were not exactly pickles in the old sense of the word because they had not been through the long pickling process which normally lasts several months.

The names poured in — picumber, yumadilly, cuckle, picklet, cupic, pick-a-dilly, zickle, pixie, and quickie, to mention a few.

At the association's mid-year meeting at the Palmer House, they decided that "quickle" is the best name for this popular addition to the pickle line.

GALA LUNCH OFFERS SUGGESTIONS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Planning a gala meal for an important event? Then take some tips from the luxurious "seagoing" luncheon served his writers and 11 other food editors on the new Royal Mail Ship Mauretania in New York harbor recently.

It began with caviar served with chopped onion and chopped hard cooked egg yolk. Then came in the order listed: chilled consomme, filet of sole and lobster in a baked potato shell, squab chicken with new peas and duchess potatoes, jumbo asparagus with Parmesan sauce. For dessert there was Ruche Mauretania.

Ruche Mauretania

Eight egg whites and 1 1/2 cups sugar, 4 egg yolks and 1/2 cup sugar. 1 quart French vanilla ice cream, 1/2 pint raspberries, 1/2 pint red currants, round of sponge cake, 1/4 inch thick.

Beat egg whites until stiff, with 1 1/2 cups sugar, then beat yolks until lemony with 1/2 cup sugar. Fold beaten whites into beaten yolks. Place round of good sponge cake on round flat sheet. Cover with vanilla ice cream carefully smoothed to fit the cake and flattened on top except for a deep well in the center. Into this well, place raspberries and red currants. Add a little Kirsch is desired. Cover with egg souffle mixture and shape into a beehive. Decorate with crystallized fruits. Brown delicately in hot oven.

The new Mauretania has just been completely reconditioned after a heroic war service. Her galleys are equipped with electric ranges and her chefs—as you can tell from the above—equipped with the know-how of deep sea luxury eating.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe, ready-to-eat cereal, frizzled ham, scarmbled eggs, fried tomatoes, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, marmalade, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Watermelon, cup roast stuffed chicken, gravy, French fried potatoes, new peas, corn on cob, rolls, butter or fortified margarine, watercress salad, crackers, Ruche Mauretania, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Cold sliced meat loaf, creamed potatoes, vegetable salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, stewed fresh plums, homemade cake, tea, milk.

MOM CAN FOSTER TOT'S POPULARITY

You want your little daughter to have friends, but do you help her to win them?

A well-known pediatrician tells the mother how to help her child in her friendship campaign. Invite desirable little children to your home. Or better still, encourage your daughter to invite friends in to play.

If a child is allowed to play hostess, she will learn early what will prove invaluable to her as she grows up—the gracious art of entertaining.

Does your child have friends of whom you disapprove? Better than putting your foot down against them, according to the expert, is to steer her into more desirable friendships.

Additional Dept. Heads Of Palace

Mrs. Fred Rosenbaum

Buyer and head of the Boys', Girls' and Infants' Departments on the Fifth and Sixth Floor. Born in Kentucky, later coming to Monroe with her father who opened a men's store in Monroe and a department store in Ruston. Mrs. Rosenbaum started working at The Palace 14 years ago when the complete children's departments were on one floor. Mrs. Rosenbaum and family live on North Fourth Street, Monroe.

CROSS-BREEDING

A black goldfish, the Chinese Moor, is produced more successfully by crossing a red fish and a black one than by mating two black ones.

Eugene Cahn

Head of The Palace's Stock Room and Receiving Department, also buyer for stationery. He was born in Germany and came to America in 1926 to settle in Monroe. That same year he went to work in the Stock Room which was located on the Mezzannine Floor. After serving in the United States army, Mr. Cahn returned to his present job where he has 5 employes under his supervision.

When you take your vacation, give your refrigerator a rest, too. Turn it off, remove all food, clean interior thoroughly. Leave the door open; if left closed a stale odor may develop in the cabinet.

Mrs. Arlis Jones

Manager of the Millinery Salon on the Fashion Second Floor of The Palace. Mrs. Jones came to The Palace in February of this year and has formerally been associated with millinery salons in exclusive stores in Pittsburgh, New York and Birmingham as buyer and manager.

Miss Ruby McLaughlin

Head of the Bag, Glove and Umbrella Department is a native of Mississippi. She came to The Palace in 1938 and has at one time been associated with The J. L. Hudson Co. in Detroit. Miss McLaughlin lives on South Grand in Monroe.

Mrs. Doris Montgomery

In charge of the Jewelry, Scarf and other accessory departments, is a native of Louisiana. She has been with The Palace over a year. She resides with her family, including 3 daughters, on Grayling Lane in Monroe.

Mrs. Verna McNeely

Head of the Balcony Shop which features fine foods and electrical and home appliances. She was born in Missouri and came to Monroe shortly after being married. Mrs. McNeely, her husband and one girl, live on St. John Street, in Monroe. She also has one son in the navy at the present time.

Mrs. Eva Davidson

Assistant manager and buyer of Infants' and Girls' clothing. Native of Monroe and started working at The Palace 13 years ago in the Children's Department. At the present time, Eva is on leave of absence due to illness.

Mrs. R. L. Taggart

Assistant buyer and head of the new Budget Fourth Floor. Born in Caldwell parish and moved to Monroe in 1920, started work as clerk on the Economy Third Floor in 1925. She and her husband live on Gordon Avenue, Monroe.

Mrs. Blanche Florsheim

Receptionist on the Fashion Second Floor. When Mrs. Florsheim went to work at The Palace she was connected with the Millinery Department. Later she was transferred to her present job. She and Mr. Florsheim live on Park Avenue, Monroe.

The hydra, a fresh-water polyp, can function normally when turned inside out and is capable of swallowing an animal 50 times its own size.

Mr. John F. Kelso

Manager of the modern Shoe Salon on the Street Floor of The Palace. Native of Tennessee, later moved to Monroe in 1927. That same year John was employed as shoe salesman with The Palace. Mr. Kelso, with his wife and two children, reside on North Sixth Street, Monroe.

Charles H. Penn

Mrs. Renwick is a native of Monroe and has been with The Palace since 1927 being first employed as an alteration lady and later working to head of the department 9 years ago. At the present time she is in charge of 8 alteration ladies who do the many alterations called for by the Fashion Second Floor. Mrs. Renwick lives on Delano Drive in Monroe.

CHEMIST TELLS HOW TO REMOVE STAINS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Most fruit stains may be removed when they are fresh by pouring on boiling water. But there are exceptions to this general rule, says Margaret Furry, textile chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The exceptions are fresh peach, pear, cherry or plum stains which contain enough tannin to be darkened and set by heat. On stains made by these four fruits, use cool water and glycerine or a soapless shampoo. (Never use soap because it sets the stain.) First, sponge the stain with cool water. Then work a little glycerine or soapless shampoo into the stain, rubbing lightly between the hands. Let stand several hours, then apply a few drops of vinegar and allow to remain a minute or two before rinsing thoroughly with water.

This same method is recommended for fruit stains on wool or silk. On these fabrics boiling water should never be used, because it may injure the fabric.

Cool water and glycerine are also recommended for stains made by tomato juice and catsup.

Packers Out Of Their Pickle

After puzzling for months over a pile of pixillated proposals, the nation's perplexed pickle packers have picked a name for their quick-pack pickles. The prize winner is "quickle."

The pickle packers, in a pickle trying to find a uniform name to replace the confusing variety of names being used to describe quick-pack or "overnight" pickle products, appealed to the public. They explained that these pickles were no longer cucumbers because they had been processed, and yet they were not exactly pickles in the old sense of the word because they had not been through the long pickling process which normally lasts several months.

The names poured in — picumber, yumadilly, cuckle, picklet, cupic, pick-a-dilly, zickle, pixie, and quickie, to mention a few.

At the association's mid-year meeting at the Palmer House, they decided that "quickle" is the best name for this popular addition to the pickle line.

GALA LUNCH OFFERS SUGGESTIONS

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Planning a gala meal for an important event? Then take some tips from the luxurious "seagoing" luncheon served his writers and 11 other food editors on the new Royal Mail Ship Mauretania in New York harbor recently.

It began with caviar served with chopped onion and chopped hard cooked egg yolk. Then came in the order listed: chilled consomme, filet of sole and lobster in a baked potato shell, squab chicken with new peas and duchess potatoes, jumbo asparagus with Parmesan sauce. For dessert there was Ruche Mauretania.

Ruche Mauretania

Eight egg whites and 1 1/2 cups sugar, 4 egg yolks and 1/2 cup sugar, 1 quart French vanilla ice cream, 1/2 pint raspberries, 1/2 pint red currants, round of sponge cake, 1/4 inch thick.

Beat egg whites until stiff, with 1 1/2 cups sugar, then beat yolks until lemony with 1/2 cup sugar. Fold beaten whites into beaten yolks. Place round of good sponge cake on round flat sheet. Cover with vanilla ice cream carefully smoothed to fit the cake and flattened on top except for a deep well in the center. Into this well, place raspberries and red currants. Add a little Kirsch is desired. Cover with egg souffle mixture and shape into a beehive. Decorate with crystallized fruits. Brown delicately in hot oven.

The new Mauretania has just been completely reconditioned after a heroic war service. Her galleys are equipped with electric ranges and her chefs—as you can tell from the above—equipped with the know-how of deep sea luxury eating.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe, ready-to-eat cereal, frizzled ham, scarmbled eggs, fried tomatoes, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, marmalade, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Watermelon, cup roast stuffed chicken, gravy, French fried potatoes, new peas, corn on cob, rolls, butter or fortified margarine, watercress salad, crackers, Ruche Mauretania, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Cold sliced meat loaf, creamed potatoes, vegetable salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, stewed fresh plums, homemade cake, tea, milk.

New Fall Silhouette Featured At Palace

After studying the fall fashions in the first presentations of new styles in the coat and suit department at the Palace, one is left groping for a word that will adequately describe them. Handsome, sculptured, lavish, important and different are a few of the first impressions. Miss Mae Pettitt who is in charge of the coat and suit department at the Palace brought out one beautiful number after another for our inspection. She recently returned from New York and other fashion centers where she personally selected this marvelous collection.

The first, which will doubtless have the most popular appeal, is the flared silhouette so much discussed. This is the straight, square or box coat with a swing back or swagger fullness, replacing the straight back of last year. It is the longer greatcoat that accommodates the new dress length, and is full enough to wear over everything, sometimes hooded. For example, one manufacturer puts a 112-inch back sweep into a 47-inch length coat. The ever-popular loose-tuxedo might be classified with this group. It too, will be longer, with a fuller swing, and more rounded shoulders.

Someone has raised the question as to whether or not it is good fashion to wear a full-back coat over a dress with a long, full skirt. The answer is yes, and stylists point out that the narrower shoulder creates the right balance for this shoulder-to-hem fullness. The greatcoat should, however, cover the hem of the dress. If the coat is not full length, then a slightly shorter or seven-eighths length should be avoided. Three-quarter length is by all means the smarter if the dress is to show.

Like dresses, coats of cloth or fur tend to round the shoulders in a more natural curve, getting away from the square or lifted look. This makes them seem a bit narrower, but they are not narrow in the sense of looking pinched. They are more graceful.

The second important coat silhouette has a waistline or belted midriff, and a full skirt. This is the coat that plays up to dress-making details, the sculptured look, the new curves and the padded look. It is smart as a whip, beautifully made, and cannot be compared with any of the coats that have appeared for some years. In execution of pocket, cuff and collar details, seaming of shoulders, yokes, and curve of hipline, it is a work of real artistry. It shows to best advantage in the new glossy broadcloths and velours, or smooth suedes.

Celanese satin linings have been specially dyed in the new fall colors to match the finer coat fabrics, including the fashionable greens, wines and new browns, so that now one may expect perfect harmony between the lining and the woolen fabric.

A third silhouette which is high fashion is a revival of the style of the early twenties. It tapers below the hips, and in coats, has a wrappy look, one side of the front being pulled way over to the other side on a slant. The tapered line will be found in both coats and suits. Part of its character will be recognized in a hippy look, sometimes with big pockets, and fur collars and cuffs. The over-size pocket is also featured in both sports and dressy coats.

The new fall suits are pocket-conscious too, with as many as five in a suit, or just one very large pocket, for example. Jackets have the long torso look, 25 1/2 to about 29 inches long, and skirts, of course, are longer, measuring 13" to 15" from the floor. The small waistline, rounded hips, and narrower shoulder line are the important hallmarks of the new look featured by Jablou at the Palace.

BABY'S TALC DIMS SHINE ON NOSE

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Ever try using baby's talcum powder to deluster shine on a sun-tanned nose or brow? Richard ("Look Your Best") Willis, radio's beauty counselor, says baby powder dulls sheen with the least alteration of skin tones; with the least pore interference. Baby powder's very fine texture is what backs up its good performance.

Here are more hot weather make-up tips from the beauty counselor. He says that the increased output of oil glands can be offset by washing your face at least four times a day with tepid—not hot—water and soap. An astringent lotion patted on the nose and chin is also recommended for curbing a shine.

Make-up is better able to stay put in face-mopping weather if it is applied sparingly and worked on evenly, says Willis. His argument is that a heavy coat of makeup slapped on the surface of the skin slides off faster than one thin but smoothly applied coat.

Willis recommends for the girl with an oily skin a liquid-lotion powder. Even her dry-skinned sister is better off, he says, wearing a non-greasy foundation under her powder when the mercury climbs. Creamy bases can play a trick even on the dry-skinned by exploding into a film of oil under the stress of hot weather.

In Retrospect

The Palace of today is not a new enterprise. It is an institution founded upon a number of unalterable and now-proven precepts which have formed the motif of its 45 years of existence.

Some 22 years ago when the six-story Palace was built, the officers of the store laid down certain principles which we believed were essential to the integration of a private business with the interests of the community.

In setting forth these principles, we predicted that The Palace would fall or progress according to their soundness.

It will be well to reexamine the policies enunciated then, and in the light of the past years of experience, to see to what extent they have been borne out.

Foremost among them was the ideal of service—the basic conception of a store as a public enterprise, similar to a utility or cooperative endeavor of any kind.

We felt then, as we do now, that no business had the right to regard itself as apart from the interests of the community supporting it. And we were convinced then, as we are today, the primary duty of any private business was to recognize and fulfill the needs of the people to whom it opens its doors.

This we believe entails a fundamental responsibility—a responsibility to protect customers from inferior goods, from exorbitant prices, and exploitative practices, a responsibility to provide the best that could be obtained as cheaply as possible.

We maintained then, as we do 22 years later, that there is no distinction between the welfare of a business and that of the public.

Looking over the years, we know that our obejctives were correct. Today, more than ever before, private businesses are confronted with the imperative of identifying their interests with those of the community. Today, the dangers of smugness, selfishness, and aggrandizement are more apparent, their consequences more frightening than at any time previously.

Today, as firmly as when The Palace took its first major stride forward, we subscribe to the creed of quality and service.

The principles upon which The Palace was built have demonstrated their value for all time.

Our policy will be now, as it has always been, to adhere to them without compromise or deviation.

Fashions Keynote At Palace

Never before have women's fashions commanded the world-wide attention they do now. The manufacture of feminine apparrel has emerged into a multi-million dollar business—with New York and Hollywood competing the coutouriers of Paris as the style centers of a hoped-for resplendent post-war era.

More important is the unmistakable fact that women everywhere are becoming increasingly fashion-conscious. And with this is an insistence that ready-to-wear apparel contain all the appeal and distinction of the exclusive models of modish salons.

There is another healthy sign in the new attitude of American women: The demand for fashions with an "American look." The recent styles of manufacturers in this country have wisely heeded the clamor.

Taking all of these factors into consideration, the New Palace has created a women's department designed to provide the most modern fashions with an accent on smartness and individuality.

The retailers of women's apparel throughout America have just emerged from a trying period of instability and uncertainty; although an end to unbridled buying was clearly imminent, neither manufacturers nor merchants knew when the halt would be called.

And in this critical point, the women of Monroe, as elsewhere in the United States, have replaced a "buy-anything" approach with one of greater caution and reserve.

The New Palace has accepted the challenge, and is demonstrating that it offers the best in chic women's attire at unprecedentedly low cost.

Closely allied with our array of fashions on the beautifully-appointed second floor are our buyers of women's accessories.

The regally tailored dress of today demands the proper adornment to bring out its beauty and glamor. And choosing from the accessory department, the wearer of America's finest clothes can complete her ensemble in good taste and distinction, for the Palace accessories have been selected to complement to the best most fittingly the Palace's alluring apparel.

Throughout our display of fall fashions is the underlying motif: These are YOUR styles—we know you will be well pleased.

FALSE HAIR-PIECE SHAMES NATURE

By Alica Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Envious of girls with long, luxuriant hair?

Don't be. Shame nature for her stinginess by pinning on a hair piece which so often looks more soignee than a girl's very own. Your added glory can have length and thickness that would evoke sighs from Rapunzel.

One of the most popular hairpieces going to the heads of glamor girls today—of actresses and models, especially—is the "Alice-in-Wonderland" fall. This can be any length a girl wants her hair to be. Such a backdrop, designed as a cover for hair that grows slowly or breaks off, fastens at the crown with a comb. When matched in color and texture to a girl's own hair, not even the gimlet-eyed can tell where nature stops and the wig-maker's art begins.

Caring for the pin-on piece is no trouble, stylists say. They maintain that the "fall" can be dry-cleaned with any non-inflammable cleaning fluid. Laid out on a towel, the piece will dry quicker than your own hair.

When permanent curl in the hairpiece vanisher, new curl can be put in with metal curlers. You roll up the strands of a "fall" just as you would your own hair.

Some historians claim that the tea industry in Japan dates back to 1565.

Second Floor Abounds In Distinctive Styles

In the cool environs of the second floor of the Palace it was most refreshing to listen to Mrs. Kathryn Wyatt tell of the new fall fashions and the style shows she attended recently in New York City. She tells us that the round silhouette or the feminine figure of curves introduced by the famous fashion designers is the one to look for this fall of 1947 and 1948. It is the figure that has the come-hither look, taking honors away from the go-getter type.

Mrs. Wyatt invited us behind the scenes at the Palace where the new fall fashions are arriving daily but have not yet been placed on the merchandise racks. These new gowns featured the narrow shoulder, rounded hip and longer skirt, and there is little doubt that women's dresses has reached that change of cycle in style that makes it necessary to cultivate a new point of view, and plan a whole new wardrobe.

While the new look is radical, it has many variations and adaptations to all figures. The important thing is to study the all-over effect. The waist is small or made to look small. Some designers are building in the waistline to give it a corseted and betless look that curves naturally into the rounded hips. It takes inches off the waistline.

Shoulders referred to as rounded are not necessarily sloped to give one a droopy look. The line is natural and not square. Skirts, even though longer, may be flared, full or slim.

Slim dresses of rayon, Celanese and sheer wools, featured by Carolyn, have the hips accented in various ways; by tunics and peplums that jut out at the waistline; by pannier drapery that starts low each side of the back of the skirt and is lifted over the hips at front. Carolyn does it with big flaring pockets and intricate stitching in some of her models. Some designers do it with removable hip pads.

Another silhouette suggests the tapered look. This tapers the long line toward the hem and is achieved with spiral flounces, wrapped skirts that are draped higher on one hip, and in the manipulation of scarf and harem-draped panels. This look is willowy, slim and has a long torso line.

The molded bosom is quite a departure from the loose, blousey lines of some of the current fashions, but it must be reckoned with. It becomes a necessary part of the new silhouette. Because of this molded look, high flaring collars, shawl-like collars, and fishus of the Puritan days are returning. Many of the sleeves with this type bodice are long and close fitting, although there is a flattering full-kimono-cut sleeve from shoulder to elbow, a push-up sleeve, and a full, wrist-flaring sleeve.

One hears much about the return of the dolman, or another manifestation of the wrapped, tapered silhouette. This contrasts with the molded bodice, having a fullness near the top, but it rounds the hips with its wrapping at the waist, and tapers toward the hem a la 1928.

Mrs. Wyatt told us the new skirt lengths, range 14" to 14 1/2" for daytime; 12" to 13 1/2" for afternoon; and 6" to 8" from the floor for ankle-length dresses. The five o'clock dress which is the new version of the "afternoon frock" is ankle length and may have an uneven hemline.

Formal "occasion" dresses touch the floor and may have a back with slight train.

PLASTIC FABRICS DECK BABY'S ROOM

By Kay Sherwood
(NEA Staff Writer)

Whether baby rates a bedroom for himself or shares one with his mother, the decor should be crisp, colorful and easy to keep immaculate. Plastic film fabrics answer all these requirements. Now that yard goods is available to make a match with ready-made curtains, it is simple to plan a sparkling ensemble.

Organdie-sheer test-tube fabrics present no clean-up problem for mother. Stains or soil can be wiped off with a damp sponge. If fabrics acquire an all-over griminess, they can be tossed into a washing machine, sudsed spotless and hung up to drain dry.

Pearly gingham checked film decks out a bassinet in a style befitting His Majesty. For a ruffled canopy that trails luxuriously on the floor, a pair of priscilla curtains may be attached to the wall over the bassinet. To conceal the base of the bassinet, plastic film in a matching check may be stitched up to make a full flounce. If there is fabric left over, it can be used to make a waterproof mattress cover.

Window curtains in the same pearly check will complete the fresh looking ensemble. For added decoration, the checked motif may be repeated in a curving stencil on the wall, used as a wall plaque or to tie two plaques together.

Between 16 to 24 hours normally are required to dry a tea leaf.

Fashions Keynote At Palace

Never before have women's fashions commanded the world-wide attention they do now. The manufacture of feminine apparrel has emerged into a multi-million dollar business—with New York and Hollywood competing the coutouriers of Paris as the style centers of a hoped-for resplendent post-war era.

More important is the unmistakable fact that women everywhere are becoming increasingly fashion-conscious. And with this is an insistence that ready-to-wear apparel contain all the appeal and distinction of the exclusive models of modish salons.

There is another healthy sign in the new attitude of American women: The demand for fashions with an "American look." The recent styles of manufacturers in this country have wisely heeded the clamor.

Taking all of these factors into consideration, the New Palace has created a women's department designed to provide the most modern fashions with an accent on smartness and individuality.

The retailers of women's apparel throughout America have just emerged from a trying period of instability and uncertainty; although an end to unbridled buying was clearly imminent, neither manufacturers nor merchants knew when the halt would be called.

And in this critical point, the women of Monroe, as elsewhere in the United States, have replaced a "buy-anything" approach with one of greater caution and reserve.

The New Palace has accepted the challenge, and is demonstrating that it offers the best in chic women's attire at unprecedentedly low cost.

Closely allied with our array of fashions on the beautifully-appointed second floor are our buyers of women's accessories.

The regally tailored dress of today demands the proper adornment to bring out its beauty and glamor. And choosing from the accessory department, the wearer of America's finest clothes can complete her ensemble in good taste and distinction, for the Palace accessories have been selected to complement to the best most fittingly the Palace's alluring apparel.

Throughout our display of fall fashions is the underlying motif: These are YOUR styles—we know you will be well pleased.

FALSE HAIR-PIECE SHAMES NATURE

By Alica Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

Envious of girls with long, luxuriant hair?

Don't be. Shame nature for her stinginess by pinning on a hair piece which so often looks more soignee than a girl's very own. Your added glory can have length and thickness that would evoke sighs from Rapunzel.

One of the most popular hairpieces going to the heads of glamor girls today—of actresses and models, especially—is the "Alice-in-Wonderland" fall. This can be any length a girl wants her hair to be. Such a backdrop, designed as a cover for hair that grows slowly or breaks off, fastens at the crown with a comb. When matched in color and texture to a girl's own hair, not even the gimlet-eyed can tell where nature stops and the wig-maker's art begins.

Caring for the pin-on piece is no trouble, stylists say. They maintain that the "fall" can be dry-cleaned with any non-inflammable cleaning fluid. Laid out on a towel, the piece will dry quicker than your own hair.

When permanent curl in the hairpiece vanisher, new curl can be put in with metal curlers. You roll up the strands of a "fall" just as you would your own hair.

Some historians claim that the tea industry in Japan dates back to 1565.

Second Floor Abounds In Distinctive Styles

In the cool environs of the second floor of the Palace it was most refreshing to listen to Mrs. Kathryn Wyatt tell of the new fall fashions and the style shows she attended recently in New York City. She tells us that the round silhouette or the feminine figure of curves introduced by the famous fashion designers is the one to look for this fall of 1947 and 1948. It is the figure that has the come-hither look, taking honors away from the go-getter type.

Mrs. Wyatt invited us behind the scenes at the Palace where the new fall fashions are arriving daily but have not yet been placed on the merchandise racks. These new gowns featured the narrow shoulder, rounded hip and longer skirt, and there is little doubt that women's dresses has reached that change of cycle in style that makes it necessary to cultivate a new point of view, and plan a whole new wardrobe.

While the new look is radical, it has many variations and adaptations to all figures. The important thing is to study the all-over effect. The waist is small or made to look small. Some designers are building in the waistline to give it a corseted and betless look that curves naturally into the rounded hips. It takes inches off the waistline.

Shoulders referred to as rounded are not necessarily sloped to give one a droopy look. The line is natural and not square. Skirts, even though longer, may be flared, full or slim.

Slim dresses of rayon, Celanese and sheer wools, featured by Carolyn, have the hips accented in various ways; by tunics and peplums that jut out at the waistline; by pannier drapery that starts low each side of the back of the skirt and is lifted over the hips at front. Carolyn does it with big flaring pockets and intricate stitching in some of her models. Some designers do it with removable hip pads.

Another silhouette suggests the tapered look. This tapers the long line toward the hem and is achieved with spiral flounces, wrapped skirts that are draped higher on one hip, and in the manipulation of scarf and harem-draped panels. This look is willowy, slim and has a long torso line.

The molded bosom is quite a departure from the loose, blousey lines of some of the current fashions, but it must be reckoned with. It becomes a necessary part of the new silhouette. Because of this molded look, high flaring collars, shawl-like collars, and fishus of the Puritan days are returning. Many of the sleeves with this type bodice are long and close fitting, although there is a flattering full-kimono-cut sleeve from shoulder to elbow, a push-up sleeve, and a full, wrist-flaring sleeve.

One hears much about the return of the dolman, or another manifestation of the wrapped, tapered silhouette. This contrasts with the molded bodice, having a fullness near the top, but it rounds the hips with its wrapping at the waist, and tapers toward the hem a la 1928.

Mrs. Wyatt told us the new skirt lengths, range 14" to 14 1/2" for daytime; 12" to 13 1/2" for afternoon; and 6" to 8" from the floor for ankle-length dresses. The five o'clock dress which is the new version of the "afternoon frock" is ankle length and may have an uneven hemline.

Formal "occasion" dresses touch the floor and may have a back with slight train.

SERIES OF FIRSTS FOR YOUNG JOCKEY

MONMOUTH, N. J.—(AP)—When apprentice jockey, Donald Brigley, piloted Portal home a winner at Monmouth Park, it was his first mount, the first win for the horse, and the first time the jockey's mother had ever seen him on a horse.

Brigley is under contract to J. P. (Sammy) Smith who has great hopes that the apprentice will develop into one of the top riders on the turf.

PLASTIC FABRICS DECK BABY'S ROOM

By Kay Sherwood
(NEA Staff Writer)

Whether baby rates a bedroom for himself or shares one with his mother, the decor should be crisp, colorful and easy to keep immaculate. Plastic film fabrics answer all these requirements. Now that yard goods is available to make a match with ready-made curtains, it is simple to plan a sparkling ensemble.

Organdie-sheer test-tube fabrics present no clean-up problem for mother. Stains or soil can be wiped off with a damp sponge. If fabrics acquire an all-over griminess, they can be tossed into a washing machine, sudsed spotless and hung up to drain dry.

Pearly gingham checked film decks out a bassinet in a style befitting His Majesty. For a ruffled canopy that trails luxuriously on the floor, a pair of priscilla curtains may be attached to the wall over the bassinet. To conceal the base of the bassinet, plastic film in a matching check may be stitched up to make a full flounce. If there is fabric left over, it can be used to make a waterproof mattress cover.

Window curtains in the same pearly check will complete the fresh looking ensemble. For added decoration, the checked motif may be repeated in a curving stencil on the wall, used as a wall plaque or to tie two plaques together.

Between 16 to 24 hours normally are required to dry a tea leaf.

Home Furnishings And Luggage Displayed In New Store Unit

The Palace Annex, located on Harrison Street, immediately back of the Palace, recently opened, houses departments of the Palace that were formerly on the fourth floor of the big building. These include home furnishings and luggage departments.

In the new spacious building merchandise has been arranged to best advantage in units. A most modern color scheme has been utilized in the interior finish and in the displays.

Many visitors have praised this progressive unit of the Palace and have stated that it is such a step as large department stores in cities like Houston, Dallas, New Orleans and other such places are instituting. But they added that none of these cities had anything to compare with what the Palace has done for its local clientele.

The new furnishings and luggage annex was one of the many improvements planned during the remodeling and expansion era of the Palace, stated Sig Masur, president and general manager.

SPEECH DEFECT CLASS AT TECH

Hope New System Will Be Adopted In Public Schools Of State

RUSTON, July 26.—(Special)—Nearly 15 per cent of our children of elementary school age suffer to some degree from speech defects, according to Dr. John V. Irwin, who has conducted a clinic this summer at Louisiana Tech for speech teachers and children with defective speech.

"There was a time," he said, "when we could ignore the problem, but we must now realize that defective speech may have far-reaching effects on the child's personality development and his ability later to make a living.

"It is up to the public schools to help these children," he said.

"About 85 per cent of all speech defects," he said, "could be treated by classroom teachers. Only isolated cases need specialized medical or psychological treatment.

"Although treatment should be given at an early age," he said, "the average classroom teacher feels helpless because of a lack of training in speech correction.

"It is our hope," he said, "that the results of our program here at Louisiana Tech this summer will be carried into the public schools of the state, where it will do the most good."

Thirty children enrolled for the remedial speech clinic this summer. Several North Louisiana speech teachers attended the clinic to obtain additional instruction in remedial speech work.

Dr. Irwin, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, was assisted in conducting the clinic by Miss Vera Alice Paul, head of the Tech speech department, and by Jo Clary of Minden, Maxie Billingsley of Homer and Lanell Rigdon of Castor, who have recently completed speech correction courses at the college here.

"We have found that most cases of defective speech are merely the results of bad habits," Dr. Irwin pointed out, "but other defects arise from physical causes."

Teachers attending the clinic were first taught to determine the causes of the speech defect by testing each child for such things as muscular dexterity, hearing, vision and general intelligence. Results of the diagnosis then determined the treatment required.

The second phase of the course included instruction in methods of therapy—ways of teaching correct speech by use of tongue placement, auditory imitation, visual and vibratory methods.

By use of the audiometer, the child's ability to hear high and low-pitched sounds was measured as one of the first steps in finding the cause of the defect.

"This is done," Dr. Irwin said, "because we have found that many speech defects can be traced to defective hearing."

Another instrument used in the tests is the "tuning fork," which helps the teacher determine the nature of the hearing defect.

"It is not usually realized that speech is among the most skilled muscular acts that humans perform," Dr. Irwin said. "Correct speech requires good muscular coordination.

"To measure the child's muscular coordination, we use the simple 'pegboard,' by which we have discovered that most children with defective speech suffer also from faulty muscular coordination."

Since poor eyesight may affect one's ability to observe lip movements in the formation of words, viscual tests are given. Each child also is given psychological tests.

Among the other mechanical aids used at the clinic was the "sound-mirror," which enables the child to listen to his own voice as others hear it and then attempt correction.

RIBBONS ADD DASH TO SIMPLE FROCK

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

The profusion of new and vividly-patterned ribbons that brighten showcases again can be used as pretty and inexpensive pick-me-ups for summer costumes.

Pert cotton frocks, for example, are being belted in best-dressed circles by ribbon corsalets. If you want to try one, tie individual "belts" of narrow ribbon in contrasting colors around your waist. The effect is prettier when ends of ribbon hang down in graduated lengths from each "belt" that you tie or pin.

"Epaulets" of taffeta or gros-grain ribbon, doubled for added stiffness, make charming caps for the armholes of sleeveless blouses or dresses. Increase the pulling power of this ribbon by using it also as a headband or hat trimming.

Grosgrain striped like ribbons of honor makes gay trappings for jewelled pins. Two short ribbon streamers, notched to create the effect of "medal ribbons," can be used to ennoble the simplest pin.

Saucy bowknots of ribbon, used instead of links, are a new idea for fastening the French cuffs of a blouse or shirtwaist dress.

The last great work of Richard Wagner, German composer, was "Parsifal," based on the legend of the Holy Grail although not on the legend of the "Morte d'Arthur."

St. Joseph

Mr. and Mrs. Hollaman Cook were hosts at a family gathering at Mayflower, their plantation home on the Fourth of July. The guests enjoyed a barbeque and a delicious picnic supper was served with barbecued chicken on tables under the trees around the barbecue pit. The guests were limited to the members of the two families.

Mr. Vassar Anderson of Gulfport, Miss., was a visitor here for a brief visit recently.

Dr. Dunbar Newell of Chattanooga, Tenn., was a St. Joseph visitor for the day, recently.

Mrs. H. R. Elliott, who has been the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Hollaman Cook for the past two months, left recently for Oxford, Miss., where she is visiting her sisters, Mrs. R. E. Todd and Mrs. Alvin H. Hipps.

Mrs. Claire Drake Gray of Baton Rouge, is spending a month with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wynans Drake at the family home in St. Joseph.

Mrs. Wilbur R. Slaughter of New Orleans and her son, Wilbur R. Slaughter, Jr., are visiting Mrs. Slaughter's mother, Mrs. Paul Buford.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Whitaker of Monroe, La., and their two daughters, Betty Will and Leila Idell, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitaker.

Mrs. Hughes Bondurant of Atlanta, Ga., and her little daughter, Jane Gay, are visiting Mrs. Albert Bondurant.

Mrs. R. D. Curry and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ellis, of Houston, Tex., are enjoying a visit of two and a half weeks to the Grand Canyon and points in Colorado, Boulder City, Nev., El Paso, Tex., and New Mexico.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitaker have as their house guests Mrs. Whitaker's little niece and nephew, Gwen and Percy Durfey, of Canton, Miss.

COLLINSTON

Recent guests of Mrs. J. T. Howell and daughter, Mrs. Louise Jeter, were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wolf and son, Robbie, of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Atchley and son, Dannie, of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Boyd and son, James Vaughan Boyd, of Fairbanks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Cloyd and children of Monroe spent one day recently here with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Corley.

Miss Vera Butler of New Orleans recently visited here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Butler, and with her brother, Harold Butler, and his family.

Miss Mildred Patrick of Forest is visiting here in the home of her sister, Mrs. James Corley.

Mrs. Susie Campbell visited recently in Monroe with her daughters, Mrs. Manfred Parker and Mrs. Ralph Crews.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Adams and infant daughter of Monroe visited here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Adams.

Miss Dorothy Trippe, a student nurse at St. Francis Sanitarium, spent the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Trippe.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Corley, Jr., and daughter spent Sunday here with Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Corley, and Mr. and Mrs. James Corley.

RIBBONS ADD DASH TO SIMPLE FROCK

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

The profusion of new and vividly-patterned ribbons that brighten showcases again can be used as pretty and inexpensive pick-me-ups for summer costumes.

Pert cotton frocks, for example, are being belted in best-dressed circles by ribbon corsalets. If you want to try one, tie individual "belts" of narrow ribbon in contrasting colors around your waist. The effect is prettier when ends of ribbon hang down in graduated lengths from each "belt" that you tie or pin.

"Epaulets" of taffeta or gros-grain ribbon, doubled for added stiffness, make charming caps for the armholes of sleeveless blouses or dresses. Increase the pulling power of this ribbon by using it also as a headband or hat trimming.

Grosgrain striped like ribbons of honor makes gay trappings for jewelled pins. Two short ribbon streamers, notched to create the effect of "medal ribbons," can be used to ennoble the simplest pin.

Saucy bowknots of ribbon, used instead of links, are a new idea for fastening the French cuffs of a blouse or shirtwaist dress.

The last great work of Richard Wagner, German composer, was "Parsifal," based on the legend of the Holy Grail although not on the legend of the "Morte d'Arthur."

Looking Ahead In Washington

(By The World Staff of Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Prospects are that government officials who hope to impress Russia with inter-American unity at the forthcoming Rio de Janeiro conference are in for a slight disappointment.

The conference opens Aug. 15 and will negotiate on an inter-American mutual defense treaty.

The U. S. recently attempted to grease the ways so that the idea of inter-American unity would become the dominant theme. It maneuvered the governing board of the Pan-American Union into trying to resolve the major points before hand. But few diplomats believe it will work.

The disputes center around a U. S. proposal which would:

1. Throw out the veto on enforcement action by having decision on a two-thirds vote basis. Argentina, for one, wants the veto.

2. Make it mandatory for all American nations to go immediately to the assistance of an attacked sister nation. Some Latins want to consult first.

The U. S. hopes to avoid the usual split with Argentina. A majority of the Latin American countries already support the U. S. view. The catch is that there will have to be wide agreement since the treaty will have to be ratified by the various national congresses.

(A government informant in Ottawa says that Canada has not been invited to the conference and is not sure it would accept if invited. Canada already has defense arrangements with the United States which this person says it considers more important than any South American tie-up.)

Overseas Briefs

Warsaw—Poland plans to abolish its cavalry except for a few units to be used for decorative purposes. A foreign ministry spokesman explains that Poland no longer has territory where cavalry might be useful.

Rome—Italian public employes now are talking openly about a possible strike. Government leaders admit they are underpaid and Premier de Gasperi has offered raises averaging 30 per cent.

Paris—The municipal council intends to abolish the "classless" subway, charging higher fares in some cars to make up a deficit.

National Names

Washington—Watch for Harold E. Stassen to step up his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination around November. A definite decision hinges on public opinion polls and the sentiments he uncovers himself on his own travels. . .

Some diplomats expect that George S. Messersmith, resigned ambassador to Argentina, may get another state department assignment—perhaps in the civilian administration of Germany, where he served prewar. . .

Airline officials hear Chairman James M. Landis is planning to resign shortly from the Civil Aeronautics Board for a better paid business job. He probably will complete the special air safety inquiry ordered by President Truman. . .

Maritime

In the interest of stability, the maritime industry may pass along to Harry Lundeberg and the A. F. L. Seafarers International Union the same 5 per cent wage boost granted last month to the C. I. O. National Maritime Union.

Lundeberg's contract will not expire until Sept. 30, but west coast ship owners are believed willing to grant the raise anyway. A. F. L. Masters, Mates and Pilots already have gotten it although their contract likewise ran until Sept. 30.

Vatican-Egypt

Vatican City—Establishment of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Egypt is expected here.

Egypt would be the first Moslem country in history to have such a connection with the Holy See. Cordial relations between the two states go back 130 years to the days of Mohamed Aly. They have been intensified under King Farouk.

Kansas Politics

Washington—Kansans on Capitol Hill predict a red-hot Republican senatorial primary in their state next year, with former Gov. Alf M. Landon, 1936 G. O. P. presidential nominee, participating actively in the campaign, although not as a candidate.

Former Gov. Andrew F. Schoeppel is regarded as one likely contender for the seat now held by 82-year-old Arthur Capper, but he has not announced his candidacy.

India

New Delhi—a well-informed Moslem League member says Liaquat Ali Khan, finance minister in the Indian interim government, is expected to become premier of the new Pakistan dominion to be set up Aug. 15.

The Constituent Assembly for Hindu India is expected to complete drafting a charter by October. However, several old and new problems must be settled.

Aviation Notes

Washington — Officials are disappointed that delegates to the Rio de Janeiro world conference on a general agreement for exchange of civil air rights (opening Oct. 20, not to be confused with the defense conference) will not be empowered to sign a final pact. . .

Look for some developments in bad weather landing aids to be announced by the navy shortly. . .

XB-47, easily the fastest of the army's new multi-jet bombers, may be flown on the west coast within a couple of weeks. It will be the first bomber with a swept-back wing. . .

United Nations

London—The British protectorate of Basutoland, in South Africa, will protest to the U. N. general assembly in September that Britain is preparing to hand it over to the South African government. The Basutos say this would violate an agreement between Queen Victoria and their chief Moshesh.

Cairo—Dispatches from Baghdad, Iraq, have said the Arab states may present their views to the U. N. special committee on Palestine, but Arab spokesmen here say there is no announcement on this now.

Rome—Local headquarters of the preparatory commission of the International Refugee Organization says 6,000 Poles, 1,000 Austrians and 500 Czechs will be repatriated from China, Palestine, India, East Africa and Egypt.

Mexican Austerity

Mexico City—Mexicans have indicated determination to support the drastic curtailments of luxury and non-essential imports ordered by the government.

One newspaper expressing the general reaction said in a headline: "We Thought We Were Millionaires And Find We Are Beggars."

Capital Briefs

Washington—Several high-ranking army and air force officers are plugging for William D. Pawley, ambassador to Brazil, as secretary of national defense when the armed forces are unified . . . Post office department estimates it will pay $53,000,000 for hauling international air mail the next 12 months, $2,000,000 more than for domestic air mail . . . The navy is abandoning primary trainer planes, starting flight students in advanced trainers.

The United States grows nearly 250 varieties of wheat on a commercial scale.

HASTE OVERRULES GOOD JUDGMENT

By Alicia Hart
(NEA Staff Writer)

It is doubtful if any dress, bought in a fever of excitement for a very special occasion, ever turns out to be a wardrobe favorite.

The reason—and reason, too, why a dress should be bought in a calmer mood—is that rational consideration of its usefulness is apt to be ignored.

Unless a woman has money to throw away, she should buy a dress when she is in a frame of mind to replenish a season's wardrobe, not when an invitation to a party sends her scurrying into a store.

When you set out calmly to replenish a wardrobe, before you buy, think of all the activities a new season is apt to open up for you. It is quite possible for one good new daytime dress to spruce you up for every important daytime occasion.

A woman shopping on a not-too-plentiful clothes budget should consider, when buying a new dress, how congenial it will be with old accessories. A new dress able to get along well with the coats, shoes, bags, scarves and hats that she already has will be much more of a success in a wardrobe than once which snoots old standbys.

'FROST' GLASS TO DRESS UP DRINK

By Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Staff Writer)

Even the sight of a tray of iced fruit drinks brings down the temperature. Particularly, if the rim of the glass is "frosted."

That's an easy trick. Break an egg into a small bowl. In another bowl place a little sugar. Now place the top of the glass into the egg about 1/2 inch and then swirl the top about in the sugar to coat. That's your "frosted" glass ready for a chilled drink.

Fruit or berry sherbet added to a tall glass of sparkling water makes a delightful "special" drink. Here's one sherbet recipe with a tangy refreshing flavor and vivid color.

Cranberry Sherbet
(Serves 6)

One 1-pound can jellied cranberry sauce, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 cup orange juice, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 2 egg whites beaten stiff, or 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Crush cranberry sauce with a fork. Add juices and rinds. Pour into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze with control at coldest setting, until sherbet is mushy. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites or whipped cream and continue freezing mixture until stiff.

Ever try this easy and bright flavored cooler? Combined chilled canned unsweetened grapefruit juice with chilled canned or fresh tomato juice, in proportion—2 parts grapefruit juice to 1 part tomato juice.

Make fresh berry juice for tall coolers. For each pint of fresh berries, add about 3/4 cup of sugar, depending on sweetness of berries. (Use less sugar for frozen berries.) Stand 2 hours. Drain off juice. There will be a little less than 1 1/2 cups. That will make about 6 drinks, particularly if you add a few drops of lemon juice. Allow 4 tablespoons to each drink. Pour over crushed ice in tall glass. Then fill glass with sparkling water or gingerale.

STATE-OWNED PORT

Only American port where all port facilities, piers, wharves, terminals, and belt railway are under the single ownership of the state is San Francisco.

25 YEARS' SERVICE

Walter Mines

Walter Mines, 48, colored employe of The Palace store is another old standby. Just 28 years ago he took his first full all-time steady job here and he has never left it and the management of the store would not desire that he ever think of quitting. He began as truck driver and has evolved into a general utility man who is able to fit in on almost any job.

He likes to get reminiscent and recall how The Palace has grown from a single store room to its present size. In course of time it has taken in what was known as the store of the Lewis Hardware Company, then the Monroe Drug Company's store which was operated by Mayor A. A. Forsythe and then the next store, that of the Princess Theater was required.

Walter has a wife and four children, now all grown. He is a member of St. James Methodist Church.

From its original three or four employes, The Palace today has 150 according to Walter, and as time has rounded out and the store has grown, he says he recalls that it has undergone at least four processes of extensive remodeling.

Rebecca Miles

No small degree of the success and popularity of The Palace is to be attributed to its carefully chosen and loyal employes. Among this number Rebecca Miles, colored, who runs the elevator, can be mentioned. Rebecca has been on the job for 28 years. She knows everybody and everybody knows her.

"How is you all today?" she declares as patrons of the store enter her elevator. She knows names well and never makes a mistake in identifying persons.

She maintained her job year in and year out but last year, she became ill and was forced greatly to her regret to stay away from her job for three months.

"Everybody hereabouts likes me and I like everybody," is the philosophy of life that Rebecca uses each day in her work.

She is a member of St. James Methodist Church and of its missionary society. She has a daughter and makes her home with her and with her son-in-law in Richwood.

David Edwards

David Edwards, 49, native of Monroe, has served at The Palace for 32 years. He began as porter but has for the past few years been entrusted with the shipments of the mail order department which are extensive.

He sees that these are properly prepared to go through the mails as parcel post and that they are promptly dispatched through the Monroe postoffice.

He has a wife and one son.

Edwards owns his own home at 2206 Washington Street. He is a member of Martin Temple. He does not belong to any lodges for he says he is not that kind of man. He is proud in that he has been with The Palace longer than any other member of his race.

ALWAYS A RUSH CALL RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF MY SUPPER

NUGGLES HIGH CLASS PLUMBING

THIS JUST DIDN'T HAPPEN, SOMEBODY DID IT ON PURPOSE

DAGWOOD BUMSTEAD, YOU DELIBERATELY CAUSED THAT LEAK, SO YOU WOULDN'T HAVE TO TAKE ME TO THE DANCE!

SHAME ON YOU!

YOUR WIFE DOES SO MUCH FOR YOU AND ASKS SO LITTLE AND YOU WON'T EVEN TAKE HER OUT DANCING ONE EVENING. SHAME!

BUT I CAN'T DO THESE MODERN DANCES!

NOW, THIS IS ALL THERE IS TO THE RUMBA --- SEE?

YOU DANCE DIVINELY, MR. NUGGLES

NOW, I'LL GIVE YOU A QUICK LESSON ON THE SAMBA

JITTERBUGGING IS EASY, IF YOU WATCH THE BEAT -- FOLLOW ME

NOW, GET TO THAT DANCE AND NOT ANOTHER WORD FROM YOU, UNDERSTAND?

IF HE HAS ANY TROUBLE WITH THAT RUMBA, CALL ME UP AND I'LL COME OVER AND STRAIGHTEN HIM OUT

JIM PICKS A CAVE FOR THEIR NIGHT CAMP. "WE'RE SO NEAR THE BORDER, WE'D BETTER TAKE TURNS STANDING WATCH."

Copr. 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

KOLU SENSES A PROWLER IN THE MOONLIGHT AND WAKENS JIM WITH A TOUCH. "TIGER."

THEY TRY TO SCARE IT AWAY WITH STONES, BUT THE BEAST IS HUNGRY. IT CHARGES, ROARING. 7-27-47

JIM'S BULLET STOPS THE MAN-EATER. "THAT SHOT DOES IT," JIM GRUMBLES. "THE LOKI BORDER GUARDS WILL BE HOT ON OUR TRAIL BY MORNING!"

NEXT WEEK: HUNTED

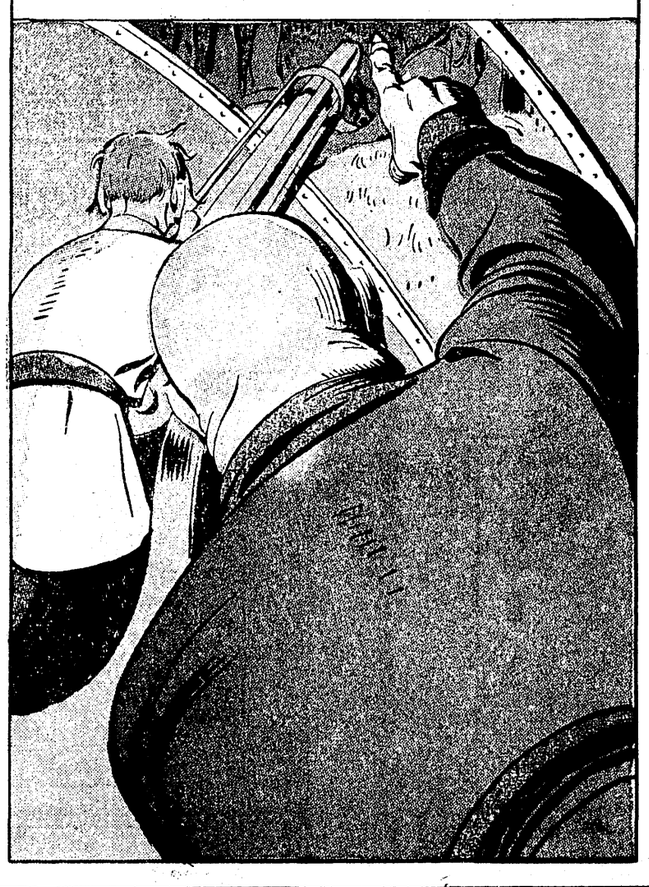

FLASH GORDON

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

DEFTO LEAPS BEFORE FLASH CAN TURN THE STOLEN BENT-RAY GUN ON KANG'S CITADEL---

KANG DOESN'T BOTHER TO DISTINGUISH FRIEND FROM FOE. HE SNARLS, "SHOOT THEM BOTH DOWN!"

DEFTO'S SUIT PROTECTS HIM -- BUT FLASH HAS TUNED HIS SUIT TO ANOTHER RAY-LENGTH. THE BENT-RAY FLARES FIERCELY--

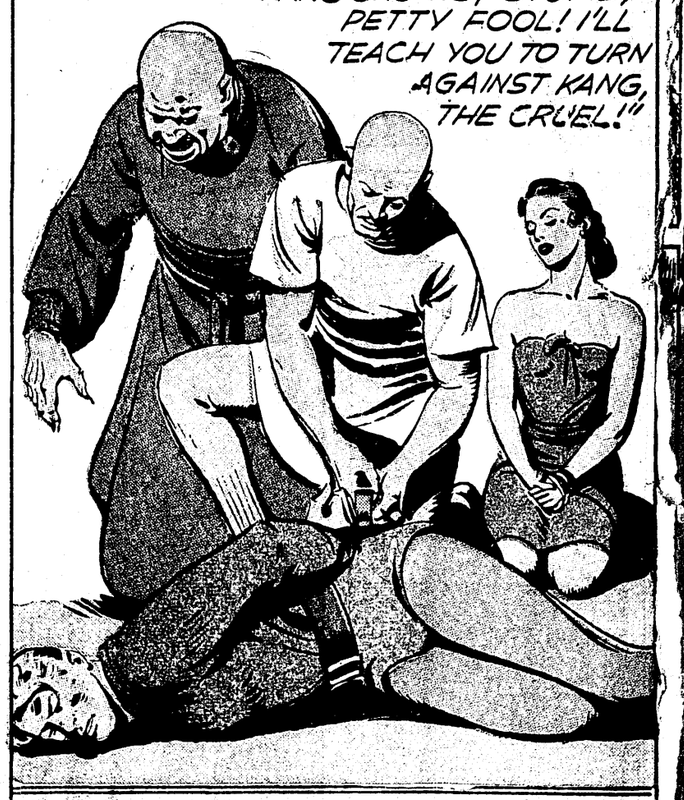

FLASH'S SUIT BARELY SAVES HIM FROM COMPLETE DESTRUCTION. DEFTO CARRIES THE SMOKE-BLACKENED BODY BACK FOR KANG'S INSPECTION.

Copr. 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

ZUGO USES STRONG MEASURES TO REVIVE FLASH FOR KANG'S FURIOUS QUESTIONING: "WHO ARE YOU? WHY DID YOU TRY TO ATTACK US?"

DAZED BY HIS CLOSE BRUSH WITH DEATH, FLASH TRIES TO THINK FAST: "I WANTED THE GUN FOR MY HOLDUPS." KANG SNORTS, "STUPID, PETTY FOOL! I'LL TEACH YOU TO TURN AGAINST KANG, THE CRUEL!"

NEXT WEEK: KANG'S REVENGE

MOON MULLINS

WHY, YES- I FEEL JEST DANDY, DEARIE. WHY?

I JEST WANTED TO MAKE SURE THEM MUSHROOMS I SERVED YOU WASN'T TOAD STOOLS BEFORE I ATE ANY MYSELF.

POOR LITTLE GIRL. I WISH SHE'D STOP WORRYING ABOUT ME.

WILLIE, I GOT A PAIN IN MY STUMMICK. YOU BETTER GET ME A DOCTOR.

GET YOURSELF A DOSE OF CASTOR OIL. THEM MUSHROOMS WAS OKAY.

KAYO, GO TO THE DRUG STORE AND GET ME SOME BICARBONATE OF SODA

WILL YA GIMME A QUARTER IF I DO?

I'LL GIVE YOU A NICKEL IF YOU DO AND A SPANKIN' IF YOU DON'T. TAKE YER CHOICE!

OH, WELL I AIN'T TH' KIND TO LET 20¢ STAND BETWEEN YOU AND A STUMMICK ACHE.

WELL, GET OFFA YER LAZY BACK AND GET GOING!

OKAY, MAMIE. OKAY!

OH!

ZZZ ZOOP ZZZ

GEE!

OOP!

MAMIE, I'M POISONED! A AWFUL PAIN JEST HIT ME IN THE STUMMICK. CALL TH' DOCTOR!

9-29

DOCTOR ME EYE! YOU SAID YERSELF CASTOR OIL'S THE BEST REMEDY FOR WHAT AILS YOU.

CHESTER, MR. GUPPY AND RICHARD POORE STARTED OUT ON A CAMPING TRIP WHEN A VIOLENT SQUALL SEIZED THEIR CANOE AND CHANGED ITS ROUTE!!

PADDLE, RICHARD, PADDLE!.. WITH EVERYTHING YOU'VE GOT!!

W-WILL WE MAKE IT, MASTER CHESTER?!

HOORAY! WE MADE IT WITHOUT BEING UPSET!!

MAYBE YOU'RE NOT UPSET... BUT I AM!

THE IMPORTANT THING IS THAT THE CANOE ISN'T UPSET, MR. GUPPY!

YOU SAID IT... IT'D BE TOO BAD IF ALL OUR SUPPLIES WERE LOST!

BY GOLLY, 'TIS GOOD TO STRETCH MY LEGS ON GOOD OLD TERRA FIRMA AGAIN... BY THE BYE, WHERE ARE WE?

SAFE, SIR... THAT'S ALL I KNOW...

I SUGGEST A BIT OF LUNCH... BY THEN THE STORM'LL BE OVER, COMPLETELY...

SWELL... BUT WE'LL HAVE TO EAT IT COLD. TOO WET TO MAKE A FIRE!

LATER..

BOY! WAS I HUNGRY!

I'M A MITE TIRED, MY YOUNG FRIENDS... WHAT SAY WE MAKE CAMP HERE TILL TOMORROW?

I'M FEASTING MY MIND'S EYE ON THOSE LOVELY MATTRESSES AND SLEEPING BAGS YOUR UNCLE BIM PROVIDED...

O.K., MR. GUPPY.. WE'LL UNPACK...

AH, THIS CAMPING LIFE ISN'T SO MUCH WORSE THAN CITY LIFE, AT THAT....

MR. GUPPY! MR. GUPPY!!

THE CANOE IS GONE! SHARP ROCKS MUST HAVE CUT THE ROPES!!

GREAT STARS! OUR SUPPLIES!! WE'LL STARVE!!
